PREFACE

IN the National Insurance Act it has been our aim to provide as far as may be for every worker some kind of shelter against the slings and arrows of fortune. In doing so we have not, I think, laid any real additional burden upon the wealth and productive activity of the nation. We have substituted for tardy relief provision made in anticipation of need, no more costly but infinitely more effective and more kindly in its operation than distress funds or the Poor Law. Some remain, for the moment, wholly or partly outside the operation of the scheme. We have not even yet been able to reach the lowest deeps, to grasp the utterly incapable, the loafer, or the wastrel, and set him, too, on the firm ground of self-respecting manhood fit to withstand all the shocks of adversity, but we may claim to have established barriers to prevent men falling into that abyss of human despair.

We have in one great measure swept into the National Insurance Scheme some 10,000,000 workers hitherto unprovided for. Much remains to do, and in the coming years much may be done, but here at least is a beginning made on a broad and comprehensive plan.

The clear and concise explanation of a measure of such complexity, which touches our rational life, at so many points, confers rights and imposes liabilities upon so many millions of the population, and affects so many diverse interests, is of great importance to a large number of people who cannot but be anxious to know exactly what their position is. Moreover in such a measure, as past experience teaches us, it is inevitable, whatever care may be taken in the processes of draftsmanship, that points of difficulty will arise. Especially is this the case in an Act which traverses so much untrodden ground. I feel confident therefore that, in the work of administration, a book such as this, which endeavours to anticipate and elucidate the difficulties, will be of considerable value to a variety of inquirers. The authors have made a minute study of the Act, and are well acquainted with all its details and ramifications. It would obviously be impossible for me to express agreement with all the opinions indicated by them on questions of interpretation, but they appear to have collected a mass of information which cannot fail to be of value, and to have dealt with their subject from every point of view. I heartily commend their book to all who wish to bear their share in working out the scheme which Parliament has initiated.

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.

NOTE BY THE AUTHORS

AFTER the storm and stress of Parliamentary discussion and public criticism, comes the less exciting but none the less arduous task of bringing into operation the machinery of a statute which makes a wholly new departure in social legislation. It is for the use of those who, in a greater or less degree, are entrusted with this task and for those who, without being directly responsible, are nevertheless as good citizens interested in the success of the measure, that this work is designed. We have attempted to describe, simply and broadly, the machinery of the Act and to bring together in a connected form matters which can be gathered only from a careful comparison of the various sections. The position and responsibilities of employers of labour and of insured persons under both Parts of the Act have been carefully set forth in a systematic manner, and the finances of the measure have received special attention. What are the reserve values which unlock the funds of the Friendly Societies, what becomes of the State twopence, and how and when the promised extension of benefits will take place, are questions to which not only politicians but the public at large desire a simple but considered answer, which we have endeavoured to give. We hope the book may prove of value to officials and members of Friendly Societies, Trades Unions, and other Approved Societies, whose interests are so vitally affected, and that it may serve as a useful handbook for future members of the Insurance Committees which are to be set up for the administration of the Act.

Our task has not been merely one of exposition. Many grave legal questions will arise as to the interpretation of the measure, and we have attempted, in annotating the sections, to call attention to these problems and to assist in their solution, by reference to decided cases and parallel statutes. In this respect we trust that the members of the legal profession may find the book not without value in suggesting interpretations, if not always in finally solving the points of difficulty.

To the members of the medical profession, who will shortly be called upon to decide the manner and conditions under which they will perform the important functions assigned to them by this measure, we commend our work in the hope that it will assist them in finding the course which is desirable in their own interests and those of the public.

It has been our endeavour to deal fairly and fully with all points of interest without unduly trespassing on the realm of controversy. We may have erred in our interpretations and some mistakes there must be, but we shall be sincerely grateful to any one who will supplement our efforts by disclosing our errors.

NOTE TO THE SECOND EDITION.

Since the first publication of this book a number of Regulations and other documents throwing light upon the interpretation and working of the Act, including Model Rules for societies seeking approval, have been issued by the various departments concerned with its administration. In addition to this, practical experience, although the Act is not yet in force, has suggested a number of matters on which our commentary needed correction, and still more amplification. From the medical point of view, discussion has brought into relief a number of new points calling for more detailed treatment. The book is accordingly a good deal enlarged, and, we hope, improved.

NOTE BY THE AUTHORS

NOTE TO THE FOURTH EDITION.

IN view of the Amending Act of 1913, now in course of coming into operation, we feel that it would be of use to the medical and legal professions, and to all engaged in National Insurance work, to issue a volume incorporating its provisions and showing their effect upon the principal Act. At the same time regulations, tables, decisions, &c. &c., have now been issued in very great numbers by the various departments charged with the administration of the Acts, and we think it may be useful to have them collected and as far as possible collated. We have grouped in the various appendices the several documents according to their nature—regulations, orders, tables, &c.—but in each appendix we have arranged them as far as possible in the order of the sections to which they principally refer. We have also inserted references to them in the notes to the several sections, and finally great pains have been taken to make the index as complete as possible, so that the user of the book may be able to find his way to all the passages which throw light upon the subject of his enquiry. It will be found that a large number of additional decisions are referred to in the notes, and that they have been considerably revised and brought up to date. In order to make room for all this additional matter we have been obliged to omit the whole of the introductory chapters, but later we hope to issue a separate volume containing a descriptive statement of the law and practice of National Insurance, for the guidance of the various interests concerned.

An Act to provide for Insurance against Loss of A.D. 19 • Health and for the Prevention and Cure of • Sickness and for Insurance against Unemployment, and for purposes incidental thereto.

[16th December 1911.]

BE it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

PART I.

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE.

Insured Persons.

1.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, Insured all persons of the age of sixteen and upwards who persons.

s. 1(1) are employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act shall be, and any such persons who are not so employed but who possess the qualifications hereinafter mentioned may be, insured in manner provided in this Part of this Act, and all persons so insured (in this Act called "insured persons") shall be entitled in the manner and subject to the conditions provided in this Act to the benefits in respect of health insurance and prevention of sickness conferred by this Part of this Act.

"Sixteen and upwards."—See the definition in s. 79 infra, a person attains the age of sixteen on the commencement of the sixteenth anniversary of the day of his birth.

"Employed."—See subs. (2) and the First Schedule.

"Shall be . . . insured."—As to the position of a person so employed who has not in fact been insured, in the sense that no contributions have been paid in respect of him, see notes to ss. 69 and 70. It is submitted that this section makes any person who is employed within the meaning of the Act and not exempted an "insured person" whether or no any contribution has been paid or is intended to be paid in respect of him.

It would appear from these words that an "insured person" who ceases to possess one or other of the qualifications mentioned will immediately cease to be an "insured person," i.e., an "employed contributor" who ceases to be employed within the meaning of the Act, or a "voluntary contributor" who ceases to depend upon a regular occupation and has not been insured for five years would at once drop out of the purview of the Act. In s. 79, however, it is provided that temporary unemployment is not to disqualify a person normally employed within the meaning of the Act, and that temporary unemployment may last indefinitely, provided the person can satisfy the society or committee responsible for his insurance that it is due to inability to obtain employment and not to a change in his normal occupation, and this he need only do when the unemployment has continued for twelve months. A society member who fails to contribute will, of course, fall into arrears (s. 10), but provided he can pass the above test it appears that even after total suspension from benefits he will not lose his membership or cease to be technically an "insured person." The case of the voluntary contributor is different; as soon as he ceases to possess the qualification mentioned in subs. (3) (a) infra, he ceases to be insured, unless he has acquired that mentioned in subs. (3) (b), although non-payment of contributions cannot of itself have that effect [s. 10 (1) and (3)]. As to the special case of the insured woman who marries, see notes to s. 44 (1).

"The qualifications."—See subs. (3).

"The benefits."—For a general statement of them see s. 8 (1) infra.

(2) The persons employed within the meaning of this part of this Act (in this Act referred to as "employed contributors") shall include all persons of either sex, whether British subjects or not, who are engaged in any of the employments specified in Part I. of the First Schedule to this Act, not being employments specified in Part II. of that Schedule:

"Either sex"—This would be implied, Interpretation Act 1889, s. 1. For special provisions relating to women, see ss. 3, 8 (1) (e), (4), (6), (8) (d), 10 (4) (b), 14 (2) (c), (f), 18, 19, 20, 41, 44, 45 (3) 46 (2) (iii), 47 (4) (b), (c), 58, 59 (2) (ii), 81 (8) (b), (11), (18), the First Schedule, Part II. (j), (l), the Second, Fourth, and Fifth Schedules.

Women, married or single, are admissible as members of friendly and other societies (see the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, s. 8 (1) and the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, ss. 6-10, 17).

"Whether British subjects or not."—Aliens are included, but as to their benefits and other special provisions relating to them, see ss. 32, 45, 48 (2), (6).

British subjects are: (1) any person born within the King's dominions or on a British ship on the high seas, who has not (a) being born of foreign parents made a declaration of alienage under the Naturalisation Act, 1870, ss. 3, 4, or (b) become a naturalised citizen of a foreign State at peace with this country (see R. v. Lynch, 1903, 1 K.B. 444). (2) Any person born abroad whose father was a natural born British subject at the date of birth (4 Geo. 2, c. 21, s. 1). (3) The son of such a person under the same condition (13 Geo. 3, c. 21, s. 1)—but not to any further generations (De Geer v. Stone, 22 Ch.D. 243). (4) An alien naturalised under the Act of 1870, after five years' residence and on payment of £5 (see re Gally, 45 L.J.P. 107). (5) An alien who has obtained letters of denization from the Crown. (6) The child of a naturalised British subject, who while an infant has come to reside with the naturalised parent in the United Kingdom. (7) An alien woman who marries a British subject. (8) A female British subject who marries an alien and becomes a widow: under the Act of 1870, s. 10 (2) she is an alien, but not for the purposes of this Act, s. 45 (3) infra. See the Old Age Pensions Acts 1908 and 1911, and the Regulations of Aug. 20th, 1908, Schedule II.

S. 1 (2) For the decisions of the Insurance Commissioners see Appendix VI, p. 908

"The employments specified" :—

FIRST SCHEDULE.

PART I.

EMPLOYMENTS WITHIN THE MEANING OF PART I. OF THIS ACT RELATING TO HEALTH INSURANCE.

(a) Employment in the United Kingdom under any contract of service or apprenticeship, written or oral, whether expressed or implied, and whether the employed person is paid by the employer or some other person, and whether under one or more employers, and whether paid by time or by the piece or partly by time and partly by the piece or otherwise, or, except in the case of a contract of apprenticeship, without any money payment.

"Employment."—For the purposes of this Act it may often be necessary to determine whether "employment" continues during incapacity though by reason of some special term of the contract no wages are paid. It is submitted that illness of a nature "permanent" in reference to the nature of the employment, terminates a contract for personal service without notice on either side (per Wright, J., in Loules v. Maple, 88 L.T. 288). And see notes to s. 47 (1).

"In the United Kingdom," not including the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man [Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 18 (1)]. The employment must clearly not only arise, but continue to be, in the United Kingdom. Thus a workman employed by a British firm sent to do a job abroad, or a servant travelling abroad with his master, is during the time when he is abroad outside the Act; cf. Tomalin v. S. Pearson & Son, Ltd., 100 L.T. 685. His employer will be under no obligation to pay contributions in respect of him (see s. 4), but quære whether if he does not pay them himself he will fall into arrear (see s. 10)? As to his position with regard to benefits at this time, see s. 8 (4).

Employment on a British ship on the high seas otherwise than as a master or a member of the crew is not within the Act; for though by common law a British ship is part of the soil of England (Marshall v. Murgatroyd, 40 L.J.M.C. 71), yet the express inclusion of the master and members of the crew implicitly excepts other persons on board (Schwartz v. India Rubber, &c., Co., 27 T.L.R. 531).

As to employment on a foreign ship in British waters see the Parlement Belge, 5 P. 197 (a government ship), and Panagotis v. s.s. Pontiac, 5 B.W.C.C. 147. "Whether a foreign sailor on a foreign ship not registered in this country and with no managing owner in this country can claim against his employers compensation under the Act of 1906, by reason of an accident which happened while the foreign ship was in British waters. That is a question of very considerable difficulty, which on some other occasion will require, I have no doubt, decision." (Per Cozens-Hardy, M.R. ib.). The Insurance Commissioners have decided that the present Act applies to persons employed on board an American yacht lying in Southampton Water, i.e., within the body of a county; but it is submitted that the U.K. does not for this purpose include territorial waters outside the body of a county. See hereon R. v. Keyn, 2 Ex. Div. 63, the Territorial Waters Jurisdiction Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 73), and Mortimer v. Peters, 1 Ross. Crimes, 103. S. 1 (2) ---

• “Under any contract of service.”—“A servant is one who for consideration agrees to work subject to the orders of another.” (MacDonell’s Law of Master and Servant, 2nd ed., p. 7.) The difficulties of distinguishing service from bailment, apprenticeship, work and labour, partnership, agency and other relations are notorious. The further difficulty of deciding who is the employer of a particular servant, which has given rise to much litigation, is not strictly relevant to this Schedule (see s. 4), but is best discussed with it. In general a contract of service exists if the servant is bound (a) personally to execute (Riley v. Warden, 2 Ex. Rep. 39; 18 L.J.Ex. 123. Weaver v. Lloyd, 21 L.J.Q.B. 151) work, (b) for another, (c) exclusively, (d) in return for wages or other remuneration, (e) acting under the orders of that other. (c) is not applicable to the wording here adopted (“whether under one or more employers,” p. 10 infra); (a) and (e) remain the most useful and decisive tests.

The wording adopted here should be compared with the following statutes, but it must be remembered that the nature of the employment is in this paragraph irrelevant, and that definitions in other Acts are not binding unless incorporated in this Act (Macbeth & Co. v. Chislett, 1910, A.C. 220). (1) The Employers and Workmen Act, 1875, s. 10 (adopted in the Truck Acts and in the Employers’ Liability Act, 1880):—

“Workman means any person who, being a labourer, servant in husbandry, journeyman, artificer, handicraftsman, miner, or otherwise engaged in manual labour, has entered into or works under a contract with an employer, whether the contract be . . . express or implied, oral or in writing, and be a contract of service or a contract personally to execute any work or labour.” (It will be noticed that the words in italics are omitted from the present paragraph.)

The omission of the words “has entered into” has the effect of making the employment rather than the contract the primary test, and excluding cases where the contract is executory, i.e., where the employment, though agreed upon, has not actually commenced. (See Whitbread v. Arnold, 99 L.T. 103.)

“It seems to me that the words ‘or works under a contract with an employer’ were inserted into the section to meet the case of a workman who has not contracted directly with an employer, but has been engaged by an agent of the employer—viz., a ‘buttyman’ or ‘ganger,’ or to meet the case of an apprentice or other similar cases.” (Per A. L. Smith, L.J. ib.; see also Fitzpatrick v. Evans, 1902, 1 K.B. 505: men working for a contractor sinking shafts at a colliery, although the colliery manager is entitled to give certain directions as to the work, are not the colliery company’s servants.)

It is clear that the men engaged in this manner by the “buttyman,” “ganger,” and by any other person more properly described as a “sub-contractor” are within the present definition, whatever their employer may be [see the Third Schedule (6) under s. 4 (2) infra], but

S. 1(2) the position of the sub-contractor himself is much more difficult to decide. The omission of the words "or a contract personally to execute any work or labour" will probably exclude numbers of men in such positions, but the following are examples of cases included in "contract of service" under previous Acts which did not contain those words:—

(a) An employer engaged A to work for him by piece-work, B by daily wages to assist A; B was paid by A out of the proceeds of his piece-work; held that both A and B were the servants of the employer, although A paid B his wages. (Willelt v. Booth, 33 L.J.M.C. 6.)

(b) Seven artisans agreed to complete a ship for a ship-builder; they were bound to work exclusively for him, but might employ skilled and unskilled men to help them. They were held to be servants of the ship-builder. (Lawrence v. Todd, 32 L.J.M.C. 238.) Sed cf. Littlejohn v. John Brown & Co., 1909, S.C. 169.

(c) "Butty-colliers" are the servants of the colliery company. (Brown v. Butterley Coal Co., 53 L.T. 964.) See also Morrison v. Baird (10 Rettie 271).

(d) Three men contracted to unload a ship and employed three others, but they were bound to obey the dock company's foreman. (Ruth v. Surrey Commercial Dock, 8 T.L.R. 116.)

But the following were not included under those statutes:—

(a) A man who contracted to make a road for a fixed sum. (Lancaster v. Greaves, 9 B. & C. 628.)

(b) Master stevedores, employing their own men and tackle, are not servants of the ship-owners. (Cameron v. Nyström, 1893, A.C. 308.)

(c) Men who contracted to weave certain pieces of silk goods at certain fixed prices. "The same person may contract to work for many others, and cannot with any propriety be said to have contracted to serve each of them." (Hardy v. Kyle, 9 B. & C. 603.)

(d) A man contracted to print certain pieces of woollen cotton goods, held not a contract of service because it was piece-work, and the workman might be working at the same time for divers other persons. (Exp. Johnson, 7 Dowl. 702.)

The last two cases would, however, come within the present paragraph, owing to the words "whether under one or more employers," and "by the piece," infra.

The following were probably included only in virtue of the words "personally to execute, &c.":—

(a) A potter's printer, paid by the piece and finding his own "transferrers." (Grainger v. Aynsley, 6 Q.B.D. 182.)

(b) A slater who contracted for a builder to slate the roofs of houses by the piece; he was at liberty to employ men to help him. (Stuart v. Evans, 49 L.T. 138; and see Bowen v. Hall, 6 Q.B.D. 333, a contract to find all labour for a special class of brickmaking at fixed piece-rates, and to work exclusively for the employer for five years, is a contract for personal service, though there was no relation of master and servant.)

And the following were excluded even with the aid of those words:—

(a) A man who contract to find labour to make bricks at a fixed price per thousand, is not within the definition unless he is actually bound by the contract to give his personal labour. (Ingram v. Barnes, 7 E. & B. 115.) S. 1 (2)

(b) "Clippers who take lace from the manufacturers and take it home to be clipped, being at liberty to do it themselves, get it done by others, or return it undone, being responsible for loss or damage, are not within the Truck Acts. (Squire v. Midland Lace Co., 1905 2 K.B. 448.)

But as to whether they would be included as "outworkers," see par. (c) of this Part of this Schedule infra.

(2) The Workmen's Compensation Act, 1897, s. 7 (2):—

"'Workman' includes every person who is engaged in an employment to which this Act applies, whether by way of manual labour or otherwise, and whether his agreement is one of service or apprenticeship or otherwise, and is expressed or implied, oral or in writing."

The following were within this definition:—

(a) Platers working in a squad in a ship-building yard, on a piece-work contract, and employing labourers under them, but required to work the full recognised hours and obey the foreman (Macready v. Dunlop & Co. 37 Sc. L.R. 779).

(b) A quay-labourer casually employed for a varying number of hours at irregular intervals (Small v. M'Cormick & Ewing, 36 Sc. L.R. 700).

But not the following:—

(a) A foreman bricklayer who tendered to supply labour and tools (not materials) at a fixed price of 160*l.* for the job (Simmons v. Faulds, 17 T.L.R. 352).

(b) A man who did work in the labour yard of a charitable society in return for board and lodging (Burns v. Manchester and Salford Wesleyan Mission, 99 L.T. 579).

(3) The Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, s. 13:—

"'Workman' . . . means any person who has entered into or works under a contract of service or apprenticeship with an employer, whether by way of manual labour, clerical work, or otherwise, and whether the contract is expressed or implied, or is oral or in writing."

The following were held to be within this definition:—

(a) A labourer who had contracted to do whitewashing at piece-rates, finding his own materials out of money provided by the employer (Bargewell v. Daniel, 9 W.C.C. 142).

(b) A school-teacher employed in any kind of school [see Part II (d) of this Schedule] or a nursery governess, but not a person who comes into a house at intervals to teach the piano (Simmons v. The Heath Laundry Co., 3 B.W.C.C. 200).

(c) A letter-fixer who worked at piece-work for a number of employers, and was not obliged to accept any particular job (Burnham & Co. v. Taylor, 47 Sc. L.R. 643).

(d) A professional football player (Walker v. Crystal Palace Football Club, Ltd., 1910, 1 K.B. 87).

(f) An unemployed workman working for the Central Unemployed Body for London (Porton v. The Central Body, 1909, 1 K.B. 173).

The distinction was most briefly summarised by Brett, L.J., in his evidence before the Select Committee on Employers' Liability (Vol. X., p. 123). "If you were to contract with a person that he and his servants

S. 1 (2) — should do all your work in the way you should direct his servants to do it, they are your servants; that is only a different mode of paying them; but if you contract that he and his servants should do the work in the way he thinks best, then he is a contractor." But one may add that in order to make him, as well as his servants, a servant within this Act, it would be necessary that he should be bound to take a personal part in the work, and obey the employer's orders. But see hereon the note to "whether under one or more employers" below.

It has been held in many cases that a person apparently an independent contractor is in fact under such control as to make him a servant. See Stephen v. Thurso Police Commissioners, 3 R. 535; Levering v. St. Katherine's Dock Company, 3 T.L.R. 607; sed. cf. Hardaker v. Idle District Council (1896) 1 Q.B. 335 and cases there cited, and Chisholm v. James Walker & Co. (1909), S.C. 31; 2 B.W.C.C. 261.

A leading case on this subject is Sadler v. Henlock (4 E. & B. 570; 24 L.J.Q.B. 138), where it is laid down that whereas the Court will readily find control by the employer over an unskilled man doing a job for a lump sum, they will approach the case of a man exercising a skilled and independent trade in a different spirit.

The best test of service in many cases is that applied by Willes, J., in Murray v. Currie (1904), 2 K.B. 615, where he finds certain persons not servants of the employer on the ground that "They are not put in his place to do an act which he intended to do for himself."

The use of the word salary in an agreement is some evidence of service (Ross v. Parkyns) 20 Eq. 331; just as profit-sharing is some evidence of partnership on which in the absence of further evidence the court must act (Badeley v. Consolidated Bank, 38 Ch.D., 238; Hoare v. Barge "Cecil Rhodes" 5 B.W.C.C. 49).

Statutory Officers.—A statutory officer with duties prescribed by Parliament is not the servant of the body which appoints him (Stanbury v. Exeter Corporation (1905) 2 K.B. 840, 75 L.J.K.B. 28; Tozeland v. West Ham Union (1907) 1 K.B. 920 (Poor Law Officers); Hornchurch v. L.T. & S.Ry., 107 L.T. 292), nor is an inmate of a workhouse, employed by the Guardians under a statutory duty, their servant (Tozeland's case, ubi sup. sed. cf. Butler v. Burton-on-Trent; 106 L.T. 820). Such a statutory officer must be distinguished from a person appointed under a general statutory power to appoint officers as e.g. under S. 57 (3) hereof (Hall v. Taylor, 27 L.J.Q.B. 311).

Ecclesiastical Officers.—A curate is not under a contract of service but is an ecclesiastical officer bound to obey lawful commands by virtue of his office; nor is a nonconformist minister the servant of his congregation (In re the National Insurance Act, 1911, 107 L.T. 143).

Skilled Professions.—A visiting physician is not a servant of the hospital which he visits (Evans v. Liverpool Corporation, 74 L.J.K.B. 742; Hillyer v. St. Bartholomew's, 78 L.J.K.B. 958), and the Insurance Commissioners have decided that the resident medical staff of a hospital, though to some extent under discipline, are not under a contract of service. (So held in Scotland: Re Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh, Court of Session, Board of Trade Labour Gazette, 1913, p. 145.)

A managing director of a company is not an employee of the company (Normandy v. Ind Coope & Co., 77 L.J.Ch. 82). But see p. 10.

"Service or apprenticeship."—"An apprentice is a person who by contract is to be taught a trade." Per Grove, J., in R. v. Laindon (8 T.R. 379). The distinction between these contracts is not of much importance for the purposes of this Part of the Act. The distinction between an apprentice and a pupil is, however, important, and would seem to lie in the fact that in the case of an apprentice part of the consideration for teaching is service of the master in his trade. S. 1 (2)

See also R. v. Crediton (2 B. & A. 493); R. v. Rainham (1 East 535). Apprenticeship of pauper children by Boards of Guardians is regulated by 43 Eliz. c. 2, s. 3; 32 Geo. 3, c. 57; 42 Geo. 3, c. 46; 56 Geo. 3, c. 139; 14 & 15 Vict. c. 11; 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 33, and General Orders of July 24th, 1847 (articles 52-74) and February 15th, 1868.

Other contracts of apprenticeship must be in writing (Kirkby v. Taylor, 1910, 1 K.B. 529), though not under seal, and bear a 2s. 6d. stamp (Stamp Act, 1891, s. 25). But a contract which is oral only and therefore not enforceable is nevertheless a contract of apprenticeship though imperfect, R. v. Igham (4 A. & E. 941), R. v. Northowton, 9 Q.B. 31, and the Insurance Commissioners have so decided.

"Written or oral."—The effect of these words is not to make an oral contract enforceable which is required by the Statute of Frauds to be in writing, i.e., if it is apparent from its terms that it is not to be completed within a year from the making (Banks v. Crossland, L.R. 10, Q.B. 97). Part performance will not take such a contract out of the Statute (Britain v. Rossiter, 48, L.J.Q.B. 362).

It is very difficult to say what is the position under the Act of persons employed under contracts of service or apprenticeship which are (a) void, (b) unenforceable, (c) voidable by virtue of the common law or any statute. It is submitted that if the contract is void—e.g., for illegal or immoral consideration, or as being in restraint of trade, or an agreement contravening the Truck Act, 1831, s. 1, the servant or apprentice is excluded from the benefits of this Schedule.

But if the contract is merely voidable at the option of one of the parties, or unenforceable by action, or if the document containing it is inadmissible in evidence because unstamped, it is submitted that the servant is included, though grave difficulties may arise when it is sought to enforce the contributions and other liabilities of the employer. See note above.

Written contracts of service require a 6d. stamp, unless "for the hire of any labourer, artificer, manufacturer, or menial servant." (Stamp Act, 1891, Schedule 1.)

"Implied."—i.e. from the fact of the work being done, but this alone is not enough (Reeve v. Reeve, 1 F. & F. 280). When a person does work on the order of another under such circumstances that it must be presumed that he looks to be paid as a matter of right by him, then a contract would be implied with that person; see, however, Taylor v. Laird (25 L.J. Ex. 329). The difficulty most frequently occurs where the parties are relatives or friends; see e.g. Davies v. Davies, 9 C. & P. 87, and cf. Part II. of this Schedule (f) and (l).

"And whether paid by the employer or some other person."—From here to the end of the paragraph is new. It has never been held necessary that payment should come directly from the actual employer (see cases of sub-contractors above). Where workmen are

S. 1 (2) lent or let on hire by their employer to another person, the wages may be paid by the latter, without affecting the position of the original employer, except as against strangers (Reed v. Smith, Wilkinson & Co. 3 B.W.C.C. 223); but see Third Schedule (6), and note on "without any money payment," infra.

"Whether under one or more employers."—This appears to be a departure from the ordinary law, by which exclusive service was considered essential to the contract (R. v. Goodbody, 8 C. & P. 665; Exp. Johnson, 7 Dowl. 702; Hardy v. Ryle, 9 B. & C. 603; but see Burnham v. Taylor, 47 Sc. L.R. 643). It of course covers the case of a man in regular employment who changes his employer or habitually works for several employers every week. But subject to the exceptions in Part II. (h) of this Schedule, q.v., it includes casual labourers within the compulsory scheme. See Third Schedule (5).

The Insurance Commissioners, though they have power to decide under s. 66 whether or no a man is employed within the meaning of the Act, had under the principal Act no power to decide as to who is the employer, and considerable difficulties arise in cases of apparent sub-contracting. See now s. 27 (2) of the Act of 1913. Where a servant properly engages another to assist him in his service it is submitted that the person so engaged becomes in every case the servant of the master (Gwilliam v. Twist (1895), 2 Q.B. 84; Beard v. L.G.O.C. (1900), 2 Q.B. 530; Stone v. Cartwright, 6 T.R. 417; Degg v. M.R. Co., 26 L.J.Ex. 471; Potter v. Faulkner, 31 L.J.Q.B. 30; Wiggett v. Fox, 25 L.J.Ex. 188; Charles v. Taylor, 3 C.P.D. 492).

But in other cases of sub-contracting and of leased servants it is more difficult to ascertain who is the employer for the purpose of this Act. A man may serve two masters [Jones v. Scullard (1898), 2 Q.B. 565, 79 L.T. 388] and the master responsible for his torts in that service is not necessarily the one liable for his contributions. "It can truly be said here, that although the driver continues to be the general servant of the livery stable-keeper, he is in a particular manner the servant of the defendant, and under the control of the defendant" (ib. per Lord Russell, L.C.J.). The liability in tort—respondent superior—arises not because the man is the master's man, but because the act is the master's act—qui facit per alium facit per se. Therefore in tort control is the only really effective test, and the superior, or author of the act, is not necessarily the man's employer. [See Gillespie v. Hunter, 25 Rettie 916; Baumwoll v. Furness (1893), A.C. 8, and the judgment of Holt, C. J., in Middleton v. Fowler (1 Salk. 282: "The authority given by his master:").] But this Act makes insurability an incident of the contract of service, and the regulations attach the payment of contributions to the payment of wages [see also Third Schedule (1)]; it appears therefore that the true test for this purpose as to who is the employer is not so much who controls as with whom did the man contract and to whom does he look for pay (McKinnon v. Whitecross, &c. 2 B.W.C.C. 64). A director is not, as such the servant of a company, but may be a servant in another capacity if permitted by the articles, re Beeton & Co. Ltd. 108 L.T. 918. See also Third Schedule (6). A journalist is not commonly a servant (ib.).

"Whether paid by time or by the piece . . . or otherwise"—e.g. by commission or fees or a share in the profits. See Part II. (c) infra, and notes, as to the position of agents. Where payment is by a share in the profits it is necessary to distinguish a servant from a partner: see the Partnership Act, 1890, s. 2 (3) (b). S. 1 (2)

A servant does not become a partner by receiving a share of profits unless he has some right of control and liability for the losses (Ross v. Parkyns, L.R. 20 Eq. 331). Nor does a partner become a workman within the Workmen's Compensation Act, because he chooses to work in the mine belonging to the partnership at weekly wages paid out of the profits (Ellis v. Joseph Ellis & Co. 1905, 1 K.B. 324), although the part owner of a ship who is not a trading partner and is employed as master may be a workman (Carswell v. Sharpe, 47 Sc.L.R. 335).

"Or . . . without any money payment."—This is of course not the same as "without any consideration," in which case there would be no enforceable contract unless under seal, but covers cases where services are rendered in consideration of, e.g., board and lodging only. Waiters in many cases depend entirely upon "tips" for their remuneration, and even pay their employers for the privilege of waiting; but they are servants of the restaurant-proprietors, see Laugher v. Pointer, (5 B. & C. 547); Penn v. Spiers & Pond, Ltd. (1908, 1 K.B. 766). For the position of employers in such cases under this Act, see the Third Schedule (3) and (7) infra. As to what is a money payment, see Midland Ry. v. Sharp, 73 L.J.K.B. 666, and the decisions of the Commissioners, post Appendix VI, Nos. 61, p. 921 and 161, p. 945.

(b) Employment under such a contract as aforesaid as master or a member of the crew of any ship registered in the United Kingdom or of any other British ship or vessel of which the owner, or, if there is more than one owner, the managing owner or manager, resides or has his principal place of business in the United Kingdom.

For special provisions relating to the Royal Navy, see s. 46, and to the Mercantile Marine s. 48.

"Under such a contract."—As to the necessity for engagements of seamen to be in writing, see the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, ss. 113-125, and as to sea-fishermen ss. 399-408. Apprenticeship to the sea-service is regulated by ss. 105-109, and to the sea-fishing service by ss. 392-398, of that Act.

"Master."—Questions often arise as to whether the master of a ship is servant or partner; see Carswell v. Sharpe (47 Sc. L.R. 335), and as to the "thirds system" Boon v. Quance (1 B.W.C.C. 106) Jones v. "Alice and Eliza" (ib. 495), and Jamieson v. Clark (46 Sc. L.R. 73).

In many cases where there is some kind of profitsharing between owner and master, as in Boon v. Quance, 102 L.T. 443, difficult questions arise as to whether there is service or co-adventure, and the test of control will be of prime importance; as will be that of sharing expenditure. "In order to create a partnership, communion of profits and losses is essential" (per Lord Loughborough in Coope v. Eyre, 1 H. Black, 46). "It would be a strange kind of joint adventure in which two out of three joint adventurers contributed nothing to the capital embarked, and were not liable to contribute anything or to

S. 1 (2) — defray any losses that might be incurred" (Jamieson v. Clark, B.W.C. (228) sed cf. Cox v. Hickman 8 H.L.C. 268).

"The course of law has been at all times to regard the circumstance of a man being employed in another person's ship as evidence of contract of service between them," per Barry C. J. in "The Victoria," 45 Ir. L.T. 260.

See also notes to "in the United Kingdom," supra and to par. (k) of Part II. of this Schedule.

The captain of a Thames barge working on the usual halve system is the servant of the owner, Smith v. Horlock, C.A., 1913 (13) L.T. News. p. 348).

"Member of the crew."—This includes any person employed or engaged in any capacity on a ship, e.g., in addition to the sailors engineers and stokers, it includes the cooks, barbers, stewards stewardesses, &c., on a passenger ship. But it does not include employees of a passenger or cargo-owner, e.g. cattlemen, though they may help to work the ship (Anglo-Argentine Agency v. Temperley 1899, 2 Q.B. 403). See also Macbeth & Co. v. Chislett (1910, A.C. 220).

"Any ship registered in the United Kingdom."—i.e., under the Merchant Ship Acts, 1894, Part I., and 1906, ss. 50–52, this seems to include a vessel so registered, although not entitled to be, because owned by a foreign subject (R. v. Björnson, 34 L.J.M.C. 180).

"Or of any other British ship or vessel."—See s. 1 of the Act of 1894. Apparently a ship is a British ship provided she is owned wholly by British subjects (substantially defined as above),¹ or by a body corporate [the members of which may all be aliens (R. v. Arnaud, 16 L.J.Q.B. 50)] established in and under the laws of some part of the British Dominions.

This includes vessels registered as British ships at any port of registry established in the British Dominions or a foreign port under ss. 4 and 88–90 of the Act of 1894; also British-owned ships registered in and under the flag of a foreign country (Chartered Bank of India v. Netherlands &c. Co., 10 Q.B.D. 534), and the following unregistered vessels:—

- (1) A vessel of the Royal Navy [but see Part II. (a) of this Schedule].
- (2) Any other ship belonging to H.M. Government and not registered under s. 80 of the Act of 1906.
- (3) Small coasting and fishing vessels exempt from registry under s. 3 of the Act of 1894.
- (4) Probably (a) an unregistered ship which ought to have been registered [see ss. 2 (2), 72, 266 of the Act of 1894].
- (b) A ship built within the King's Dominions for a foreign purchaser but undelivered (see Union Bank of London v. Lenanton, 3 C.P.D. 243).
- (c) A British-owned ship between the time of her launch and her registry (see Merchant Shipping Acts, 1898, s. 1, and 1906, s. 70).

"Managing, owner or manager."—See s. 59 of the Act of 1894 where, however, the terms are not defined; for descriptions of the position and authority of such persons see Frazer v. Cuthbertson (6 Q.B.D. 93), The Huntsman (1894), P. 214; presumably the fact of registration under that section would be at least prima facie evidence as to the identity of those persons. In the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, s. 13, "Manager" in relation to a ship, means the ship's husband or other person to whom the management of the ship is entrusted by or on behalf of the owner." S. 1 (2)

"Resides."—For the purposes of the Old Age Pensions Act, 1908, residence has been defined (by Regulation 29) as "actual presence in the United Kingdom uninterrupted otherwise than by temporary absences," but under the Parliamentary Registration Acts and under the Income Tax Acts it has been held to mean no more than the possession of a place of abode, with occasional bodily presence, and an intention to return: probably for the present purpose the latter interpretation would be more appropriate.

The test of residence of a Limited Company would seem to be the situation of its government, i.e., the Board of Directors, so also as to where it carries on business. "In Brazil the payments are made, the passengers and goods are carried, but . . . this company is carrying on the trade in London from whence it issues its orders" (per the Lord Chancellor in San Paulo Ry. Co. v. Carter, 73 L.T. 539). So where the whole stock of a company was held in England and the directors met there the House of Lords held that there was evidence of residence in England for the purpose of income tax, though the company did no trade there and had not even a banking account in the kingdom (American Thread Company v. Lowe, 108 L.T. 253). And see particularly Egyptian Hotels Co., Ltd., v. Mitchell (108 L.T. 558) and cases there cited.

"Has his principal place of business."—See the Act of 1854, s. 1 (d), the Companies Act, 1908, s. 62, and O. 48a, r. 3 of the Rules of the Supreme Court. Where there is more than one place of business the principal place is probably that from which the work carried on at the other places is controlled. See Palmer v. Caledonian Ry. Co. (1892, 1 Q.B. 823) and De Beers Consolidated Mines, Ltd. v. Howe (1906, A.C. 455), where it is laid down that a limited company resides for Income Tax purposes at the place from which its business is controlled, which is not necessarily the place where it is registered. See the note on "resides" above, and see Turner v. Evans, 2 De G.M. & G. 749, and Kirkwood v. Gadd (1910, A.C. 422; 102 L.T. 753).

Foreign ships are not included, although by reason of the residence or place of business of the responsible manager being in the United Kingdom he might be made amenable to the process of our law.

(c) Employment as an outworker (that is to say, a person to whom articles or materials are given out to be made up, cleaned, washed, altered, ornamented, finished, or repaired, or adapted for sale in his own home or on other premises not under the control or management of the person who gave out the articles or materials for the purposes of the trade or business of the last-mentioned person), unless excluded by a special order made by the Insurance Commissioners, and any such order may exclude outworkers engaged in work of any class, or outworkers of any

S. 1 (2) class or description specified in the order, or may defer the commencement of this Act as respects all outworkers, and the person who gave out the articles or materials shall, in relation to the person to whom he gave them, be deemed to be the employer.

Employers in case of outworkers. 26. The Insurance Commissioners may by a special order provide that as respects any outworkers or any class of outworkers specified in the order the person specified in the order shall for the purposes of Part I of the principal Act be deemed to be the employer (in force Sept. 1st, 1913).

"Employment."—For some reason which is not apparent this is the only paragraph in which the employment is not in terms confined to the United Kingdom. The practical effect is likely to be slight, but it would strictly bring within the Act a British subject who sends work to be done in a foreign country. See, however, Tomalin v. S. Pearson & Son, Ltd., 100 L.T. 685, and note at p. 4 supra. Employment as an outworker is not under a contract of service. See the Report of the Committee on the application of the Act to Outworkers, cd. 6178.

"That is to say . . . the last-mentioned person."—This is the definition in s. 13 of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, slightly modified.

"Articles."—Including natural flowers given to be made up into bouquets (Hoare v. R. Green, Ltd., 1907, 2 K.B. 315).

"A person . . . on other premises."—This appears to include the case of a firm (or even a limited company) who may take in work from another firm or company to be done on the premises of the former. The word "employment," however, probably carries with it the implication that the person to whom the articles are given must himself at least take part in the work which is to be done upon them.

But Warrington J., (In re Employment of Master Tailors as Outworkers (1913), W.N. 270), decided that the definition of an outworker in this section is wide enough to cover a master tailor to whom goods are given out by a manufacturer, though the master tailor himself does little or no work on those materials, but superintends his workroom. In other words, to be an "outworker" it is not necessary to be a "worker" in the narrow sense.

"For the purposes of the trade or business."—See note to Part II. (h) infra.

Sed quare if the words have the same meaning here as in that paragraph, or in s. 4 (1) and s. 13 of the W.C. Act, 1906. The Insurance Commissioners have apparently taken the view that they have here a narrower meaning, and apply only to outworkers employed in some process of the employer's trade, and not in any process ancillary to that trade. See e.g. the decision as to washing overalls, post p. 928, and see Lucknill v. Auchen Steamship Co., 108 L.T. 32.

"Unless excluded."—See also Part II. (j) infra.

"Special order."—See s. 114, the Ninth Schedule, and Appendix I—14 (iv), p. 450.

"The commencement."—See s. 116 infra.

"The person who gave."—By himself or his agent; where the articles are actually given out by (e.g.) a foreman, the foreman's employer will also be the employer of the outworker.

"In relation to the person to whom he gave them."—But not to other persons to whom the first-mentioned person may in turn give them (see Squire v. Midland Lace Co. (1905), 2 K.B. 448). Each such person will in his turn be the employer of the next unless the Commissioners by their new powers otherwise provide.

For provisions with regard to payment of contributions see the Third Schedule (10) under s. 4 (2) infra.

(d) Employment in the United Kingdom in plying for hire with any vehicle or vessel the use of which is obtained from the owner thereof under any contract of bailment (or in Scotland any contract of letting to hire) in consideration of the payment of a fixed sum or a share in the earnings or otherwise, in which case the owner shall for the purposes of Part I. of this Act be deemed to be the employer.

This paragraph prevents the application of the recent decision of the House of Lords (Smith v. General Motor Cab Co., 27 T.L.R. 370), which excluded a taxi-cab driver from the Workmen's Compensation Act.

In cases of bailment the "employee" receives no wages or remuneration from the "employer"; for the questions arising from this with regard to contributions see notes to s. 4 (2), and the Third Schedule (3) and (4).

(e) Employment under any local or other public authority except such as may be excluded by a special order (1913, s. 6). In force Oct. 1st, 1913.

(See Part II (h) infra.)

PART II.

EXCEPTIONS.

(a) Employment in the naval or military service of the Crown, including service in Officers Training Corps, except as otherwise provided in Part I. of this Act.

"Officers Training Corps."—See the Territorial and Reserve Forces Act, 1907, Part II.

"Otherwise provided."—See s. 46 infra.

(b) Employment under the Crown or any local or other public authority where the Insurance Commissioners certify that the terms of the employment are such as to secure provision in respect of sickness and disablement on the whole not less favourable than the corresponding benefits conferred by Part I of this Act.

But see Part I. (e) supra.

S. 1(2) "Under the Crown."—See s. 53 infra. See also the Report of the Inter-Departmental Committee on Employment under the Crown, Cd. 6234.

"Public Authority."—See The Johannesburg (1907, P. 65) and cases there cited.

Possibly the most general statutory definition of a public body is that contained in s. 7 of the Public Bodies Corrupt Practices Act, 1889, under which the qualification is "power . . . to administer money raised by rate in pursuance of any Public General Act." That definition is however obviously one directed primarily to the protection of the rates and not intended as a general definition of a public body. It is suggested that the words "public authority" fairly mean any body having statutory duties of a public nature and exercising authority over some area or thing otherwise than as the proprietor or possessor thereof. Thus the Port of London Authority is a public authority, whereas a University created by statute or charter is not.

"Where the Insurance Commissioners certify."—See Appendix I A, 16 (f), p. 504. It is open to question whether such a certificate is subject to appeal under s. 66 (1) (i) infra, but probably it is not within that provision.

"Provision in respect of sickness or disablement."—This is surely not limited to sickness and disablement benefits [s. 8 (1) (c) and (d)], but includes at least medical [ib. (a)] and sanatorium [ib. (b)] benefits. They that are whole have no need of a physician. Maternity benefit [ib. (e)] to male insured persons ought probably to be left out of account as not being in respect of their own sickness and disablement. Some consideration must probably also be given to the prospect of obtaining additional [ib. (f)] and extended [s. 8 (8)] benefits. The Committee, however, appear to have been advised otherwise (see p. 2 of their report).

"Not less favourable."—It is submitted that these words are not used in an actuarial but a popular sense. What must be shown is not that the actuarial value of the benefits offered is as great as that of those conferred by the Act, but that the persons employed are as well provided for in the case both of temporary sickness and permanent incapacity as those insured under the Act. The words "on the whole" appear to permit better provision in the one case to atone for worse provision in the other. Some weight must, no doubt, be attached to the general permanence of the employment as compared with similar employment under private employers, to any provision made for superannuation, and especially to the provision made (if any) for the transfer of employees to an approved society on leaving the service of the authority. It is however questionable whether regard should be had to the charge imposed upon the employees (whether directly or indirectly) for the provision of the benefits as compared with the contributions under the Act, for the object of the paragraph is to secure provision in case of sickness, and it matters very little whether or no this involves some charge in time of health.

(c) Employment as a clerk or other salaried official in the service of a railway or other statutory company, or of a joint committed of two or more such companies, where the Insurance Commissioners certify that the terms of employment, including his rights in such superannuation fund as is hereinafter mentioned, are such as to secure provision in respect of sickness and disablement, on the whole, not less favourable than the corresponding benefits conferred by Part I of this Act, and the person so employed is entitled to rights in a superannuation fund established by Act of Parliament for the benefit of persons in such employment, or in Ireland is entitled to rights in any such superannuation fund or in any railway superannuation fund which may be approved by the Insurance Commissioners.

See notes to (b) supra, and Appendix I—1, par. 16 (f), p. 451.

"Salaried official."—As opposed to a person remunerated by wages; cf. the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 53 (2) and cases decided thereon, e.g., In re Jones, Ex p. Lloyd (1891, 1 Q.B. 231), Ex p. Brindle (56 L.T. 498).

"Statutory company."—Not a company registered under the Companies Act, 1908, but a company incorporated by a special Act, to which as a rule the Companies Clauses Act, 1845, the Railway Clauses Act, 1845, or a similar statute applies. Cf. In re Smith, Davidson v. Myrtle (1896, 2 Ch. 590.)

"Superannuation fund."—See Hobson v. Hull, 4 E. & B. 986. "Superannuation Allowance," in the Superannuation Acts, 1834 to 1892, includes "any pension or superannuation, or other retiring allowance."

(d) Employment as a teacher to whom the Elementary School Teachers Superannuation Act, 1898, or a scheme under section fourteen of the Education (Scotland) Act, 1908, or the National School Teachers (Ireland) Act, 1879, applies, or in the event of any similar enactment being hereafter passed as respects teachers or any class of teachers (other than teachers in public elementary schools), as a teacher to whom such enactment applies.

See notes to (b) supra.

"The Elementary School Teachers Superannuation Act."—Applies only to certificated teachers employed in some capacity in or connected with a public elementary school, not being an evening school, or a certified reformatory or industrial school, up to the age of sixty-five. See s. 52 infra.

"The National School Teachers (Ireland) Act, 1879."—Applies only to "classed teachers."

(e) Employment as an agent paid by commission or fees or a share in the profits, or partly in one and partly in another such ways, where the person so employed is mainly dependent for his

- S. 1 (2) livelihood on his earnings from some other occupation, or where he is ordinarily employed as such agent by more than one employer, and his employment under no one of such employers is that on which he is mainly dependent for his livelihood.

It is apparently contemplated that but for this exception agents would be servants within Part I. (a), but it is submitted that even if they are employed by one employer only this is not necessarily so. It has been held that an agent is not a "clerk or servant" under ss. 67 and 68 of the Larceny Act, 1861. The distinction is thus stated in R. v. Walker, 27 L.J.M.C. 207. "A principal has the right to direct what the agent has to do; a master has not only that right, but also the right to say how it is to be done (by a servant)" per Bramwell J.; and in R. v. Bowers, 1 C.C.R. 41, "a person who is employed to get orders and receive money, but who is at liberty to get those orders and receive that money where and when he thinks proper, is not a clerk or servant within the meaning of the statute . . . the prisoner was at liberty to dispose of his time in the way he thought best, and to get or abstain from getting orders on any particular day as he might choose; and this state of things is inconsistent with the relation of master and servant." This would seem to exclude a large proportion, e.g., of insurance agents.

"Paid by commission . . . such wages."—This does not include payment partly by salary and partly in one of the ways here mentioned.

"Fees."—A periodical payment, though called a "retaining fee," is not a fee in the ordinary sense of the word in England, though it is in Scotland (see e.g. "Imperial Dictionary," Tit. "Fee") and the Commissioners have so decided. Sed quære as to what should be the decision in Scotland on this point.

"Mainly dependent."—See note to s. 1 (3) (a) infra.

"Under no one of such employers."—He is apparently within the exception if his employment under all such employers together is his main source of livelihood, provided he does not depend mainly upon any one.

(f) Employment in respect of which no wages or other money payment is made where the employer is the occupier of an agricultural holding and the employed person is employed thereon, or where the person employed is the child of, or is maintained by the employer.

"Or where the person employed."—This is of general application and not confined to the case of an agricultural holding.

(g) Employment otherwise than by way of manual labour and at a rate of remuneration exceeding in value one hundred and sixty pounds a year, or in cases where such employment involves part-time service only, at a rate of remuneration which, in the opinion of the Insurance Commissioners, is equivalent to a rate of remuneration exceeding one hundred and sixty pounds a year for whole-time service. S. 1 (2)

‘Otherwise than by way of manual labour.’—Cf. the Employers and Workmen Act, 1875, s. 10 at p. 122 supra, in regard to which it has been decided that omnibus-conductors (Morgan v. L.G.O.Co. 13 Q.B.D. 832), tram-drivers, goods-guards, grocer’s assistants (Bound v. Lawrence, 1892, 1 Q.B. 226), and hairdressers are not engaged in manual labour (though a motor-omnibus driver is [Smith v. Associated Omnibus Co., 1907, 1 K.B. 916]), but partly on the ground that the occupations must be ejusdem generis with those specifically enumerated in that section. In any case these decisions are not likely to be very helpful in this case, as such persons do not usually earn more than £160 a year. Referring to Smith’s case (ubi sup.) in Re the National Insurance Act, 1911 (107 L.T. 342) Swinfen Eady, J., said “That case was decided on the ground that he carried spanners.” The test is not inapt.

See also per A. L. Smith, J., in Cook v. North Metropolitan Tramways Co., 18 Q.B.D. at p. 684: “Telegraph clerks and all persons engaged in writing perform manual work, but not manual labour.”

But see Hoare v. R. Green, Ltd. (1907, 2 K.B. 315), where it was held that girls making up natural flowers into bouquets were engaged in manual labour within the Factory Act 1901, s. 149, and Maynard v. Peters Robinson, 19 T.L.R. 492, where a sempstress was held to be a manual labourer. Lace clippers are also manual labourers (per Kennedy J.) in Squire v. Midland Lace Coy. (1905) 2 K.B. 448 at p. 455.

As to a “tackler” in a cotton factory see Leech v. Gartside 1 T.L.R. 391, which establishes that a foreman substantially engaged in manual labour is insurable; but one who only occasionally labours is not (Gruinger v. Ainsley, 50 L.J.M.C. 48; Re the National Insurance Act (Dairymen’s foremen), 107 L.T. 342).

A foreman was held not to be a person “ordinarily engaged in manual labour,” notwithstanding that at the time of the accident he was actually engaged in moving planks (Osborne v. Jackson, 11 Q.B.D. 619).

Cf. the Workmen’s Compensation Act, 1906, s. 13. “Workman does not include any person employed otherwise than by way of manual labour whose remuneration exceeds £250 a year.”

The following have been held not to be “workmen” under the Acts of 1897 and 1906, in spite of the wide definitions in those Acts [see notes to Part I. (a) supra p. 7] apparently on the ground that they were not engaged in manual labour:

(a) A poor-law doctor in Ireland (Murphy v. Enniscorthy Board of Guardians, 2 B.W.C.C. 291).

(b) A lecturer employed to explain the merits of an airship at an exhibition (Waites v. Franco-British Exhibition Co., 25 T.L.R. 441).

(c) A certificated colliery-manager (Simpson v. Ebbw Vale Co. Ltd., 1905, 1 K.B. 453).

(d) A chemist with University degrees working in the laboratory of a chemical factory, but mainly in the actual works, doing much manual work (Bagnall v. Levinstein, Ltd., 1907, 1 K.B. 531; but diss. Farwell, L.J., and quare).

S. 1 (2) "Rate of remuneration."—This includes all rewards for service, whether in cash or kind; it does not of course include private income or earnings from any source other than the employment in question, nor does it include the value of tuition or professional experience gained. Pomphrey v. Southwick Press (70 L.J.Q.B. 48).

See Skailes v. Blue Anchor Line, Ltd. (1911, 1 K.B. 360), where the remuneration of a ship's purser was held to include salary, shore money, commission, value of board and lodging, bonus on completion of each voyage without complaint, and profit on retailing whisky to passengers; and R. v. Postmaster-General (1 Q.B.D. 658) where the profits on travelling allowances in fact exceeding the actual expenses were held to be included in "emoluments" and (per Blackburn J.) in "remuneration."

See also Midland Railway v. Sharp (73 L.J.K.B. 666).

See also notes to the Second Schedule under s. 4 (1) at p. 309*infra*.

"Exceeding £160 a year."—Cf. s. 1 (3) infra. Since there is no provision for taking an average of several years (as there is under the Income Tax Acts), this must mean that the exception is to apply as soon as the rate exceeds £160 a year, but only so long as it continues to exceed that figure.

"In the opinion of the Insurance Commissioners."—See note to (b) supra.

(h) Employment of a casual nature otherwise than for the purposes of the employer's trade or business, and otherwise than for the purposes of any game or recreation where the persons employed are engaged or paid through a club, and in such case the club shall be deemed to be the employer.

"Employment . . . business."—This is taken verbatim from the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, s. 13.

"Casual."—Means "arising from chance, irregular" (Johnson's Dictionary); it does not include employment which, though not continuous, is regular, and depends upon a single contract, e.g., a contract with a jobbing gardener or washerwoman to come and work at a private house once a week (Dewhurst v. Mather, 1908, 2 K.B. 754). Such a person is not within this exception; as to who is to be treated as the employer, see Third Schedule (5). Some guidance as to the meaning of the word "casual" can be derived from a dictum of Cozens-Hardy, M.R., in Jury v. Atlanta, 28 T.L.R. 562. "Such employments were not casual, but were intended to continue subject to a week's notice, unless something unexpected happened."

A man who occasionally cleans windows at a house, but at irregular intervals, and on a separate hiring each time, is "casual" (Hill v. Begg, 1908, 2 K.B. 802), even if he cleans them when he likes, about once a month, without asking leave (Rennie v. Reid, 45 Sc. L.R. 814). For the purposes of this Act a man may be employed regularly on some days in the week, and casually on others, but must be paid for if not by a casual, then by his regular, employer. See also McCarthy v. Norcott, 43 Ir.L.T. 17, 2 B.W.C.C. 279.

"The employer's trade or business."—Not the workman's. "Business" has been defined as anything which occupies the time and attention and labour of a man for the purpose of profit (per Jessel, M.R., Smith v. Anderson, 15 Ch. D. 247), but it need not occupy the personal attention of the proprietor. The element of profit is no doubt relevant; but the case of Burns v. Manchester and Salford Wesleyan Mission, 99 L.T. 579, suggests that a charitable institution may carry off a trade or business from charitable motives (see, however, s. 51 infra).

Repairing the roof of a shop where the assistants live in the upper floors is for the purposes of the shopkeeper's trade (Johnson v. Monaster-van Shore Co., 1909, 111 L.R. 108).

Decisions under the Income Tax Acts, Schedule B ("trade, manufacture, adventure, or concern"), may be helpful on this point, as also cases of covenants not to carry on a trade or business in demised premises. See, for instance, Rolls v. Miller, 27 Ch.D. 71; Bramwell v. Lacy, 48 L.J. Ch. 379; Portman v. Home Hospitals Association, 27 Ch.D. 81 n.; and Reeves v. Cattell, 24 W.R. 485.

Letting out merchant vessels to freight is a trade (A.-G. v. Borrodale, 1 Price 148).

A municipality carries on a trade in supplying gas or electricity to residents, but not in lighting the streets (Dillon v. Haverfordwest, 60 L.J.Q.B. 477). But, lighting, paving, &c., are the "administrative business" of a local authority (Local Government Act, 1889, s. 3), and therefore presumably within the Act, though not a trade and the Commissioners have so decided. See also Mulrooney v. Todd and Bradford Corporation (1909), 1 K.B. 168; 100 L.T. 99.

• A burial board and a cemetery company carry on a trade, whatever the destination of the profits (Paddington Burial Board v. Inland Revenue, 13 Q.B.D. 9).

The purchase, sale, and development of land is a trade (Inland Revenue v. Cardonald Co., 44 Sc.L.R. 66). It has been decided in a county court that a landlord has a business (Godfrey v. Divett, 133 L.T. Newspaper 583), for the purpose of the Bankruptcy Acts. But the administration by a landlord of his own property is not generally a trade or business for the purpose of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906 (Bargewell v. Daniel, 98 L.T. 257). See also Tombs v. Bonford, 106 L.T. 823.

Colportage is not a trade (Religious Tract Society v. Forbes, 33 Sc.L.R. 289).

The sale of fruit, vegetables, horses, &c., incidental to the occupation of land for the purpose of residence and pleasure is not a business, though a profit is made thereby (In re Wallis; ex p. Sully; 14 Q.B.D. 950, 52 L.T. 625). Sed secus if the land be taken for the purpose of the business, though the business be undertaken pursuant to pleasure (Cotter v. Johnson, 5 B.W.C.C. 568). If the alleged business be only incidental to a hobby it is no business, but if it be itself the hobby it may be one. See the decision of Commissioners (decisions 24, p. 913, and 184, p. 951). As to such subsidiary businesses see also Skates v. Jones, 103 L.T. 408.

"Engaged or paid through a club."—Apparently this includes only cases where the employee, though engaged and paid for each game by the player, either obtains some licence or permission from some official of the club, or actually receives his money from him.

"Club."—For the purposes of the Licensing Acts it has been held

S. 1 (2) — that clubs exclusively owned by and composed of members are exempt from the necessity of having a licence; proprietary and company clubs (unless shareholders and members are entirely the same persons) being excluded (National Sporting Club v. Cope, 82 L.T. 352). Perhaps a wider interpretation would be given here, but in any case a place to which strangers are admitted on payment by themselves (not as the guests of members) can hardly be a club.

(i) Employment of any class which may be specified in a special order as being of such a nature that it is ordinarily adopted as subsidiary employment only and not as the principal means of livelihood.

“Special order.”—See s. 113, the Ninth Schedule, and Appendix.

“Subsidiary.”—The test is not whether it is a subsidiary employment for any particular person, but whether it is ordinarily so (see note on “commonly,” p. 340, infra). It applies to an employment which most people follow only in their spare time, e.g. in the evening. See Appendix; the latter exempts certain pickers of fruit, hops, &c., unless they were insured persons immediately before such employment, although during the season it occupies the whole time, and is the sole source of livelihood, of most of those engaged in it.

(j) Employment as an outworker where the person so employed is the wife of an insured person and is not wholly or mainly dependent for her livelihood on her earnings in such employment.

“Outworker.”—See Part I (c) at p. 13 supra and Cd. 6178 at p. 20 thereof, where the Committee recommend that the persons here excepted should be included by special order under the proviso to this subs. That order is now made (Appendix III—B4, p. 831, q.v. infra).

“Mainly dependent.”—See s. 1 (3) (a) and s. 2 (1) (b) infra, and especially Williams v. Ocean Coal Co., Ltd. (1907, 2 K.B. 422).

(k) Employment as a member of the crew of a fishing vessel where the members of such crew are remunerated by shares in the profits or the gross earnings of the working of such vessel in accordance with any custom or practice prevailing at any port if a special order is made for the purpose by the Insurance Commissioners, and the particular custom or practice prevailing at the port is one to which the order applies.

“Crew.”—For general provisions regulating the sea-fishing service see the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, Part IV. See also notes to Part I (b) of this Schedule supra. As usual in the Merchant Shipping Act the word “crew” does not generally include “master.” See sedes in the Workmen’s Compensation Act, 1906, s. 7. And here it is submitted that the master of such a vessel may lawfully be excepted.

“A Fishing Vessel” does not include a fish carrier [Janieson v. Clark (1909), S.C. 132, 46 Sc. CR. 73.]

"Shares in the profits."—See note to Part I (a), "whether paid by time, or by the piece, or otherwise," at p. 134 supra. As to whether persons so paid are servants of or coadventurers with the owner, see the notes on "master" under par. (b) of Part I. of this Schedule (supra). See also Whelan v. G.N.S.F. Co. Ltd. 100 L.T. 913; Wilkinson v. Frasier, 4 Esp. 182; Evans v. Bennett, 1 Camp. 300; Haywood v. Kain, Moo. and M. 311.

"Custom or practice."—See note to s. 47 (1) infra.

"Special order."—See s. 113, the Ninth Schedule, and Appendix I—1, 14 (v), p. 456.

(4) Employment in the service of the husband or wife of the employed person.

Provided that the Insurance Commissioners hereinafter constituted may, with the approval of the Treasury, by a special order made in manner hereinafter provided, provide for including amongst the persons employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act any persons engaged in any of the excepted employments specified in Part II of the said schedule either unconditionally or subject to such conditions as may be specified in the order.

"Special order."—See s. 113, the Ninth Schedule, and Appendices I—1 14 (a), p. 450, and, 111—B4, p. 831.

(3) The persons not employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act who are entitled to be insured persons include all persons who either—

- (a) are engaged in some regular occupation and are wholly or mainly dependent for their livelihood on the earnings derived by them from that occupation; or

"Regular occupation."—i.e., regular as opposed to temporary or intermittent (R. v. Oldham, L.R. 4 Q.B. 290). In the Bills of Sale Acts, where the grantor must state his occupation in the document, it has been defined as "the trade or calling by which he ordinarily seeks to get his livelihood." It is presumed that a person who regularly follows more than one occupation would be included. But the test is whether the occupation is regular, not the engagement; and it is possible that the occupation may be regular, though the tenure of the occupation by the contributor is casual. This appears somewhat mystical, but see the judgment of Buckley, L.J., in Hill v. Begg, §. 1 (3) 1 B.W.C.C. at p. 320. Occupations excepted from compulsory insurance by Part II. of the First Schedule are (or may be) included here.

"Wholly or mainly dependent for their livelihood."—This probably means "deriving the greater part of their actual income"; see notes on s. 2 (1) (b) infra. A man's "livelihood" is his whole living in the state in which in fact he lives (Stephens v. Derry, 16 East. 147).

(b) have been insured persons for a period of five years or upwards; or being of the age of sixty or upwards, show to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners that they have ceased to be insurable as employed contributors (1913, s. 4, in force Sept. 1st, 1913);

i.e., as "employed" or "voluntary" contributors. Note that a particular number of contributions need have been paid; a member of an approved society does not lose his membership or cease to be an "insured person" because, owing to arrears [s. 10 (1)] he is suspended from benefit. See the definitions in s. 79, and note to subs. (1) at p. 2, as to the conditions on which unemployment ceases to be temporary, and the effect of suspension on membership.

"Have been insured."—S. 5 (1) (b) Provides that in the case of persons who acquired this qualification as employed contributors the rate of contribution shall "continue to be" the employed rate. This applies also to the persons mentioned in s. 4 of the 1913 Act, post, p. 421. It is, therefore, submitted that the insurance must be continuous; i.e., that the qualification consists in having been insured for five years last past.

and the persons possessing such qualifications who become or continue to be insured persons are in this Act referred to as voluntary contributors:

"Voluntary contributors."—See s. 5 infra.

Provided always that no person whose total income from all sources exceeds one hundred and sixty pounds a year shall be entitled to be a voluntary contributor unless he has been insured under this Part of this Act for a period of five years or upwards.

"From all sources."—Not, however, including his wife's income.

"Exceeds £160 a year."—Cf. the First Schedule, Part II (g) under subs. (2), supra.

Period.—This must be continuous, although the payment of contributions need not be. If the income (or, for an employed person, the remuneration) at any time during the five years rises above £160, that will break the period, so that if it again falls below that level the period will begin afresh. A person in such a position who was a member of an approved society could doubtless make arrangements with the society to continue to pay contributions apart from this Act. S. 1(3)

(4) Repealed by the Act of 1913, as from Oct. 13th, 1913.

2.—(1) Where any person employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act proves that he is either— Exemptions.

- (a) in receipt of any pension or income of the annual value of twenty-six pounds or upwards not dependent upon his personal exertions; or
- (b) ordinarily and mainly dependent for his livelihood upon some other person,
- (c) ordinarily and mainly dependent for his livelihood on the earnings derived by him from an occupation which is not employment within the meaning of this Act (1913, s. 5, in force Sept. 1st).

“Dependent.”—Cf. cases on the word “dependants” in the Workmen’s Compensation Acts, 1897, Sch. I. (1), and 1906, s. 13; the test is whether the employed person derives the funds actually expended upon his maintenance from another; “the necessities of life having regard to the class and position of life of the applicant,” and “the standard of living in the neighbourhood” are immaterial (Main Colliery Co. v. Davies, 1900, A.C. 358; French v. Underwood, 19 T.L.R. 416) and see Stephens v. Derry (16 East. 147), cited under s. 1 (3) (a) supra. There is a legal presumption of the dependency of a wife upon her husband, which may, however, be rebutted (Williams v. Ocean Coal Co. Ltd., 1907, 2 K.B. 422). The same no doubt would also apply to the dependency of children under sixteen upon their father or widowed mother. See also note to Fourth Schedule, Part II (3) infra, p. 50.

he shall be entitled to a certificate exempting him from the liability to become or to continue to be insured under this Part of this Act.

S. 2 (1) "Certificate exempting him."—For other cases of exemption depending upon certificate, see the First Schedule, Part II (b), (c), (g), under s. 1 (2) supra, and ss. 51 and 81 (3) infra.

"Continue to be."—There is no provision as to the funds standing to the credit of any person who, having been a contributor, ceases under this provision to be one; apparently they are forfeited to his approved society, or to the Deposit Contributors' Fund if he is a deposit contributor.

This is only for the benefit of the "person employed" himself: it does not enable the employer to secure exemption from the liability to contribute [see s. 4 (4) (b)] in respect of such a person.

(2) All claims for exemption shall be made to, and certificates of exemption granted by, the Insurance Commissioners in the prescribed manner and subject to the prescribed conditions, and may be so made and granted before, as well as after, the commencement of this Act: Provided that the regulations of the Insurance Commissioners may provide for claims under this section being made to and certificates granted by approved societies and Insurance Committees hereinafter constituted.

"Prescribed."—i.e., by the Commissioners themselves (see s. 65). This is the meaning of this word wherever it occurs. See Appendix II, 1, p. 455.

"Insurance Committees."—See s. 59.

Contributions.

Contributions by insured persons, employers, and the Treasury.

3. Except as otherwise provided by this Act, the funds for providing the benefits conferred by this Part of this Act and defraying the expenses of the administration of those benefits shall be derived as to seven-ninths (or, in the case of women, three-fourths) thereof from contributions made by or in respect of the contributors by themselves or their employers, and as to the remaining two-ninths (or, in the case of women, one quarter) thereof from moneys provided by Parliament.

1.—(1) In addition to the moneys which under Part I of the National Insurance Act, 1911 (in this Act referred to as the "principal Act"), are required to be contributed out of moneys provided by Parliament towards defraying the cost of any of the benefits conferred by Part I of that Act or the expenses of administration of any of those benefits or otherwise for the purposes of that Act, there shall be contributed out of moneys provided by Parliament towards such costs expenses and purposes, such additional sums as Parliament may from time to time determine, and the provisions of the principal Act as to the manner in which the cost of benefits and the expenses of administration are to be defrayed shall be construed as applying only to the balance of such cost and expenses after such additional sums have been applied for the purposes for which they have been provided (in force Sept. 1st, 1913).

(2) Any additional sums so contributed for the purpose of medical benefit shall be applicable towards the payment of medical attendance and treatment of members of societies who are not insured persons mentioned in paragraph (e) of subsection (2) of section fifteen of the principal Act as amended by this Act in like manner and to the like extent as if such medical attendance and treatment were medical benefit (in force Jan. 12th, 1914).

"Otherwise provided."—See ss. 4 (1), 44 (2), 45, and 48 (7). There are also certain cases in which benefits provided aliunde are taken as paid by an approved society and the Parliamentary contribution is increased accordingly. See ss. 46, 47, 48.

"Benefits."—See ss. 8–13, infra; this includes the additional benefits mentioned in s. 8 (1) (f); but quære as to those in ss. 44 (2) and 48 (7).

"Administration."—See ss. 14–18; the expenses here referred to are those which will be "properly incurred" [s. 54 (1)] by approved societies (see ss. 23-29) and Insurance Committees (see ss. 42 and 59 in connection with administration. There is no statutory limit upon their amount, but the actuarial estimate is 0·92*d.* per member per week, and the Insurance Commissioners must by regulation limit it (ss. 35 (2), 42 (c), 61). See Appendix II. The expenses of the Insurance Commissioners (s. 57), audit and valuation (ss. 35, 36), are to be paid by the Treasury in addition to the contributions here mentioned.

"Contributions."—See s. 4. The Parliamentary contribution is in the case both of men and women equivalent to a contribution of at least 2*d.* per week, but is paid (with interest) when the benefits are claimed, instead of every week, except in the case mentioned in the proviso to s. 4 (1). It is submitted that the Parliamentary penny in respect of low-paid contributors (s. 4 (1) and Part I of the Second Schedule) is in substitution for, and is for the purpose of the present section a part of the "contributions" made by or in respect of the contributors by themselves or their employers." This penny must therefore be paid as contributions fall due, and a further two-sevenths will be payable on it when expended in benefits. If this view be correct it follows that this penny is payable also in respect of aliens; and it appears that this is the view taken by the Commissioners and by the Treasury.

As to the rates of contribution in casual and intermittent trades, as e.g., in dock labour, see s. 19 of 1913, under s. 65.

“Of the age of 21.”—See the definition of “age” in s. 76 infra.

“Where the rate of remuneration does not exceed 1s. 6d. a working day.”—Difficulties may arise in making these calculations where remuneration is based on periods of more than a day and parts of a day are worked. Is the average to be taken? and if so is part of a day to be reckoned as a whole day, half day, or in exact proportion to the hours worked? e.g., a labourer earns 14s. a week and has a half day on Saturday and no Sunday work; if the half day is to be reckoned as a whole he earns 2s. 4d. a day, if as a half he earns 2s. 6½d. More complicated cases could easily be imagined. The courts will not as a rule notice fractions of a day (Clayton's case 5 Rep. 1 b, Migotti v. Colvill, 4 C.P.D. 233, and Houlder v. Weir, 1905, 2 K.B. 267; sed cf. Yeoman v. Rex, 1904, 2 K.B. 429, and Anslow v. Cannock Chase Colliery Co. Ltd. [(1909) 1 K.B. 352] where reference is made to a week of 5½ days. The Scottish Insurance Commissioners have decided (it is submitted rightly, under s. 66 (1) (c) that a week of 55 hours of which only 5 hours are worked on Saturday is a 6 day week, and that decision is final, Don Bros. v. Anderson, (50 Sc.L.R. 361). Still greater difficulties arise where the remuneration is not based on time at all, and especially where as in the case of outworkers the employer has no knowledge of or control over the time worked; see, however, the Third Schedule (10) infra. This is clearly one of the points to be decided by the Commissioners under s. 66 (c). Also in cases where part of the remuneration is not in cash (as far as allowed by the Truck Acts), e.g., although cases where board and lodging is provided are exempt from this provision, when one or the other is provided alone this is part of the remuneration, and the value of it must be added to the cash wages. Again, where a bonus or additional payment is given at certain seasons of the year, as in the case of agricultural labourers, the remuneration being otherwise below the limit, such allowances must clearly be taken into account in finding the rate of remuneration. [See hereon note to the First Schedule, Part II (g), under s. 1 (2) supra.] See also Cd. 2376 of 1905, "Earnings of Agricultural Labourers." Where there are such allowances it is submitted that the value of them cannot be averaged over any period, but must be reckoned only in the week in which they occur.

"Working day."—It is submitted that a working day is any day upon which the employed person in fact works for payment.

The actual length of the working day must vary from trade to trade. In some trades a short day will nevertheless be the normal working day. If, for instance, a golf caddie can only do two rounds of 2 hours each (one before and one after the player has lunch) in the course of a normal day, it would seem that 4 hours is a golf caddies' working day. The method of estimating the rate of remuneration in such cases is discussed in Perry v. Wright [(1908) 1 K.B. 459] and Auslow v. Cannock Chase Colliery Co. Ltd. [1909] 1 K.B. 352].

Section 96 (1) which refers to a "working day of at least four hours" clearly recognises that Saturday morning may be a "working day." This seems to point to the conclusion that any day on which any work is done is to be reckoned as a complete working day. But in a charter-party it is well established that the words mean "days on which work is ordinarily done," including those on which it is prevented by bad weather, but not public holidays (This v. Byers, 1 Q.B.1). 244).

For Part II of this Schedule see s. 81 (1c) infra.

"Out of moneys provided by Parliament, see note on "contributions" under s. 3 (supra).

25.—(1) Where it appears to the Insurance Commissioners that the persons employed by any employer or group of employers in any class or classes of work are in general in receipt of a rate of remuneration which, although liable to fluctuation, is normally within any of the limits hereinafter mentioned, the Commissioners may by a special order declare that all the persons employed by that employer or group of employers in that class or those classes of work shall, for the purposes of the principal Act but subject to any exceptions contained in the order, be treated as if they were constantly in receipt of the normal rate of remuneration, not-

Power to treat all employees of an employer as being remunerated at normal rate.

§. 25 ⁽¹⁾ withstanding that those persons or any of them may in any week in fact receive a higher or lower rate of remuneration.

(2) The limits referred to in this section are—

(a) A rate not exceeding one shilling and sixpence a working day ;

(b) A rate exceeding one shilling and sixpence but not exceeding two shillings a working day ;

(c) A rate exceeding two shillings but not exceeding two shillings and sixpence a working day. (In force Sept. 1st, 1913.)

(2) The employer shall, in the first instance, pay both the contributions payable by himself (in this Act referred to as the employer's contributions), and also on behalf of the employed contributor the contributions payable by such contributor, and shall be entitled to recover from the contributor by deduction from his wages or otherwise the amount of the contributions so paid by him on behalf of the contributor, in accordance with the rules set out in the Third Schedule to this Act.

“The employer shall.”—As to the consequences of his failing to comply with this direction, upon himself and the contributor, see ss. 69 (2), 70, 110. He may arrange with the Board of Trade for a Labour Exchange to undertake the duty [s. 99 (1) infra].

“Or otherwise.”—The generality of these words is considerably limited by the Third Schedule. See pars. (3), (4) and (7) thereof.

THIRD SCHEDULE.

RULES AS TO PAYMENT AND RECOVERY OF CONTRIBUTIONS PAID BY EMPLOYERS ON BEHALF OF EMPLOYED CON-TRIBUTORS UNDER PART I OF THIS ACT RELATING TO HEALTH INSURANCE.

(1) A weekly contribution shall be payable for each calendar week during the whole or any part of which an employed contributor has been employed by an employer: Provided that, where one weekly contribution has been paid in respect of an employed contributor in any such week, no further contribution shall be payable in respect of him in the same week, and that, where no remuneration has been received and no services rendered by an employed contributor during any such week, or where no services have been rendered by an employed contributor during any such week and the employed contributor has been in receipt of sickness or disablement benefit during the whole or any part of that week, the employer shall not be liable to pay any contribution either on his own behalf or on behalf of the contributor in respect of that week. S. 4 (1)

"For each calendar week."—See (11) infra; not necessarily in that week, see "weekly or other prescribed intervals," in s. 4 (1) supra and App. II, 2, par. 6, post p. 461.

"In the same week."—See (5) infra.

"Remuneration."—See notes to the First Schedule, Part II (g) p. 132 and the Second Schedule, Part I, at p. 140 supra.

"In receipt of sickness or disablement benefit."—Cf. s. 10 (4) (a) infra; but note that in the cases there mentioned where the contributor, though ill, is deprived of benefit by some provision of the Act, contributions will still be payable if remuneration is paid, i.e., if the service is not terminated by the illness [see notes to s. 47 (1) infra] except in the case mentioned in s. 47 (4) (c). Therefore, the employer remains liable to pay contributions in a case where, under s. 10 (4), arrears are not reckoned against the contributor in respect of contributions unpaid. The case of employees who remain in their employers' houses during illness is one of difficulty in this connexion.

(2) The employer shall, except as hereinafter provided, be entitled to recover from the employed contributor the amount of any contributions paid by him on behalf of the employed contributor.

(3) Except where the employed contributor does not receive any wages or other pecuniary remuneration from the employer, the amounts so recoverable shall, notwithstanding the provisions of any Act or any contract to the contrary, be recoverable by means of deductions from the wages or other remuneration, and not otherwise; but no such deductions may be made from any wages or remuneration other than such as are paid in respect of the period or part of the period in respect of which the contribution is payable, or in excess of the sum which represents the amount of the contributions for the period (if such period is longer than a week) in respect of which the wages or other remuneration are paid.

S. 4 (3) "Does not receive wages."—It appears that where money payments are received, though the payments amount to less than the employee's share of the contribution (as in the case of certain "living-in" apprentices) the employer is nevertheless debarred from recovering otherwise than by deduction, and must himself pay the balance of the employee's contribution.

"Wages or other pecuniary remuneration."—This is for all practical purposes the same as "wages or other money payments" in (7) infra. Note, however, that (7) refers to cases where no such payments are received from the employer or any other person. Where payment is received from any other person but not from the employer, the latter may recover the contribution paid by him on behalf of the contributor by any of the means mentioned in the next paragraph.

"Notwithstanding the provisions."—There are no provisions of any Act at present in force which forbid such a deduction. See s. 24 of the Truck Act of 1831.

"And not otherwise."—The effect of this, with the following sentence, is that if by oversight, or for any other reason, the deduction is not made at the time when any particular wages are paid, it can never be made, nor can the sum be recovered by any process.

(4) Where a contribution paid by the employer on behalf of an employed contributor is recoverable from the contributor but is not recoverable by means of deductions as aforesaid, it shall (without prejudice to any other means of recovery) be recoverable summarily as a civil debt, but no such contribution shall be recoverable unless proceedings for the purpose are instituted within three months from the date when the contribution was payable.

The only case to which this paragraph applies is that in which a money payment is received from some person other than the employer; see (7) infra, and notes to the First Schedule, Part I (a) at p. 11, and to s. 4 (2), supra. A particular case to which such a provision may be intended to apply is that of bailment mentioned in the First Schedule, Part I (d) at p. 15 supra.

"Recoverable summarily as a civil debt."—See Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, ss. 6, 35.

"Instituted."—Summary proceedings are instituted when a complaint is made before justices (Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1848, s. 1); it need not be in writing (s. 8). See Beardsley v. Giddings (1904, 1 K.B. 847.)

"Three months."—Calendar months, see note to s. 5 (1) (a).

"Payable,"—i.e., by the employer or person under whom the contributor is working (6). This limitation applies to proceedings other than summary proceedings, e.g., a county-court action, which is "instituted" by plaint.

(5) Where the contributor is employed by more than one employer in any calendar week, the first person employing him in that week or such other employer or employers as may be prescribed shall be deemed to be the employer for the purposes of the provisions of Part I. of this Act relating to the payment of contributions and of this Schedule. S. 4(5)

"More than one employer."—See First Schedule, Part I (a) at p. 10, and Part II (e), (h) under s. 1 (2) supra and notes.

"The first person employing."—The effect of this (subject to any regulations the Insurance Commissioners may make) is that in the case of a man (a) in regular employment who goes from one employer to another during the week, the first employer (even if he goes on Monday) must pay the whole contribution payable in respect of him for the week and deduct the whole of the man's contribution from such wages as are then due; and (b) casually employed in a trade or business, the employer who engages him on Monday must pay the whole contribution (deducting from the day's wages the man's contribution), and any employer who engages him on any later day must ascertain if he has been previously employed during the week, and if not must pay and deduct in the same way.

The contributions of a man employed by only one employer during only part of a calendar week must be paid as for a whole week.

See now, however, s. 19 of 1913, set out under s. 65 at p. 276 infra, and cf. the manner in which casual labour is dealt with under Part II in the Eighth Schedule at p. 347 infra.

See Appendices I—1, par. 5 (d) p. 445, and II, 4, p. 544.

(6) Regulations of the Insurance Commissioners may provide that in any cases or any classes of cases where employed contributors work under the general control and management of some person other than their immediate employer, such as the owner, agent, or manager of a mine or quarry, or the occupier of a factory or workshop, such person shall, for the purposes of the provisions of Part I of this Act relating to the payment of contributions and of this schedule, be treated as the employer, and may provide for allowing him to deduct the amount of any contributions (other than employer's contributions) which he may become liable to pay from any sums payable by him to the immediate employer, and for enabling the immediate employer to recover from the employed contributors the like sums and in the like manner as if he were liable to pay the contributions.

And as to the employer of outworkers, see s. 26 of 1913, supra p. 14.

See notes to s. 4 (1) and (2) supra, and Appendices I—1, par. 5 (c), p. 445, and II, 5, p. 548.

This covers the cases of men "lent or let on hire," and of men working under sub-contractors. See however the notes on "contract of service," and "whether under one or more employers," under par. (a) of Part I of the First Schedule (supra, p. 10).

(7) Where the contributor is not paid wages or other money payments by his employer or any other person, the employer shall

S. 4 (7) be liable to pay the contributions payable both by himself and the contributor, and shall not be entitled to recover any part thereof from the contributor.

"Or other money payments," i.e., payments ejusdem generis with wages, payments in respect of his employment.

"Any other person."—This includes certainly any agent of the employer, and any person to whom the servant may be lent or let on hire; it also covers such cases as that of bailment where the remuneration is obtained by fares [the First Schedule, Part I (d)]; of waiters at a restaurant who earn their whole remuneration by tips [ib. (a) at p. 11]; and persons casually employed at a club [ib. Part II (h)]. The employer can thus recover contributions otherwise than by deduction in these cases.

(8) Notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, the employer shall not be entitled to deduct from the wages of or otherwise to recover from the contributor the employer's contribution.

By s. 34 (1) of 1913 (infra, p. 289), this is now made a criminal offence.

"Truck Acts."—As to the effect of the Truck Acts on such deductions, see Buxton v. Howe (82 L.T. 422), and Williams v. North's Navigation Collieries (1906), A.C. 136, 73 L.J. K.B. 334; 94 L.T. 447).

Neither of these provisions prevents an employer, if he can and wishes to do so, from terminating the engagements of his men by notice, and renewing them at wages reduced by the amount of the employer's contribution.

(9) Any sum deducted by any employer from wages or other remuneration under this Schedule shall be deemed to have been entrusted to him for the purpose of paying the contribution in respect of which it was deducted.

This brings the employer within the provisions of the Larceny Act 1901, if he fraudulently abstains from paying it over. It also subjects him to all the civil liabilities of a trustee. This is in addition to the remedies provided in ss. 69, 70, and 110.

(10) The Insurance Commissioners may, by regulations, provide that in the case of outworkers the contributions to be paid may be determined by reference to the work actually done, instead of by reference to the weeks in which work is done, and any such regulations may apply to all trades or to any specified classes or branches of trades, and may determine the conditions to be complied with by employers who adopt such a system of payment of contributions.

"The contributions to be paid."—It may be doubted whether this enables the Commissioners to vary the "employed rate" [see the Second Schedule under s. 4 (1) supra], or only the manner of collection and possibly the proportion to be paid by the employer and the contributor respectively. See Appendix I—1, par. 5 (f), p. 445, and S. 4 (u) Cd. 6178, where the Committee take the opposite view.

See now Appendix II, 6, p. 550.

(11) For the purposes of this Schedule the expression "calendar week" means the period from midnight on one Sunday to midnight on the following Sunday.

(3) Contributions in respect of employed contributors shall cease to be payable on their attaining the age of seventy.

Cf. ss. 5 (2), 8 (3) and 79 infra.

(4) The employer of a person who though employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act is not insured under this Part of this Act by reason either—

(a) Repealed by the Act of 1913 (as from Oct. 13th, 1913);

(b) that he has obtained and still holds a certificate of exemption under this Part of this Act;

See ss. 2 supra and 81 (3) infra. This subs. does not apply to cases under s. 51.

"And still holds."—There does not seem to be anything to show the duration of such a certificate, nor how it is to be revoked. See, however, Appendix II—1, par. 4, p. 456.

shall be liable to pay the like contributions as would have been payable as employer's contributions if such person had been an employed contributor, and such contribution shall be carried to such account and dealt with in such manner as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners, and those regulations may provide for applying the sums standing to the credit of the account, or any part thereof, for the benefit of any persons in respect of whom contributions have been so paid, in the event of such persons subsequently becoming employed contributors.

persons.

9.—(1) Regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners under subsection (4) of section four of the principal Act shall provide for applying the contributions paid in respect of persons who hold certificates of exemption in providing medical benefit and sanatorium benefit for such persons and the cost of the administration of such benefits, and such persons shall, if they fulfil such conditions as may be imposed by those regulations, become entitled to medical benefit and sanatorium benefit as if they were members of approved societies, and the provisions of the principal Act and this Act with respect to the payment and administration of those benefits (including those relating to the application of moneys provided by Parliament towards the cost of those benefits and the expenses of the administration thereof) shall, subject to any modifications, adaptations, and exceptions contained in the regulations, apply accordingly:

Provided that—

- (a) the conditions so imposed shall not require payment of upwards of twenty-six weekly contributions before the person becomes entitled to such benefits;
- (b) where the total income from all sources of any such person exceeds one hundred and sixty pounds a year he shall be required to make "his own arrangements for receiving medical attendance and treatment, and subsection (3) of section fifteen of the principal Act shall apply accordingly.

(2) This section shall apply to persons in Ireland with this modification, that the benefits to be provided shall be such as may be specified in a scheme framed by the Irish Insurance Commissioners, but the sum to be contributed out of moneys provided by Parliament towards the cost of those benefits and the administration thereof shall be the same as if the benefits were benefits to insured persons. (In force Jan. 12th, 1914.) 1917

“Total income.”—See notes to s. 15 (3) and s. 10 (1) of 1913 at p. 94 infra, which latter section excludes voluntary contributors whose income exceeds £160 from medical benefit altogether.

See Appendices I—1, par. 5 (b), p. 446, and 11, 7, p. 574.

5.—(1) The contributions payable by voluntary contributors shall be at the rate appropriate to their age at the date of their entry into insurance ascertained in accordance with a table to be prepared by the Insurance Commissioners (hereinafter referred to as the voluntary rate) and shall be paid by the voluntary contributors at weekly or other prescribed intervals: Rates and rules for contributions by voluntary contributors.

“Voluntary contributors.”—S. 1 (3) supra.

“The rate appropriate to their age.”—It appears from s. 55 (3) that these contributors will be liable to the ordinary deduction in respect of reserve values, although those mentioned in the next paragraph who are over 45 are by the same sub-section exempted from that deduction. Whether any reserve value will be credited to societies in respect of such members depends upon the question whether there will be any estimated loss [s. 55 (1)] in their acceptance as members, which again depends upon the rate at which the contributions are fixed under this section. Note that there is no direction here, as there is in the next paragraph, that the contribution is to cover seven-ninths of the benefits. It is therefore open to the Commissioners to take the above matters into consideration in fixing the rate. See Appendix IV, 3 and 4, p. 839.

“Shall be paid.”—As to the manner of payment, see s. 7 infra, and Appendices I—1, par. 5 (a), p. 444, and 13 (a), p. 449, and II—2, par. 8, p. 463.

§ 5 (1) Provided that—

- (a) In the case of a person who enters into insurance within sixty-five weeks after the commencement of this Act, the voluntary rate shall, if he is below the age of forty-five at the date of entering into insurance, be the same as the employed rate, and if he is of the age of forty-five or upwards, be such rate, ascertained according to a table to be prepared by the Insurance Commissioners, as having regard to his age at that date, will be sufficient to cover seven-ninths, or, in the case of a woman, three-fourths, of the benefits conferred by this Part of this Act;

2. (2) The period within which a person may enter into insurance as a voluntary contributor at the rate referred to in subsection (1) of section five of the principal Act shall be extended to the twelfth day of October nineteen hundred and thirteen, and accordingly proviso (a) to subsection (1) of section five and subsection (3) of section fifty-five of the principal Act shall have effect, and shall be deemed always to have had effect, as if "sixty-five weeks" were therein substituted for "six months." (In force Sept. 1st, 1913.)

"The commencement of this Act."—See s. 115 infra.

"The employed rate."—See the Second Schedule under s. 4 (1) at p. 29 supra.

"A table."—See Appendix IV, 1 and 2, p. 837.

- (b) Where a person, having been an employed contributor for five years or upwards, becomes a voluntary contributor, the rate of contribution payable by him shall s. 5 (1) continue to be the employed rate.

See s. 1 (3) (b).

(2) Contributions by voluntary contributors shall cease to be payable on their attaining the age of seventy.

Cf. ss. 4 (3) and 8 (3).

8.—(1) Where an insured person has become a member of an approved society as a voluntary contributor, the rate of contributions payable in respect of him shall, notwithstanding that he becomes employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act, remain the voluntary rate, unless at any time after becoming so employed he gives notice in the prescribed manner of his wish to be transferred to the employed rate.

Change from voluntary rate to employed rate and vice versa.

“Approved society.”—There is no provision as to the position of a voluntary contributor who has become a deposit contributor (s. 42), should he become employed: he will therefore be transferred to the employed rate.

“Notice.”—See Appendix 11, 8, p. 589.

(2) Where he gives such notice the rate payable in respect of him shall be the employed rate, but in such case the rate of sickness benefit payable in respect of him shall be such reduced rate as would have been payable had he not previously been insured, subject to such addition as may, according to tables prepared by the Insurance Commissioners, represent the value at that time of the contributions previously paid by him.

“Sickness benefit.”—See s. 8 (1) (c) infra.

“Such reduced rate.”—See s. 9 (4) infra, and Appendices I—1, par. 13 (b) p. 449, and IV—5 and 6, p. 842. It will be observed that s. 9 (4) provides for sickness benefit in the case of a person not previously insured at a rate never less than 5s. weekly. In the case of persons entering into insurance at ages over 32 in the case of men,

S. 6 (2) — and 22 in the case of women, this rate will require a Reserve Value to sustain it (see Appendix IV—5, 6, pp. 842, 843, infra), but as these persons are not “joining an approved society” within the meaning of s. 55 (2), the Act contains no provision for crediting this society with a Reserve Value in respect of them. The Society must, therefore, bear the loss while by virtue of the ensuing words of this paragraph the contributor gets the whole advantage of the reserve which has been built up out of his past contributions.

Now in the case of a male voluntary contributor who entered into insurance before the age of 18, this reserve—“the value at that time of the contributions previously paid by him” is sufficient at any age over 33 to provide sickness benefit for the future at a rate of not less than 5s. weekly, and at any age over 55 it will provide benefit at the rate of 9s. Therefore the benefit given by s. 9 (4), to wit 5s., which imposes a charge of £7 12s. 6d. upon the Society (see App. IV—5, p. 843), plus the “value of his contributions,” gives him a total benefit of 14s. weekly.

It is however submitted that since the subsection gives him only a reduced benefit “subject to” an addition, the addition can never make the whole benefit more than 10s. and that the society will therefore in such cases pay 10s. weekly only, thereby mitigating the drain upon its funds.

“Tables.”—Which should be published as they must be in use.

(3) Where he does not give such notice, and until he does so, the contributions payable by his employer in respect of him during any period of employment within the meaning of this Part of this Act shall be the same as if he had been transferred to the employed rate, and the contributions so paid by the employer shall be treated as in part satisfaction of the contributions at the voluntary rate payable by the contributor, and if the contributor fails to pay the balance he shall be deemed to be in arrear to that extent.

“Employment.”—See the First Schedule App. 4 supra.

“Employed rate.”—See the Second Schedule at p. 29 supra.

“In arrear.”—See s. 10 infra; but the provisions of that section are very difficult to apply to such a case: presumably, although he is now an employed contributor, his position will be dealt with by regulations under s. 10 (3), or under s. 10 (7).

(4) Where an employed contributor within five years from his entry into insurance ceases to be employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act and becomes a voluntary contributor, he shall be deemed to be in arrear, as from the date when he so became a voluntary contributor, to the amount of the difference between the aggregate contributions paid by or in respect of him since his entry into insurance and the aggregate of the contributions which would have been payable by him had he throughout been a voluntary contributor, and the difference between any reserve value which is credited to the approved society of which he is a member in respect of him and the reserve value (if any) which would have been credited to that society in respect of him had he originally become a voluntary contributor shall be cancelled.

s. 6 (4)

"Becomes a voluntary contributor."—Under s. 1 (3) (a) supra.

"Deemed to be in arrear."—As to the method of calculation see s. 10 (3) and (7).

"Which would have been payable,"—i.e., on the basis of the age at which he became an employed contributor, see s. 5 (1) supra.

"Reserve value."—See s. 55 infra. It is difficult to see what difference there is to be in the respective reserve values where the man was under 45 at entry, within 65 weeks of the commencement of the Act, except such slight difference as may arise owing to the different manner of treating arrears in the two cases [s. 10, especially (3)]. If he was then over 45 he would have no reserve value.

7. Subject to the provisions of this Act, the Insurance Commissioners may make regulations providing for any matters incidental to the payment and collection of contributions payable under this Part of this Act, and in particular for—

Power to make regulations for the payment of contributions.

- (a) payment of contributions whether by means of adhesive or other stamps affixed to or impressed upon books or cards or otherwise, and regulating the manner, times, and conditions in, at, and under which such stamps are to be affixed or impressed or payments are otherwise to be made;

S. 7 (a) "Subject to the provisions of this Act."—The Commissioners, have, however, by s. 19 of the Act of 1913, q.v. under s. 65 infra, p. 276, much more extensive powers as to the rates and collection of contributions in the case of casual labour.

"Regulations."—See Appendix II, 2-7 inclusive, pp. 458-588; 27, p. 670; 28, p. 672; 32, p. 683; and 34, p. 704; it will be noticed (2, par. 4, p. 459) that the duty of procuring a card and of producing it to the employer to be stamped (ib. 5, p. 461) is placed upon the employed contributor, the employer being required [ib. 6 (1) (c), p. 462] to procure and stamp an "emergency card" in the event of failure by the contributor. Such failure would be punishable by a fine of £10 [s. 69 (2)]. It may, however, well be doubted whether this regulation is not ultra vires; the sole duty of making contributions is by s. 4 (2) imposed upon the employer, and in spite of the general words in s. 65 (as to which see p. 275 infra), it is difficult to see how such a duty can be imposed by regulation upon the contributor without express words in the Act, or to find any words which give the Commissioners such a power; the words "shall be insured" in s. 1 (1) are hardly sufficient.

"Stamps."—See s. 108 infra, and Appendix I—1, par. 5 (c), p. 445.

(b) the entry in or upon books or cards of, particulars of contributions paid and benefits distributed in the case of the insured persons to whom such books or cards belong;

(c) the issue, sale, custody, production, and delivery up of books or cards and the replacement of books or cards which have been lost, destroyed, or defaced.

"Sale."—The Commissioners have recognised that without more definite authority than this they could not properly impose a charge for books or cards upon any person; the cost of them will therefore be borne under s. 57 (3) by the Treasury as expenses of the Commission, Appendix II—2, par. 4, p. 460.

Benefits.

Benefits. 8.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the benefits conferred by this Part of this Act upon insured persons are—

(a) Medical treatment and attendance, including the provision of proper and sufficient medicines, and such medical and surgical appliances as may be prescribed by regulations to be made by the Insurance Commissioners (in this Act called "medical benefit");

For further provisions relating to "medical benefit," which considerably qualify the right of insured persons to treatment and attendance, see subss. (4), (5), (6), (8) (a) and ss. 10 (1) and 15, and the Administration of Medical Benefit Regulations, 1912 (Appendix LI—13, p. 597, and notes thereto at p. 631).

"Medical."—It is not clear how far this is intended to include "surgical"; the decisions under the Apothecaries Act, 1815, and Medical Act, 1858, keep the two words distinct (see Leman v. Fletcher, L.R. 8 Q.B. 319; Apothecaries' Society v. Gregory, 25 T.L.R. 37), but the Medical Act, 1886, requires the qualifications to be combined. Probably it includes such minor surgical treatment as a general practitioner would give, but not treatment which would ordinarily be given by a surgeon or a dentist [see Fourth Schedule, Part II (2), where dental treatment is made an "additional benefit," under (f) infra p. 50].

"Treatment and attendance."—No definition is given of medical treatment and attendance. No limitation is placed in the Act on the extent of the treatment. It is to be "adequate," and to be defined in the regulations of the Commissioners [s. 15 (2)]. But see the construction placed on these words by paragraphs 2 and 3 of the First Schedule (Part I) to the Administration of Medical Benefit Regulations, 1912 (post p. 626), and par. 55 thereof, p. 624.

"Medicines."—The Commissioners have interpreted this in the widest possible sense. It may include cod liver oil preparations, alcohol in various forms, chemically prepared foods, vaccines and sera, and any drugs or medicines for internal or external use which a panel doctor chooses to prescribe or to apply personally. Med. Reg. 28, p. 611, 30 (2), p. 612, and Third Sched. p. 630. The price of each drug in ordinary use is fixed by each Insurance Committee in its Drug Tariff, while other drugs not in the tariff are to be supplied at a price to be agreed with the Committee or in default of agreement to be determined by the Commissioners. But the fact that the total money available for medicines and appliances is only 1s. 6d. per year per head of the insured (or 2s. if the "floating" 6d. is used) does not limit the medicines, seeing that if the total chemists' bills are more than the aggregate sum available in the Drug Fund and the Drug Suspense Fund, the chemists under their agreement with the Insurance Committee have to submit to a proportionate reduction of their bills by Reg. 43, p. 616.

"Appliances."—The list of appliances that may be supplied at the cost of the insurance funds is given in the second Sched. to the Regs., p. 630, and any appliances recommended by a panel doctor that are not in this list would have to be obtained by the patient.

- (b) Treatment in sanatoria or other institutions or otherwise when suffering from tuberculosis, or such other diseases as the Local Government Board with the approval of the Treasury may appoint (in this Act called "sanatorium benefit");

For further provisions relating to "sanatorium benefit," see ss. 12, 16, 17, and 64.

"Sanatoria."—The word sanatorium has come to mean generally an institution for the treatment of tubercular phthisis, more especially for incipient cases, though some sanatoria admit advanced cases. On the other hand the word is sometimes synonymous with "hospital": thus the Ladywell Sanatorium, near Manchester, is a municipal isolation hospital for infectious diseases.

"Other institutions."—For example, ordinary hospitals, or convalescent homes, garden-shelters or country homes for climatic treatment, &c.

"Or otherwise."—These words allow of treatment of tuberculosis at patients' own homes, or at tuberculosis dispensaries or other non-institutional treatment. The payment of medical men for such treatment is derived from the funds set apart for sanatorium benefit and 6d. per head of the insured has been specially set aside out of those funds for this purpose. Apparently only curative treatment of tuberculosis is contemplated. County and Borough Councils pay special attention to measures intended to prevent tuberculosis, but no provision in this Act authorises Insurance Committees to incur expenditure on preventive measures except in the way of compiling statistics, making reports, providing for lectures, and publishing information on questions relating to health (s. 60), and so far as money provided by Parliament (one penny per insured person) may be applied by the Commissioners for the purpose of research [s. 16 (2)].

"Tuberculosis."—That is, any disease caused by, or associated with, the tubercle bacillus, e.g., phthisis, spinal caries, tubercular disease of joints, bones, glands, skin, and internal parts of the body. As lupus is recognised as tubercular (Whitla's "Practice of Medicine"), the treatment by Röntgen Rays or Finsen Light would be included under sanatorium benefit.

"Other diseases."—No indication is given as to what other diseases besides tuberculosis may be included under sanatorium benefit, as distinct from medical benefit. The terms of the Act are wide enough to allow of indefinite extension so that sanatorium benefit might eventually become a general hospital benefit.

(c) Periodical payments whilst rendered incapable of work by some specific disease or by bodily or mental disablement, of which notice has been given, commencing on the fourth day of such incapacity and continuing for a period not exceeding twenty-six weeks (in this Act called "sickness benefit");

13. Paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of section eight of the principal Act shall have effect as if for the words "commencing from the fourth day after being so rendered incapable of work" there were substituted the words "commencing on the fourth day of such incapacity," and for the purposes of that paragraph as so amended a day on which the incapacitated person was prevented by the incapacity from doing any effective work shall be treated as a day of incapacity, but a Sunday shall not be so treated unless the incapacitated person would but for the incapacity have worked on that day. (In force Oct. 13th, 1913.)

ment of paragraph
(c) of s. 8
(1) of principal Act.

(d). In the case of the disease or disablement continuing after the determination of sickness benefit, periodical payments so long as so rendered incapable of work by the disease or disablement (in this Act called "disablement benefit") ;

For further provisions relating to "sickness benefit" and "disablement benefit" see subss. (2), (3), (4), (5), (6), (8) (b), (c), and ss. 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 38 (1) (b), 42, 44 (2), 45, 47 (4), (5), (6), and 48 (1) and Appendix V, Model Rules B 11, p. 868, and C 11 A, p. 893 infra.

"Periodical payments."—It is left to the option of the society or committee administering the benefit to say when the first payment is to be made, and at what intervals subsequent payments will fall due [s. 14 (2)]. But the insured person has a right to payment at the specified rate for the whole period from the fourth day after the beginning of the illness until he is again able to provide his own maintenance.

"Rendered incapable of work,"—i.e., totally unfit for any kind of work, but see Ball v. Wm. Hunt and Sons, Ltd. (28 T.L.R. 428), and Macdonald v. Wilsons and Clyde Coal Co. (ib. 431). There is no provision for the "partial incapacity" recognised by the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, First Schedule (1) (b), (15) and (16). This is also in contrast with the German scheme, in which invalidity allowance is made to insured persons unable to earn one-third of their normal wage. Such allowances may be made an additional benefit ; see the Fourth Schedule, Part II (5) under (f) infra.

A question may arise as to whether a person who is already "unfit" can be said to be "rendered unfit" by any subsequent disease or dis-

S. 8 (1) (d) — ablement which may overtake him. For instance, a man with two wooden legs may easily contract typhoid fever. Would he be entitled to draw sickness benefit either if he is, or if he is not, already drawing disablement benefit in respect of the accident which deprived him of his legs? For the latter point cf. s. 11 (1) (a); for the former cf. subs. (5) and note the word “relaters,” such a man has obviously not recovered from the loss of his legs. But the point is nowhere cleared up. There seems no conclusive reason why such a man should not be entitled to the full benefit in respect of the second illness, though he could not of course draw both benefits at the same time.

“Some specific disease.”—No technical meaning can be attached to this, it probably means some disease to which a recognised name can be given. A “specific disease” would no doubt be one cause of “bodily disablement”; but inability to work due to general debility or other cause which medical opinion cannot more precisely define, is no doubt intended to be included as “disablement.”

“Bodily or mental disablement.”—This includes accidents, but as to accidents where the right to compensation or damages already exists, see s. 11.

It also includes all forms of insanity, but as to cases confined in asylums, &c., see s. 12 infra.

“Of which notice has been given.”—The giving of notice is a condition precedent to the payment of benefit, but it may be given at any time before the claim, though societies which insist upon early notice will have a better opportunity of testing claims.

“Commencing on the fourth day of such incapacity.”—i.e., the insured person must have been incapacitated for three clear days before he will be entitled to benefit. Days when the illness may have been coming on, but he has continued to follow his usual occupation, will not count. On the other hand as notice may be given at any time before the claim for benefit it will be difficult to test the accuracy of the claimant's statement about the three days (subject to any medical report) except by inquiring whether he has actually absented himself from work.

Unless within the exception, Sunday must be reckoned as one of the waiting days, Wynne v. Ronaldson, 12 L.T. 711, and any rule of an Approved Society to the contrary will be void.

“And continuing.”—It cannot yet be regarded as definitely settled what is the effect of these words in cases where by the operation of the Fifth Schedule, or owing to suspension under the rules of a society or otherwise the commencement of benefit is deferred. It is submitted that whenever benefit commences it must continue for twenty-six weeks from that commencement, and in support of this it is urged that in s. 47 (4) (a), and in s. 47 (5) where provision is made for deferring the commencement of benefit, and the benefit is intended to continue for twenty weeks only an express provision is inserted that it shall “be deemed to have been paid for six weeks before, &c.” This provision would be unnecessary unless our contention is justified.

This section does not fix a terminus ad quem benefit shall run (to wit, six months from the commencement of the illness) but a period of benefit.

(e) Payment in the case of the confinement of the wife or, where the child is a posthumous child, of the widow of an insured person, or of any other woman who is an insured person, of a sum of thirty shillings (in this Act called "maternity benefit");

For further provisions relating to "maternity benefit," see the Fourth Schedule, Part II (6) under (f) and subss. (4), (6), (8) (d), ss. 10 (1), 12, 14, 18, 19, 20 and the Fourth Schedule, Part III under s. 44 (2) and Appendix V, Model Rules B 13, p. 872, and C 13 A, p. 894, infra.

"Confinement."—The word is left undefined in the Act, but in the Model Rules for approved societies issued by the Commissioners the following definition is given:—"For the purposes of these rules, confinement means labour resulting in the issue of a living child or labour after 28 weeks of pregnancy resulting in the issue of a child whether alive or dead." But whether or no this definition correctly interprets the Act, which, obviously, cannot be modified by rules made by Approved Societies, is a question which remains to be argued. Thus abortion or miscarriage before a viable age is excluded. See Appendix V, Model Rules B 13 (9), p. 873.

"In medical language the term abortion refers to the expulsion of a fetus or an embryo before the viable period, that is before the sixth month of gestation; the term miscarriage is used synonymously. Delivery after the sixth month but before full term is called premature labour. Under the term abortion, the law includes both these periods" (i.e., delivery at any period of gestation short of full term). (J. Dixon Mann's Forensic Medicine.)

"The wife . . . the widow . . . any other woman."—In any case benefit would be payable although the child is illegitimate, but in the case of a married woman, not herself insured, it could apparently only be obtained on the claim of the husband; see s. 18 (1) infra.

Where the husband is an insured person the wife must claim this benefit in the first place through his insurance, though insured herself. But if for any reason [i.e., under s. 8 (8) (b) or s. 10] the husband is not entitled to this benefit, by s. 14 (2) (a) of 1913, the wife may claim it from her own insurance; she cannot be deprived of it for any misconduct of his to which she was not a party [s. 14 (2) (f)].

"Posthumous child."—The normal duration of gestation being 280 days, the widow of an insured person, being confined within 280 days after her husband's death, could claim maternity benefit. The accepted maximum duration of gestation varies in different countries: "In France and Italy it is 300 days; in Germany a child born within 302 days after the death of the husband is regarded as legitimate; in Scotland a child born ten lunar months after the death of the husband is considered legitimate. In England and America no limit is fixed and consequently the opinion of experts is taken and the entire question is discussed at every trial into which the subject enters. The longest gestation yet allowed by the English courts was 301 days".

S. 8 (1) (Dixon Mann's Forensic Medicine.) The question would not, however, be of importance as far as the woman is concerned, where she is herself insured (as an employed contributor and a member of an approved society) or becomes so immediately after the husband's death (s. 44 infra).

As the definition of confinement given above excludes abortions or miscarriages before a viable age, no maternity benefit would be given to the widow of an insured person who had a miscarriage before the end of 28 weeks of pregnancy, nor of course would she be entitled to medical attendance unless she had herself become an insured person.

(f) In the case of persons entitled under this Part of this Act to any of the further benefits mentioned in Part II of the Fourth Schedule to this Act (in this Act called "additional benefits"); such of those benefits as they may be entitled to.

"Entitled."—See ss. 9 (2), 13, and especially 37, and cf. ss. 8 (9) 72 and 73 infra. The latter, however, have reference to additional benefits other than those here mentioned, though they may in fact be similar. Except in cases arising under s. 9 (2) only members of approved societies can become entitled to these additional benefits.

FOURTH SCHEDULE.

PART II.

Additional Benefits.

(1) Medical treatment and attendance for any person dependent upon the labour of a member.

"Medical treatment and attendance."—Not strictly "medical benefit," but as being "in the nature of medical benefits" to be administered by the Insurance Committee under s. 14 (1).

"Dependent."—See note to s. 2 (1) (b) and the definition in s. 79.

(2) The payment of the whole or any part of the cost of dental treatment.

See notes to subs. (1) (a) and to the last paragraph.

(3) An increase of sickness benefit or disablement benefit in the case either of all members of the society, or of such of them as have any children or any specified number of children wholly or in part dependent upon them.

"An increase."—For the ordinary rates see Part I of this S. 8 (1) Schedule under subs. (2) infra. (f)

"Children wholly or in part dependent."—i.e., in fact, not legally dependent; this refers to children up to the age of twenty-one, Howells v. Vivian, 85 L.T. 529; 18 L.R. 36; New Monkton Collieries, Ltd. v. Keeling (1911), A.C. 648 [see Thomasset v. Thomasset (1894), P. 295]. The words follow s. 13 of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, as to the interpretation of which see Main Colliery Co. v. Davies (1900) A.C. 358; Simmons v. White Brothers (1899), 1 Q.B. 1005, and other cases collected in Knocker's Digest, pp. 247 and seq. See also note to s. 2 (1) (b) supra.

(4) Payment of sickness benefit from the first, second, or third day after the commencement of the disease or disablement.

"First, second, or third day."—Instead of the fourth day, see subs. (1) (c) supra.

(5) The payment of a disablement allowance to members though not totally incapable of work.

See note to subs. (1) (d) supra.

(6) An increase of maternity benefit.

See subs. (1) (e) supra.

(7) Allowances to a member during convalescence from some disease or disablement in respect of which sickness benefit or disablement benefit has been payable.

i.e., when the member is no longer "totally incapable of work," but when it would be better for his health that he should not return to work without recuperation.

(8) The building or leasing of premises suitable for convalescent homes and the maintenance of such homes.

"Convalescent homes."—As distinct from sanatoria and other institutions for the treatment of actual disease [see note to subs. (1) (b) and s. 16].

(9) The payment of pensions or superannuation allowances whether by way of addition to old age pensions under the Old Age Pensions Act, 1908, or otherwise.

"Pension or superannuation allowance."—See subs. (7) and cf. s. 73 (2) infra. See Appendix II, 9, p. 590.

"Old Age Pensions Act, 1908."—i.e., 5s. a week or less; as to persons who are within this Act but excluded from the Old Age Pensions Act, 1908, see note to subs. (3) infra.

(10) The payment, subject to the prescribed conditions, of contributions to superannuation funds in which the members are interested.

See subs. (7), ss. 48 (7) (a) and 73 (2) infra, and Appendix I, 1, par. 15 (k), p. 452.

- s. 8 (1) (f) (11) Payments to members who are in want or distress, including the remission of arrears whenever such arrears may have become due.

Arrears.—See s. 10, and note that by s. 10 (6) a society may in any case remit any arrears which accrue during unemployment, and would otherwise have been payable by the employer.

(12) Payments for the personal use of a member who, by reason of being an inmate of a hospital or other institution, is not in receipt of sickness benefit or disablement benefit.

See s. 12 infra.

(13) Payments to members not allowed to attend work on account of infection.

i.e., where some infectious disease has broken out, either in the workshop, or in the member's own home or neighbourhood, and while not himself suffering from the disease (in which case he would be entitled to sickness benefit) he is prevented by his employer or under the Public Health Acts from going to work.

(14) Repayment of the whole or any part of contributions thereafter payable under Part I of this Act, by members of the society or any class thereof.

Contributions.—See s. 4 (1) and the Second Schedule supra.

Thereafter.—A member of an approved society cannot in any case [though a deposit contributor may, see s. 42 (g)], obtain a refund of past contributions. Cf. s. 72 (1) (c).

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, the rates of sickness benefit and disablement benefit to which insured persons are entitled shall be the rates specified in Part I of the Fourth Schedule to this Act.

The provisions.—See note to subs. (1) (c), (d) supra.

FOURTH SCHEDULE.

BENEFITS UNDER PART I OF THIS ACT RELATING TO HEALTH INSURANCE.

PART I.

Rates of Benefits.

Sickness benefit: for men, the sum of 10s. a week throughout the whole period of 26 weeks; for women, the sum of 7s. 6d. a week throughout the whole period of 26 weeks.

Disablement benefit: the sum of 5s. a week for men and women alike. S. 8 (2)

For Table B see note to s. 9 (1), and for Table D s. 44 (2), infra.
Table C is now repealed.

(3) In the case of insured persons who have attained the age of seventy the right to sickness benefit and disablement benefit shall cease.

"Sickness benefit and disablement benefit."—But the right to medical and sanatorium benefit continues throughout life, and the young wife of an insured person over 70 years old may receive maternity benefit. Provision will have to be made for these out of contributions paid before the age of 70 [ss. 4 (3) and 5 (2)].

"Seventy."—When Old Age Pensions become payable under the Old Age Pensions Acts, 1908 and 1911 [s. 2 (1) of the Act of 1908]; the following classes of persons are, however, excluded from the benefits of those Acts. All of these persons may, subject to various conditions, have been either "employed" or "voluntary" contributors under this Act:—

(1) Aliens. See ss. 2 (2) of the Act of 1908, 3 (1) of that of 1911, and 1 (2) and 45 of this Act. As regards female British subjects becoming aliens by marriage, see s. 45 (3).

(2) British subjects who have not had their residence in the United Kingdom for twelve out of the last twenty years before claiming the pension. See ss. 2 (2) of the Act of 1908, (3) 2 of that of 1911, and ss. 1 (2), 8 (4), 32 and 33 of this Act.

(3) Persons in receipt of incomes exceeding £31 10s. a year. See ss. 2 (3) and 4 of the Act of 1908, 2 of that of 1911, and s. 1 (3) and the First Schedule, Part II (g) of this Act.

(4) Lunatics in asylums. See s. 3 (1) (c) of the Act of 1908, and s. 12 of this Act.

(5) Persons who have habitually failed to make sufficient provision for the maintenance of themselves and those dependent on them. See s. 3 (1) (b) of the Act of 1908. It should be specially noticed that insurance under this Act would not of itself be sufficient "provision" to prevent a person from being disqualified for this reason for an Old Age Pension, because the "provision" mentioned in Regulation 30 made under that Act is sickness benefit of not less than 12s. a week.

(6) Persons imprisoned without the option of a fine, disqualified for two years after release from prison under s. 4 (2) of the Act of 1911.

(7) "Inebriates" over 60 detained under the Inebriates Act, 1898, if the Court so directs. See s. 3 (3) of the Act of 1908 and s. 4 (3) of that of 1911.

(8) Persons actually in receipt of Poor Relief. See s. 3 (1) (d) of the Act of 1908, s. 4 (1) of that of 1911, and cf. s. 109 of this Act.

(4) No insured person shall be entitled to any benefit during any period when he is resident either temporarily or permanently outside the United Kingdom.

s. 8 (4) "Resident either temporarily or permanently."—This apparently excludes the ordinary legal meaning of "resident" [see note to the First Schedule, Part I (b)], and means "physically present for however short a time." It would include the case of a person retaining his home in the United Kingdom but going abroad for a short period, whether for the purposes of trade, pleasure, or health. [Contrast the Old Age Pension Act 1911, s. 3 (2).] But although the sickness or disablement may arise abroad, the insured person can establish his title to benefits by returning to this country.

Difficulties may possibly arise with regard to insured persons other than seamen while on sea voyages. It is very doubtful whether a person can be said to "reside," even temporarily, on a ship; but whether this is so or not, it seems clear that a ship on the high seas, or even in foreign territorial waters (R. v. Carr and Wilson, 10 Q.B.D. 76), provided she does not go into a river beyond the ebb and flow of the tide, is legally a part of the country to which she belongs (generally where she is registered). See Marshall v. Murgatroyd (L.R. 6 Q.B. 31.) Persons born on such a ship are legally settled in the parish of Stepney. As soon, however, as such a person goes ashore the subs. will apply. But for the purposes of this Act persons on a British ship on the High Seas are not employed in the United Kingdom, though if members of the crew they will be within the Act. See note on "in the United Kingdom," First Schedule par. (4) under s. 1 supra. Moreover, neither compulsory nor voluntary insurance, except in the case of seamen [s. 48 (3) infra], is confined under this Act to British subjects or to residents in the United Kingdom. Persons, wherever resident, employed in the United Kingdom are by the First Schedule, Part I, compelled to become contributors. They will, however, lose their title to benefits if they return to reside at their homes or other places outside the United Kingdom.

If, however, they cease permanently to reside here they may in common with British subjects, under certain circumstances, take their transfer value, if members of approved societies, with them (ss. 31-33), or if deposit contributors recover a portion of their contributions [s. 42 (e)].

For the special position of men serving in the military or naval forces of the Crown, see s. 46 (4) (iii), and of seamen, s. 48 (12).

Provided that, if a person is temporarily resident in the Isle of Man or the Channel Islands, he shall not, whilst so resident, be disentitled to benefits other than medical benefit, and that, if with the consent of the society or committee by which the benefit is administered a person is temporarily resident outside the United Kingdom elsewhere than in the Isle of Man or the Channel Islands, the society or committee may allow him, whilst so resident, to continue to receive sickness or disablement benefit, and that a person resident out of the United Kingdom shall not be disentitled to maternity benefit in respect of the confinement of his wife, if his wife at the time of her confinement is resident in the United Kingdom. S. 8 (4)

"Other than medical benefit."—This refusal of medical benefit to persons temporarily resident in the Isle of Man or the Channel Islands is simply owing to the difficulty which the local insurance committees would have in making the arrangements prescribed by s. 15 (1) with medical practitioners in these places. But a person usually resident in London, for example, would retain his right to medical benefit while temporarily resident in Manchester, and the arrangements have been made by the Insurance Commissioners to provide for such cases of temporary transfer. Although the disqualification is here confined to persons outside the United Kingdom, it appears from s. 81 (9) that an insured person, although ordinarily resident in Great Britain, will not be entitled to medical benefit while in Ireland.

"If with the consent . . . disablement benefit."—The use of the word "continue" confines the operation of these words to cases in which the right to sickness benefit arose in the United Kingdom, Isle of Man, or Channel Islands, though the consent of the society or committee may apparently be obtained before or after going abroad. For illnesses contracted abroad no benefit can be obtained without returning home.

"A person resident out of the United Kingdom."—It is a little difficult to know to what class of persons this section extends the benefit s. 8 (4) is really a restrictive section, limiting the benefits of persons who are entitled under s. 8 (1). It does not give a benefit to any person who has no such right—that is to one who is not an insured person. But prima facie a Statute is territorial in its application unless the contrary intention appears. Prima facie, therefore, a person outside the United Kingdom is not an insured person at all. Yet the section contemplates that under certain circumstances he shall have benefits. It is submitted that the true interpretation is that the Act extends to persons whose normal occupation is employment in the United Kingdom, who are abroad temporarily or sub-permanently, but that the words "a person resident" must be read in the light of the fact that a man who has emigrated or abandoned any intention of returning to the United Kingdom cannot be an insured person at all.

"Disentitled . . . of his wife."—See s. 18 (1). Conversely, there is nothing to disentitle him to maternity benefit, wherever the wife may be, if he is at the time resident in the United Kingdom, Isle of Man, or Channel Islands.

The position of an alien with a wife abroad has not yet been seriously considered. It is clear that if confinements in a country where polygamy is practised be recognised, an alien with twelve

S. 8 (4) wives would be a severe strain upon the resources of his society. Presumably, however, the Courts will refuse to recognise a polygamous marriage for this as for other purposes. (In re Bethell, 38 Ch. D. 220).

(5) Where an insured person, having been in receipt of sickness benefit, recovers from the disease or disablement in respect of which he receives such benefit, any subsequent disease or disablement, or a recurrence of the same disease or disablement, shall be deemed to be a continuation of the previous disease or disablement, unless in the meanwhile a period of at least twelve months has elapsed. (The provision as to fifty weekly contributions is repealed as from Oct. 13th, 1913, by the Act of 1913).

Where by virtue of subsection (1) of section eleven of this Act a part only of sickness benefit has been paid to an insured person, he shall for the purposes of this subsection be treated as having been in receipt of sickness benefit for a period bearing the same proportion to the whole period in respect of which such part benefit was paid to him as that part bears to the whole benefit, and the period so resulting shall be deemed to have been continuous and to have expired on the last day of the incapacity in respect of which the partial benefit was paid.

The words in italics are added by s. 12 (2) of 1913, and come into force on Oct. 13th, 1913.

"Having been in receipt of sickness benefit."—The subsection will apply, although at the time of recovery he has ceased to receive sickness, but is receiving disablement benefit.

"Any subsequent disease or disablement."—Even if it is of quite a different nature and arises from an ascertainable new cause. Contrast with this s. 47 (5) and (6) infra, and see note to subs. (1) (d).

"Months."—See note to s. 5 (1) (a) supra, but in this case the last day of the first illness and the first day of the second must be excluded. (In re Railway Sleepers Supply Co., 29 Ch. D. 204).

(6) Where a woman confined of a child is herself an insured person, and is a married woman, or, if the child is a posthumous child, a widow, she shall be entitled to sickness benefit or disablement benefit (as the case may be) in respect of her confinement in addition to the maternity benefit to which she or her husband may be entitled, but, save as aforesaid, a woman shall not be entitled to sickness benefit or disablement benefit for a period of four weeks after her confinement, unless suffering from disease or disablement not connected directly or indirectly with her confinement. s. 8(6)

But see s. 14 (3) of 1913, infra, which practically supersedes this subsection.

"And is a married woman . . . a widow."—Whether or not her husband is or was himself an insured person. If he was not, she actually derives both benefits at the same time from her own insurance.

"Posthumous child."—See note to subs. (1) (e) supra.

"She shall be entitled . . . (as the case may be)."—See, however, the Fourth Schedule, Part I, Table D, under s. 44 (2) infra, from which it appears that a married woman who is a voluntary contributor at the reduced rates provided in that section will not, in spite of these words, be entitled to sickness or disablement benefit for two weeks before or four weeks after her confinement, and, unless her husband is insured, will not be entitled to maternity benefit either [s. 44 (1)]. This subs. only applies, therefore, to a married woman if she is herself an employed contributor, though a woman who was insured before marriage, but is not a contributor at all after marriage, will be entitled to a special payment of 5s. a week for not more than four weeks after confinement, in addition to maternity benefit if her husband is insured [the Fourth Schedule, Part III, under s. 44 (2)].

"Shall not be entitled . . . after her confinement."—The question whether confinement is included in "illness" was considered by Channell, J., in Davies v. Ebbw Vale U.D.C. (27 T.L.R. 543). He appears to have been of opinion that it is, for he said: "Pregnancy in itself was not illness; it was a natural condition, but a physical condition which was properly described . . . as 'an approaching illness.' If that approaching illness had been expected during the next week he thought he should be prepared to say that the plaintiff's absence was absence reasonably occasioned by the approaching illness." Although, however, pregnancy is not necessarily an illness, it may be, and a woman who is herself insured will clearly be entitled to sickness or disablement benefit if rendered incapable of work by any incident or complication of pregnancy. [See R. v. Wellings (3 Q.B.D. 426) and cases there cited.]

It is submitted that "confinement" means the period from the commencement of labour up to delivery.

S. 8 (6) "Disease or . . . confinement."—In spite of any regulations disputes will often arise owing to the frequent impossibility of deciding whether a particular illness (such as pleurisy commencing say three weeks after confinement) is or is not due indirectly to confinement. No rules can be laid down and medical opinions will often differ.

14. (3) Where a woman confined of a child is herself an insured person and is a married woman or, if the child is a posthumous child, a widow, she shall, in lieu of any sickness or disablement benefit to which she may be entitled under subsection (6) of section eight of the principal Act, be entitled to receive a maternity benefit from the society of which she is a member or the insurance committee, as the case may be, in addition to any maternity benefit to which she may be otherwise entitled in respect of her husband's or her own insurance, and every approved society and insurance committee shall make rules to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners requiring any woman in respect of whom any such sum is payable in respect of her own insurance to abstain from remunerative work during a period of four weeks after her confinement. (In force Jan. 12th, 1914.)

This new section allows the whole of the maternity risk of a woman's society to be covered by re-insurance under s. 20 infra.

Medical benefit shall not include any right to medical treatment or attendance in respect of a confinement.

"Medical benefit . . . confinement."—This makes it clear that medical attendance and treatment at a confinement, that is, at the actual delivery of the child, cannot be claimed as part of medical benefit from the practitioner on whose list an insured woman is [s. 15 (2) (c)], though perhaps medicines and appliances may [see note to subs. (1) (a)]. In other words, medical attendance at delivery, after 28 weeks of pregnancy [see note to subs. (1) (e)], must be paid for separately. But it is not clear what time must elapse after delivery before the insured woman is again entitled to medical benefit. Of course, if the woman herself is not insured either as an employed contributor or a voluntary contributor at reduced rates [s. 44 (2)] she cannot in any case claim medical benefit, unless the husband's society has been able to declare the additional benefit mentioned in the Fourth Schedule, Part II (1) [see under subs. (1) (f) supra.] It is submitted that attendance in puerperal fever supervening after a confinement is not attendance in respect of a confinement. S. 8 (6)

(7) Where a pension or superannuation allowance is payable by an approved society in whole or in part as an additional benefit under this Part of this Act, or out of any fund to which contributions have been made in accordance with paragraph (10) of Part I of the Fourth Schedule to this Act, it may be made a condition of the grant of the pension or allowance that a member of the society shall, whilst in receipt of such pension or allowance, be excluded in whole or in part from his right to sickness benefit and disablement benefit, or to either of such benefits.

• “Any fund.”—Ib. (10), cf. also ss. 25 and 73 infra.

• “Be excluded . . . disablement benefit.”—Cf. ss. 9 (2) and 13 infra.

(8) Notwithstanding anything in this Part of this Act, no insured person shall be entitled—

(a) to medical benefit during the first six months after the commencement of this Act ;

Provided that a person who is of the age of sixty-five or upwards at the time of entering into insurance shall not be entitled to medical benefit after he attains the age of seventy unless the number of weekly contributions paid by or in respect of him exceeds twenty-six. (In force Jan. 12th, 1914.)

“The commencement.”—See s. 115 infra, and note that after this time there will be no waiting period for medical benefit as there will be for sickness, disablement, and maternity benefits, i.e., persons (even voluntary contributors) will be entitled to medical benefit immediately on entry into insurance.

Note also that there is no waiting period whatever provided for sanatorium benefit.

- s. 8 (8)
 (b) to sickness benefit unless and until twenty-six weeks have elapsed since his entry into insurance, and at least twenty-six weekly contributions have been paid by or in respect of him ;
 (c) to disablement benefit unless and until one hundred and four weeks have elapsed since his entry into insurance, and at least one hundred and four weekly contributions have been paid by or in respect of him ;

But, as soon as the period has elapsed and the contributions have been paid, an insured person will be entitled to sickness and disablement benefit in respect of a disease or disablement which began after his entry into insurance, but before the twenty-six (or one hundred and four) weeks had elapsed, and even — if he was able to satisfy the qualifications for insurance, i.e., was in employment [s. 1 (2)] or engaged in some regular occupation [s. 1 (3) (a)] — in respect of a disease the seeds of which were in him before entry. He will not, however, be able to take advantage of s. 10 (4) (a) or (c), but must actually pay the contributions.

The Commissioners have advised Approved Societies that for the purpose of qualifying for benefit an insured person may pay contributions notwithstanding disablement, but the question has not been considered by a court of law.

- (d) to maternity benefit unless and until twenty-six, or in the case of a voluntary contributor fifty-two weeks have elapsed since his entry into insurance, and at least twenty-six, or in the case of a voluntary contributor fifty-two weekly contributions have been paid by or in respect of him.

(9) As soon as the sums credited to approved societies as reserve values in respect of persons who enter into insurance within one year after the commencement of this Act have been written off in manner provided by this Part of this Act, the benefits payable to insured persons under this Part of this Act shall be extended in such manner S. 8 (9) as Parliament may determine.

"Credited . . . reserve values."—S. 55 (2) infra. Note, however, that there is nothing in that subsec. to confine its operation to persons who enter into insurance within one year after the commencement of this Act, and there may well be cases [see e.g. ss. 5 (1), 9 (4) and 44 (9)] which may require s. 55 to remain indefinitely in operation. That is not, however, to delay the operation of this subsection.

"Written off."—See s. 55 (4). The estimated period is about eighteen years.

"Extended."—This is something beyond the additional benefits [subs. (1) (f) supra] which may be given by a society or branch with a surplus (s. 37) after any triennial valuation, or, as alternatives to sickness and disablement benefit (s. 13), at once.

9.—(1) In the case of insured persons who are under the age of twenty-one years and unmarried, sickness benefit and disablement benefit shall be at the reduced rates specified in Table B, in Part I of the Fourth Schedule to this Act: Reduced rates of benefit in certain cases.

Provided that where any such person being a member of an approved society, proves that one or more members of his family are wholly or mainly dependent upon him, the society shall dispense with such reduction.

"Under the age of twenty-one."—For the method of computing age, see s. 79 infra. The rates will be raised to the full Table A rates if the insured person acquires any of the three qualifications mentioned in this subs. while in receipt of benefit. Existing members of approved societies who treat their contributions under the Act as part of their present contributions will not in general be subject to any of the restrictions of this section or to the waiting periods mentioned in s. 8 (8). See s. 72.

Sickness benefit—for males, the sum of 6s. a week during the first thirteen weeks, and the sum of 5s. a week during the second thirteen weeks.
for females, the sum of 5s. a week for the first thirteen weeks, and the sum of 4s. a week for the second thirteen weeks.

Disablement Benefit—for females, the sum of 4s. a week.

"Dependent."—See note to s. 2 (1) (b) supra.

- S. 9 (2)* (2) Where in the case of any insured persons the rate of sickness benefit or disablement benefit (as the case may be) exceeds two-thirds of the usual rate of wages or other remuneration earned by such persons, the rate of such benefit may be reduced to such an extent as the society or committee administering the benefit, with the consent of the Insurance Commissioners, determines; but, where such reduction is made, provision shall be made by the society or committee, with the like consent for the grant of one or more additional benefits of a value equivalent to such reduction.

"Exceeds two-thirds of the usual rate of wages or other remuneration."—See notes to the Second Schedule under s. 4 (1) supra.

"Reduced."—It is not quite clear whether this may be done, either generally, or in the case of particular persons when the benefit is actually due, although the member had no notice of such intended reduction when he joined the society or became a deposit contributor. The use of the words "any insured persons" instead of "person" rather points to the view that the reduction must be general; even so, there is nothing to make it inapplicable to those who were members before it was made; if it is made by amendment of rule (see the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, s. 13) by a society which has in its original rules power to make amendments, it will be binding on all members (Smith v. Galloway, 1898, 1 Q.B. 71 Burke v. Amalgamated Society of Dyers, 1906, 2 K.B. 583). See Appendix I. 1, par. 16 (a), p. 452.

"Society or committee . . . additional benefits."—i.e., the benefits referred to in s. 8 (1) (f) and the Fourth Schedule, Part II. There is no other provision authorising a committee (i.e., Insurance Committee, see ss. 42 and 59 infra) to grant such benefits. In the case of societies cf. s. 13.

- (3) Repealed by the Act of 1913, as from Oct. 13th, 1913.

- (4) In the case of every person who, not having been previously insured under this Part of this Act, becomes an employed contributor subsequently to the expiration of sixty-five weeks from the commencement of this Act, and is, at the time of so becoming an employed contributor, of the age of seventeen or upwards, the rate of sickness benefit to which he is entitled shall (unless he s. 9 (4). proves that his time since he attained the age of seventeen has been spent in a school or college, in indentured apprenticeship or otherwise under instruction without wages, or otherwise in the completion of his education, or unless he undertakes himself to pay the difference between the voluntary rate and the employed rate, or pays to the Insurance Commissioners, to be credited to the society, such capital sum as will be sufficient to secure him benefits at the full rate) be such reduced rate as may be fixed in accordance with tables to be prepared by the Insurance Commissioners, but not in any case less than five shillings a week :

"Previously insured."—Whether as an "employed" or "voluntary" contributor [see, however, s. 6 (1)]; it is rather doubtful what is the position of a person who, having been employed within the meaning of the Act, has had no contributions paid on his behalf owing to the default (with or without his own concurrence) of his employer ; see ss. 1 (1) and 70 (1). See also s. 46 (4) (i) for another exception to this rule.

"The expiration of one year."—See notes to ss. 5 (1) (a) supra ; in this case "year" must mean twelve calendar months.

"The commencement of this Act."—July 15th, 1912.

"Seventeen or upwards."—See s. 79 infra.

"His time . . . has been spent in a school or college."—This is doubtless not intended to be confined to boarders in such institutions, but it is not clear in the case of attendance by non-boarders what amount of time must be so spent, e.g., whether attendance at evening continuation classes would be sufficient.

"Apprenticeship . . . without wages."—This is specially excepted from the employments in the First Schedule, Part I (a) under s. 1 (2) supra.

"Undertakes."—If he fails to keep such an undertaking he will be in arrears, s. 10. See Appendix I, 1, par. 13 (c), p. 449.

"The difference between the voluntary rate and the employed rate."—See ss. 4 (1), 5 (1) and 6 supra.

"Such reduced rates."—See the note to s. 5 (1) supra, "the rate appropriate to their age" ; the same remarks apply, mutatis mutandis, to contributors affected by this sub-section, who will also contribute to reserve values, and may or may not get the benefit of them.

Provided that if at any time subsequently such

- s. 9 (4) person would become entitled to sickness benefit at a higher rate if he were treated as having become an employed contributor as from the time when he attained the age of seventeen, or as from the expiration of one year after the commencement of this Act, whichever date may be the later, and as being in arrear for all contributions which had he become an employed contributor at that date, would have been payable in respect of him between that date and the date when he actually became an employed contributor, he shall, if he so elects, be entitled to be so treated.

See s. 10 (2) and the Fifth Schedule infra.

The effect of this may be shown by an example :

A is seventeen on August 1st, 1912 ; he becomes an employed contributor on October 1st, 1913 ; he may be treated as being then in arrear from July 15th, 1913, i.e., eleven weeks ; he becomes entitled to sickness benefit on July 15th, 1915 ; he is five weeks on the average in arrear since the date when he ought to have entered into insurance (disregarding parts of a week) ; his rate of sickness benefit (see the Fifth Schedule) is 9s. a week ; he is entitled to elect whether he will be paid at the rate specified in the tables to be prepared by the Insurance Commissioners under this subs.

If he does not attain the age of seventeen until after July 15th, 1913, he may elect to be treated as being in arrear from his seventeenth birthday.

The value of this right of election to the insured person depends of course upon the relation between the amount of arrears, as so calculated, and the periods between the dates when he should have entered into insurance and when he becomes entitled to benefit. Towards the end of his life these arrears would be negligible, because they would be spread over so long a period.

It remains to be seen, however, how far the Commissioners under s. 8 of 1913 will modify the provisions as to arrears.

Reduced rates of
where contribu-
in arrear.

10.--(1) *Where an insured person being a member of an approved society is in arrear to an amount greater than thirteen weekly contributions a year on the average since his entry into insurance, his right to benefits under this Part of this Act other than medical benefit, sanatorium benefit, and maternity benefit shall be suspended, and, where he is in arrears to an amount greater than twenty-six weekly contributions a year on the average since his entry into insurance, his right to medical benefit, sanatorium benefit, and maternity benefit shall be suspended, and at the expiration of the calendar year next after the date when he becomes suspended from all benefits any sums credited to the society in respect of him, calculated in the prescribed manner, shall, if his right to benefits still continues to be suspended, be carried to such account and dealt with in such manner as may be prescribed for the benefit (except so far as such sums comprise sums in respect of a reserve value) of the society or any other society to which such person may subsequently be transferred :

* 8. Subject to the provisions of subsection (4) of section ten of the principal Act insured persons who are in arrear shall be liable to such reduction, postponement or suspension of benefits as may be prescribed so, however, that any such reduction, postponement or suspension of benefit shall be approximately equivalent to the value of the loss occasioned by the failure to pay the contributions in arrear, and the provisions of the principal Act regulating the reduction, postponement and suspension of benefits on account of arrears shall cease to have effect, and the regulations of the Insurance Commissioners may prescribe the time within which, and the conditions under which, arrears may be paid up. (Operative on Jan. 12, 1914.)

* This section in effect, though not expressly, repeals subss. (1), (2), (3) and (5) of the principal Act. And the order recently made under s. 78, abolishes immediately all penalties for arrears.

"In arrear . . . on the average."—As to the mode of calculation, see subs. (7) infra, but it appears from the Fifth Schedule (see next subs.), that parts of a week are to be ignored. See Appendix 11—11, p. 594.

S. 10 (1) — "Entry into insurance."—This will presumably date from the payment of the first contribution, but in the case of an employed contributor it might date from the first day of the week or other period in respect of which the contribution is paid.

"Suspended."—But "the suspension of a member of an approved society from benefits under this Part of this Act shall not be deemed to deprive the member of his membership . . . for the purposes of this Part of this Act." (s. 79.). See note to s. 1 (1), at p. 120 supra.

"At the expiration of the calendar year."—i.e., the period of grace is from the date when his arrears reach the level above stated until the following December 31st, and twelve months beyond that.

"Credited."—See ss. 55 (4) and 56 (1) infra.

"Reserve value."—See s. 55, apparently such sums are to be written off the reserve values so credited.

*Provided that, if at any time after suspension from any such benefits he becomes employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act, he shall be entitled to those benefits at such rate, after the lapse of such time and after the payment of such number of contributions, as would have been applicable to his case had he not previously been an insured person, but, if he so elects at any time, the benefits to which he is entitled shall be such as he would be entitled to, were the period from the time of his original entry into insurance taken as a whole.

"Such rate."—See s. 9 (4), to which this proviso is a corollary.

"The lapse . . . contributions."—See s. 8 (8) (b) (c) (d).

"Were the period . . . taken as a whole," i.e., apparently, counting as arrears not only those which had accumulated before his suspension, but the whole period between that suspension and his again becoming "employed."

(2)* Where an employed contributor claiming sickness benefit is at the date of such claim in arrears, but the arrears are less than as aforesaid, then the rate of sickness benefit shall be reduced to a sum not less than five shillings a week, or the time when sickness benefit commences deferred, proportionately to the amount of arrears in accordance with the table in the Fifth Schedule to this Act.

This arrangement with regard to arrears differs from that of most existing friendly societies (which take no account of length of membership) in that it is based upon a sliding scale, so that the longer a member has been insured the longer he can go (in case of unemployment or otherwise) without paying contributions or suffering either reduction or suspension of benefits. A man who has contributed regularly since the age of 16, if he retires on a pension or otherwise at 58, might remain in full benefit for the rest of his life without further payment. This is, however, subject to the definition of "temporary unemployment" in s. 79, from which it appears that after twelve months a member is no longer to be treated as an employed contributor, unless he satisfies the society "that his unemployment is due to inability to obtain employment, and is not due to any change in his normal occupation." His arrears would then be calculated in accordance with rules to be made under subs. (3). On the other hand, an employed contributor cannot, while he remains employed, fall into arrears except by default of his employer.

Notes.

Where the insured person is by virtue of any of the provisions of Part I of this Act, other than those relating to arrears, entitled to sickness benefit at a rate lower than the full rate, this Table shall have effect as if the entries in the first column were so shifted down that the first entry therein was set opposite the entry in the second column, next below the entry specifying the rate of sickness benefit to which the insured person is entitled.

When the rate of sickness benefit during the first thirteen weeks to which the insured person is entitled is, by virtue of any of the provisions of this Act, other than those relating to arrears, less than 5s. a week, this Table shall have effect as if such lower rate were therein substituted for the rate of 5s. a week.

"Any of the provisions."—See ss. 5 (2), 9, 11 (1) (a), 13 (1), 14 (2), 58 (1) (b) (ii), 45 (2) and the Fourth Schedule, Part I, Tables B and C supra. The entries in the second column, which postpone the commencement of benefit, are applicable only to such cases.

"During the first thirteen weeks . . . less than 5s. a week."—There is no such case, unless it might arise under s. 9 (2) or s. 13, or in the case of aliens (s. 45).

The effect of this Table is that where an employed contributor is in arrear for more than three weeks on the average for every year since his entry into insurance, the rate of sickness benefit shall be reduced by 6*d.* for men, and 3*d.* for women, a week for every complete additional week for which he is so in arrear, until it is reduced to 5s. a week, and thereafter the commencement of benefit shall be postponed by one day for every such week of arrears.

(3)* Where a voluntary contributor is in arrears he shall be liable to such proportionate reduction of benefits as may be prescribed.

This subsection is in effect repealed by s. 8 of the Act of 1913, q.v. supra, sub. s. 10 (1).

This does not, however, affect the conditions on which his benefits may be completely suspended. These are the same for both employed and voluntary contributors [subs. (1) supra]. See Appendix I—1 par. 6 (b) p. 445.

(4) In calculating arrears of contributions, no account shall be taken of any arrears accruing—

(a) during any period when the person in question has been, or but for this section or any other provision of the Act dissenting a person to such benefit would have been, in receipt of sickness benefit or disablement benefit or See s. 8 (1) (c) (d); this allows far more latitude than the existing practice of Friendly Societies.

"Any other provision . . . such benefit."—See ss. 8 (3), (4), (6), (7), (8) (b), (c), 11, 12, 13 (1), 14 (2), 44 (1), 46 (2) (ii), 47 (4) (a), (5), (6), 48 (1); see however note to s. 8 (8) (b) supra.

Although contributions unpaid during receipt of benefit are not accounted as arrears, there is nothing in the Act to prevent an insured person keeping up such contributions if he desires to do so for the purpose of qualifying for disablement benefit under s. 8 (8) (c), but an employer is under no obligation to contribute under such circumstances [Third Schedule, (1)].

(b) in the case of a woman who, being an insured person, is herself entitled to maternity benefit, during two weeks before and four weeks after her delivery, or in the case of maternity benefit payable in respect of the posthumous child of an insured person, during the period subsequent to the father's death; or

Cf. s. 8 (6) supra, where however no reference is made to the two weeks preceding delivery.

(c) in the case of an employed contributor during the first twelve months after the commencement of this Act;

"The commencement."—July 15th, 1912, subject to s. 115 infra. See note to s. 5 (1) (a).

The employer is not, of course, absolved from his liabilities under s. 4.

but, save as aforesaid, contributions shall be deemed to be payable in respect of every week from the date of entry into insurance.

"Deemed to be payable."—This does not however impose any enforceable liability upon an employed contributor to pay while unemployed.

s. 10 (5) (5)* Where an insured person has paid any arrears of contributions payable by or in respect of him which accrued during the calendar year current at the date of payment and the previous calendar year, he shall be treated for the purposes of this section as if the arrears so paid had never become due :

Arrears which accrued due at any earlier date can apparently never be paid off. There is no reason to suppose that this subsection, any more than the rest of the section, applies to deposit contributors (s. 42), so as to enable them to pay up arrears. They are, of course, not subject to any reduction of benefits on account of them.

Provided that if such person is at the date of payment or subsequently within one month thereafter becomes incapable of work by reason of disease or disablement, he shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be still in arrear in respect of the amount so paid until after the expiration of one month from the date of such payment.

Arrears of
butions.

7.—(1) Where an employed contributor who is a member of an approved society pays to the society such part of any arrears which have accrued due by or in respect of him during any period of unemployment as would have been payable otherwise than by the employer had he continued in employment, the part which would have been so payable by the employer shall be excused, and the amount of the member's arrears shall be reduced accordingly.

For the purpose of calculating the parts which would have been payable by the employer and otherwise than by an employer had an employed contributor continued in employment, the rate of his remuneration shall be deemed to exceed two shillings and sixpence a working day, unless he S. 7 (1), proves to the satisfaction of the society that his usual rate of remuneration was two shillings and sixpence a working day or less, in which case his rate of remuneration shall be deemed to be such usual rate.

(2) Where in any year a society, or in the case of a society with branches a branch of a society, proves to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners that the total number of weekly contributions which accrued due as arrears during the preceding year in respect of all its members who were employed contributors exceeded the standard number (that is to say three weekly contributions for every such member) then, for the purpose of recouping to the society the loss it will suffer, there shall be paid to the society, or to the society on behalf of the branch, as the case may be, out of the sums retained by the Insurance Commissioners for discharging their liabilities in respect of reserve values, the prescribed amount for every week by which the standard was so exceeded, but not exceeding the total amount so excused as aforesaid:

Provided that if the aggregate amount so payable in any year exceeds one hundred thousand pounds the excess shall be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament.

(3) The Insurance Commissioners may make regulations for carrying this section into effect.

(7) The average amount of arrears for the purposes of this section shall be calculated in such manner as the Insurance Commissioners may prescribe.

S. 10 (7) In particular the method of calculating arrears unpaid, where part — has been excused under the last subs., and cases where the amount is a lump sum [e.g., under ss. 6 (3), (4), and 38 (1) (d)]. See Appendix II—II, p. 594.

Provisions in the case of contributors entitled to compensation or damages.

11.—(1) Where an insured person has received or recovered or is entitled to receive or recover, whether from his employer or any other person, any compensation or damages under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, or any scheme certified thereunder, or under the Employers' Liability Act, 1880, or at common law, in respect of any injury or disease, the following provisions shall apply:—

“Received or recovered.”—A workman has “recovered compensation” under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, s. 6 (2), if the payment was made voluntarily by the employer without threat of proceedings, but with a view to his liability under the Act (Nettlingham & Co. Ltd. v. Powell & Co., 108 L.T. 219). See judgment of Phillimore, J., at p. 223.

“Any scheme.”—See s. 3 of that Act.

“Common Law.”—e.g., negligence of the employer personally, or of any other person and his servants, breach of warranty in the sale of food, etc., assault, letting a house unfit for human habitation, etc.; see notes to s. 63 (1), (4) infra. This does not apply where the right to recover is given directly by any statute other than the two mentioned; e.g., the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, s. 70. But a right of action founded on a breach of statutory duty is a common law right unless the remedy also is given by Statute.

Compensation recoverable under a contract is clearly not covered by the words “at common law,” for the only contractual right recognised is that given by a scheme certified under the Workmen's Compensation Act. Therefore the fact that an employer under an agreement made with the man or the man's union, or voluntarily, has made some payment to the man; or the fact that he is entitled to sick pay from a friendly society or company does not bar his right to benefit.

(a) No sickness benefit or disablement benefit shall be paid to such person in respect of that injury or disease in any case where any weekly sum or the weekly value of any lump sum paid or payable by way of compensation or damages is equal to or greater than the benefit otherwise payable to such person, and, where any such weekly sum or the weekly value of any such lump sum is less than the benefit in question, such part only of the benefit shall be paid as, together with the weekly sum or the weekly value of the lump sum, will be equal to the benefit : S. 11 (1)

"No sickness benefit or disablement benefit."—The section does not apply to medical benefit, even where the expenses of medical attendance are recoverable as special damage, as they would generally be at Common Law or under the Employers' Liability Act, 1880, or under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, First Schedule (1) (a) (iii); although the fact that the insured person receives medical attendance free of charge under this Act may prevent his recovering the cost from the person otherwise liable.

But see on this point, and generally as to the effect of insurance upon a claim for damages, the judgment of Bramwell B. in Bradburn v. Great Western Railway Company, L.R. 10 Ex. 1; see also the Scottish case of Morison v. Bartolomeo, 5 Macpherson, 848; and as to the rights of the Insurance Committee, if it has been put to expense, see Simpson v. Thomson, 3 A.C., 279, 284.

The arrangements with medical practitioners under s. 15 will have to include [within the limits suggested under s. 8 (1) (a)] attendance and treatment in cases of accident. But a doctor, other than the one to whom the insured person is assigned, who attends him in an emergency, will have to recover his fee independently from the insured person, or from the Guardians under 11 & 12 Vict., c. 110, s. 2. See also notes to s. 8 (1) (c) as to sickness benefit in any subsequent illness.

"In respect of that injury or disease."—Compensation in respect of partial incapacity under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, continues payable although a new accident or disease supervening totally incapacitates the workman (Harwood v. Wykes, 108 L.T. 283).

"Weekly sum."—Not including food and similar benefits.

"Paid or payable."—This must mean under a judgment, agreement, or award, and cannot refer to a mere right to unascertained compensation or damages. Where such a right exists, or is thought to exist, the benefit may be withheld under s. 11 (2) (b); but the paragraph above will not apply until the compensation is ascertained.

"Part only of the benefit."—As to the effect of such payment in exhausting the right to sickness benefit, see s. 12 (2) of the Act of 1913, under s. 8 (5) supra.

(b) The weekly value of any such lump sum as aforesaid may be determined by the society or committee by which the sickness and disablement benefits payable to such person are administered, but, if the insured

- person is aggrieved by such determination, the matter shall be settled in manner provided by this Part of this Act for settling disputes between insured persons and societies or committees :

"The weekly value."—In the case of permanent disablement the weekly value for the purpose of comparison with the benefits under the Act would presumably be the amount of an annuity terminable at 70 which could be bought for the lump sum. In other cases it will apparently be necessary to estimate the probable duration of total incapacity, and base the weekly value upon that. In many cases of accident total incapacity is very short, the compensation or damages being paid for some more or less permanent partial disablement, for which no benefit would in any case be payable under this Act.

"In manner provided."—S. 67 infra.

- (c) Where an agreement is made as to the amount of such compensation as aforesaid, and the amount so agreed is less than ten shillings a week, or as to the redemption of a weekly payment by a lump sum, under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, the employer shall, within three days thereafter, or such longer time as may be prescribed, send to the Insurance Commissioners, or to the society or committee concerned, notice in writing of such agreement giving the prescribed particulars thereof, and proviso (d) to paragraph (9) of the Second Schedule of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906 (which relates to the powers of registrars of county courts to refuse to record memoranda of agreements and to refer the matter to the judge) shall, in cases where the workman is an insured person, apply to agreements as to the amount of compensation in like manner as to agreements as to the redemption of weekly payments by lump sums. s. 11 (1)

"An agreement."—See the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, First Schedule (8).

"As to the redemption."—Id. (17).

"Within three days."—The Memorandum and Agreement cannot be registered until seven days after the Registrar of the County Court, to whom it has been sent by the applicant for registration, has sent notice to all the parties interested [ib. Second Schedule (9) (a) and Workmen's Compensation Rules, 1907 (43)].

"Prescribed."—See Appendix 11—12, p. 596.

"Proviso (d) . . . to the judge."—The proviso is as follows:—

"Where it appears to the Registrar of the County Court, on any information which he considers sufficient, that an agreement as to the redemption of a weekly payment by a lump sum, or an agreement as to the amount of compensation payable to a person under any legal disability or to dependants, ought not to be registered by reason of the inadequacy of the sum or amount, or by reason of the agreement having been obtained by fraud or undue influence or other improper means, he may refuse to record the memorandum of the agreement sent to him for registration, and refer the matter to the judge, who shall, in accordance with the rules of the court, make such order (including an order as to any sum already paid under the agreement), as under the circumstances he may think just."

It will apparently be open to the Commissioners, society or committee, to supply to the registrar "information" on which he may act.

(2) Where an insured person appears to be entitled to any such compensation or damages as aforesaid and unreasonably refuses or neglects to take proceedings to enforce his claim, it shall be lawful for the society or committee concerned, either—

"Unreasonably refuses or neglects."—"Unreasonably" qualifies "refuses" rather than "neglects," for a person can only "neglect" something which he ought reasonably to do. The question of "reasonable refusal" is only likely to arise where the society proposes to proceed under (b) infra and withhold the benefit without itself taking proceedings: such a question would be a dispute to be settled in accordance with s. 67. The fact that the member has no means to pay the cost of proceedings, or the proposed defendant none to pay the compensation or damages, might well be sufficient to prevent the society from withholding the benefits on the ground of unreasonable refusal. (See in re Richmond Gas Co., 1893, 1 Q.B. 56.) On the other hand, want of means, of knowledge, or of energy in the member would not prevent the case being one of neglect, and

S. 11 (2) would entitle the society to take proceedings itself under (a), although the member was not actively hostile, and to insist upon his doing his best to make the proceedings successful. By special authority of February 27th, 1893, the provision of legal assistance in making claims under the Employers' Liability Acts is constituted a permissible object of a Friendly Society, with the warning that "it will be for the legal advisers of the Society to see that it does not offend against the law relating to champerty and maintenance." This subsection will, of course, protect societies acting within its terms against such a charge.

"It shall be lawful."—These words give a discretion to the Society or committee, as to the exercise of which see note on "May grant approval" in s. 23 (3) infra.

(a) at its own expense, to take in the name and on behalf of such person such proceedings, in which case any compensation or damages recovered shall be held by the society or committee as trustee for the insured person; or

"At its own expense . . . as trustee for the insured person."—The effect of this is that the society or committee will be liable, if unsuccessful, to the whole costs, and if successful, to such costs as it may fail to recover on taxation from the opposite party, or as such party may be unable to pay.

(b) to withhold payment of any benefit to which apart from this section such person would be entitled.

In the event of the society or committee concerned taking proceedings as aforesaid, and failing in the proceedings, it shall be responsible for the costs of the proceedings as if it were claiming on its own account.

"Responsible."—To the opposite party, as well as to the insured person.

(3) Nothing in this section shall prevent the society or committee paying to an insured person benefit by way of advance pending the settlement of his claim for compensation or damages, and any advance so made shall, without prejudice to any other method of recovery, be recoverable by deductions from or suspension of any benefits which may subsequently become payable to such person.

12.—(1) No payment shall be made on account of sickness disablement or maternity benefit to or in respect of any person during any period when the person to or in respect of whom the benefit is payable is an inmate of any workhouse, hospital, asylum, convalescent home, or infirmary, supported by any public authority or out of any public funds or by a charity, or voluntary subscriptions, or of a sanatorium or similar institution approved under this Part of this Act.

Provisions in the case of contributors who are inmates of hospitals, &c.

"To or in respect of."—The model rules for approved societies issued by the Commissioners make it clear that the maternity benefit is not payable while the wife of an insured person is in one of the institutions named, but the fact that her husband is in such an institution would not deprive her of maternity benefit if her confinement took place at home. See Appendix III, pp. 604, 607, 625.

"Any public authority."—See note to the First Schedule Part II (b) under s. 1 (2) supra; as to hospitals provided by the Public Health Authority, see 38 and 39 Vict. c. 55, ss. 99, 131, 132.

"Out of any public funds."—This probably includes institutions deriving a part only of their support from such funds.

"A charity."—On the question of what is a charity, see Commissioners of Income Tax v. Pemsel (1891), A.C. 531. A friendly society is not a Charity (Cunnack v. Edwards, 65 L.J. Ch. 801).

(2) During such period as aforesaid the sum which would otherwise have been payable on account of any such benefit to or in respect of such person—

(a) shall be paid to or applied in whole or in part for the relief or maintenance of his dependants (if any) in such manner as the society or committee by which the benefit is administered, after consultation whenever possible with such person, thinks fit; or

"In part."—The remainder being applied in accordance with the proviso infra pars. (i), (ii).

"Dependants."—The Insurance Committee or approved society are the judges as to who is a dependant, s. 79 infra.

The effect is that for insured persons admitted to voluntary hospitals who have any dependants, there is no provision for payment of cost of

- S. 12 (2) maintenance or payment of medical and surgical staffs, except that
 (a) in the case of married women and widows drawing both sickness or — disablement benefit and maternity benefit, the maternity benefit may be paid to the hospital whether the woman has dependants or not.
 By s. 21 approved societies and Insurance Committees may give subscriptions or donations to voluntary hospitals. (See also chap. IV, supra p. 83.)

(b) if such person, being a member of an approved society, is an inmate of a sanatorium or similar institution in which he is receiving treatment in accordance with the provisions of this Part of this Act, and has no dependants, shall be paid to the Insurance Committee towards the general purposes thereof; or See ss. 8 (1) (b) supra and 16 infra.

(c) if such person, being a member of an approved society, is an inmate of a hospital, asylum, convalescent home, or infirmary supported by charity or by voluntary subscriptions and has no dependants, shall, if an agreement for the purpose has been made between the society or committee and the hospital, asylum, convalescent home, or infirmary, be paid, in whole or in part, according to such agreement, towards the maintenance of such person in the hospital, asylum, convalescent home, or infirmary:

"If an agreement has been made."—The Commissioners have advised Friendly Societies that the "agreement" must be one under which the insured person is received or maintained in the hospital, or is there received or maintained on preferential terms. An approved society not incorporated and furnished with a common seal (per Lord Abinger in Ludlow v. Chorlton, 6 M. & W. 815) can contract only through agents (Ridley v. Plymouth, 17 L.J. Ex. 252), who will normally be the trustees, or the Committee of Management.

Provided that—

15.—(1) Section twelve of the principal Act shall have effect as though proviso (1) to subsection (2) of that section were omitted therefrom, and any sum which, but for the provisions of that section, would have been payable to any person on account of sickness, disablement, or maternity benefit, if and so far as it is not paid or applied in accordance with the provisions of that section while the person to or in respect of whom it would have been payable is an inmate of any workhouse, hospital, asylum, convalescent home, or infirmary, may, if the society or committee administering the benefit thinks fit, be applied in the provision of any surgical appliances required for the person or otherwise for his benefit after he ceases to be an inmate, or, if it is not so expended, shall be paid in cash to the person after leaving the institution, in a lump sum or in instalments as the society or committee thinks fit, and, where any sum which apart from section twelve of the principal Act would have been payable on account of sickness benefit has been paid or applied under that section as amended by this section, it shall be treated as a payment in respect of sickness benefit for the purpose of determining the rate and duration of that benefit.

Act.

- (ii) if such an inmate as aforesaid is a married woman or widow, and the sums so payable or applicable as aforesaid include the sums which would have been payable both on account of maternity benefit payable in lieu of sickness or disablement benefit and on account of maternity benefit not so payable, no part of the sum which would otherwise be payable on account of such last mentioned maternity benefit shall be paid or applied for the relief or maintenance of her dependants, but such sum may be paid to the hospital, asylum, convalescent home, or infirmary of which she is an inmate as aforesaid in like manner as if she had no dependants.

Amended by s. 15 (2) of 1913 as from Jan. 12, 1914. •

"Payable in lieu."—See s. 8 (6) supra and s. 14 (3) of the Act of 1913 thereunder.

- (iii) Where any person who is entitled to any benefit under Part I of this Act, or a woman whose husband is entitled to maternity benefit in respect of her confinement, applies for admission to any workhouse infirmary, admission thereto shall not be refused on the ground only of the right to such benefit.

Where an inmate of an institution, not being a person in receipt of sanatorium benefit, has no dependants, no sickness or disablement benefit whatever is payable, and the funds of the society profit by the lapse. The society may, however, if it will, make a voluntary payment representing the whole or a part of such benefit to an institution supported by a charity or by voluntary contributions under subs. (2) (c), but it can do this only where there is an agreement with the institution for the reception of members of the society upon these terms.

Precisely the same observation applies to the maternity benefit of a woman who, being an employed contributor, is the wife of an insured person although she has dependants. Though the sickness benefit is in this case ear-marked for her dependants, the maternity benefit is forfeited to the society, which may give the whole or a part to the institution in which she is confined. It is for the society to decide whether the children, both of whose parents are employed contributors, are dependent upon the mother.

In the case of a deposit contributor the amount so saved remains to his credit for any future illness.

13.—(1) Any approved society may submit to the Insurance Commissioners a scheme for substituting any of the additional benefits for sickness benefit and disablement benefit or either of those benefits or any part thereof, and the scheme may provide as respects the members of the society to whom the scheme applies that any such benefits shall be abolished or the rate thereof reduced or, in the case of sickness benefit, the commencement thereof postponed; and the scheme may contain such incidental and consequential provisions as appear necessary for adapting the other provisions of this Part of this Act to the members to whom the scheme applies.

"A Scheme."—Cf. s. 72. Under subs. (3) hereof, the Commissioners must be satisfied that the substituted benefits are of equivalent value to those abolished. S. 72 also requires a valuation of the scheme submitted, and the Insurance Commissioners in their Preliminary Memorandum issued on the 22nd of December, 1911, state that s. 72 "calls for the submission of actuarially certified schemes." It is, therefore, presumed that a scheme submitted under this section also must be actuarially certified, and as the onus of showing the value of the benefits is upon the promoters under subs. (3), the Commissioners will clearly be justified in requiring such a certificate. S. 13 (1)

"For sickness benefit and disablement benefit."—The result of the entire abolition of sickness and disablement benefit by such a scheme would be to defeat the whole intention of the Act, as persons disentitled to these benefits would not be in any real sense insured against sickness. This section can, however, be used to modify these benefits in certain cases such as that of persons receiving payment during sickness as a term of employment, and so to make a much more elastic provision for such a case than that of s. 47.

It is open to a society under this section to substitute maintenance in a convalescent home [see the Fourth Schedule, Part II (7) and (8) under s. 8 (1) (f) supra] for part of the sickness or disablement benefit, either by reducing the amount of those benefits, or by providing that after a certain time or when recommended by the doctor it is to be spent upon the maintenance of the member in a convalescent home. Whether such a rule could be made under s. 14 (2) is doubtful. The above objections would not apply to such an arrangement, nor would those mentioned in the next note.

(2) The scheme shall apply either to all members of the society or to any specified class thereof or to any members of the society who may elect to come under the scheme, according as may be provided by the scheme.

"Any members of the society."—The advice given by the Chief Actuary to the Joint Committee, Mr. A. W. Watson, to the Manchester Unity of Oddfellows, as to their application of s. 72 is worth quoting in this connection :

"It must be clearly kept in view that members of Friendly Societies cannot be allowed to choose individually between the alternative forms of taking the Government Subsidy. If the choice were given to them, the weakly would naturally take extra sick pay, whilst the strong would as naturally take the reduction of contributions or the deferred annuity. All the calculations depend upon averages, and if an optic of this sort were allowed, the averages would be completely upset, and the financial equilibrium of a scheme would be deranged, perhaps beyond redemption. Every society must choose for itself which plan will adopt, and having made its choice must apply it to all its members

- s. 13 (3) (3) A scheme made under this section shall not have any effect unless and until confirmed by the Insurance Commissioners, and the Insurance Commissioners shall not confirm any such scheme unless satisfied that the value of the additional benefits conferred by the scheme is equivalent to the value of the benefits for which they are substituted, and that, in view of the special circumstances of the members or class of members intended to come under the scheme, there is good reason for substituting the additional benefits conferred by the scheme for the benefits for which they are substituted.

"Confirm."—See Appendix I.—I, 16 (b), p. 452.

"Equivalent."—See the note to subs. (1) supra and (4) infra.

- (4) Nothing in this section or in any scheme made thereunder shall affect the amount of any reserve value to be credited to a society in respect of a member, and such reserve values shall be calculated as if the scheme had not been made.

"Reserve value."—See s. 55. This provision may lead to some inconvenience. The reserve value is the capitalised liability of the society to a new member, s. 55 (1), and the society is not allowed to refuse a new member on account of age alone, s. 30 (2), the State having undertaken that liability, s. 55 (2). But clearly if for sickness benefit payable at any time during life, a superannuation allowance, payable, say, at 60, be substituted, this allowance being so computed as to be of the same gross value for the members of the society as a whole, the reserve values in respect of the alternative benefits are very different at different ages. The reserve value of the sick pay will fall continuously after the age of 55, that of disablement benefit will fall from 60 on, while that of superannuation allowance will increase continuously up to the age at which the allowance becomes payable.

There are therefore two alternatives: either the scheme must provide that in the case of each new entrant the alternative benefit offered shall be of the same value as the one withdrawn, or else the society must be prepared to meet the situation that the reserve values credited in respect of new members will be in some cases inadequate, and it may be absurdly inadequate, to meet the liabilities undertaken by the society in respect of them.

Administration of Benefits.

14.—(1) Sickness benefit, disablement benefit, and maternity benefit shall be administered, in the case of insured persons who are members of an approved society, by and through the society, or a branch thereof, and in other cases by and through the Insurance Committees; medical and sanatorium benefits shall in all cases be administered by and through the Insurance Committees, additional benefits shall be administered by the society or branch of which the persons entitled thereto are members, except where such benefits are in the nature of medical benefits, in which case they shall be administered by and through the Insurance Committees.

Benefits to be administered by approved societies or the Insurance Committee.

"In other cases."—i.e., that of deposit contributors.

"Insurance Committees."—See ss. 59-62.

"Medical benefit . . . by . . . Insurance Committees."—

This is modified by s. 15 (4), which allows the continuance of existing systems or institutions subject always to the free choice of doctor on the part of the beneficiary. Also if the Insurance Committee cannot obtain a satisfactory panel, the Commissioners may, by s. 15 (2), and s. 11 of 1913, p. 92, make other arrangements or may suspend medical benefit.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, an approved society may, with the consent of the Insurance Commissioners, provide for the application of its existing rules or make new rules with regard to the manner and time of paying or distributing, and mode of calculating, benefits, suspension of benefits, notices and proof of disease or disablement, behaviour during disease or disablement, and the visiting of sick or disabled persons, and for the infliction and enforcement of penalties (whether by way of fines or suspension of benefits or otherwise) in the case of any member being an

- s. 14 (2) insured person who is guilty of any breach of any such rule, or of any imposition or attempted imposition in respect of any benefit under this Part of this Act, and may from time to time with the like consent alter or repeal any such rules ; but—

“Rules.”—See s. 27 (1). The society may, if it please, adopt the whole or part of the model rules published by the Insurance Commissioners (set out in Appendix V, p. 861), but is not in any way bound to do so.

As to urgent amendments of rules, see s. 17 of the Act of 1913, under s. 24 (1) post.

“Proof.”—As to what proof may lawfully be required, see Heard v. Pickthorne (C.A.) 108 L.T. It is submitted that a society cannot by rule cut down the statutory right to benefit, but is bound to accept such evidence as would carry conviction to a reasonable mind.

- (a) no fine imposed under any such rule shall exceed ten shillings or, in the case of repeated breaches of rules, twenty shillings ;

“Fine.”—Although the power of the society to fine is restricted by par. (b) of these rules it remains free to expel a member for breach of its rules [s. 30 (2)], but in such case is bound to hand over the transfer value of the member, [ss. 31 (1) 43 (1)].

- (b) no such rule shall provide for the suspension of any benefit for a period exceeding one year ;

“Suspension.”—It is the practice of most friendly societies to pay no benefits in venereal disease or disease caused by the misconduct of the claimant. Such a rule must be modified to conform to this par. and subs. (4) hereof.

It is not yet settled whether a member coming into benefits after each suspension in (say) the tenth week of illness has a right to sickness benefit for twenty-six weeks thereafter, or only for sixteen. See on this point the note to s. 8 (1) (c).

- (c) every such rule relating to the visiting of insured persons by visitors appointed by the society shall provide that women shall not be visited otherwise than by women ;

"Women."—The visiting here referred to is plainly only such visiting as is done by sick visitors, not visiting by a medical attendant. S. 14 (2) (c)

- (d) every such rule relating to behaviour during disease or disablement shall be in the prescribed form ;

See Appendix V, Model Rule B. 11 (22), p. 869.

- (e) no such rule shall prescribe any penalty, nor shall any insured person be subject to any penalty, whether by suspension of benefit or otherwise, on account of the refusal by any such person to submit to a surgical operation, or vaccination, or inoculation of any kind, unless such refusal in the case of a surgical operation of a minor character is considered by the society, or on appeal the Insurance Commissioners, unreasonable ;

"Any insured person."—Though the section deals principally with rules of approved societies, the words "any insured person" seem plainly to extend the application of this subs. to deposit contributors as well as to members of approved societies.

"Vaccination."—Generally but not necessarily refers to inoculation against smallpox ; the exemptions recently granted by magistrates in some districts are so numerous that a large proportion of the population will soon be unprotected against smallpox.

"Inoculation."—Inoculation against various infective diseases is rapidly becoming an ordinary part of medical treatment, and great exception has been taken to this permission to refuse inoculation of any kind, seeing that, for example, inoculation with diphtheria antitoxin is now recognised as the most efficacious treatment of diphtheria, while tuberculin inoculation for consumption is also a recognised method of treatment. It will, however, as regards tuberculin inoculation, be in the power of the Insurance Committee to refuse to recommend a case for any other form of sanatorium benefit than this [s. 16 (3)].

"Surgical operation of a minor character."—In cases under the Workmen's Compensation Act judges have withheld compensation where persons claiming have refused an operation intended to prevent disablement. This subs. gives similar power to approved societies and the Commissioners with regard to inflicting penalties and suspending benefits in the case of insured persons who unreasonably refuse a minor operation which might shorten the period of disablement, and apparently the Commissioners will be the final judges as to whether any operation proposed is a major or a minor operation."

- S. 14 (2) (f) no such rule shall provide for inflicting as a penalty for breach of rules or imposition or attempted imposition on the part of an insured person suspension of maternity benefit in respect of the confinement of his wife, where his wife has not herself been guilty of any such breach, imposition, or attempted imposition.

"Breach, imposition, or attempted imposition." — This need not have reference to the confinement, in fact there is nothing which definitely gives a society power to make rules as to the wife's conduct before or after confinement. But if the wife is a party to any other breach of rule or imposition by the husband, maternity benefit may be reduced or suspended.

(3) The Insurance Committee shall, subject to the approval of the Insurance Commissioners, make rules in respect of any of the matters mentioned in the last preceding subsection with regard to the administration of benefits by the committee :

Provided that no such rule relating to anything to be done by, to, or through the Post Office shall be made without the consent of the Postmaster-General.

"The Post Office."—See s. 42 infra.

(4) Where, under any such rule as aforesaid, payment of sickness or disablement benefit is suspended on the ground that the disease or disablement has been caused by the misconduct of the person claiming the benefit, such person shall not thereby become disentitled to medical benefit.

"Disease or disablement caused by misconduct."—It is essential in the public interest that venereal disease and alcoholism should be adequately treated even if the sufferer is punished by deprivation of cash benefits, though, in many friendly societies, the contract fees paid to their medical officers do not cover attendance for venereal disease or alcoholism, for which the medical officers are allowed to charge their ordinary fees.

(5) Where under any Act regulating the constitution of a society which becomes an approved society the rules of the society are required to be registered, any rules approved under this section by the Insurance Commissioners shall forthwith be registered, but till so registered shall have effect as if they had been duly registered. s. 14 (5)*

"Under any Act."—See the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, ss. 9 (2), 13, and 19, and the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, ss. 5 (2) (6) and 10 (2); see also ss. 27 (3), 35 (3), 75 and 76 hereof. These sections in effect make the registry of friendly societies a department of the Insurance Commission so far as approved societies are concerned, and the Chief Registrar is himself a commissioner ex officio.

45.—(1) Every Insurance Committee shall for the purpose of administering medical benefit make arrangements with duly qualified medical practitioners in accordance with regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners. Administration of medical

See s. 8 (1) (a), and Appendix II—13, p. 597.

"Make arrangements."—The phrase is no doubt intentionally vague. For instance, it would include an arrangement by way of capitation fee or of a separate fee for each attendance, or it leaves the committee free to make one arrangement for ordinary cases, and to call in a second opinion on special terms in special cases. The "arrangements" will necessarily include provisions as to the extent and range of the medical services that can be claimed and the method and amount of remuneration of the doctor. They may vary according to local circumstances, but must be submitted for the opinion of the Local Medical Committee (s. 62), and apparently of the Panel Committee (s. 32 of 1913), and are always subject to the approval of the Commissioners.

Quære whether the Insurance Committees have power to include in these arrangements provision for certifying incapacity for the purpose of sickness and disablement benefit.

"Regulations."—See the Administration of Medical Benefit Regulations, 1912, post p. 597.

"Duly qualified medical practitioner."—i.e., a person registered under the Medical Acts (s. 34 of the Medical Act, 1858). By the Act of 1886, s. 2, a person cannot be registered since that year without having passed qualifying examinations in medicine, surgery, and midwifery, but persons registered before that year with any of the qualifications set out in Schedule A of the Act of 1858 (s. 15) are still to that extent qualified. As to women practitioners, see the Act of 1876, s. 1.

- S. 15 (2) (2) The regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners shall provide for the arrangements made being subject to the approval of the Insurance Commissioners and being such as to secure that insured persons shall, save as hereinafter provided, receive adequate medical attendance and treatment from the medical practitioners with whom arrangements are so made, and shall require the adoption by every Insurance Committee of such system as will secure—

“Being such as to secure.”—By Article 7 (2) of the Medical Benefit Regulations (post p. 600), the contract of an Insurance Committee with a doctor must, except with the consent of the Commissioners, be in the form set out in the 2nd Schedule to these regulations.

“Save as hereinafter provided.”—These words were inserted in the first instance to provide for cases mentioned in subs. (3) of insured persons who may be “required” or “allowed” to make their own arrangements for medical attendance. The words also cover cases mentioned in subs. (4) of persons who receive their medical attendance through existing systems or institutions; and also instances where the Commissioners may see fit to make other arrangements or to suspend medical benefit [proviso to subs. (2)].

“Adequate.”—The Commissioners are in all cases the final judges as to what is meant by adequate medical attendance.

- (a) the preparation and publication of lists of medical practitioners who have agreed to attend and treat insured persons whose medical benefit is administered by the committee;

Pars. (a), (b), (c), (d), are intended to secure what is known as “free choice of doctor” for the insured.

“Lists.”—The plural is advisedly used, as the area covered by any one list may be much smaller than the whole area of the committee. See Articles 13 and 16 of the Medical Regulations (ubi sup.).

“Agreed.”—For the terms of agreement see p. 626.

- (b) a right on the part of any duly qualified medical practitioner who is desirous of being included in any such list as aforesaid of being so included, but where the Insurance Commissioners, after such inquiry as may be prescribed, are satisfied that his continuance in the list would be prejudicial to the efficiency of the medical service of the insured, they may remove his name from the list ;

(b)

"Right of being included."—Inclusion of practitioners in the list follows automatically on execution by them of the appropriate agreement, and any practitioner, whether consultant, specialist or general practitioner, and whether resident in the area or not, may be on any list, or even on several lists at once. Any subsequent exclusion is only after due inquiry, and the Commissioners only, not the Insurance Committee, can remove a name from a list.

"Inquiry."—S. 54 of the regulations (p. 623, post), provides for an inquiry sub-committee consisting of two doctors and one lawyer.

"Prejudicial to the efficiency."—Purposely a very wide and general phrase which might cover any professional or personal misconduct prejudicial to the service.

- (c) a right on the part of any insured person of selecting, at such periods as may be prescribed, from the appropriate list the practitioner by whom he wishes to be attended and treated, and, subject to the consent of the practitioner so selected, of being attended and treated by him ;

By Art. 17 (9) of the Regulations, selection of a practitioner is to be made yearly, provided that a patient may be transferred from one practitioner to another during the year either by arrangement between all the parties concerned, or where such a change is necessitated on account of the patient changing his residence, the practitioner leaving the panel, or a dispute between patient and doctor (Arts. 22, 26).

"Appropriate list."—i.e., presumably the list of doctors for the area in which the insured person resides. In large county areas where District Committees are formed under s. 59 (4) there may be district lists prepared, and possibly, on the ground of the charges for mileage, the insured may be restricted to practitioners residing within a limited distance, unless the patients themselves agree to pay the extra mileage, or the practitioner forgoes it. Large towns may also have separate panels.

- 15 (2) "Subject to the consent."—There is no necessity for a practitioner, and generally it might not be advisable for him, to assign any reason why he refuses to accept any person as his patient.

(d) the distribution amongst and, so far as practicable, under arrangements made by, the several practitioners whose names are on the lists, of the insured persons who after due notice have failed to make any selection, or who have been refused by the practitioner whom they have selected ;

"So far as practicable."—If the practitioners themselves fail to allot every insured person to a doctor on the list, the scheme formulated by the Insurance Committee and approved by the Commissioners will provide for the distribution.

See Arts. 81 (f) 17 (3) and 51 (2) of the Regulations.

"After due notice."—Insured persons cannot be distributed among the practitioners on the list, until they have been notified that they must before a fixed date exercise their right of selection.

(e) the provision of medical attendance and treatment on the same terms as to remuneration as those arranged with respect to insured persons, to members of any friendly society which, or a separate section of which becomes an approved society who were such members at the date of the passing of this Act, and who are not entitled to medical benefit under this Part of this Act by reason either that they are of the age of sixty-five or upwards at the date of the commencement of this Act, or that being subject to permanent disablement at that date they are not qualified to become insured persons :

10. (2) Paragraph (e) of subsection (2) of section fifteen of the principal Act shall extend to members of societies other than such friendly societies as are mentioned in that paragraph who were at the date of the passing of the principal Act entitled as such members to medical attendance and treatment in like manner and subject to the like conditions as it applies to members of such friendly societies. s. 15 (2).

See also s. 1 (2) of the Act of 1913 under s. 3 supra.

See Art. 51 (1) of the Regulation. A part of the supplementary grant made by the Act of 1913 will be available for the purpose of providing this treatment.

There is an interesting history attached to this paragraph (e) as the persons here alluded to are not insured persons under the Act. The subsection is the result of a mutual arrangement between the British Medical Association and the Friendly Societies. The persons must have been members of a friendly society on or before December 6th, 1911, though they need not have reached the age of 65 or become permanently disabled until July 15th, 1912.

"Medical attendance and treatment."—The omission, here and in s. 1 (2) of 1913, of any mention of medicines and appliances for these uninsured persons relieves the Insurance Committee from any necessity to make arrangements with pharmacists, but does not prevent it doing so if it thinks fit, as the whole cost falls on the separate approved societies' private funds, not on the insurance funds.

"Same terms as to remuneration."—Though only remuneration is here mentioned, the British Medical Association distinctly understood that the other terms would also be similar to those arranged for insured persons, e.g., income limit, free choice of doctor, etc.

"Any friendly society."—These words are now extended by s. 10 (2) of the Act of 1913, supra, to cover the societies therein mentioned. The words, however, as they originally stood would cover societies not registered: a trade union may be a friendly society, as, for instance, the Amalgamated Society of Engineers (Knowles v. Booth, 32 W.R. 432), if its objects are in the main friendly society objects. [See also Gozney v. Bristol Trade and Provident Society (1909, I.K.B. 901); and note to s. 23 (1)]. As to the position of existing medical officers it must be remembered that there is nothing in the Act to terminate their contracts with any society or institution. Such a contract might be terminated by anything rendering it illegal or impossible of performance (see Atkinson v. Ritchie, 10 East 534; Bailey v. De Crespigny, L.R. 4 Q.B. 180), or by a total failure of consideration (Taylor v. Caldwell, 3 B. & S. 826). Neither of these circumstances arises in this case. It is true that the Act may provide an alternative system of medical attendance for insured members of the society, but they are free to continue the arrangement with their club doctor if they prefer to pay for it. Under s. 15 (3) the Insurance Committee might even contribute to the cost of such an arrangement. It appears, therefore, that the contract still binds both parties as long as it subsists, and in the event of a club doctor refusing to serve under the Act, the society may hold him to

- S. 15 (2) his existing contract for such time as it has to run, or until it can be determined by notice. Whether they could hold him as to the members who are not insured under the Act while releasing him as to those who are depends upon the terms of the contract.
- (c) —

"Permanent Disablement."—In many cases, especially young persons, it will be impossible to decide beforehand whether disablement is permanent or not. The necessary conditions seem to be, first, that the person must have been receiving sickness pay from his society before the commencement of the Act, and, second, that he must be uninsurable under the Act. But there may be cases where, even after several years' disablement, recovery may occur, and the word "permanent" will have to be liberally interpreted in the sense that the disablement must be such that there is no human probability that the person will ever be able to work again.

Provided that, if the Insurance Commissioners are satisfied after inquiry that the practitioners included in any list are not such as to secure an adequate medical service in any area, they may dispense with the necessity of the adoption of such system as aforesaid as respects that area, and authorise the Committee to make such other arrangements as the Commissioners may approve; or the Commissioners may themselves make such arrangements as they think fit, or may suspend the right to medical benefit in respect of any insured persons in the area for such period as they think fit, and pay to each such person a sum equal to the estimated cost of his medical benefit during that period, and, where the Commissioners take any such action themselves, they shall retain and apply for the purpose such part of the sums payable to the Insurance Committee in respect of medical benefit as may be required.

arrangements for
system.

11. If the Insurance Commissioners are satisfied that the insured persons or any considerable proportion of them within an area, or part of an area, are not receiving satisfactory medical treatment under the panel system the Commissioners may authorise the insurance committee to make, or may themselves make, such other arrangements as will secure to insured persons within the area, or part, such better medical service as is practicable having regard to the funds available for the purpose, or arrangements whereunder insured persons within the area, or part of the area, may be required to make their own arrangements for receiving medical attendance and treatment, including medicines and appliances, and whereunder the insurance committee or the Insurance Commissioners undertake to pay the cost of such medical attendance and treatment upon such scale as they may determine with the approval of the Commissioners so calculated that the medical attendance and treatment so secured shall be of a quality not inferior to that provided under the panel system (in force Sept. 1st).

"Provided that."—This has been called the "strike-breaking" provision, which may be used by the Commissioners if the practitioners in any area refuse to form a panel. (See Art. 61 of the Regulations.)

"After inquiry."—Presumably after representations by the Insurance Committee that it has been unable to prepare a satisfactory list of practitioners for its area. The method of inquiry is not stated, but it will necessarily involve inquiry as to whether the Insurance Committee has fully conformed to the regulations mentioned in s. 15 (1), (2).

"Adequate."—That is either in point of the number of practitioners willing to serve on the panel or their professional standing, or as provided by s. 11 of 1913.

"System as aforesaid."—That is, the panel system described in pars. (a), (b), (c), (d), of this subs.

"Such other arrangements."—For example, the Commissioners might replace the system of free choice of doctor by a system of salaried (whole-time or part-time) medical officers specially appointed either by the local Insurance Committee or by the Commissioners themselves; or they might put the medical arrangements into the hands of the approved societies, and allow each society to provide medical attendance as it thought fit for its members, without resorting to the suspension of the benefit.

S. 15 (2) — "Suspend the right."—The effect of this on the medical profession might well be of the most disastrous character; it would practically induce the approved societies themselves to form medical clubs for their members outside the Act.

"Any insured persons."—Not necessarily all the insured in the area. E.g., if the practitioners in the area refused to enter into arrangements for attending persons with an income of over £2 a week, the suspension of medical benefit might be applied to such persons only. This would be quite different from the operation of sub. (3), under which a contribution given to the insured who make their own arrangements has to be devoted entirely to providing medical attendance and medicines, whereas when the benefit is suspended there is no restriction named as to the use to which the sum paid shall be put.

"Such period as they think fit."—Even permanently if necessary, as might often happen where a society had succeeded in forming its own medical club.

"Estimated cost."—That is, the cost of both medical attendance, medicines and appliances, seeing that both doctors and pharmacists would be affected if the benefits were suspended.

(3) The regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners shall authorise the Insurance Committee by which medical benefit is administered to require any persons whose income exceeds a limit to be fixed by the Committee, and to allow any other persons, in lieu of receiving medical benefit under such arrangements as aforesaid, to make their own arrangements for receiving medical attendance and treatment (including medicines and appliances), and in such case the Committee shall, subject to the regulations, contribute from the funds out of which medical benefit is payable towards the cost of medical attendance and treatment (including medicines and appliances) for such persons sums not exceeding in the aggregate the amounts which the Committee would otherwise have expended in providing medical benefit for them.

Medical
benefit.

10.—(1) No voluntary contributor whose total income from all sources exceeds one hundred and sixty pounds a year shall be entitled to receive medical benefit, but in that case the weekly contribution which would otherwise be payable by him shall be reduced by one penny. S. 10 (1) 1913.

See also s. 11 of the Act of 1913, supra under subs. (2) proviso, and s. 9 (1) (b) of that Act.

This is generally known as the "Addison" amendment, as it was proposed in the House of Commons by Dr. Addison, M.P., after consultation with the British Medical Association. (See Chap. IV.)

"Shall authorise . . . to require."—The Commissioners are under compulsion to authorise in their regulations the Insurance Committees, but the Committees are not under compulsion, to fix any income limit, though by s. 62 they are bound to "consult" the local medical committees when the question of fixing an income limit arises. (For the difference between the operation of this section and the preceding proviso to subs. 2 for suspending medical benefit, see arts. 8, 10, 11, 14 and 49 of the regulations.)

"Allow any other persons."—That is irrespective of any income limit. Primarily intended to meet the case of insured persons who desire to be medically attended by practitioners who are not included in the panel. This provision will also meet the case of colliery and works clubs, which may be continued as at present if the insured persons so desire. Also a Public Medical Service organised by the medical profession would be possible under this section, any body of the insured agreeing to pool in a common fund the amount contributed by the Insurance Committees, or members of an approved society might agree to receive their medical attendance from a doctor engaged by the society, in which case the contribution might be paid to the society, but the society would not be allowed to make any profit out of it for other purposes, and cf. subs. (4).

"Make their own arrangements."—There is nothing in the Act to forbid such private arrangements being made with unqualified persons such as herbalists, provided that the approved society of which the insured person is a member is willing to accept certificates for sickness and disablement benefit from such unqualified persons.

"Towards the cost of medical attendance, &c."—That is, the contribution cannot be used for any other purpose, and need never be handled at all by such persons, but may be paid for them by the committee directly to the private doctor whom they have engaged to attend them, in part payment of his bills. It thus differs from the sum paid when medical benefit is "suspended" under the proviso to subs. (2), on the use of which there is no restriction. Quære, however, whether in the case of a hospital nurse receiving free medical attendance, the Insurance Committee need inquire as to her payments before handing her the contribution. Hospitals would be well advised in this case to make a fixed charge upon the nurses for medical services equal to the cost of the statutory benefit, and to add the like sum to their wages.

S. 15 (3) "Not exceeding in the aggregate."—For example, if the agreed amount for medical benefit is 6s. per year per insured person, the Insurance Committee shall pay in any year "in the aggregate" to or for any of the persons "required" or "allowed" to make their own arrangements, such sum as will not exceed 6s. a head for the whole number of those persons. Thus much more than 6s. would be available for the fees of any one such person. Any further cost incurred by such persons must be paid by themselves. (But see Art. 49 of the regulations, p. 619.)

(4) The regulations shall provide that, in the case of persons who are entitled to receive medical attendance and treatment under any system or through any institution existing at the time of the passing of this Act, and approved by the Insurance Committee and the Insurance Commissioners, such medical attendance and treatment may be treated as, or as part of, their medical benefit under this Part of this Act, and may provide for the Committee contributing towards the expenses thereof the whole or any part of the sums which would be contributed in the case of persons who have made their own arrangements as aforesaid, so, however, that such regulations shall secure that no person be deprived of his right, if he so elects, of selecting the duly qualified medical practitioner by whom he wishes to be attended and treated, in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this section.

This subsection was known during the discussion on the National Insurance Bill as the "Harmsworth" Amendment and was greatly objected to by the British Medical Association as it considerably modifies the provision of s. 14 (1), which gives the administration of medical benefit to the local Insurance Committees. It was originally introduced to protect existing medical institutes which are formed by affiliations of friendly societies and other societies, but it is capable of wider application. There are at present about 100 medical institutes, about 30 of them having buildings of their own, and with a total membership of about 300,000. They provide general domiciliary medical attendance and are staffed mostly by salaried whole-time medical officers. Some of them are well-conducted, but many of them are boycotted by the local medical men for various reasons.

"Any system."—A generic word which might possibly be held to allow of indefinite multiplication of separate medical institutes or medical clubs, grouped under one existing approved system. The word "system" should, however, be interpreted by reference to the following word "institution." The narrower term restricts the wider (Foster v. Diphwys Casson Slate Co., 18 Q.B.D. 429 "case or canister" Bridger v. Richardson, 2 M. & S. 568 "taking or destroying"). "System" therefore presumably means something as much restricted as "institution" though not of an institutional nature; that is to say, the word must be restricted to an organised entity. (See arts. 19 (1), 20 and 48, p. 607.)

"Approved."—See art. 15 of the Regulations (infra p. 604).

"Treated as, or as part of."—That is, if the provision for medical attendance and medicines made by the institute falls short of what the Insurance Committee itself provides for other persons, the contribution from the Committee towards the cost of the institute may be proportionally reduced.

"Towards the expenses."—This involves that the institute would not be allowed to make any profit for other purposes out of the contribution given by the Insurance Committee.

"As aforesaid."—Refers to the provision in the last subsection (3).

"So however that."—This proviso to the end of the section was inserted at the request of the British Medical Association. Most of the medical institutes employ one, or rarely several, whole-time medical officers to attend all the local members of the affiliated societies, and the proviso is to secure that the members shall not be deprived by any rules of their societies of the right of insured persons to free choice of doctor given by subs. (2) (c). (See art. 15 (2) (i) (b), p. 604.)

(5) Every such Committee shall also make provision for the supply of proper and sufficient drugs and medicine and prescribed appliances to insured persons in accordance with regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners, which shall provide for the arrangements made being subject to the approval of the Insurance Commissioners, and being such as to enable insured persons to obtain from any persons, firms, or bodies corporate with whom arrangements have been made such drugs, medicines, and appliances if ordered by the medical practitioner by whom they are attended, and shall require the adoption by every Insurance Committee of such a system as will secure—

"Proper and sufficient."—The Insurance Committee will apparently be able to make, subject to the approval of the Commissioners, a list of drugs considered to be "proper and sufficient," and so to

S. 15 (5) prevent the waste of the Insurance Funds on expensive proprietary drugs. (See arts. 45 and 46 of the Regulations, p. 617.)

"Drugs and medicines."—See note on s. 8 (1) (a).

"Any persons."—Proviso (iii) limits the arrangements to persons, firms or bodies legally entitled to act as chemists and druggists, and the word "any" appears to give the insured a free choice of chemist in the same way as free choice of doctor is provided by subs. (2) (c), but without the limitation of having to make the choice at fixed periods.

"If ordered by."—The insured cannot, as part of medical benefit, without a prescription from a doctor, whether on the list or not [see ss. 8 (6), 15 (3), (4)], obtain any medicines from a chemist. (But see p. 630.)

(a) The preparation and publication of lists of persons, firms, and bodies corporate who have agreed to supply drugs, medicines and appliances to insured persons whose medical benefit is administered by the Committee, according to such scale of prices as may be fixed by the Committee ;

"Scale of prices."—It would appear that payment to the chemist for each separate article is intended ; the Pharmaceutical Conference is opposed to contract arrangements under which the chemists would be expected to supply whatever is ordered by the doctors at a capitation rate.

See the Regulations, arts. 27-38 infra p. 611) and the form of contract in the Third Schedule thereto. Arrangements and prices are to be submitted to the Commissioner (art. 31) and the prices to be subject to annual revision (art. 35).

(b) A right on the part of any person, firm, or body corporate desirous of being included in any such list as aforesaid, of being so included, for the purpose of supplying such drugs, medicines, and appliances as such person, firm, or body corporate is entitled by law and authorised by the Committee to supply, except in cases where the Insurance Commissioners after inquiry are satisfied that the inclusion or continuance of the person, firm or body corporate in such list would be prejudicial to the efficiency of the service :

"Right . . . of being included."—Compare the singular provision in subs. (2) (b), applying to medical practitioners. S. 15 (5).
"Inquiry."—See art. 56 of the Regulations.

Provided that—

- (i) If the Insurance Commissioners are satisfied that the scale of prices fixed by the Committee is reasonable, but that the persons, firms, or bodies corporate included in any list are not such as to secure an adequate and convenient supply of drugs, medicines, and appliances in any area, they may dispense with the necessity of the adoption of such system as aforesaid, as respects that area and authorise the Committee to make such other arrangements as the Commissioners may approve;

Compare similar proviso about medical practitioners in subs. (2). It is unnecessary to repeat here the proviso about suspending medical benefit.

"Other Arrangements."—For example, with the approval of the Commissioners the Committee might set up a dispensary of its own with a salaried dispenser or the doctors on the panel might be authorised to dispense medicines.

- (ii) Except as may be provided by regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners, no arrangement shall be made by the Insurance Committee with a medical practitioner under which he is bound or agrees to supply drugs or medicine to any insured persons;

See art. 30 of the Regulations, post, p. 612.

This section is intended to discourage dispensing by medical practitioners on the panels, and to provide for insured persons obtaining proper medicines, &c., from qualified chemists according to prescriptions given by medical practitioners. The British Medical Association, while agreeing that medicines should be paid for separately from medical attendance, has objected to any interference with the right of any doctor on the panel to dispense his own medicines for insured persons if he so desires. (See art. 49 (2) (c), p. 620.)

- S. 15 (5) (iii) Subject to the regulations made by the last foregoing proviso the regulations shall prohibit arrangements for the dispensing of medicines being made with persons other than persons, firms, or bodies corporate entitled to carry on the business of a chemist and druggist under the provisions of the Pharmacy Act, 1868, as amended by the Poisons and Pharmacy Act, 1908, who undertake that all medicines supplied by them to insured persons shall be dispensed either by or under the direct supervision of a registered pharmacist or by a person who, for three years immediately prior to the passing of this Act, has acted as a dispenser to a duly qualified medical practitioner or a public institution ;

"Medicines."—The word "medicine" is comprehensive enough to embrace everything which is to be applied mechanically whether internally or externally," per Lush, J., in Berry v. Henderson 39 L.J.M.C. 78 at p. 82. Sed quære as to appliances. A "drug" therefore, apparently becomes a medicine as soon as it is allocated to medicinal application on any particular person.

"Shall be dispensed."—There is absolutely no authority on the meaning of the word "dispensed" in this connection. It is submitted that the compounding or mixing, packing, and handing over of a medicine are all stages in the dispensing, and that none of these things may be done except by or under the direction of a qualified man. If this be the right view an Insurance Commissioner has no power to enter into an arrangement with an unregistered "chemist" even for the sale of patent medicines, bandages, and proprietary pills ; though such persons may supply drugs in bulk for the purposes of the Act.

"Acted as a dispenser."—This safeguards the large number of dispensers to medical men, who have no legally recognised qualifications for dispensing.

- (iv) Nothing in this Act shall interfere with the rights and privileges conferred by the Apothecaries Act, 1815, upon any person qualified under that Act to act as an assistant to any apothecary in compounding and dispensing medicines. s. 15 (5)

(iv)

"Assistant to apothecary."—Even though such person may not be a registered pharmacist.

(6) There shall in each year be paid to the Insurance Committee for each county or county borough out of moneys credited to a society which has members resident in the county or county borough such sum in respect of the medical benefit of such members and the cost of administration thereof as may be agreed between the society and committee or, in default of agreement, may be determined by the Insurance Commissioners.

"In each year . . . such sum."—It appears from s. 61 (1) that this sum is to be paid at the beginning of each year together with the sums available for sanatorium benefit [s. 16 (2)] and the administrative expenses of the Insurance Committee [s. 61 (2)]. The same applies to deposit contributors [s. 42 (c)]. The money available for these purposes is to be deducted from the society's credit in the National Health Insurance Fund [s. 54 (1)] as to seven-ninths of the total; the remaining two-ninths being contributed by the Treasury direct into the National Health Insurance Fund and thence handed over to the Insurance Committee (ib.). At no stage, therefore, has the society any opportunity of interfering with the process, nor can any sums be drawn by it, or by a deposit contributor [s. 42 (c)], in any year until these charges have been met. Since the charges for sanatorium benefit and administration are fixed and limited in the Act, while that for medical benefit is not, it follows that the latter, which stands first in the list in s. 8 (1) is a first charge upon the funds. Moreover this benefit cannot be commuted under s. 13, nor (without special leave) interfered with by a society in deficiency under s. 38 (1) (b). It will be noticed that the agreed sums so raised from societies, deposit contributors, and the Treasury are to cover the entire cost of medical attendance, including any extra fees charged in special cases, medicines, etc., and the administration of the benefit. The Act is silent as to the amount of these sums and their allocation. The Government actuaries, in accordance with instructions, based no doubt upon the fact that 3s. 7½d. was the average charge for doctor and medicine in the existing club contract work, have assumed that 6s. per contributor per annum would suffice for medical benefit. They also assigned 3s. 8d. per member per annum as the cost of administration. It is not clear whether they intended to include the administration of medical benefit in the 6s. or the 3s. 8d. In the present working of societies it is, of course,

- S 15 (6) a charge, upon their management fund, and not upon their medical fund (although the two are often covered by one contribution). It would appear that the 3s. 8d. is better able to bear this charge than the 6s., leaving the 6s., or such larger sum as may be available, free for doctor and druggist. Moreover the contributions are calculated with an apparent margin of 1s. 9d. per man and 2s. 2d. per woman per annum, and the estimated contributions for sickness and disablement benefit contain other margins as well. As to the nature of these, the qualifications which must be placed upon them, and the extent to which they might be made available for medical benefit, see pp. 112-3 supra.

By the Accounts Regulations, 1913 (post p. 652), the sum of 3s. 6d. per annum is allowed for society administration, and the levies for administration expenses of Insurance Committees (s. 38 (1)), and for administration of medical benefit are not charged to that account, but directly to the contributions account of the Society. This 3s. 6d. includes the State grant in respect of administration expenses. (See the First Schedule to those Regulations).

(7) If in any year the amount payable to an Insurance Committee in respect of all persons 'for the administration of whose medical benefit it is responsible is insufficient to meet the estimated expenditure thereon, the Committee may, through the Insurance Commissioners, transmit to the Treasury and to the council of the county or county borough an account showing the amount so payable and the estimated expenditure, and the Treasury and the county council or the council of the county borough may, if they think fit and if satisfied that the amounts so payable and the proposed expenditure are reasonable and proper in the circumstances, sanction the expenditure.

"The amount payable."—i.e., under subs. (6) hereof and under ss. 42 (b), 63 (1).

"Estimated expenditure."—This applies to such ordinary expenditure as that of providing higher fees for medical practitioners. For extraordinary expenditure rendered necessary by excessive sickness caused by the default of a local authority see s. 63. The estimated expenditure has proved to be much greater than was originally supposed, and the Act of 1913 accordingly makes further provision for meeting it at the cost of the State. See s. 31 (2), post p. 433.

"May . . . if satisfied . . . sanction the expenditure."—Neither Treasury nor county or borough council has any power to sanction such expenditure or to defray any part of it unless judicially satisfied that it is reasonable and proper. Having been so satisfied they are perfectly free wantonly to withhold their sanction, and there is no indication of what is to happen if Treasury and council disagree. The sanction of both is necessary before either is free to make good any part of such expenditure. Compare the similar provision as to sanatorium benefit in s. 17 (2) and (3). Councils contributing under this section may have an increased representation on the Insurance Committee [s. 59 (3)]. In addition to these sums for medical benefit, by s. 61 (3) any local authority may subscribe out of the rates towards the "general purposes" of the Committee.

(8) The Treasury and the council of the county or county borough sanctioning any such expenditure as aforesaid shall thereupon each be liable to make good, in the case of the Treasury out of moneys provided by Parliament, and in the case of the council of a county or county borough out of the county fund or borough fund or borough rate, as the case may be, one half of any sums so sanctioned by them and expended by the Insurance Committee on medical benefit in the course of the year in excess of the amounts so payable to the Insurance Committee as aforesaid.

See note to subs. (7) above.

"Sanctioned and Expended."—The Treasury and Council are each liable for one-half of the estimate sanctioned by them, but if the actual expenditure falls short of the estimate, they can only be called on to pay one-half of the actual expenditure. The Committee cannot claim more than it actually spends.

"Moneys provided by Parliament."—i.e. special grants for the purpose in addition to any other money provided by Parliament under the Act.

16.—(1) For the purpose of administering sanatorium benefit, Insurance Committees shall make arrangements, to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners,— said in sanatoria and other institutions, with persons or local authorities (other than poor law authorities) having the management of sanatoria or other institutions approved by the Local Government Board, which treatment it shall be lawful for a local authority to provide as respects insured persons resident outside as well as respects those resident within their area; and

- (b) with a view to providing treatment for such persons otherwise than in sanatoria or other institutions, with persons and local authorities (other than poor law authorities) undertaking such treatment in a manner approved by the Local Government Board, which treatment (including the appointment of officers for the purpose) it shall be lawful for a local authority, if so authorised by the Local Government Board, to undertake.

Board.

39.—Notwithstanding anything in any Act, it shall be lawful for the managers of the Metropolitan Asylums district, with the sanction of the Local Government Board, to enter into agreements with any county council or county borough council or, with the consent of the county council, with any authority in a county, for the reception of insured persons and their dependants suffering from tuberculosis or any such other disease as the Local Government Board, with the approval of the Treasury, may appoint under section eight of the principal Act, into hospitals or sanatoria provided by the managers, and for this purpose the managers shall not be deemed to be a poor law authority. Any such agreements may provide that the cost of the treatment of the patients so received, or some part thereof, shall be borne otherwise than as provided by section eighty of the Public Health (London) Act, 1891.

"Sanatorium benefit."—As to questions arising on sanatorium benefit and this section see notes to s. 8 (1) (b). Cf. the Prevention of Tuberculosis (Ireland) Act, 1908 (9 Edw. 7, c. 56).

Note that this section, unlike s. 15, contains no prescribing power, but contains within itself the regulations which under s. 15 are to be made by the Commissioners.

"Make arrangements."—See s. 64 (2).

"Sanatoria."—See s. 64 (1).

"Persons having the management."—These words appear to include persons conducting an institution for private profit. Cf. s. 12 (7).

"Other than Poor Law Authorities."—See however s. 39 of 1913, supra.

"Approved by the L.G.B."—It is submitted that the functions of the L.G.B. are merely to approve the Institution and not to approve or in anywise to interfere with the arrangements for treatment of insured persons therein, which are to be made to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners, and of no one else. The Scottish Local Government Board have apparently taken a different view; but it is submitted that the construction of the section is not open to doubt.

In Wales the Welsh Insurance Commissioners are substituted for the L.G.B. as the approving authority for the purposes of this subsection by s. 42 (1) of 1913 [under s. 82 (4) infra].

"Persons resident outside their area."—Cf. the Public Health Act, 1875, s. 131. There is nothing to confine Insurance Committees in their arrangements to local authorities within their area, so that, for instance, county borough patients may be treated in a county sanatorium.

"Otherwise than in sanatoria."—As to local dispensaries see, as to Ireland 8 Edw. 7, c. 56, s. 14. In England only Poor Law Authorities have power to maintain dispensaries (32 and 33 Vict. c. 63 and various Poor Law Orders), but the Public Health Authorities can maintain "hospitals" under the Public Health Acts of 1875 and 1891, and the L.G.B. have, by circular, expressed the view that the word hospitals is wide enough to cover "dispensaries" which are in fact commonly maintained under those powers.

"In a manner approved."—Here again it is submitted that the function of the L.G.B. is merely to define as the English L.G.B. have done by a general Order (App. VIII, 1), the methods of treatment which they will approve, as e.g., tuberculin treatment, &c. It is for the Insurance Committee to recommend particular persons for such

- S. 16 (1) treatment as they may be advised (subs. (3) infra), and to make arrangements, and for the Commissioners to approve those arrangements.

(2) The sums available for defraying the expenses of sanatorium benefit in each year shall be—

(a) one shilling and threepence in respect of each insured person resident in the county or county borough, payable out of the funds out of which benefits are payable under this Part of this Act ;

(b) one penny in respect of each such person payable out of moneys provided by Parliament :

Provided that the Insurance Commissioners may retain the whole or any part of the sums so payable out of moneys provided by Parliament to be applied, in accordance with regulations made by the Commissioners, for the purposes of research.

"Sums available for . . . sanatorium benefit."—The sums named total up to nearly £1,000,000 per annum in addition to the sum of £1,500,000 provided by the Finance Act, 1911, for capital expenditure (s. 64).

"Each insured person resident."—This can only include those persons who are entitled to sanatorium benefit, unless disentitled by some other provision of the Act, at the expense of the Insurance Committee. S. 16 does not apply at all to Members of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund, whose benefits are to be at the expense of that fund [s. 46 (3) (h)], nor to members of the Seamen's Society, except subject to such modifications as may be prescribed under s. 48 (12). It is submitted therefore that one third is not payable in respect of such persons nor of persons to whom ss. 44 and 49 apply.

"Funds out of which benefits are payable."—See ss. 42 (e), 54 (1). Out of the 1s. 3d., sixpence is now allocated to the panel for domiciliary treatment.

"One Penny . . . by Parliament."—This is in addition to the two-ninths of all benefits provided by Parliament under s. 3, and the capital sum provided under s. 64. A medical research committee has been appointed to advise on the expenditure of this sum, say £57,000 per annum.

(3) An insured person shall not be entitled to sanatorium benefit unless the Insurance Committee recommends the case for such benefit.

"Recommendations."—Presumably on medical advice given under the head of medical benefit, or on the advice of the medical officers of the local authorities with whom the Committee has an arrangement. The technical right of the Committee to refuse sanatorium benefit could rarely be exercised seeing that domiciliary treatment will normally be given by a panel doctor in the ordinary course of practice without special recommending. S. 16 (3)

(4) An Insurance Committee may, out of the sums available for defraying the expenses of sanatorium treatment, defray in whole or in part the expenses of the conveyance of an insured person to or from any sanatorium or institution to which he may be sent for treatment therein, or may make advances for the purpose.

"Expenses of conveyance."—Local authorities receiving grants from the State under s. 64 might reasonably be expected to pay part of the cost of conveyance to or from their own sanatoria. The expenses of removal of a corpse cannot presumably be paid out of the fund for sanatorium benefit. See also s. 37 (3).

17.—(1) The Insurance Committee for any county or county borough may, if it thinks fit, extend sanatorium benefit to the dependants of the insured persons resident in the county, or any part of the county, or in the county borough, or any class of such dependants, and in such case the arrangements to be made by the committee shall include arrangements for the treatment of such dependants, and the sums available for sanatorium benefit shall be applicable to the purpose. Power to extend sanatorium benefit to dependants.

"If it thinks fit."—Its discretion is not fettered by the limit of sums available under s. 16 (2).

"Extend sanatorium benefit to dependants."—Apart from public health considerations, the extension of sanatorium benefit to dependants will effect an ultimate saving to the insurance funds in two ways: (1) by protecting insured persons from being infected by tuberculous dependants who reside with them and (2) by treating in the earliest possible stage, when alone treatment is of much value, young persons with tuberculous tendencies who might, on reaching the age of 16, become insured persons and soon have to go on the funds for sickness as well as sanatorium benefit.

S. 17 (1) — “Dependants.”—This word, as defined in the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, s. 13, includes : wife, husband, father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, step-father, step-mother, son, daughter, grandson, grand-daughter, step-son, step-daughter, brother, sister, half-brother, half-sister, whether the relationship is legitimate or illegitimate. It also includes a child en ventre sa mère. But it only applies to persons who actually were, or but for the accident incapacitating him, would have been wholly or in part dependent upon his earnings at the time of his death. As to this see notes to s. 2 (1) (b) supra. This definition, however, is not here incorporated, and the Insurance Committee is given an unrestricted power of ascertaining the persons in fact dependent (s. 79) ; these persons apparently need not be relatives at all.

“Insured persons resident.”—It is clear that ss. 16 and 17 must be read together, and in fact take the place of the Regulations of the Commissioners under s. 15 in relation to medical benefit. They refer only to the benefits administered by the Insurance Committees and the persons who are the objects of those benefits. The words have therefore, it is submitted, the same meaning as in s. 16 (2), and the benefit cannot be extended to the children of, e.g., soldiers in the Navy and Army Fund. It would obviously be improper for the Insurance Commissioners either to give such dependants benefits at the expense of the Committee's funds contributed in respect of civilians, or to extend the burdens on the Navy and Army Fund without the sanction of the Admiralty and Army Council.

(2) If in any year, the amount available for defraying the expenses of sanatorium benefit is insufficient to meet the estimated expenditure on sanatorium benefit for insured persons and such dependants, the Insurance Committee may, through the Insurance Commissioners, transmit to the Treasury and the council of the county or county borough an account showing the estimated expenditure for the purpose and the amount of the sums available for defraying the expenses of sanatorium benefit, and the Treasury and council may if they think fit sanction such expenditure.

For similar provisions relating to medical benefit, see s. 15 (7) supra, and notes, which are also applicable to this subsection.

“May sanction.”—If they do not sanction it the Committee will apparently be obliged to withdraw sanatorium benefit from the dependants. But if the funds provided under s. 17 (2) are still insufficient, the only remedy will be to exercise their powers, under s. 16 (3), and recommend fewer insured persons for such treatment, or only to recommend them for dispensary treatment which is less costly than treatment in a sanatorium. S. 17 (2)

(3) The Treasury and the council of the county or county borough sanctioning such expenditure as aforesaid shall thereupon each be liable to make good, in the case of the Treasury out of moneys provided by Parliament, and in the case of the council of the county or county borough out of the county fund or borough fund or borough rate, as the case may be, one-half of any sums so sanctioned by them and expended by the Insurance Committee on sanatorium benefit for insured persons and their dependants in the course of the year in excess of the amount available for defraying the expenses of the committee on sanatorium benefit.

Cf. s. 15 (8) supra, and notes.

18.—(1) Where the mother of the child is herself an insured person, and is not the wife or, in the case of a posthumous child, the widow of an insured person, maternity benefit shall be treated as a benefit for her and shall be administered in cash or otherwise by the approved society of which she is a member, or, if she is not a member of any society, by the Insurance Committee; in any other case the benefit shall be administered in the interests of the mother and child in cash or otherwise by the approved society of which the husband is a member, or, if he is not a member of any such society, by the Insurance Committee, and shall be payable in respect of a posthumous child as if the husband were still alive: Administration of maternity benefit.

benefit.

14.—(1) Maternity benefit shall in every case be the mother's benefit, but where the benefit is payable in respect of the husband's insurance, the wife's receipt, or his receipt if authorised by her, on her behalf shall be a sufficient discharge to the society or committee, and, where the benefit is paid to the husband, he shall pay it to the wife, and in subsection (1) of section eighteen of the principal Act for the words "treated as a benefit for her husband, and shall be administered in cash or otherwise by the approved society of which he is a member" there shall be substituted the words "administered in the interests of the mother and child in cash or otherwise by the approved society of which the husband is a member."

Provided always that the mother shall decide whether she shall be attended by a duly qualified medical practitioner or by a duly certified midwife, and shall have free choice in the selection of such practitioner or midwife [the rest of this proviso is repealed by s. 14 (4) of the Act of 1913].

As to maternity benefits generally, and questions arising under this section, see notes to s. 8 (1) (e) supra and see s. 8 (6), (8) (d).

"Mother of the child."—In the Model Rules for approved societies (Appendix V., p. 861) the Commissioners define "confinement" as "labour resulting in the issue of a living child or labour after 28 weeks of pregnancy resulting in the issue of a child whether living or dead."

"In cash or otherwise."—As provided, for instance, by s. 12 (2), proviso (ii), whereby, in certain cases the benefit may be applied to secure treatment in a hospital. The words "or otherwise" practically give the society control of the way in which the 30s. is to be spent and according to the Model Rules for approved societies (Appendix V., p. 861), the society may at the discretion of its committee of management pay any part of it direct to the doctor or midwife attending at the confinement.

"Herself an insured person."—She may be insured (a) if she is employed, whether married or not, (b) if unmarried, as an "ordinary voluntary contributor"; but if she marries, and is not thereafter employed, she cannot get maternity benefit [s. 44 (1)], unless her husband is insured, although she may become a voluntary contributor S. 18 (1) at 3*d.* a week [s. 44 (2)].

"Treated as benefit for her . . . treated as benefit for her husband."—The effect of the words repealed was that the benefit depended upon the position as to arrears, etc., of the person in each case mentioned. It followed that where the benefit was for the husband he alone could claim it [see note to s. 8 (1) (e) (4) supra]. From a financial point of view, if the husband, or if both parties, are members of "approved societies" and not out of benefit, it will apparently make very little difference whether the benefit is treated as hers or his; in either case the husband's right to other benefits will remain untouched. But where either or both are "deposit contributors" (see s. 42 infra), it will make a considerable difference.

"Shall be payable in respect of a posthumous child."—In such a case the right of claim must clearly be in the wife, but it is submitted that in other cases, the above note is nevertheless probably correct.

"Free choice of . . . practitioner or midwife."—The Model Rules for approved societies (Appendix V., p. 861) make it clear that the mother must be attended at her confinement by either a doctor or a certified midwife, and, though she has free choice of either, she would not receive maternity benefit if she were only attended by an uncertified person. In some towns 70 per cent. of the confinements are attended by midwives, and since the Midwives Act of 1902 came into full operation the proportion has increased.

14.—(2) At the end of subsection (1) of section eighteen of the principal Act the following words shall be inserted:

Where a woman who is an employed contributor is the wife, or if the child is a posthumous child the widow, of an insured person, then—

- (a) if her husband is, or was at the date of his death, a member of an approved society, and by reason of an insufficient number of contributions having been paid by or in respect of him, or on account of arrears, no maternity benefit is payable in respect of his insurance, she shall on her confinement be entitled to receive in respect of her own insurance such sum as she would have been entitled to receive if he had not been an insured person; and

(b) If her husband is, or was at the date of his death, a deposit contributor, and by reason of an insufficient number of contributions having been paid by or in respect of him or of the insufficiency of the sum standing to his credit in the Deposit Contributors Fund, no maternity benefit or a sum less than the full maternity benefit is payable in respect of his insurance, she shall on her confinement be entitled to receive, in respect of her own insurance, such sum as, with the sum (if any) payable in respect of her husband's insurance, is equal to the sum she would have been entitled to receive if he had not been an insured person.

(2) In deciding whether or not they shall make an order under the Bastardy Laws Amendment Act, 1872, for the payment of the expenses incidental to the birth of a child, the justices shall not take into consideration the fact that the mother of the child is entitled to receive maternity benefit under this Part of this Act.

Punish-
husband in certain
neglect.

19. Without prejudice to any other legal liability, where under the immediately foregoing section, which relates to the administration of maternity benefit, of this Act, maternity benefit is given or paid to the husband, it shall be the duty of the husband to make adequate provision to the best of his power for the maintenance and care of his wife during her confinement, and for a period of four weeks after her delivery, and if he neglects or refuses to do so he shall be liable upon summary conviction to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding one month.

"Other legal liability."—As to the common law liability of a person who is in fact in charge of, or bound to maintain, an invalid, see R. v. Friend, R. & R. 20, and R. v. Bubb and Hook, 4 Cox. C. C. 454. See also the Vagrancy Act, 1824 (38 G. 4, c. 83, s. 3).

"Imprisonment."—A fine may, however, be inflicted. (Summary Jurisdiction Act, 42 and 43 Vict. c. 49, s. 19).

"Summary conviction."—There is no provision in the Act enabling the wife to give evidence against her husband, and at common law she is not a competent witness for the purpose (2 Hawk. c. 46, 55, 70, 77, R. v. Griggs, Sir T. Raym. 1, R. v. Jagger, 1 East P.C. 455). Nor is this a case within the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898. Perhaps, however, although the offence does not involve personal injury to the wife inflicted by the violence of the husband, it is "an offence touching the person of the wife, so that she must know it of necessity, while it may be utterly unknown to everyone else" (per Blackburn, J., in Reeve v. Wood, 34 L.J. M.C. 15; 11 L.T.N.S. 449) and admissible on that ground.

20. For the purpose of the administration of Reinsurance for the purposes of maternity benefit, maternity benefit the Insurance Commissioners may, if they think fit, by special order provide for the reinsurance with them of the liabilities of all approved societies in respect of maternity benefit, and the order may provide for the method of calculating the premiums to be charged against the several societies in respect of such reinsurances and may contain such other incidental, consequential, and supplemental provisions as may appear necessary for the purpose.

The intention of the section is apparently to insure a flat rate of expenditure by all societies for the purpose of maternity benefit so as to avoid penalising any society on account of the fecundity of its members. Such a special order would further extend the bachelors' and spinsters' tax, which the Act in fact imposes. Since, however, to secure any real equalisation of risks, and to avoid doing a greater injustice, it would be necessary to remain as a maternity benefit, also the sick pay received by an insured married woman during confinement, and since this was not permitted by the section, no special order has been made. But by s. 14 (3) of 1913 this difficulty is removed.

"Special Order."—Under s. 113, and Appendix I—1, 14 (b), p. 450.

21. It shall be lawful for an approved society or Insurance Committee to grant such subscriptions or donations as it may think fit to hospitals, ^{Power to subscribe to hospitals, &c.}

- s. 21 dispensaries, and other charitable institutions, or for the support of district nurses, and to appoint nurses for the purpose of visiting and nursing insured persons, and any sums so expended shall be treated as expenditure on such benefits under this Part of this Act as may be prescribed.

"Lawful."—But not obligatory; thus approved societies or insurance committees may demand some control or representation on the boards of management of hospitals in return for any subscriptions given under this section.

"Other charitable institutions."—This is a wide term, but probably it means ejusdem generis with hospitals, or at all events institutions carrying on work of the kind dealt with by this Act.

"Appoint nurses."—See s. 14 (2), especially (c).

"Prescribed."—No regulations dealing with the subject have yet been made; and it is suggested that the application of this section might well wait until it is ascertained if societies have any surplus available for the purpose.

22.--(1) The council of any borough or urban or rural district may agree with the council of the county in which the borough or district is situate to repay to the latter council the whole or any part of the sums payable by that council in accordance with the provisions of this Part of this Act towards the excess expenditure on medical or sanatorium benefit so far as such excess is properly attributable to the borough or district, and any sums payable by the council of the borough or district in pursuance of such an agreement shall be payable, in the case of a borough, out of the borough fund or borough rate, and, in any other case, as part of the general expenses incurred by the council in the execution of the Public Health Acts.

"Borough," i.e., "municipal borough, any place for the time being subject to the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882" [Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 15 (1), (4)], not including a metropolitan borough [London Government Act, 1899, ss. 1 and 31 (1)]. S. 22

"The Provisions."—Ss. 15 (7), (8), and 17 (2) (3) supra.

(2) The agreement may provide that the county council shall not raise any sum on account of any expenditure incurred by them under this Part of this Act for the purpose to which the agreement relates within the borough or urban or rural district the council of which has entered into such agreement, during the continuance of such agreement.

In this case the expenditure in the remainder of the county will be charged to the "special county account," so as to be levied only upon the parts of the county which have not made any such agreement (see the Local Government Act, 1888, s. 68).

Approved Societies.

23.—(1) Any society, that is to say, any body of persons, corporate or unincorporate (not being a branch of another such body), registered or established under any Act of Parliament, or by Royal Charter, or if not so registered or established, having a constitution of such a character as may be prescribed, which complies with the requirements of this Act relating to approved societies, may be approved by the Insurance Commissioners, and, if so approved, shall be an approved society for the purposes of this Part of this Act:

"Not being a branch."—See ss. 27, 40, and 79 infra. "The expression 'branch' in relation to a society shall not include any branch of the society which is not itself separately registered" (s. 79).

"Branch" is thus defined in the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, s. 106: "any number of the members of a society, under the control of a central body, having a separate fund, administered by themselves, or by a committee or officers appointed by themselves, and bound to contribute to a fund under the control of a central body."

Branches which do not comply with this definition have to be registered as separate societies [s. 17 (2) of that Act]. The definition in s. 79 does not mean that a "branch" within the meaning of this Act must necessarily be registered as a separate society, under the F.S.A. 1896, ss. 17-19, branches may be registered as such.

S. 23 (1) There are no provisions in the other Acts mentioned in the next note dealing with the constitution of branches. Trade unions and other societies registered under those Acts, as well as unregistered societies, will be treated as having no branches under this Act unless the branches are registered as separate trade unions or societies.

"Registered or established under any Act of Parliament."—The Acts referred to, in addition to special and private acts, apparently include:

The Friendly Societies Act, 1896 (ss. 8-22 and 71).
 The Companies Act, 1908 (ss. 1-21).
 The Companies Clauses Act, 1845.
 The Trade Union Acts, 1871 (ss. 6, 13, 14) and 1876 (s. 6).
 The Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893 (ss. 3-19).
 The Building Societies Act, 1874 (ss. 9, 12, 17).
 The Assurance Companies Act, 1909 [s. 36 (4)].
 See also: the Shop Clubs Act, 1902 (s. 2).
 The Licensing Act, 1902 (ss. 24, 25).
 The Collecting Societies and Industrial Assurance Companies Act, 1896.

For the power of societies to register under the F.S.A., 1896, for the purposes of this Act see s. 75; and for the application of the above statutes to the business under this Act of societies registered under them see s. 76 infra.

As to registration of a Trade Union with illegal objects, see Parr v. Lancashire and Cheshire Miners Federation 108 L.T. 446. The registration is apparently good until cancelled under the Trade Union Act, 1871.

"Or if not so registered."—Such societies are at present subject to a limited statutory regulation. If they exist "for the purpose of carrying on any business that has for its object the acquisition of gain by the company (society), or by the individual members thereof," they are made illegal by the Companies Act, 1908 [s. 1 (2)].

Thus a loan society (Jennings v. Hammond, 9 Q.B.D. 225; Shaw v. Benson, 11 Q.B.D. 563); and a mutual marine association (re Arthur Average Association, L.R. 10 Ch. 545 n.; re Padstow Total Loss and Collision Assurance Association, 20 Ch.D. 137; re London Marine Association, L.R. 8 Eq. 176, 195) are, if unregistered, illegal and unable to maintain actions. But whether an unregistered friendly society would come under that section is doubtful (see re One and All, &c., Association, 25 T.L.R. 674). But even if illegal such a society is not criminal and its members are entitled to sue defaulting officials for money converted to their own use (Marrs v. Thompson, 86 L.T.N.S. 759), and to prosecute them under the Larceny Act, 1868 s. 1 (R. v. Stainer, L.R. 1. C.C.R. 230; R. v. Tankard, 1894, 1 Q.B. 548); although such a society is probably not a "partnership" (Oldham Our Lady's Sick and Burial Society v. Taylor, 3 T.L.R. 472). Such members can also restrain by injunction the application of the funds otherwise than according to the rules (Wolfe v. Matthews, 21 Ch. D. 194, and cf. As.R.S. v. Osborne, 1910, A.C. 87). As to the general position of friendly societies not registered as such see further: Knowles v. Booth (32 W.R. 432); Swaine v. Wilson (24 Q.B.D. 252); Duke v. Littleboy (49 L.J.Ch. 802); Hornby v. Close (L.R. 2 Q.B. 153); Farrer v. Close (L.R. 4 Q.B. 602); Gozney v. Bristol Trade and Provident

Society (1909, 1 K.B. 901); Russell v. Amalgamated Society of S. 28 (1) Carpenters and Joiners (1910, 1 K.B. 506; 28 T.L.R. 276). An unregistered Friendly Society is an "unregistered company" for the purpose of winding-up proceedings under the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908 (re Victoria Society, 107 L.T. 755).

Such societies, if they contain members serving in the territorial army, naval volunteers, &c., are subject to the F.S.A., 1896, s. 43 (1), (2); and if they provide payments on the death of children under five years of age, to, ss. 62-67. If they are collecting societies, i.e., friendly societies or branches, or persons or bodies granting life assurances of less than £20, who receive contributions or premiums by means of collectors at a greater distance than ten miles from their registered office or principal place of business, and in the case of industrial assurance companies, at less periodical intervals than two months, they are subject to the Collecting Societies, &c., Act, 1896.

If they carry on assurance business (life, fire, accident, including sickness, employers' liability, and bond investment), within the meaning of s. 1 of the Assurance Companies Act, 1909, they are subject (unless they are registered as trade unions) to the provisions of that Act, and must deposit £20,000 with the Paymaster-General (s. 2 of that Act), unless they can obtain exemption from the Board of Trade under s. 35.

"A constitution . . . prescribed."—See Appendix I—1, 8 (1) (a), (2), and (3), p. 447, and Appendix II—15, p. 648.

"May be approved."—As to the extent of the discretion vested in the Commissioners see note to subs. (3) hereof, and as to preliminary expenses incurred by a society with a view to approval and application therefor see Appendix III—A, 1, pp. 802.

It is clear that the approval of any one of the National Commissions is valid only in that part of the Kingdom in which the Commissioners has jurisdiction, and a society operating in more than one part of the United Kingdom, therefore requires the approval of the Joint Committee. (See the Joint Committee Regulations, art. 8, post p. 446). S. 16 (2) of the Act of 1913 (q.v. under s. 83 infra), however, allows a society approved by one of the Commissions to retain under certain circumstances members removing to another part of the United Kingdom, and to this extent to operate beyond its territorial limits.

Provided that, where any society establishes for the purposes of this Part of this Act a separate section consisting of insured persons, whether with or without honorary members not being insured persons, and so constituted as to comply with the requirements of this Act relating to approved societies, such separate section may be approved by the Insurance Commissioners, and, if so approved, shall be an approved society, and the provisions of

s. 23 (1) this Part of this Act relating to the conditions of approval of societies and to approved societies shall apply only to such separate section of the society.

"A separate section."—There is no restriction upon the objects for which the parent society may have been established; it is not even necessary that the relief of sickness should be one of them. The "separate section" need not be registered, but if it is not it will be an "unregistered society," and must apparently accept the prescribed constitution. See Appendix II—16, p. 349.

"For the purposes of this part of this Act."—A "separate section" being the creature of this Act, and created for the purposes of this Act alone, it will be ultra vires, such a separate section to transact any business other than business under the Act. It cannot, therefore, contain any members contributing for benefits on its private side, not having a private side. It follows that its membership will consist of members for the purposes of the Act and honorary members only, and apparently an insured person who is a member of another society for the purposes of the Act cannot be an honorary member of a separate section. But it is submitted that s. 34 does not apply to honorary membership so that one person may be an honorary member of a number of societies or sections.

"Honorary members."—The existence of such members is contemplated by the F.S.A., 1896, s. 78 (1) (c), which provides that their signatures to an instrument of dissolution shall count towards the requisite majority; although they (in common with other members) have no claim upon the surplus funds after dissolution (Braithwaite v. A.-G., 1909, 1 Ch. 510). But there is no definition of them in that or this Act. The rules of Friendly Societies usually provide that "honorary members" shall have the privilege of subscribing to the funds but not those of voting, taking part in management, or receiving benefits (e.g., the Ancient Order of Foresters, General Law 39; the Independent Order of Oddfellows, Manchester Unity, General Rule 56). Apparently the intention here is that "honorary members" shall be distinct from the "members not being insured persons" mentioned in subs. (2) (ii), for by subs. (2) (iii) they may not vote, though it is not said that they are ineligible for the committee of management.

"The provisions . . . shall apply only to such separate section."—The parent society may, e.g., be carried on for profit contrary to subs. (2) (i), or not managed in accordance with subs. (2) (ii).

(2) No society shall receive the approval of the Insurance Commissioners unless it satisfies the following conditions:—

If a society did in fact receive the approval of the Commissioners in contravention of this subsection such approval would be a nullity, and the society would not be an "approved society" (Yabbicom v. King, 1899, 1 Q.B. 444).

- (i) It must not be a society carried on for profit; S. 23 (2) (i)

"Carried on for profit."—These and similar words have created a considerable difficulty in the interpretation of various statutes. The first question is "whose profit," i.e., do the words refer to the profit of the society or company as distinct from that of its members or any class of them? Clearly an insurance company which issues policies to persons who are not members or shareholders carries on its business for the profit of the shareholders, and seeks to make a profit for them out of the policy-holders, even where it issues "participating policies" (Last v. The London Assurance Corporation, 10 A.C. 438). The Companies Act, 1844 (7 & 8 Vict. c. 110, s. 2) required the registration of any company "established for any commercial purpose, or for any purpose of profit": it was held that this did not include a co-operative land society (R. v. Whitmarsh, 15 Q.B. 600), or a mutual loan society (Bear v. Bromley, 18 Q.B. 271), on the ground that the society as such made no profit, whatever the individual members might do: "in fact by profit is meant profit arising from others, not profits or advantages raised from, and accruing to, only the members of the company" (per Erle, J., ib. at p. 276). To meet these decisions (per Lindley, L.J., in In re Padstow Total Loss and Collision Assurance Association, 20 Ch.D. 137, at p. 149) the definition was altered in the Companies Act, 1862, s. 4 [now the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, s. 1 (2)] to "company . . . that has for its object the acquisition of gain by the company . . . or by the individual members thereof." These words were held (in that case) to include a mutual marine insurance society, also a mutual loan society (Jennings v. Hammond, 9 Q.B.D. 225; Shaw v. Benson, 11 Q.B.D. 563), but not an investment trust, on the ground that it does not carry on a business (Smith v. Anderson, 15 Ch.D. 247). No such words being included here, it must be taken that the profit intended in this section can only be a profit of the society as such, or a profit to be made by dealing with persons who are not members. The question remains whether a society can be said to be carried on for profit (a) by the issue of policies without right to profit, or (b) by the sale of fixed annuities, or (c) by deriving a part of its income from investments. No doubt profit from all these sources is taxable under the Income Tax Acts, although the share of profits returned to the holders of participating policies in a mutual society is not (New York Life Insurance Co. v. Styles, 14 A.C. 381; Equitable &c. Society v. Bishop, 1900, 1 Q.B. 177). Registered friendly societies are exempted by the Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910 (10 Edw. 7 c. 8), s. 70. But where the policy-holders and annuitants, whether participating or not, are members of the society, it would seem that the society cannot be "carried on for profit" as defined in Bear v. Bromley (ubi supra); and as to the income from investments, it is clearly contemplated in this Act [ss. 54 (3) and 56 (1) (b)], that approved societies are to derive part of their funds in this way. Moreover, the principal objects of the society must be looked at (R. v. Whitmarsh, ubi supra). The Scottish case of Scottish Widows' Fund v. Allan (3 F. 129; 38 Sc.L.R. 84) is against this view, but appears to be in conflict with most of the English cases.

(ii)

(ii) "Its constitution must provide to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners for its affairs being subject to the absolute control of its members being insured persons or, if the rules of the society so provide, of its members whether insured persons or not, including provision for the election and removal of the committee of management or other governing body of the society, in the case of a society whose affairs are managed by delegates elected by members, by such delegates, and, in other cases, in such manner as will secure absolute control by its members ;

"Absolute control."—Subject of course to the statutory control provided by the various Acts under which the societies may be registered, and by this Act, e.g., it would appear from s. 76 that a collector employed by a society or company could not vote (see C.S.A., 1896, s. 8) or hold office in the society or separate section, although an insured person. See Appendix II—15, 46 p. 648.

"Insured persons."—Within s. 1 supra.

"Whether insured persons or not."—See note as to "honorary members," subs. (1) supra. Apparently the persons here contemplated are persons insured independently of this Act.

"The election . . . governing body of the society."—This provision applies only to the central governing body of a society with branches, because a branch cannot by itself become "approved" [see subs. (1) supra and cf. s. 27 (1) (a) and notes infra]. The F.S.A., 1896, lays down by s. 9 (3) and its First Schedule (4) that the rules shall provide for "The appointment and removal of a committee of management (by whatever name), . . . and in the case of a society with branches, the composition and powers of the central body, . . ." but it does not require this to be done by any particular method. In the case of a Collecting Society, a collector cannot be a member of the committee [C.S.A., 1896, ss. 8 (a) and 14 (1) (a)]. A minor can in no case be such a member [F.S.A., 1896, s. 36 (2) and s. 74 infra].

"Delegates elected by members."—This provision was inserted to meet the case of a number of Collecting Societies and of the Hearts of Oak Benefit Society, Rule 38 of which lays down that every annual or special meeting of the society shall be constituted of a Board of Delegates, each of whom shall be elected to represent a district of approximately 1,000 members, by those members, by means of voting papers sent out by and returned to the secretary of the society by post. This Board elects the executive council and officers. S. 23 (2)

 The existence of such an arrangement is contemplated by the F.S.A., (ii) 1896, s. 106 (definition of "meeting"). —

- (iii) If the society has honorary members, its constitution must provide for excluding such honorary members from the right of voting in their capacity of members of the society on all questions and matters arising under this Part of this Act.

This does not mean that honorary members are to take no part in the management of the society's business under this Act; they are not rendered ineligible as committee-men, and in that capacity may of course vote on questions which that body can decide. But they must not vote in the election of the committee or delegates, nor on any questions which have to be submitted to the society (or separate section) as a whole.

Note, however, that in an approved society, not being a separate section, benefit members on the private side of the society may vote on questions arising under the Act. The Commissioners have, however, endeavoured to secure that insured members shall preserve effective control of the statutory business. See the Model Rules (post 41 (1), p. 887).

(3) Applications for approval under this section may be made and approval granted at any time before or after the commencement of this Act, and the Insurance Commissioners may grant approval either unconditionally or subject to the condition of the society taking within such time as the Commissioners may allow such steps as may be necessary to make the society comply with the requirements of this Part of this Act relating to approved societies.

"The commencement of this Act."—See s. 115 infra.

"May grant approval."—A difficult question arises as to the limits of the discretion vested in the Commissioners, and as to the remedies open to a society dissatisfied with a refusal of its application, or with the grant of approval to some rival body. It is recognised "that in public statutes words only directory, permissive, or enabling, may have a compulsory force where the thing to be done is for the public benefit or in advancement of public justice" (per Coleridge J. in R. v. Tithe Commissioners, 14 Q.B. 459). But this is the furthest extent to which the principle that "may" is in some cases equivalent

S. 23 (3) to "must" can be carried. "Where a power is deposited with a public officer for the purpose of being used for the benefit of persons who are specifically pointed out, and with regard to whom a definition is supplied by the Legislature of the conditions upon which they are entitled to call for its exercise, that power ought to be exercised, and the Court will require it to be exercised" (per Lord Cairns, L.C. in Julius v. Bishop of Oxford, 5 A.C. 214 at p. 225). "The question whether a public officer, to whom a power is given by such words, is bound to use it upon any particular occasion, or in any particular manner, must be solved aliunde, and, in general, it is to be solved from the context, from the particular provisions, or from the general scope and objects, of the enactment conferring the power" (per Lord Selborne, ib. at p. 235). "The enabling words are construed as compulsory whenever the object of the power is to effectuate a legal right" (per Lord Blackburn, ib. at p. 244). Yet the words of Cotton, L.J., in re Baker (L.R. 44 Ch. 271) may well be referred to: "I think that great misconception is caused by saying that in some cases 'my' mean must. It can never mean 'must' so long as the English language retains its meaning." The question therefore is whether this Act confers a right upon societies which comply with its provisions to claim approval. It should be noted that subs. (2) thereof is cast in negative form "no society shall be approved unless it satisfies, &c." it does not follow that a society which does satisfy those conditions has any right to approval. On the other hand the power of attaching conditions to the grant of approval is by this subs. limited to the particular condition herein mentioned. It follows that no other condition can be attached which will be binding upon the society in future (R. v. Dodds, 1905, 2 K.B. 40); and this appears to point to the conclusion that the Commissioners are not entitled to make for themselves rules as to the conditions other than those mentioned in subs. (2) which they will require generally from all societies seeking approval (exp. Randall, 27 T.L.R. 505; exp. Holloway, 1911, 2 K.B. 1131). But if they exercise "a discretion according to the rules of reason and justice, not according to private opinion; according to law and not humour" (per Lord Halsbury, L.C., in Sharp v. Wakefield, 1891 A.C. 173 at p. 179), and if they exercise it in each case on the merits of that case (R. v. West Riding C.C., 1896, 2 Q.B. 386) it appears that no mandamus will issue to compel them to approve a society. Sed cf. R. v. Mitchell, 108 L.T. 76. If, however, they refuse to determine an application, or allow themselves to be influenced by considerations not applicable to the case (R. v. Shann, 1910, 2 K.B. 418), mandamus will issue to compel them to determine it according to law or certiorari may issue to bring up and quash their determination whether they have granted approval or not (Board of Education v. Rice, 1911, A.C. 179). See also Altgen v. Emerson, 24 Q.B.D. 58.

"The requirements"—Including such requirements as the Commissioners are themselves empowered to make, by regulation or otherwise.

A society which is conditionally approved may embark upon the transaction of business as soon as the Act comes into force.

As to the consequences of approval being withdrawn, see s. 29 infra.

24.—(1) It shall be lawful for any body of persons, S. 24 (1) corporate or unincorporate, established before the passing of this Act which is desirous of transacting insurance business under this Part of this Act, or of making any amendments in its constitution, or administration, or contributions, or benefits, or otherwise which may be necessary or expedient in consequence of the passing of this Act, notwithstanding anything in the provisions of the Acts under which it is established or registered or carried on, or of its memorandum or articles of association, rules, or other instruments governing its constitution or defining its objects, to do all such acts and things (including the establishment of a separate section as aforesaid) as may be necessary for the purpose of enabling the body to undertake the transaction of such business as soon as may be after the passing of this Act and, if the instrument regulating the constitution of the body contains provisions requiring any interval to elapse before action can be taken, such provisions shall not apply to action taken for the purposes aforesaid.

Power of societies to undertake business under Part I.

“Contributions or benefits.”—See especially s. 72 infra.

“Rules.”—It will be necessary for registered societies to register new rules defining the constitution of the society (or separate section) for the purposes of such business, but the society will be able to proceed to business without waiting for the new rules to be registered. See s. 27 (3) infra, and Appendix V, p. 862.

“Separate section.”—S. 23 (1) supra.

17. Where the executive body of a society show to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that it is of importance to the society that the rules of the society should be amended or varied immediately, but that, owing to the requirements of the rules the amendments or variation cannot be made without delay

Variation in rules of approved societies.

S. 17 of 1913 or without the authority of a meeting of the society, or some committee, or delegate body, and that that meeting cannot be held without undue delay or expense, the Commissioners may, on the application of the executive body, authorise the variation or amendment if rendered necessary by the passing of this Act to come into force immediately, and continue in force until the delay required has elapsed, or until the time at which the meeting would in ordinary course have been held, and where the rules require the sanction of a special general meeting the Commissioners may authorise the substitution of the sanction of the annual general meeting.

(2) Subsections (3) and (4) of section seventy of the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, shall not apply to any resolutions for amalgamation or transfer of engagements when the resolution is made expressly for the purposes of this Part of this Act.

Those subss. prohibit such amalgamation or transfer except with the assent of five-sixths of the members, and the written consent of every member entitled to present benefits whose claim is not first satisfied, unless the Chief Registrar, after hearing all parties interested, orders that such consents may be dispensed with. The rest of s. 70 and s. 74 of the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, continue however to apply, subject to subs. (1) supra.

(3) This section shall come into operation on the passing of this Act, and shall not continue in force beyond the expiration of one year from the commencement of this Act, except so far as may be necessary to enable a society which has undertaken the transaction of insurance business under this Part of this Act to continue to transact such business.

“The commencement.”—See s. 115 infra and note to s. 5 (1) (a) supra.

“Except so far as may be necessary,” i.e., any changes made within the year will remain valid, but no changes after that date will be validated by this section.

25.—(1) Where a society consists of persons entitled to rights in a superannuation or other provident fund established for the benefit of persons employed by one or more employers, the society may be approved, notwithstanding that the employer is entitled to representation on the committee or other body administering the fund to an extent not exceeding one quarter of the total number of the body, if the employer, in addition to the employer's contributions payable by him under this Part of this Act, is responsible for the solvency of the fund or for the benefits payable thereout, or is liable to pay a substantial part of, or to make substantial contributions to, or substantially to supplement, the benefits payable out of the fund :

Special provisions for employers' provident funds, etc.

"Notwithstanding . . . administering the fund."—This would otherwise be inconsistent with s. 23 (2) (ii) supra.

"The employers' contributions."—See s. 4 (1) and the Second Schedule supra.

"Responsible for the solvency."—i.e., liable to make good any deficit on each valuation [ss. 36, 38 and 39 (7) infra] or in the benefits as they become due. Unless the trade is an unusually unhealthy one [see s. 63, especially (2) (a), infra], or the fund is mismanaged, this should not entail any expense for the employer. As to whether it is intra vires a corporation to undertake such responsibility (see Henderson v. Bank of Australia (40 Ch. D. 170) and Hutton v. West Cork Ry. Co., 52 L.J. Ch. 689. It is clear that the dispensation from the restriction of the memorandum of association, etc., given by s. 24 (1) does not apply for this purpose.

"A substantial part."—Not of the benefits under this Act, but extra benefits. Cf. the Shop Clubs Act, 1902, s. 2 (a).

Provided that no such society as aforesaid shall be approved unless by its constitution it is prohibited so far as concerns the benefits under this Part of this Act from refusing to allow a member to transfer to another approved society, and from refusing to allow a member who is discharged from or leaves the employment of the employer and is unable to

s. 25 (1) obtain admission to another approved society on account of the state of his health to continue a member, and unless its constitution provides for the election of the members of the committee of management (other than the employer's representatives) by ballot :

“No such society.”—I.e., no society on the committee of which an employer is entitled to representation : such a society would, but for this enabling section, not conform to s. 23 (2) (ii). This section does not prevent any society otherwise capable of approval from becoming approved.

“Transfer.”—See ss. 31, 32 infra. No mention is made of transfer to the Post Office fund [s. 43 (1) (a) infra]. But it appears from those sections that in any case the society could hardly prevent a transfer.

“To continue a member.”—Cf. similar provisions as to seamen, marines and soldiers in s. 46 (3) (4), and as to the mercantile marine in s. 48 (8) infra ; cf. also the Shop Clubs Act, 1902, s. 6.

Provided also that no such society shall be approved if the employer makes membership of such society a condition of employment.

“A condition of employment.”—Whether it is so made at the time of engagement or afterwards (Balchin v. Lord Ebury, 20 T.L.R. 60). “Shop Clubs” where membership is made compulsory, unless in connection with railway companies, are illegal unless certified under the Shop Clubs Act, 1902, s. 2, with the consent of 75 per cent. of the workmen, as well as registered under the F.S.A., 1896. It is open to question whether compulsory membership does not involve compulsion upon the society to accept such members, and so interfere with the “absolute control” required by s. 23 (2) (ii).

Quare, whether under the former Act it is an offence for employers to impose, as a condition of employment, membership of a society which does not consist solely of their employees ; it would be in the discretion of the Insurance Commissioners to refuse approval to such a society.

(2) Where, for the purpose of enabling any such society to become an approved society, it is necessary to make any alteration in the existing rules or constitution of the society which it is not competent for the society under its existing constitution to make, a scheme for the purpose may be submitted for the approval of the Insurance Commissioners.

Cf. s. 24 supra and s. 73 infra, and Appendix I.—1, 8 (1) (d), p. 446.

(3) Where such a scheme has been approved by the Insurance Commissioners, the Act or deed constituting the society shall have effect subject to the provisions of the scheme, but the Insurance Commissioners shall not approve any such scheme unless they are satisfied that the members of the society have been given an opportunity of voting by ballot thereon, and that the scheme makes proper provision for safeguarding existing rights and interests. s. 25 (3)

"Voting by Ballot."—Nothing is said as to the result of the ballot; presumably, therefore, a bare majority will be sufficient.

"Existing rights and interests."—See s. 73 infra.

26.—(1) Every approved society and every society desirous of becoming an approved society shall give such security as the Insurance Commissioners may consider sufficient to provide against any malversation or misappropriation by officers of the society of any funds coming to the hands of the society under this Part of this Act, and in determining the amount of the security to be required the Commissioners shall have regard to the amount of the funds so coming into the hands of the society: Provided that no security shall be required from any society which proves to the Insurance Commissioners that the only funds coming into the hands of the society under this Part of this Act are such funds as are required for reimbursing to the society sums previously expended by the society under this Part of this Act. Security to be given by approved societies

See Appendix I—1, 8 (1) (c), p 447.

"Such security . . . sufficient."—By Special Authority No. 6 issued by the Treasury in pursuance of s. 8 (5) of the F.S.A., 1896, societies may be registered for guaranteeing the fidelity of officers of

S. 26 (1) societies generally, and by the F.S.A., 1908, s. 1, the guarantee of fidelity of its own officers is included as an object of a society. As to the securities required of unregistered societies under the Assurance Companies Act, 1909, see p. 119 supra. Presumably the Board of Trade will grant exemption to approved societies as of course.

The Commissioners have constituted a mutual guarantee fund (as to which see their Memorandum) membership of which is considered as sufficient security for the purposes of this section. Separate security is required by the Commissioners to be given in respect of moneys paid over for current expenses under s. 54 (1) and capital paid over under s. 56 (1) (b).

"Any funds coming to the hands of the Society."—See s. 56 infra. As to the security which the officers themselves might be required to give to the society see the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, s. 54, and the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, s. 47.

(2) In the case of an approved society with branches having insured persons among their members, security shall be given in respect of each such branch by the society.

(3) The Insurance Commissioners may from time to time vary the amount of security to be given or maintained by an approved society as may be thought proper, and, where security is given by way of deposit of securities, the society which made the deposit may, with the consent of the Insurance Commissioners, substitute other securities for the securities for the time being deposited.

(4) Any dividends or interest arising from securities deposited by an approved society under this section shall be paid to the society.

Provisions as to approved societies.

27.—(1) Every approved society shall, as respects the administration of the affairs of the society under this Part of this Act, make proper provision by rules to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners for the government of the society, and if a society with branches—

(a) for the government of the society and its branches;

"Rules."—See the Model Rules in Appendix V, p. 861, which, S. 27 (1) however, do not attempt to dictate on any of the matters mentioned in this section. (a)

"To the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners." —And in conformity with s. 23 (2) supra. See Appendix I—1, 8 (1) (d), p. 447.

"Branches."—For definition see note to s. 23 (1) supra, and for further provisions as to branches see ss. 35–38 and 40 infra.

Societies registered under the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, are already required by s. 9 (3) and the First Schedule of that Act to make provision by their rules for:—

"3. The mode of holding meetings and right of voting, and the manner of making, altering or rescinding rules.

"4. The appointment and removal of a committee of management (by whatever name), of a treasurer and other officers, and of trustees, and in the case of a society with branches, the composition and powers of the central body, and the conditions under which a branch may secede from the society.

"5. The manner in which disputes shall be settled."

On the last point see also s. 68 of that Act.

- (b) for the determination of disputes arising between the society and any branch thereof, or between one such branch and another ;

See s. 67 and notes infra, where it is also provided that disputes between a society or branch and an insured person who is or has ceased to be a member, and any person claiming through him, shall be settled in accordance with the society's rules.

- (c) for the administration of benefits by the branches as respects insured persons who are members of such branches ;

"Administration of benefits."—As to detailed rules for this purpose see s. 14 (2) supra.

- (d) for the keeping of proper books of account by the branches in any case where separate accounts are usually kept by those branches ;

For the present requirements as to accounts see the First Schedule to the Friendly Societies Act (5) and (10) ; see also s. 35 (1) (a) infra. See Appendix II—18, p. 652.

- s. 27 (1) (e) for depriving of or suspending from the right of administering benefits under this Part of this Act any branch which is guilty of maladministration of those benefits, or is convicted of any offence under any Act, and for providing in such a case for their administration by the society or otherwise.

"Maladministration."—See s. 38 (1) (a), (b) and (f) supra.

"Convicted of any offence."—See the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, ss. 84 (a), (b), (c), (f), 86, 89, 91, as respects offences by branches, under that Act, and as respects offences under this Act, see ss. 29 and 69 infra.

(2) Every approved society and every branch thereof shall comply with any regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners as to the place in which meetings are to be held, and those regulations may provide for the use for such meetings, with or without payment, of any offices or other buildings under the control of a Government department (including offices or buildings occupied by or in connexion with a labour exchange) or belonging to or under the management of a local authority, but subject to the consent of the Government department or the local authority concerned.

"Offices . . . a local authority."—Cf. s. 59 (4) infra and note.

(3) Where under any Act regulating the constitution of an approved society the rules of the society are required to be registered, any rules approved under this section by the Insurance Commissioners shall forthwith be registered, but until so registered shall have effect as if they had been duly registered.

Cf. ss. 14 (5), 23 (1), 24 (1), and 25 (2) supra.

28.—(1) No branch of an approved society having insured persons among its members shall be entitled to secede or withdraw from the society without the consent of the Insurance Commissioners; but such consent shall not be given unless the seceding or withdrawing branch complies with the conditions of approval requisite in the case of approved societies, and, on any such consent being given, the branch shall be subject in all respects to the provisions and requirements of this Part of this Act relating to approved societies :

s. 28 (1)
Seces-
sions, etc.

Provided that such consent shall not be required if the branch makes provision to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners for the transfer to other approved societies or to other branches of the society from which it is seceding or withdrawing of such of its members as are insured persons.

"Secede."—This is one of the matters for which a society registered under the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, must provide by rule [see note to s. 27 (1) (b) supra]; unless the secession is in accordance with the rules the branch cannot be registered as a separate society (s. 20 of that Act). Now the consent of the Commissioners is made a further condition. But a branch which does not comply with s. 20 of that Act might nevertheless be approved as an unregistered society under s. 23 (1) supra. But neither in that Act nor in this does there appear to be special provision for the case of a branch seceding from one society and joining another, though s. 73 of that Act provides for one registered society becoming a branch of another; it seems that under this Act a branch of one society could only join another by first becoming approved as an independent society.

"Complies with the conditions of approval."—See s. 23 supra, and Appendix I.—1, 8 (1) (e), p. 447.

"Transfer."—See s. 31 infra.

(2) An approved society or a branch thereof shall not be dissolved without the sanction of the Insurance Commissioners, and any such dissolution, so far as it affects members who are insured persons, shall be carried out in the prescribed manner.

- S. 28 (2) The dissolution of societies is at present regulated as follows :—
 — The Friendly Societies Act, 1896, ss. 78–83.
 The Collecting Societies Act, 1896, s. 12.

In the case of unregistered societies the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, ss. 267–273 (re Victoria Society, 107 L.T. 755).

Where the approved society is a separate section [s. 23 (1) supra] this provision applies only to that section, and the Commissioners will have no control over the dissolution of the parent society, except in so far as it involves that of the separate section.

The Insurance Commissioners may also make regulations as to the dissolution, amalgamation of, and transfer of engagements between approved societies [Act of 1913, s. 28 and First Schedule (A) and (B) under s. 65 (1) infra].

(3) No branch of an approved society shall be expelled from the society, unless proper provision is made to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners with respect to any members of the branch who are insured persons.

The expulsion of branches is at present regulated by the same provisions as their secession. See note to subs. (1) supra.

(4) This section shall have effect notwithstanding anything contained in any Act regulating the constitution of the society.

“Any Act.”—See notes to s. 23 (1) and the previous notes to this section. The effect is not to dispense with any of the requirements of the sections there cited, but to superadd those of this section.

With-
approval.

29.—Where an approved society or a branch of any approved society fails to comply with any of the provisions or requirements of this Part of this Act relating to approved societies, or where such a society or branch or the body of which the society forms a separate section is convicted of any offence under any Act regulating its constitution or under any other Act, the Insurance Commissioners may withdraw their approval, and thereupon the society shall cease to be an approved society and the Insurance Commissioners shall make such provision as they may consider necessary with respect to members of the society who are insured persons. s. 29

"Any other Act."—This includes any statutory offence whatever, but apparently not common law offences.

See Appendix 1—1, 8 (1) (a), p. 447.

By s. 28 and First Schedule (c) of the Act of 1913 [q.v. under s. 65 (1) infra], the Insurance Commissioners may also make regulations authorising the withdrawal of approval in case of maladministration.

Membership of Approved Societies and Transfer of Members.

30.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, any insured person and any person entitled to become an insured person may apply to an approved society for membership therein. Admission of insured persons to membership in approved societies.

See Appendix V—3 p. 897.

"Entitled to become."—In view of subs. (3) this apparently means a person who, being of opinion that he will become an insured person at the commencement of this Act (s. 115 infra) wishes to apply for membership before that date, but strictly a person cannot until then be entitled to become insured.

"Apply."—For a model form of application. See Appendix V, p. 897.

An application filled in by the Society's agent and signed by the applicant binds him. (Biggins v Rock & Co. (1902), 1 K.B. 516.)

"Membership."—i.e. for the purposes of the Act (s. 79 infra).

(2) An approved society shall be entitled, in accordance with its rules, to admit or reject any such applicant, or to expel any of its members being insured persons: Provided that no such application shall be refused solely on the ground of the age of the applicant.

"Admit or reject."—The terms on which this may be done are required by the various Acts, under which societies may be registered, to be defined in the rules, but are not otherwise prescribed. See Appendix V, pp. 863, 876.

S. 30 (2) "Expel."—This must also be regulated by the rules, and may validly be imposed in a voluntary society as a consequence of non-payment of subscriptions (Call v Wood, 102, L.T.N.S. 614). See, however, s. 79 infra, and cf. s. 10 (1). But it is doubtful whether those sections deprive a society of the right to expel members who are in arrears. Disputes arising out of it are at present settled in accordance with the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, s. 68, or the Collecting Societies Act, 1896, s. 7; see, however, s. 67 infra. A member can only be expelled in accordance with the rules; see Appendix V. p. 876.

"The age of the applicant."—This is at present a common ground of rejection; see Model Rules for Friendly Societies, issued by the Central Registry Office, Rules 7 and 8. "Sex, occupation, and residence are also grounds of exclusion suggested in those Model Rules, and apparently may continue to be adopted in "approved societies." A purely voluntary society, of course, cannot afford to accept members past middle age, but under the Act the loss due to this is compensated by a "reserve value" (s. 55). Minors of any age may (subject to rules) be members of Friendly Societies (Act of 1908, s. 2); but persons under 16 cannot be members of Industrial and Provident Societies (Act of 1893, s. 32), or insured under this Act, s. 1 (1). Persons over 65 at the commencement of the Act (s. 49) or 61 first becoming insured [s. 4 (4)] may nevertheless be rejected on the ground of age, not being insured persons.

"Solely."—Apparently age coupled with some other ground would be permitted, even if age were the real determining factor.

(3) This section shall come into operation on the passing of this Act.

See note to subs. (1) supra.

Transfer from one
another.

31.—(1) If an insured person, being a member of an approved society, ceases to be a member of that society, whether voluntarily or by expulsion, and becomes a member of another approved society, there shall be transferred to such other society in respect of such person a sum representing the liability under this Part of this Act of the first-mentioned society in respect of him (in this Act called "transfer value") calculated in accordance with tables to be prepared by the Insurance Commissioners:

Provided that such transfer value shall not be so transferred in any case where the first-mentioned society proves that the insured person voluntarily ceased to be a member of that society without the consent of the society, and that that consent was not unreasonably withheld. s. 31 (i)

"Ceases . . . voluntarily."—Except where a whole branch secedes [as to which see s. 28 (1) supra] voluntary withdrawal is not regulated by the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, but it is one of the matters required to be dealt with by the rules of a society under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893 (Second Schedule, 9).

"By expulsion."—As to branches, see s. 28 (3), and as to individuals, s. 30 (3) supra.

"Becomes a member of another approved society."—For a similar provision with regard to such a man who becomes a "deposit contributor," see s. 43 (1) (a) infra.

"Representing the Liability."—Obviously, the actual liability varies from man to man according to health and constitution. The tables prepared under this section, however, give a uniform transfer value for all men of one age, though, in the case of women, different transfer values are calculated for married and single employed contributors. Probably, the simple age basis is the only practicable one for these tables, and a person who is disabled and for whom, therefore, an adequate transfer value is provided by these tables, must remain in the society of which he has been a member. In the case of dissolution of a society and the consequent compulsory transfer of disabled members, it is clear that some provision for a special transfer value must be made. See Appendix IV—7 p. 844, post.

"Transfer value."—At the moment of entry into insurance (within twelve months of the commencement of the Act), this is the same as "reserve value" [see s. 55 (1) infra], but, whereas the latter is constant the former varies as time goes on. As to transfer values where the transfer is from England, Scotland, Ireland, or Wales to another of those countries see note to s. 83 (3) infra, and Appendix I—1, 13 (d), p. 449.

(2) This section shall apply to transfers from one branch of an approved society to another branch of the same or any society in like manner as it applies to transfers from one society to another society. Transfers to foreign and colonial societies.

32.—(1) If an insured person ceases to be permanently resident in the United Kingdom and becomes a member of any society or institution established in a British possession or foreign country, of a kind similar to an approved society,

s. 32 (1) which is approved by the Insurance Commissioners, or of any branch established outside the United Kingdom of an approved society, the transfer value of such person, or, in the case of a deposit contributor, the amount standing to his credit in the Post Office fund, shall be paid to such society or institution or branch; but no such payment shall be made, unless the Insurance Commissioners are satisfied that the society, institution, or branch in question gives corresponding rights to any of its members becoming resident in the United Kingdom.

See Appendix I—1, 15 (a), p. 450.

“Ceases to be permanently resident in the United Kingdom.”—Cf. the first Schedule, Part I. (b) at p. 11 under s. 1 (2) and s. 8 (4) at p. 168 supra and notes. In spite of the ambiguity of language this must mean “becomes permanently resident elsewhere.”

This section throws some light on the territorial application of the Statute. It is a recognised principle that leges extra territorium non obligant a Statute of the United Kingdom applies only to the United Kingdom, except in so far as a contrary intention appears in the Statute (Rose v. Hinely, Crouck, 244, 1). This principle has been applied by the Courts to the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, for instance (Schwartz v. India Rubber, etc., Co., 27 T.L.R. 331). But s. 8 (a) of this Act clearly expresses a limited intention of application to persons “temporarily or permanently resident outside the United Kingdom.” The question, therefore, arises, how far does the Act apply abroad; when does a person cease to become an insured person? The answer would seem to be: At the point where ss. 32 and 33, which provide for a surrender value, become applicable; that is to say, when “he ceases to be permanently resident” here. But what these words mean is not too clear. It is submitted that it means emigration in the ordinary sense—leaving the United Kingdom, without the intention of again becoming permanently resident; intending to make a home elsewhere. This stage is reached before that of a change of domicile, which does not arise until the new home is made.

“British possession.”—“Any part of H.M. dominions exclusive of the United Kingdom” (Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 18), and therefore inclusive of the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man. [See s. 8 (4) proviso].

“Branch established outside the United Kingdom.”—The Friendly Societies Act, 1896, extends to the Isle of Man and the Channel Islands; the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, only to the latter Islands, and branches established outside the British Islands are not regulated by those Acts. The Trade Union S. 32 (1) and Companies Acts do not extend beyond the United Kingdom. —

"Transfer value."—S. 31 supra. •

"Deposit contributor . . . Post Office fund."—Ss. 42-3 infra, but note that the provisions of s. 43 (2) apparently do not apply to this case.

"Shall be paid."—i.e., in cash, not merely credited, as in the case of a society in the United Kingdom.

"Gives corresponding rights."—There are existing arrangements in force in some of the affiliated orders for transfer value of members going from one lodge to another, including those in British possessions and the U.S.A. ; see, e.g., Rule 92 (b) of the Manchester Unity of Oddfellows.

(2) Where an arrangement has been made with the Government of any British possession or with the Government of any foreign State, whereby insured persons may be transferred to a society or institution established in the British possession or foreign State similar to an approved society or the Post Office fund, and members of any such society or institution may be transferred to approved societies or to the Post Office fund, it shall be lawful for the Insurance Commissioners to make such arrangements as may be necessary for any such transfer as aforesaid, and for the determination of the amount to be transferred in any such case, and of the rights to which any person transferred is to be entitled ; so, however, that nothing in this section shall affect the rights of a society under this Part of this Act to refuse applications for membership.

"The rights . . . to refuse membership."—See s. 30 (2) supra. See also Appendix I—1, 15 (b), p. 451.

33. If a person who has for not less than five years been a member of an approved society for the purposes of this Part of this Act has ceased permanently to reside in the United Kingdom, and does not join such a society, branch, or institution Transfer values of emigrants who remain members of approved societies.

s. 33 as is in the last foregoing section mentioned, and the approved society is willing to permit him to remain a member of the society and to become entitled to benefits independently of this Act, the society may, subject to regulations by the Insurance Commissioners, transfer from the account of the society under this Part of this Act to the credit of the society independently of this Act such sum as would have been transferred to the Post Office fund had the member ceased to be a member of the society and become a deposit contributor, and so much of any reserve value which may have been credited to the society in respect of him as would in such a case have been cancelled shall be cancelled.

See Appendix I--1, 15 (c), p. 451.

"Transfer from the account . . . independently of this Act."—There are other cases similar in character to this, to which, however, this section does not apply. See, e.g., the First Schedule, Part II (g) and the proviso to s. 1 (3) supra.

"Become a deposit contributor."—See s. 43 (1) (a) infra.

Prohibition against double insurance.

34.—A person shall not be or attempt to become a member for the purposes of this Part of this Act of more than one approved society at the same time, or, being a deposit contributor, to become at the same time a member for the purposes of this Part of this Act of an approved society, but nothing in this Act shall prevent any person who is a member of an approved society under this Part of this Act becoming a member of the same or any other society independently of this Act, or prevent a deposit contributor becoming a member of any society independently of this Act, or affect the right of an approved society to reject or expel from membership any person not being an insured person, or the rights or liabilities of an approved society or of any member thereof arising otherwise than under this Part of this Act; and, subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, all rules made by a society which becomes an approved society or any branch thereof shall remain and be of the same force and effect as though this Act had not been passed.

"Member for the purposes of the Act."—The marginal note: "Prohibition against double insurance:" makes it clear (see Nicholson v. Fields, 31 L.J., Ex. 233; Bushall v. Hammond, 73 L.J. K.B. 1005) that this does not apply to honorary membership for the purposes of s. 23, even though such membership confers powers of taking part in the government of the society.

"Subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act."—Especially ss. 14, 24, 25 and 27 supra, and 72 and 73 infra.

Accounts: Valuations: Surplus and Deficit.

35.—(1) Every approved society and every branch of an approved society must—

- (a) Keep its books and accounts under this Part of this Act separate from all other books and accounts of the society or branch, and in such form as may be prescribed by the Insurance Commissioners, and, when required, submit them to audit by auditors to be appointed by the Treasury;

Approved societies to keep proper accounts.

As to accounts of branches, cf. s. 27 (1) (d). The keeping of separate accounts for each fund must already be provided for by the rules [F.S.A., 1896, First Schedule (10)]. See Appendices I—1, 9 (a) p. 447, II—18, p. 652 and V, pp. 883, 895.

"Audit."—Annual audit is required by the F.S.A., 1896, s. 20. It is the duty of an auditor not only to check each item in the accounts with the vouchers, but also to ascertain whether the payments represented by the vouchers are authorised by law and by the rules, or whether they are in any way illegal or improper. (Thomas v. Devonport Corporation, 1900, 1 Q.B., 16).

"Prescribed."—See the regulations (post p. 652).

"Appointed" and paid [s. 57 (3) infra]; public auditors are at present appointed by the Treasury under s. 30 of the F.S.A., 1896, but societies need not employ them, and must pay them if they do.

- s. 35 (1) (b) Submit to have its assets and liabilities under this Part of this Act valued in accordance with the provisions of this Part of this Act ;

See s. 36 and Appendix V, p. 885. A quinquennial valuation is at present provided for, though not in all cases compulsorily, by the F.S.A., 1896, s. 28.

- (c) In the event of a surplus or deficiency being shown upon any such valuation, comply with the provisions relating to surpluses and deficiencies hereinafter contained ;

"Surpluses."—See ss. 37, 39, and 83 (3) infra.

"Deficiencies."—See ss. 38, 39, and 83 (3) infra.

- (d) Render such returns as the Insurance Commissioners may require.

As to the annual returns at present required see the F.S.A., 1896, s. 27 ; and for the return which may be substituted for valuation, cf. s. 28 (1) (b), (3), of that Act.

- (2) Regulations made under this section shall provide for a separate account being kept showing the amount expended on administration, and for limiting the amount which may be carried to that account out of the contributions under this Part of this Act, and for requiring any deficiency in such account (if not otherwise defrayed) to be met forthwith by a special levy.

"Separate account."—See note to subs. (1) (a) supra. It will not be necessary or possible under this Act to keep (as is now required) the contributions in respect of each benefit in a separate fund, but it will be highly desirable to keep a separate account of the expenditure on each. This is now required by the First Schedule 10 (ii) of the Accounts Regulations, p. 653. See also Appendix 11—19, p. 656.

"Limiting the amount."—The amount allowed in the actuarial estimate (Cd. 5, 983) was 3s. 8d. per member per annum (allowing for arrears), or 92d. per week. See the Accounts Regulations, First Schedule 10 (iii), p. 654. It will be noted that those regulations do not in terms limit the amount to be credited out of contributions, but the amount to be credited out of the contribution account, which includes [ibid. art. 10 (i) (c)] the State grant in respect of administration, and amounts to 3s. 6d. per annum. To this must be added 1⁷/₂d. for administration of Insurance Committees under s. 61 (1), and an unascertained charge for administration of medical benefit under s. 15 (c), so that the prescribed maximum somewhat exceeds the estimate.

"If not otherwise defrayed," e.g., by fines [s. 14 (a) supra], or by contributions independent of this Act [s. 34 supra and (4) infra].

"Special levy."—Cf. s. 38 infra, but note that the method of enforcing payment through the employer [s. 38 (1) (c)] will not be available in this case. Probably also it will not be possible to take into account arrears of such a levy under s. 10, because the effect would really be to charge the amount against benefits.

(3) The provisions of this Part of this Act relating to accounts, audit valuation and returns shall, as respects the transactions of any approved society or branch thereof under this Part of this Act, be substituted for such of the provisions of any Act regulating the constitution of the society or branch as deal with the like matters.

S. 35 (3) “The provisions of any Act.”—See the above notes ; the effect is also to supersede the existing rules with regard to these matters, since the rules are required by statute to deal with them.

The existing Acts and rules will continue to apply to transactions outside this Act, i.e., those relating to members who are not “insured persons” within s. 1, or within ss. 46 or 49, and those dealt with in s. 34 ; one effect will be that societies transacting both classes of business will have to be valued triennially under this Act [s. 36 (1)], and quinquennially under some of the other Acts, e.g., the F.S.A., 1896, s. 28.

(4) In the case of a society or branch transacting other business besides that of insurance business under this Part of this Act, all funds and credits of the society or branch under this Part of this Act shall be as absolutely the security of the members for the purposes of this Part of this Act as if they belonged to a society or branch carrying on no other business than such insurance business, and shall not be liable for any contracts of the society or branch for which they would not have been liable had the business of the society or branch been only that of such insurance, and shall not be applied directly or indirectly for any purposes other than those of insurance business under this Part of this Act.

Where a separate section of a society has been established and such separate section is an approved society under this Part of this Act, the expression “society” in this subsection means the society of which the separate section has been established and not the separate section.

“Other business.”—Whether business similar to, but independent of, that transacted under this Act, or business of an entirely different character. Since, in the case of a “separate section,” “society” here means the parent society, the other business would include trading for profit in any manner whatever. Where the society is a trade union or a separate section of a trade union, this subsection prevents the application of any funds under this Part of the Act to the purposes of a strike. It appears to follow that, although a trade union, whose objects are in restraint of trade, cannot in general be sued by a member for benefits, it could if it became approved be sued for those provided by the Act, or to enforce an award under s. 67 hereof. (Russell v. Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, 1910, 1 K. B. 506, at pp. 523 and 528, 28 T. L. R. 276 at p. 278; but see Thomas v. Portsmouth A. &c., 28 T. L. R. 372). The Commissioners can in the last resort enforce their own award by withdrawing approval under s. 29.

"Shall not be liable for any contracts."—Sed quære as to contracts for acquiring new offices, rebuilding old ones, employing servants, &c., for the purpose of mixed private and statutory business. Can the builder or secretary who has got judgment against the society enforce it against the insurance monies of the society either in the hands of the trustees or of the Commissioners? The matter is by no means clear. The money is, apparently, the property of the society, though the Act nowhere states definitely whose property it is; but is affected by certain statutory trusts; and the Commissioners at least would seem to be entitled to say "we can make no payment out of the National Health Insurance Fund except for the purposes set out in s. 54 (1) of the Act, and s. 56 (1) (b) thereof. The society would seem to be somewhat in the position of a cestui que trustee of settled property with a restraint on anticipation.

"Shall not be applied . . . this Part of this Act."—In particular, a society is prohibited by these words from charging to administration account [subs. (2) supra] any expenses incurred in connection with other business.

"Separate section."—S. 23 (1) supra.

See Appendix III—A, 1, 2, p. 802.

36.—(1) A valuation of the assets and liabilities arising under this Part of this Act of every approved society and of every branch of an approved society shall be made by a valuer, to be appointed by or with the approval of the Treasury, at the expiration of every three years dating from the commencement of this Act, or at such other times as the Insurance Commissioners appoint; the times so appointed may be at shorter or longer intervals than three years and at regular or irregular intervals, and may apply to all approved societies or any particular society or societies.

"Liabilities arising under this Part of this Act."—Including, after the first valuation which shows a disposable surplus, liabilities under any scheme for additional benefits [see s. 37, especially (1) (d)], but not under a scheme made in virtue of s. 72 infra.

"A valuer to be appointed by . . . the Treasury."—If the Treasury appoint, they must pay [s. 57 (3)]. Public valuers are already appointed by the Treasury under the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, s. 30. See the "Instructions to Public Valuers," issued by the

S. 36 (1) Registrar of Friendly Societies. In this Act a "valuer" means "a person possessing such actuarial qualifications as may be approved by the Treasury" (s. 79 infra).

"The commencement of this Act."—See s. 115 infra, and note to s. 5 (i) (a) supra.

(2) Every such valuation shall be made on such basis as may be prescribed.

"Basis."—It appears from s. 63 (4) infra that the Insurance Commissioners are to prepare tables showing the average expectation of sickness for the purpose of valuations. They will also prescribe the rate of interest to be assumed for that purpose. See Appendix I—1, 9 (b), p. 448.

Surplus. 37.—(1) If upon any such valuation a surplus (certified by the valuer to be disposable) is found, the following provisions shall apply :—

(a) If the society is not a society with branches, the society may submit to the Insurance Commissioners a scheme for distributing out of such surplus any one or more additional benefits among insured persons who are members thereof for the purposes of this Part of this Act and, upon any such scheme being sanctioned by the Insurance Commissioners, the society may distribute such additional benefit or benefits in accordance with the provisions thereof :

"Society with branches."—See ss. 27 supra and 40 and 79 infra.

"May submit."—See note to (b) infra.

"Additional benefits."—See the Fourth Schedule, Part II, under s. 8 (1) (f) supra. See also Appendix I—1, 9 (i), p. 448.

(b) If the society is a society with branches, any surplus in the central fund of the society, including any surplus transferred from the branches to the society under the provisions of this section, shall, subject to the provisions of the next succeeding section of this Act, be applied in the first instance towards making good any deficiency shown by any of its branches; and the society may distribute the balance of the surplus, after making good deficiencies as aforesaid, amongst such of its branches as have a surplus in proportion to the amounts of such surpluses, and the sum so apportioned to a branch shall be treated as an addition to the disposable surplus of that branch :

“The provisions of the next succeeding section.”—S. 38, especially (1) (a).

“Towards making good any deficiency.”—In the unlikely event of the surplus being insufficient to make good three-quarters of the deficiencies in all the branches which have a deficiency, it is apparently left to the discretion of the central body on what basis the sum available is to be distributed.

“May distribute.”—This is not one of the cases in which “may” can be equivalent to “must”; the central body can therefore carry forward any part of such surplus to the next valuation, against the wishes of some of its branches.

- (c) If, on the valuation of a branch of an approved society, a surplus is shown in respect of such branch, there shall be transferred to the central body or other central authority of the society of which it is a branch one-third of the surplus, and the branch may, with the approval of the society, submit to the Insurance Commissioners a scheme for distributing out of the remaining two-thirds of such surplus, together with any such addition as aforesaid, any one or more additional benefits, and, upon any such scheme being sanctioned by the Insurance Commissioners, the branch may distribute such additional benefit or benefits in accordance with the provisions thereof:

"Transferred to the central body."—To make good the deficiencies, if any, of other branches.

"Any such addition as aforesaid."—i.e., any part of the central surplus and of the one-third so transferred which is distributed by the central body under (b).

"Additional benefits."—See s. 8 (1) (f) and the Fourth Schedule, Part II, supra.

(d) If, at any time after a scheme submitted by a society or branch has been so sanctioned as aforesaid, there is found to be a deficiency in the funds of the society or branch, no additional benefits shall be distributed under the scheme until such deficiency is extinguished and a surplus shown.

"Of the society or branch."—This probably does not mean, in the case of a society with branches, that a scheme sanctioned in connection with a branch is to be suspended because there is a deficiency in some other branch or branches; "the society" refers only to a society without branches [(a) supra].

(2) A scheme made under this section may prescribe the conditions to be complied with as respects any additional benefit conferred by the scheme, and every such scheme shall so far as practicable provide for the reduction, suspension, or deprivation of the additional benefits conferred by the scheme in the case of members who are in arrears, and may make a corresponding reduction in the amount to which such members are to be deemed to be in arrears for the purpose of reckoning the rate of sickness benefit. s. 37 (2)

"In arrears."—See s. 10 supra.

"Corresponding reduction."—i.e., the member in arrears is to be credited with the value of the additional benefits to which he would otherwise be entitled, as if it were paid off his arrears under s. 10 (5); but the whole of the provisions of that subs. are not applicable to such a case.

(3) No surplus and no part of any surplus shall be applied for the purpose of paying any benefits payable on death or any benefits other than one or more of the additional benefits specified in Part II of the Fourth Schedule to this Act.

38.—(1) If upon any such valuation a deficiency is found, the following provisions shall apply:—

(a) If the deficiency is shown by a branch of an approved society, three-quarters, or, if the society thinks fit, the whole thereof, shall, in the first place, so far as possible, be made good out of any surplus available for that purpose in the hands of the central body or other central authority of the society:

Provided that the society may, if it is satisfied that the deficiency is due to any maladministration on the part of the branch in question, with the consent of the Insurance Commissioners, refuse to make good any part of the deficiency out of such surplus:

"Surplus in the hands of the central body."—See s. 37 (1) (b) and (c) supra.

"Maladministration."—As to misappropriation by branch officers see s. 26 (2) supra; but the maladministration here referred to would be principally the allowance of unjustifiable claims by members (see s. 71).

S. 38 (1) "Refuse to make good."—In which case a scheme would have to be made under the next s.-s.

(b) Subject as aforesaid, every deficiency shall be made good in accordance with a scheme for that purpose to be prepared by the society, or, in the case of a deficiency in a branch, by the branch subject to the approval of the society, and submitted to the Insurance Commissioners for their sanction; such a scheme shall provide for making good the deficiency, within a period of three years from the date at which the valuation was made, in any one or more of the following ways:—

"Every deficiency."—i.e., the whole deficiency in the case of a society without branches, and in the case of a branch such part of it as the society does not make good. See Appendix 1—1, 9 (ii), p. 448.

(i) By a compulsory levy, by way of increase of the weekly rate of contributions, upon members of the society or branch being insured persons;

See (c) and (d) infra.

(ii) By reducing the rate of sickness benefit either for the whole period during which sickness benefit is payable or for any part thereof;

(iii) By deferring the day as from which sickness benefit becomes payable;

Cf. the Fifth Schedule, under s. 10 (2) supra.

(iv) By reducing the period during which sickness benefit is payable;

S. 8 (1) (c) supra; disablement benefit (d) would, nevertheless, begin to be payable at the termination of that period.

(v) By increasing the period which is required by this Part of this Act to elapse between two periods of disease or disablement to prevent the one being treated as a continuation of the other;

See s. 8 (5) supra.

(vi) By any other method approved by the Insurance Commissioners, and, on the sanction of the Insurance Commissioners being given to the scheme, the society or branch shall proceed to make good the deficiency in accordance therewith :

(c) Payment of the amount of any compulsory levy made in accordance with a scheme sanctioned under this section may be enforced in such manner as may be provided by the rules of the society or branch ; and, where those rules so provide, it shall be lawful for the society or branch in the case of any member to enforce payment of the amount of the levy by giving notice in the prescribed manner to the employer of such member requiring him to pay the amount of the levy, and, upon such notice being given, such amount shall be payable as if it were part of the contribution to be paid by the employer on behalf of the member, and all the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to the payment of such contributions and the recovery thereof from members shall apply accordingly :

"Where those rules so provide."—If the original rules do not so provide, an amendment (if the original rules give power of amend-

- S. 38 (1) ment) may be passed for the purpose, and on registration will be binding on all members, and branches (see the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, s. 13 (1), and Gutberlet v. Woolgar R.C.R. (1898), 32; Smith v. Galloway, 1898, 1 Q.B. 71) unless a policy or other secondary contract has been entered into.

"All the provisions . . . shall apply accordingly."— See s. 4, the Second and Third Schedules, and s. 7 supra, and ss. 69, 70 and 110 infra: the levy would of course be recoverable by the employer from the member. This provision can only apply to "employed contributors." Apart from it there is no means of recovering the levy from members of societies or branches registered under the Friendly Societies Act, 1896 (see s. 23), or under the Trade Union Act, 1871 (see s. 4 (2)). Where the levy is not in any way recoverable, the only effect will be that the members will be in arrears and may be dealt with according to the rules.

- (d) If a member chargeable with a levy falls into arrears, his arrears shall reckon as though the total sum thereof, inclusive of the levy, consisted of the contributions payable by or in respect of him had no levy been made:

See s. 10 (7) supra; subject to regulations to be made under that section the effect appears to be that the total sum, or if the society should excuse payment of the employer's contribution under s. 10 (6), which is unlikely under the circumstances, then the remainder, is to be divided by the amount of the weekly contribution payable by or in respect of him apart from the levy, the quotient being treated as the number of weeks for which the member is in arrear.

- (e) If within six months after the declaration of a deficiency, or, where an inquiry as to excessive sickness is pending under this Part of this Act, such longer period as the Insurance Commissioners determine, such scheme as aforesaid has not been submitted to and sanctioned by the Insurance Commissioners, or if at any time thereafter it appears to the Insurance Commissioners that the society or branch to which the scheme relates is not enforcing the provisions of the scheme, the Insurance Commissioners may take over ^{s. 38 (1)} the administration of the affairs of the society or branch under this Part of this Act, and shall as soon as possible thereafter take such steps as they may think necessary to make good the deficiency by any or all of the methods mentioned in paragraph (b) of this section, and for that purpose they shall be entitled to exercise all or any of the powers given to the society or branch by this Part of this Act :

“Excessive sickness.”—See s. 63 infra.

“Submitted to and sanctioned by.”—Strictly the effect of these words is that by refraining from sanctioning a scheme submitted to them, the Commissioners can give themselves power to take over the affairs of the society, but no doubt this will not occur.

(f) The Insurance Commissioners after taking over the administration of the affairs of any society or branch shall within a reasonable time, not exceeding three years, make arrangements for the restoration to the society or branch of its powers of self-government or, failing that, for the transfer of the members of the society or branch, being insured persons, to other approved societies or branches or to the Post Office fund :

“Transfer . . . societies or branches.”—See s. 31 supra.

“Or to the Post Office Fund.”—See s. 43 (1) (a) infra.

(g) Any question or dispute arising between the Insurance Commissioners and the society or branch in respect of the amount of the deficiency, or as to the adequacy of any

- scheme proposed for making it good, shall be submitted to an independent valuer to be appointed by the Lord Chief Justice, and such valuer shall, subject to the provisions of this Act and of the regulations thereunder, act, so far as practicable, on his own knowledge and experience, and shall have power to determine how and by what parties the costs of proceedings, including his own remuneration, not exceeding such amount as the Treasury may prescribe, are to be defrayed, and his decision shall be final and conclusive :

“The amount of the deficiency.”—Practically, this is an appeal from the valuer to be appointed by the Treasury under s. 36 (1) supra, although the “independent” valuer would not be entitled to find that there was no deficiency.

“Independent valuer.”—Who must nevertheless be a “person possessing such actuarial qualifications as may be approved by the Treasury” (s. 79).

“Subject to . . . regulations thereunder.”—He will therefore be bound by the Tables prepared by the Commissioners for the purpose of valuation [ss. 36 (1) and 63 (4)].

“Final and conclusive.”—Although he is a valuer, it seems a dispute is to be submitted to him, not only on a question of amount, but also as to the adequacy of a scheme. It is, therefore, open to question whether he is not really an arbitrator, and as such bound to state a case, if required, on a question of law, such as the application of the provisions of this Act and of the regulations thereunder. See note to s. 63 (5) infra.

- (h) A scheme made under this section shall not affect any person who becomes a member of the society or branch after the date as at which the valuation was made, or any member over seventy years of age :

“Over seventy.”—See ss. 4 (3), 5 (2), and 8 (3) supra.

- (i) Any insured person who, having been a member of the society or branch at the date as at which the valuation disclosing the deficiency was made, is transferred to another society or to another branch of the same or any other society before the deficiency is made good, shall be liable to any levy or reduction of benefits which has been or may be made in respect of such deficiency in like manner in all respects as if he had not ceased to be a member, and if the transfer took place before the scheme imposing the levy or reduction of benefits was sanctioned, such adjustment in the amount of any transfer value paid in respect of him shall be made as the circumstances require.

"Transferred to another society."—See ss. 31-3 supra. If he becomes a "deposit contributor" [see ss. 42, 43 (1) infra], or drops out of insurance altogether, apparently he will escape the liabilities of this section.

(2) Any member liable to a levy payable at intervals may relieve himself of the liability thereto, and a member subject to a diminution of benefits by virtue of any such scheme may, with the consent of the society or branch, acquire a right to undiminished benefits on payment to the Insurance Commissioners of the capitalised value of the levy or diminution of benefits, as the case may be, ascertained in the prescribed manner.

Cf. s. 9 (4) supra, and Appendix I—1, 9 (c) p. 448.

39.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section all approved societies which at the date of any valuation have less than five thousand insured persons as members for the purposes of this Part of this Act shall, for the purposes of the valuation—

- (a) if they have joined an association formed under this section, be associated with the other societies in the same association; and
- (b) if they have not joined any such association, be grouped together according to the localities in which they carry on business.

Provisions
as to associations.

18. An approved society may join and remain in an association for the purposes of section thirty-nine of the principal Act notwithstanding that the number of its members for the purposes of Part I thereof is less than fifty or more than five thousand, and, in calculating for the purposes of that section the number of persons who are such members, no account shall be taken of members who by reason of marriage are suspended from receiving ordinary benefits and are not special voluntary contributors or who are not insured persons.

"Subject to the provisions."—See subs. (7) infra.

"Date of any valuation."—See s. 36 (1) supra.

"Five thousand insured persons."—In arriving at this number it will be necessary to exclude (a) honorary members [see the proviso to s. 23 (1)]; (b) persons who are insured independently of this Act; and probably also (c) persons who are insured under this Act, but have elected to receive their benefits under this Act through some organisation other than the society in question. This is probably the intention, though the words are clearly capable of the opposite interpretation [see s. 1 (1) supra].

"For the purposes of valuation."—The management will in other respects be left entirely to the society itself, and the rules of such societies need not be uniform. See subs. (8).

"An association."—See subss. (2), (4).

"Grouped."—See subss. (3), (4).

"Localities."—See subs. (5).

(2) Any such societies may, with the consent of the Insurance Commissioners, form for the purposes of this section an association with a central financial committee, provided that the aggregate number of insured persons who are members of the associated societies is not less than five thousand, and the conditions on which a society shall be entitled or allowed to join, or having joined to secede from, an association, shall be such as may be prescribed. S. 39 (2)

See Appendix I—1, 16 (c) p. 452.

"Any such societies."—Irrespective of locality. The societies referred to must be those mentioned in subs. (1) which have less than 5,000 insured members at the date of any valuation; but it is clearly contemplated [subs. (1) (a)] that the association shall be formed before the valuation. The difficulty is to see how a society can then know whether it will have 5,000 members at the date of the valuation or not, and what is to happen if a society has less than 5,000 members on joining, but exceeds that number before the date of the valuation. Presumably, that would be a good and necessary ground for secession from the association; but what if the result is to leave the association with less than 5,000 members? These questions can only be solved by regulation.

"Central financial committee."—See subss. (4), (8).

"Not less than five thousand."—See note to subs. (1) supra.

"Secede from."—Cf. s. 28 supra.

(3) Any such society which has not joined any such association as aforesaid, and which carries on business in any county or county borough, shall, for the purposes of this section, be grouped with the other unassociated societies carrying on business in the same county or county borough.

"Carries on business."—See subs. (5).

"Other unassociated societies."—i.e., with less than 5,000 members, as provided in subs. (1) supra. Under what management is not here specified, but from the next two subss., it appears that the Insurance Committee is to manage the group.

(4) The provisions of this Part of this Act as to the application of surpluses of branches of societies with branches shall apply to such associated and grouped societies as if all the societies in any

S. 39 (4) association or group were branches of a single society, subject to the following modifications :—

"The provisions."—See ss. 37 (1) (b) and (c), and 38 (1) (a). Apparently this includes a right to carry forward a balance in the central fund instead of returning it to the societies. See note to s. 37 (1) (b).

(a) A reference to the central financial committee in the case of an association, and to the Insurance Committee for the county or county borough in the case of a group, shall be substituted for the reference to the central authority of the society ;

"Be substituted."—It will also be necessary to substitute "society" for "branch."

(b) The approval of the central financial committee or Insurance Committee shall not be required to any scheme prepared by an associated or grouped society for the distribution of any surplus.

"Scheme."—S. 37 (1) (c), but it will still be required to a scheme for making good a deficiency [s. 38 (1) (b)].

(5) Where an associated or grouped society is a society with branches, the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to surpluses and deficiencies of societies with branches (except those requiring the approval of a society to a scheme prepared by a branch as to the distribution of a surplus or the making good of a deficiency) shall not apply to the society, but each branch shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be a separate society.

"The provisions . . . deficiencies."—Ss. 37, 38.

"Those requiring the approval."—Ss. 37 (1) (b) and 38 (1) (b)

(6) For the purposes of this section, a society shall be deemed to carry on business only in the county or county borough in which its registered office or s. 39 (6) other principal place of business is situate :

Provided that where of the insured persons who are members of a grouped society at the date of any valuation more than one hundred or more than one-sixth reside in some county or county borough other than that in which the registered office or other principal place of business is situate, the proper proportion of any surplus or deficiency of the society shall, if application for the purpose is made by any of the Insurance Committees concerned, be apportioned to the Insurance Committee of that other county or county borough, such proportion to be determined, in default of agreement between the Insurance Committees concerned, by the Insurance Commissioners.

"Registered office."—See the F.S.A., 1896, s. 24 (1). Where a society is really a separate section of another society not itself approved, and the separate section is not registered [see the proviso to s. 23 (1)], the registered office of the parent society (see the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, s. 11, the Companies Act, 1908, s. 62 &c.) will be the office intended here, unless the separate section has some "other principal place of business."

"Other principal place of business."—Either where there is no registered office, if neither the society itself nor the parent society is registered, or where the registered office is not the "principal place of business," which it need not necessarily be [cf. F.S.A., 1896, s. 40, and note to the First Schedule, Part I. (b) under s. 1 (2) at p. 11 supra].

(7) The Insurance Commissioners may exempt from this section any society consisting of persons entitled to rights in a superannuation or other provident fund established for the benefit of persons employed by one or more employers, if the employer, in addition to the contributions payable by him under this Part of this Act, is responsible for the solvency of the fund, or for the benefits payable

s. 39 (7) thereout, or is liable to pay a substantial part of, or to make substantial contributions to, or substantially to supplement the benefits payable out of the fund, and this section shall not apply to any society to which such an exemption has been granted.

Such a society must comply with the conditions of s. 25 supra, in order to be approved. See the notes to that section.

(8) Except so far as relates to the power of refusing to make good any part of a deficiency due to maladministration on the part of any society, nothing in this section shall be construed as conferring on any central financial committee or Insurance Committee any powers of control over the administration of associated or grouped societies.

"Refusing to make good."—See the proviso to s. 38 (1) (a).

Special provisions with regard to societies with branches.

40.—(1) Where a society with branches is so organised that the branches in different geographical areas are grouped together for the purposes of this section, the branches in any such area may, if and to such extent as the rules of the society so provide, and if the number of members of the branches being insured persons in the area exceeds five thousand, be treated for the purposes of the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to valuations, surpluses, and deficiencies as if they formed a separate society.

"Society with branches."—See notes to ss. 23 (1) and 27 supra, and 79 infra.

"Number of members."—This must probably mean "being insured persons," cf. s. 39 (1) supra.

"The provisions."—Ss. 36–38. The effect will be that the district (or group) will neither contribute towards the deficiencies, nor benefit from the surpluses, of other districts or of the society as a whole.

(2) The rules of any society with branches may provide for the branches reinsuring with the society their liabilities in respect of any of the benefits under this Part of this Act, or, if the society is so organised as aforesaid, for such reinsurance either with the society or with the group. s. 40 (2)

Cf. s. 20 supra.

(3) Where a society with branches has among its members insured persons who are not members of any branch, and the benefits of such members are administered by the society itself, such members shall be treated for the purposes of this Part of this Act relating to valuations, surpluses, and deficiencies as if they formed a separate branch.

41.—Where an approved society, not being a society with branches, has amongst its members both men and women, and the rules of the society so provide, the provisions of this Part of this Act with respect to valuations, surpluses, and deficiencies shall apply to the society as if it were a society consisting of two branches, the one comprising the male members and the other comprising the female members. Power to separate men's and women's funds.

“Not being a society with branches.”—See notes to s. 23 (1), 27, and 40 supra, and 79 infra. In a society with branches it will of course be possible for the funds to be separated if some branches consist entirely of male, and others of female, members. But a branch containing both will not be able to separate its funds. In any case each sex will assist the other in the matter of deficiencies. See, however, note on “separate section,” p. 118 supra.

“The provisions.”—Ss. 36–8 supra.

Deposit Insurance.

42.—Until the first day of January nineteen hundred and fifteen, the following provisions shall apply in the case of insured persons (in this Act referred to as deposit contributors) who have not joined an approved society within the prescribed Provisions as to deposit contributors.

s. 42 time, or who, having been members of an approved society, have been expelled or have resigned therefrom and have not, within the prescribed time, joined another approved society :—

“Until . . . nineteen hundred and fifteen.”—Before which date it will be necessary for Parliament, with fuller information derived from the working of the scheme, to make other arrangements. In view of the decision of many large societies to accept members for the purposes of the Act without medical examination on admission, it appears to be doubtful whether the number (882,000) estimated by the actuaries will be reached.

“Have not joined an approved society . . . expelled.”—See s. 30, and as to expulsion of branches, s. 28 (3) supra; presumably this includes dissolution [s. 28 (2)], and withdrawal of approval (s. 29). See also Appendix I—1, 15 (d), p. 451.

“The prescribed time.”—See Appendix II—20, p. 659. But see Appendix III—A, 3 and 4, p. 803.

“Joined another approved society.”—See s. 36 supra.

(a) Contributions by or in respect of a deposit contributor shall be credited to a special fund to be called the Deposit Contributors' fund :

“Contributions.”—See s. 4 and the Second Schedule supra.

“The Deposit Contributors' Fund.”—The name of this fund is changed by s. 36 of 1913 from the Post Office Fund. The whole of this fund, so far as not required to meet current expenses, will be invested in accordance with s. 54 (3) infra. In addition to the interest so earned [s. 54 (4)] the fund will be swelled by three-sevenths (or in the case of a woman, one-half) of the sums standing to the credit of deposit contributor who die [see (f) infra], including (if she dies before her husband), the one-third which an insured woman leaves on marriage, as a deposit for widowhood [s. 44 (4)], or who cease permanently to reside in the United Kingdom [see (g) infra]. Also by the excess of the amounts standing to the credit of deposit contributors who are transferred to approved societies over the value of their contributions [s. 43 (2) (a) infra]. There is no provision in the Act as to the disposal of these accretions of value, though they might be used under paragraph (b). This will have to be dealt with by Parliament before January 1st, 1915.

(b) The sums required for the payment of any sickness, disablement, or maternity benefit payable to a deposit contributor, except so far as they are payable out of moneys provided by Parliament, shall be paid out of the moneys standing to his credit in the Deposit Contributors' fund, and his right to benefits under this Part of this Act shall be suspended on the sums standing to his credit in that fund being exhausted, except that his right to medical benefit and sanatorium benefit shall continue until the expiration of the then current year, and that the Insurance Committee, if it has funds available for the purpose and thinks fit so to do, may allow him to continue to receive medical benefit or sanatorium benefit or both such benefits after the expiration of such year :

"Sickness, disablement or maternity benefit."—See s. 8 (1) (c) (d) and (e) respectively.

"Payable out of moneys provided by Parliament."—See s. 3 supra.

"Suspended . . . exhausted."—The provisions with regard to arrears (s. 10, supra), including the right to wipe them out by payment [ib. (5)], do not apply to deposit contributors. It appears from s. 79 (infra) that an employed deposit contributor, while "temporarily unemployed" as there defined, is strictly not entitled, even if he could or would, to treat himself as a voluntary contributor or otherwise to pay contributions during that time.

"Medical benefit and sanatorium benefit."—See s. 8 (1) (a) and (b) respectively.

"The then current year," i.e., calendar year.

"Funds available for the purpose."—See s. 15 (6) (7) and (8) as to medical benefit, and ss. 16 (2) and 17 supra as to sanatorium benefit, as well as (d) and (e) and s. 61 (1) and (3) infra.

(c) Such sum as may be prescribed shall in each year be payable in respect of each deposit contributor towards the expenses incurred by the Insurance Committee in the administration of benefits :

"Administration of benefits."—See ss. 14 (1), (3), 15, 16, 18 supra, and 61 infra, and the regulations App. II—21, p. 661. (See also App. III—A, 5 and 6, p. 804.

- (d) Such sum as the Insurance Committee, may, with the consent of the Insurance Commissioners, determine shall in each year be payable in respect of each deposit contributor for the purposes of the cost of medical benefit :

"The cost of medical benefit."—See s. 15 supra, and Appendix III—A, and p. 807.

- (e) The sums payable in respect of a deposit contributor for the purposes of medical benefit and sanatorium benefit, and towards the expenses of administration, shall, except so far as they are payable out of moneys provided by Parliament, be deducted at the commencement of each year from the amount standing to his credit in the Deposit Contributors' fund, and if at the commencement of any year the amount so standing to his credit is insufficient to provide such sums, he shall not, unless the Insurance Committee consents, and except subject to such conditions as that committee may impose, be entitled to any benefits during that year :

"Sanatorium benefit."—See s. 16, especially subs. (2) (a), supra. Since medical and sanatorium benefits are to continue throughout life, this deduction will have to be made after the contributor attains the age of seventy.

"Out of moneys provided by Parliament," i.e., two-ninths in the case of men, and one-quarter in the case of women (s. 3 supra) ; also (in the case of medical and sanatorium benefit) if those funds are insufficient, the Treasury may contribute one-half of the estimated excess, the other half being paid by the council of the county or county borough; and in the case of sanatorium benefit there is a further Parliamentary grant of 1d. per member [s. 16 (2) (b)].

"Unless the Insurance Committee consents."—The consent would presumably be given if at any time during the year the credit became sufficient to provide such sums.

"At the commencement of each year."—Deposit contributors of course had nothing to their credit at the commencement of 1912, and the credit at the commencement of 1913 (24 weeks' contributions) was in most cases insufficient to meet the charges in respect of the 18 months' of 1912-13. Provision was therefore made in this case by Orders under s. 78 for quarterly deductions and other supplementary adjustments (post App. III—A, 9-24, pp. 809 and seq.)

- (f) Upon the death of a deposit contributor, four-sevenths (or in the case of a woman one-half) of the amount standing to his credit in the Deposit Contributors' fund shall be paid to his nominee or, in default of a nomination, to the person entitled to receive the sum as if it were money payable on the death of a member of a registered friendly society, and the balance thereof shall be forfeited, and sections fifty-six to sixty-one of the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, as amended by any subsequent enactment, shall, subject to the prescribed adaptations, apply accordingly :

"Four-sevenths . . . one-half."—Being the proportion which the contributor (if an employed contributor) has himself paid : a voluntary contributor has of course paid the whole. The balance goes to the general credit of the Post Office fund [see (a) supra].

"Nominee."—Nomination must be made by writing under the hand of the nominator, delivered (before his death) at the registered office of the society or branch, or in a book kept there [F.S.A., 1896, s. 56 (1)]; the nominee must not be an officer or servant, including a member of committee (ib. s. 106), of the society or branch, unless he be a near relative of the nominator [ib. s. 56 (3)]; the nomination may be revoked in the same way as made [ib. (4)], and shall be revoked by marriage [ib. (5)]. The society is to pay the money to the nominee on satisfactory proof of death [ib. s. 57 (1)], which must be by a registrar's certificate in any case where the death is, or ought to be, registered

S. 42 (f) [ib. s. 61 (1)], except in case of death at sea, or by an accident where the body cannot be found, or where an inquest is pending [ib. (2)]. Payment without a certificate is an offence (ib. s. 84), though certificates are to be granted at a reduced fee of 1s. (ib. s. 97); but as the two latter sections not being mentioned in this paragraph it is doubtful whether an Insurance Committee will be subject to either.

"Or in default . . . registered friendly society."—In case of intestacy of a member, the sum standing to his credit may be distributed by the society, without letters of administration, among such persons as appear to a majority of the trustees, upon such evidence as they may deem satisfactory, to be entitled by law to receive it [F.S.A., 1896, s. 58 (1)], and if the member was illegitimate, among such persons as would have been entitled to it if he had been legitimate [ib. (2)]; the society is protected against claims by other parties if the trustees have acted to the best of their knowledge in accordance with the Act [ib. s. 60 (1)], but not if, even with the consent of a majority of the next-of-kin, they have paid more than his share to one of them (Symington v. Galashiels C.S. Ltd., 21. Rett. 371); they are protected if they have paid on a nomination in ignorance of a subsequent marriage which revoked it [ib. (2)]. As an Insurance Committee, will not have any trustees (s. 59 infra), it is presumed that the Committee as a whole will exercise the discretion in case of intestacy. *

"Sections fifty-six . . . 1896."—Other than those enumerated in the last two notes, the provisions of these sections are not likely to be applicable to cases under this paragraph.

"Prescribed adaptations."—See the Schedule to the Deposit Contributors, Payment on Death, Regulations, 1913 (post p. 662). The Friendly Societies Act, 1896, as adopted, provides for the case of nomination and of intestacy, but contains no provision as to payment on the death of a contributor leaving a will. In this case the right to receive or recover the money can only be established by production of probate of the will by a court in the United Kingdom (Revenue Act, 1884, s. 11). It is, however, very unusual for the will of an insured person to be proved in solemn form, and the Insurance Committees could hardly require probate as a condition of paying the small sum here involved. If payment is made without probate, it is most improbable that any difficulty will result.

Under Rule 67 (2) (b) of W.C.R. 1913, payment of arrears of compensation may be made to the representatives of a deceased workman without the production of letters of administration.

(g) Where a deposit contributor proves to the satisfaction of the Insurance Committee that he has permanently ceased to reside in the United Kingdom, four-sevenths (or in the case of a woman one-half) of the amount standing to his credit in the Deposit Contributors' fund may be paid to him.

"Permanently ceased to reside."—And is therefore disentitled to benefit [s. 8 (4) supra]; a member of an approved society has not this right (cf. s. 33 supra), though a deposit contributor has the same right as a member of an approved society of transferring to a foreign or colonial society [ss. 32 (1) and 43 (2)].

S. 42 (g)

"Four-sevenths."—See note to (a) supra, as to the disposal of the balance.

43.—(1) If an insured person, being a member of an approved society, ceases to be a member of that society, whether voluntarily or by expulsion, and fails to become within the prescribed time a member of another approved society, then—

- (a) if he becomes a deposit contributor, his transfer value shall be carried to his credit in the Deposit Contributors' fund : Provided that, if a reserve value has been credited to the society in respect of him, such part of that reserve value as is still outstanding (or if the amount so outstanding exceeds the transfer value such part of the reserve value as is equal to the transfer value) shall be cancelled, and the amount, if any, by which the transfer value exceeds the amount so cancelled shall be carried to the credit of the deposit contributor ;

Transfer from approved society to deposit surance and vice versa.

"Whether voluntarily or by expulsion."—No provision is here made for the case of a person who ceases to be insured by reason of ceasing to be qualified, and it is submitted that unless he retires from the society "voluntarily or by expulsion," his membership continues and the society is not accountable for his transfer value which remains in the funds of the society. Should he, however, again become insurable the Society will be liable to give him full benefits as s. 9 (4) does not apply and will receive no reserve value in respect of him.

"If he becomes a deposit contributor."—For the conditions on which he will do so, see s. 42 and notes supra.

"Transfer value."—See s. 31 supra, but note that that section in terms refers only to persons who join another approved society. The calculation is, however, presumably to be made on the same basis, i.e.,

S. 43 (1) "the liability under this part of this Act of the first-mentioned society in respect of him."

— "Reserve value."—See s. 55 and notes infra.

"Still outstanding."—i.e., not written off in accordance with s. 55 (4) infra. The reserve value is fixed once and for all at the date of entry into insurance [s. 55 (1)]; it is then the same as the transfer value, but the latter varies at different ages.

(b) if he does not become a deposit contributor, his transfer value shall be carried to such account and dealt with in such manner as may be prescribed.

"If he does not become a deposit contributor."—i.e., if he drops out of insurance altogether; in view of the words "shall apply" at the beginning of s. 42 supra, it follows that if after the "prescribed time" any further contributions are paid by or in respect of him, he must become a deposit contributor.

"Prescribed."—No regulations have yet been made under this power. It is clear, however, that the Reserve Value of such a person in the event of his re-entry into insurance ought in justice to be a first charge on that account rather than on the sinking fund.

(2) If an insured person who is a deposit contributor subsequently becomes a member of an approved society for the purposes of this Part of this Act, there shall be transferred to the society the amount standing to his credit in the Deposit Contributors' fund:

"Becomes a member of an approved society."—See s. 30 supra; the society cannot reject him on account of age alone, the loss so caused being made up by the reserve values provided for in s. 55 infra. It appears that a deposit contributor is entitled to a reserve value, although it remains in suspense unless and until he joins an approved society; see notes to s. 55 (1) and (2) infra.

"Transferred to the society."—Cf. s. 31 supra.

"Amount standing to his credit."—i.e., the actual amount paid by or in respect of him, less the actual amount expended on his benefits.

Transfers up to the time have been made under Orders, App. III—A, 3 and 4, p. 803.

Provided that—

(a) if that amount exceeds the value of the contributions paid by or in respect of him estimated on the assumption that he had been a member of an approved society since his entry into insurance, the excess shall not be transferred to the society but shall be carried to the credit of the Deposit Contributors' fund ;

"The value of the contributions."—The amount of the contributions would be the same as if he had always been a member of an approved society : the value of them appears to be such sum as together with his reserve value [s. 55 (1) infra] will be equal to the transfer value which he would have if he were a member of an approved society [s. 31 (1) supra], so that the society will suffer no loss by accepting him ; but there will be cases when transfer value is less than reserve value [see s. 31 (1)], and it is not clear what meaning is in such a case to be attached to these words.

"The Deposit Contributors' Fund."—See note to s. 42 (a) supra as to the disposal of such sums.

(b) if that amount is less than such value, the insured person shall be treated as being in arrear to the amount of the deficiency.

"In arrear."—See s. 10, but the machinery of that section will doubtless be applied to such a case by regulations to be made under s. 10(7). Presumably the whole amount of such arrears will be treated as having accrued at the date of transfer, for the purposes of repayment [s. 10 (5)] ; but for the purposes of calculating reduction of benefits [s. 10 (1) and (2)] they will be averaged over the whole time that he has been insured, whether as a "deposit contributor" or a member of an "approved society." It will be difficult to give to such a person the benefit of the exemptions in s. 10 (4) as regards the period when he was a "deposit contributor."

Provisions as to Special Classes of Insured Persons.

As it seems to be now clear law that the title is a part of an Act of Parliament [Fielding v. Morley Corporation (1899) 1 Ch. 3 ; Jones v. Skivington, 77 L.J.K.B. 774] (though whether it can be used for the purpose of defining the terms of the Act as well as that of showing its scope is not so clear, it would seem from the use of the phrase "insured persons" in this sub-title that the various classes of persons referred to in ss. 45-53 of the Act are all insured persons.

44.—(1) Where a woman who has before marriage been an insured person marries, she shall be suspended from receiving the ordinary benefits under this Part of this Act until the death of her husband,

Special • provisions with respect to married women.

s. 44 (1) and, if she is a member of an approved society, one-third of her transfer value shall be carried to a separate account called the married women's suspense account, but, if at any time after the death of her husband she becomes an employed contributor, the period between her marriage and the expiration of one month from the death of her husband shall be disregarded for the purpose of reckoning arrears, and there shall be transferred from the married women's suspense account to the society of which she is a member the proper reserve value calculated according to tables to be prepared by the Insurance Commissioners :

See Appendix V, Model Rules C, 891.

"Suspended."—Otherwise, although she might in fact cease to be employed, she would, if a member of an approved society, certainly until the expiration of twelve months (s. 79 infra), and possibly until her arrears amounted to twenty-six weeks a year on the average, or if a deposit contributor until the end of the year after her credit was exhausted, be entitled to one or more of the ordinary benefits. A woman who, not being married, gives up her employment to go and live with a man as his wife, will in fact be in this position. Note that suspension from benefits is not to deprive a member of an approved society of her membership for the purposes of this Part of this Act (s. 79 infra). But at the expiration of twelve months from her marriage she will, if her society or committee so decides, cease to be an employed contributor and therefore an insured person, and will not be able to count any time after that towards the five years' insurance which would qualify her to be an ordinary voluntary contributor at the employed rate on the death of her husband [see s. 1 (1) and note at p. 128, s. 5 (1) (b) and subs. 3 hereof]. It is doubtful whether she can count the first year after marriage. If she becomes a voluntary contributor under subs. (2) she will apparently be an insured person.

"The ordinary benefits."—See s. 8 (1) supra; this includes maternity benefit [ib. (e)], though not, of course, such benefit in respect of her husband if he is insured.

"Transfer value."—To be calculated in such manner as the Insurance Commissioners may prescribe [subs. (10) infra]. It is, however, submitted that in framing the Married Women's Transfer Values Regulations (post p. 844), the Commissioners have properly complied with s. 31. The liability of the Society to a woman who becomes a special voluntary contributor under subs. (2) hereof is (a) to pay her the special benefit conferred by that subsection and (b) to pay one-third of her transfer value to the Married Women's Suspense Account. The necessary reserve in respect of the special benefits therefore represents two-thirds of the whole liability of the society, and the transfer value calculated in accordance with s. 31 is therefore $\frac{2}{3}$ and the actuarial reserve in respect of the special benefits. The transfer value of the woman who elects the alternative is of course the same. S. 44 (1).

"Separate account."—It apparently follows from this subs. and subs. (9) infra that this is to be an account in the National Health Insurance Fund, separate from that of any approved society: but no such account is mentioned in s. 54 infra. The whole of the sums standing in this account will be available for investment within the meaning of s. 54 (3), and a question arises as to the mode of calculating interest upon it. Probably the account will be dealt with in the same manner as the Post Office and Navy and Army Insurance Funds [s. 54 (4)].

"She becomes an employed contributor."—The subsection contains no express provision for a woman who is an employed contributor at the death of her husband, or for crediting a Reserve Value in that case. It would seem, however, that subs. (6) is sufficient to restore her to her full ante-nuptial benefits, but the society will not have funds to support the claim unless these words can be made to cover the case.

"Arrears."—S. 10 supra.

"Transferred . . . to the society."—This shows clearly that, in spite of the omission in s. 54 infra, it is not intended that each society shall have its own married women's suspense account.

"Proper reserve value . . . Insurance Commissioners."—Cf. s. 55 (1). If "reserve value" is to have the same meaning here as it has there (and it is difficult to assign to it any other) the difference between the case of such a woman and the ordinary case of a person entering into insurance for the first time at the same age, can only depend upon differences in the average expectation of sickness. See Appendix I—1, 13 (e), p. 449.

Provided that where a woman who has been employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act before marriage, proves that she continues to be so employed after marriage, she shall not be so suspended so long as she continues to be so employed, and that, where a married woman so suspended from the ordinary benefits becomes employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act before the death of her husband, contributions shall thereupon again become payable in respect of her, and she shall cease to be suspended from receiving the ordinary

s. 44 (1) benefits, but, subject to regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners, she shall, for the purposes of those benefits, be treated as if she had not previously been an insured person.

"Proves that she continues . . . so long as she continues."

—Cf. the first note to this subs. The wording of the proviso creates a presumption, which the Courts would probably have created otherwise, that a woman on marriage changes her normal occupation. Such a woman must in the first instance prove that she continues to be employed, but having once done so she will probably be entitled to take advantage of s. 79 infra, and continue to postpone her suspension from benefit until twelve months after she ceases to be actually employed; otherwise the fact of leaving work for the purpose of a confinement would deprive her of the right to maternity benefit.

"As if she had not previously been an insured person,"

—i.e., if over seventeen, she will be required either to pay herself the difference between the voluntary and the employed rate, or the capital value of that difference, or she will be entitled to sickness benefit reduced in accordance with tables to be prepared by the Insurance Commissioners [s. 9 (4) supra]. But if at any subsequent time she would be entitled to a higher rate if she had been treated as being in arrear from the age of seventeen or from the expiration of one year after the commencement of the Act, she may elect to be so treated (ib.). See Appendix II—22, p. 661. The woman enters virtually into a new insurance, but since s. 44 (1) provides for her taking up again her old insurance on the death of her husband, this new insurance is for joint lives only, and it will therefore be actuarially possible to allow somewhat larger benefits than on the whole life tables prepared under s. 9 (4). It is presumed that the regulations prepared by the Commissioners will allow some appropriate increase of benefits accordingly.

(2) Where a married woman being a member of an approved society is so suspended from the ordinary benefits as aforesaid, she may, if she so elects within one month after such suspension, or, subject to the consent of the society, after the expiration of that month, and notwithstanding that she is not engaged in any regular occupation, become whilst so suspended a voluntary contributor, subject to the following modifications, but not otherwise :—

"Within one month."—See note to s. 5 (1) (a) supra. The election will presumably relate back to the time of marriage.

"Not engaged in any regular occupation."—This would not S. 44 (2) disqualify an ordinary voluntary contributor [s. 1 (3) supra] if she had been insured for five years; a married woman nevertheless cannot become, or continue to be, an ordinary voluntary contributor even if she possesses both the qualifications mentioned in s. 1 (3). See subs. (7) infra.

- (a) The rate of contributions payable by her shall be threepence a week;

The rate, unlike that of the ordinary voluntary contributor [s. 5 (1) supra] will not vary with her age. It follows from s. 3 supra that Parliament will contribute one-fourth of the cost of her benefits for, although the benefits conferred by this subs. are not the same as those mentioned in s. 8 (1), they are of the same kind, and are included in Part I of the Fourth Schedule, which is by s. 8 (2) incorporated with "the benefits conferred by this Part of this Act." This Parliamentary contribution is equivalent to more than 1*d.* a week, for it is one-quarter of the cost of benefits, the other three-quarters of which are provided by a contribution of 3*d.* a week plus two-thirds of the woman's transfer value on marriage.

- (b) The benefits to which she shall be entitled shall be—

- (i) medical benefit; and
- (ii) sickness benefit and disablement benefit at the rates and subject to the conditions specified in Table D of Part I of the Fourth Schedule to this Act;

"Medical benefit."—See ss. 8 (1) (a), (6) and 15 supra.

TABLE D.—Rates and Conditions for Married Women.

Sickness benefit: during the first thirteen weeks, the sum of 5*s.* a week; during the second thirteen weeks, 3*s.* a week.

Disablement benefit: the sum of 3*s.* a week.

Sickness benefit and disablement benefit shall not be payable during the two weeks before and four weeks after confinement, except in respect of a disease or disablement neither directly nor indirectly connected with childbirth.

"Sickness benefit."—Beginning, as in other cases, from the fourth day of the illness [s. 8 (1) (c) supra].

"Sickness and disablement benefit . . . after confinement."—A married woman may or may not be entitled to maternity benefit in respect of her husband [s. 8 (1) (c)]. She can only be entitled to it on her own account if she remains employed after marriage [subs. (1) supra].

- s. 44 (2) (c) No part of her contributions shall be retained
 (c) by the Insurance Commissioners for the purpose of discharging their liabilities to approved societies in respect of the reserve values created under this Act :

"Retained."—See s. 55 (3) infra. Such a woman has a considerable advantage in this respect, for a reserve value may have been credited to her at entry; and in any case, a man, or an unmarried woman, would be liable to this deduction; moreover, a woman in this position has the two-thirds of her transfer value which was not carried to the "suspense account" [subs. (1)] to assist her society in paying these benefits.

Provided that, where a married woman elects not to become such a voluntary contributor, she shall be entitled to have a sum equal to the remaining two-thirds of her transfer value applied in accordance with regulations of the Insurance Commissioners towards the payment of any of the benefits specified in Part III of the Fourth Schedule to this Act until the same is exhausted.

PART III.

Benefits for Married Women who do not become Voluntary Contributors at reduced Rates.

Payment of the sum of 5s. a week on confinement during a period not exceeding four weeks on any one occasion.

Payments during any period of sickness or distress, subject to regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners and to the discretion of the society or committee administering the benefit.

Regulations.—See the Married Women's Special Benefits Regulations, 1913 (post p. 664).

"The benefits."—The authors were of opinion that these benefits would probably not carry a Parliamentary grant because they are different in kind as well as in degree from those mentioned in s. 8 (1), and Part III of the Fourth Schedule is not referred to in s. 8, which purports to give a list of the "benefits conferred by the Act" (s. 3). It is, however, understood that the Parliamentary Grant will be paid on these benefits.

"On confinement."—This is probably intentionally vague, so that the four weeks may be immediately before or after, or partly before and partly after, the actual delivery; cf. s. 18 (1) supra. S. 44 (2) (c) —

"Sickness or distress."—Again intentionally vague, so as probably to include sickness or distress in the family generally.

except that, where a reserve value was credited to the society in respect of such woman at the date of her entrance into insurance, so much of such sum as aforesaid as may be prescribed shall not be so applied but shall be written off the amount of the reserve values credited to the society.

"Where a reserve value was credited."—See s. 55 (2).

"Prescribed."—See the Married Women's Special Benefits Regulations, 1913 (post p. 664).

"Written off."—See s. 55 (4).

(3) Where the husband of a married woman who has been so suspended from ordinary benefits as aforesaid and who is a member of an approved society dies, she may, if she is qualified to become a voluntary contributor, and elects to do so within one month after the death of her husband, become an ordinary voluntary contributor paying contributions at the rate which would have been applicable to the case had she become such a contributor at the date of her entry into insurance:

Provided that she may, whether or not so qualified, if she so elects within one month after the death of her husband, continue to be or become a voluntary contributor on the same terms and subject to the same conditions as above provided as respects married women.

In either such case there shall be transferred from the married women's suspense account to the society the proper reserve value calculated as aforesaid.

- S. 44 (3) "Qualified to become a voluntary contributor."—S. 1 (3) supra. If her qualification consists in having been for five years, during marriage [see note to subs. (1)], an insured person [s. 1 (3) (b)], she may, although left a complete invalid on the death of her husband, by exercising the first option here given, obtain immediate sickness and disablement benefit at the full rates until she is 70, without paying any further contributions. It is submitted that 5 years' employment before marriage will not qualify her to become a voluntary contributor. See note to s. 1 (3) (b).

A widow who exercises the second option will not, on re-marriage, be "suspended from benefit."

"Elects within one month."—See note to s. 5 (1) (a). If she is late with her election, her society apparently cannot extend the period, as they can under subs. (2), and then she can only become an ordinary voluntary contributor at the rate appropriate to her age at the time [s. 5 (1)], unless she becomes employed [subs. (1)].

"The rate."—S. 5 (1) supra.

(4) Where a married woman who was at the date of her marriage a deposit contributor is by virtue of this section suspended from the ordinary benefits under this Part of this Act, two-thirds of the sum standing to her credit in the Deposit Contributors' fund shall be applied in accordance with the regulations of the Insurance Commissioners towards the payment of any of the benefits specified in Part III of the Fourth Schedule to this Act until the same is exhausted.

"Deposit contributor."—S. 42 supra.

"Two-thirds of the sum."—The remaining third being held in suspense in case she should become a widow, in the same way as the transfer value of a member of an approved society. Should she pre-decease her husband, it can be dealt with in accordance with s. 42 (f).

"Part III. of the Fourth Schedule."—See under subs. (2) supra; a deposit contributor who does not remain or become employed will not be entitled to continue her contributions after marriage.

(5) Where a woman who was a married woman at the commencement of this Act at any time subsequently either before or within one year after the death of her husband becomes an employed contributor and a member of an approved society, she shall be entitled to full benefits, notwithstanding s. 44 (5) that at the time of so becoming she is of the age of seventeen or upwards.

"At any time subsequently."—If she is at the commencement of the Act employed she will, of course, be entitled like anyone else to her full reserve value [s. 55 (1) infra]; it is only if she became employed more than one year after that date that she would, but for this provision, be penalised under s. 9 (4). If she becomes employed for the first time more than one year after his death, she will apparently be subject to the full penalties of that subsection.

Note that in the event of such a person ceasing to be employed no sum is transferred to the Married Women's Suspense Account in respect of her, and no Reserve Value will be credited out of that account in the event of her becoming employed after his death.

(6) Where any arrears of contributions have accrued due in respect of a married woman during coverture such arrears shall, on the death of her husband, be disregarded and she shall be thenceforth entitled to benefits as if such arrears had never accrued due.

This covers the case of a woman who is not suspended from benefits during marriage under subs. (1) supra. Sed quare as to its effect on the woman who has taken up a "joint lives insurance" under the proviso to subs. (1).

(7) Except as provided by this section, a married woman shall not be entitled to become a voluntary contributor, and, if a woman is before marriage a voluntary contributor, she shall on marriage not be entitled to continue to be such a contributor.

She cannot remain or become an ordinary voluntary contributor, although she may continue to be mainly dependent for her livelihood upon some occupation carried on apart from her husband [see s. 1 (3) (a) supra].

(8) If a woman, whilst a voluntary contributor at such reduced rates of benefit as are provided by this section, becomes employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act, she shall be entitled to a certificate (to be granted in manner hereinbefore

- s. 44 (8) provided) exempting her from liability to become an employed contributor so, however, that such exemption shall not exempt the employer from his liability to pay contributions in respect of her, or deprive him of his right to recover such part of those contributions as is payable on her behalf, but of each weekly contribution so paid by the employer three-pence shall be treated as her contribution as a voluntary contributor and the balance shall be applied for her benefit in such manner as the society may determine.

"Reduced Rates."—Subs. (2).

"Certificate . . . hereinbefore provided."—See s. 2 (2) supra, and the "Claims for Exemption Regulations (England) 1913" (post p. 667).

"Shall not exempt the employer."—Cf. s. 4 (4) supra, under which the employer is, however, only bound (and entitled) to pay his own share of the contribution, in respect of the holder of a certificate, and not to make any deduction. Here he is to pay the full rate and make the deduction as if there were no certificate. Such certificates are likely to be demanded in the case of a woman who becomes employed after marriage, but before her husband's death, and would if an employed contributor be subject to reduction of benefits [see the proviso to subs. (1) supra].

"Applied for her benefit."—But apparently will carry no State grant (s. 3 supra), and see notes to subs. (2), and cf. s. 6 (2) supra.

(9) If at any time the married women's suspense account is insufficient to meet the liabilities imposed on it by this section, the deficiency shall be made good out of the sums retained by the Insurance Commissioners for discharging their liabilities in respect of the reserve values created by this Act.

"Married women's suspense account."—See notes to subs. (1) supra.

"Sums retained by the Insurance Commissioners."—See s. 55 (3) infra. The effect will be, in the event of a permanent deficiency in this account being disclosed, to leave always a small portion of the reserve values not written off under s. 55 (4), and by that amount to limit the sums which will be available for extension of benefits under s. 8 (9) supra.

(10) Transfer value for the purposes of this S. 44 (10) section shall be calculated in such manner as the Insurance Commissioners may prescribe.

Cf. s. 31 supra, and Appendix IV-6, and see note to subs. (1) supra.

(11) Where a woman is a member of an approved society at the time when she is entitled to exercise an option under this section, it shall be the duty of the society to give her full information as to the nature of her rights.

"An option."—See subss. (2), (3) and possibly also (8), as compared with the proviso to (1) supra.

"Full information."—It is doubtful whether it would be sufficient to include this in the rules which she receives on joining; probably it is intended that her attention shall be specifically called to the matter at the time. As to the effect of a failure by the Society to do so, see Wright v. Northumberland, &c., Miners', &c., Society (C.A., Board of Trade Labour Gazette, June, 1912, p. 256). See the Model Rules (post Appendix V, p. 895).

(12) Where a deficiency has been found in respect of the society or branch of which a woman is a member at a valuation previous to the time when she became suspended from ordinary benefits under this Part of this Act, and that deficiency has not been made good at the time of her marriage, or where a woman is in arrears at that time, such adjustments in the sums transferred to the married women's suspense account, and in the balance of her transfer value, and in the rates of benefit to which she is entitled under this section, shall be made as the Insurance Commissioners may prescribe.

"Deficiency."—S. 38 supra.

"Arrears."—S. 10 supra. Special orders under s. 47 (p. 832) provide that a woman who has been insured on the special terms therein provided shall be deemed to be in arrear on marriage to the extent of one contribution in every twelve weeks or part of twelve weeks during which she has paid contributions at the reduced rates.

S. 44 (12) "The sums transferred."—But not, apparently, in the "proper reserve value" to be credited to the society in respect of her on widowhood [subss. (1) and (3)].

(13) Save as aforesaid, the provisions of this Part of this Act shall apply to a woman who has been married, both during and after coverture, in like manner as if she had never been married.

(14) This section shall apply in the case of a woman whose marriage has been dissolved or annulled, or who has, for a period of not less than two years, been actually separated from or deserted by her husband, as if her husband had died at the date at which such dissolution or annulment took effect, or, as the case may require, at the expiration of such period of two years.

Special provisions as to aliens.

45.—(1) This Part of this Act shall apply to persons of the age of seventeen or upwards at the date of entry into insurance who are not British subjects, subject to the following modifications:—

"Of the age of seventeen or upwards."—This does not mean that it is not to apply at all to aliens under that age, but that it is to apply without the modifications of this section.

"Not British subjects."—See note to s. 1 (2) supra, p. 129; such a person can only be liable to contributions [the First Schedule, Part I, under s. 1 (2)], or entitled to benefits [s. 8 (4)], as long as he remains in the United Kingdom (or British Islands, for certain purposes), but he may become entitled to take his transfer value [ss. 31, 32, 42 (g)] abroad with him. For the purpose of this section all subjects of the Crown are British Subjects (Isaacson v. Durani 17 Q.B.D. 54; 54 L.T. 684).

(a) No such person shall be qualified to become a member of an approved society for the purposes of this Part of this Act except upon the terms and subject to the conditions hereinafter mentioned;

"Qualified to become a member."—See s. 30 supra.

- (b) No part of the benefits to which such persons s. 45 (1) may become entitled shall be paid out of ^(b) moneys provided by Parliament ;

See s. 3 supra, but note that in the case of persons earning low wages, this will not prevent part of their contributions being paid by the State under s. 4 (1), and the Second Schedule supra ; the same applies to persons over 65 years of age [s. 49 (2) infra].

- (c) The rate of sickness, disablement, and maternity benefit shall, as respects a deposit contributor, be reduced, in the case of men, to seven-ninths, or in the case of women to three-quarters, of the rate to which they would otherwise be entitled under this Part of this Act :

I.e., they will only be entitled to that part of the ordinary benefits which is paid for by themselves and their employers.

- (d) No part of the sums payable in respect of such persons for medical benefit and sanatorium benefit or towards the expenses of administration of benefits shall, in the case of such persons, be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament.

(2) Where such a person becomes a member of an approved society the following provisions shall have effect :—

- (i) The contributions payable by or in respect of such person shall be credited to the society ;
(ii) The society shall in each year pay to the Insurance Committee the whole of the sums payable in respect of such person for medical benefit and sanatorium benefit ;

“The whole.”—The rate of these benefits obviously cannot be reduced in the same way as that of those mentioned in subs. (1) (c), but

- S. 45 (2) since Parliament is not to contribute to the cost of them the charge upon the society in respect of them will be greater by two-sevenths for a man, one-third for a woman, than in the case of a British subject. Therefore the society will not be able to pay even seven-ninths (or three-quarters) of the ordinary rate of sickness, disablement, and maternity benefits.

(iii) The rate and conditions of sickness benefit, and disablement benefit, and maternity benefit shall be such as may be determined by the society ;

See the last note for the reason why the society cannot pay the rates mentioned in subs. (1) (c); an alien deposit contributor will draw those rates, but will exhaust his credit sooner than a British subject ; for an optional table of rates applicable to aliens see Appendix IV—1.

- (iv) Such person shall not be deemed to have joined an approved society for the purposes of the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to reserve values, and no part of the contributions of such person shall be retained by the Insurance Commissioners towards the discharge of their liabilities in respect of reserve values.

“Shall not be deemed to have joined.”—It would seem to follow that upon such a member of an approved society becoming naturalised he will be deemed, for the purpose of a Reserve Value, to have joined the Society at the moment of naturalisation, and the amount of the Reserve Value will presumably be the new liability imposed upon the Society by his naturalisation—i.e. the difference between the Actuarial Reserve in respect of a British Subject and that in respect of an alien. The amount of this difference cannot be stated until the publication of the Valuation tables under s. 36 ; but it is possible that at some ages it will be so large as to amount to a substantial bonus upon naturalisation.

“Reserve values.”—s. 55 (2) infra.

Extension of s. 46 of the principal Act to warrant officers of marines,
&c.

22. For the purposes of section forty-six of the principal Act, "marine" includes every warrant officer of marines, except Royal Marine gunners, and "soldier" does not include a soldier who has not been finally accepted for service. °

Provided that no such deduction shall be made from the pay of a seaman, marine, or soldier who has completed the period of his first engagement and has re-engaged for pension unless he so elects within the prescribed time, and that no contribution shall be made by the Admiralty or Army Council in respect of any week in respect of which such a deduction is not made.

"There shall be deducted."—As to deductions from pay in the Navy and Army generally see the Naval Discipline Act, 1866, and the Army Act, 1881, ss. 136–140.

"Seaman and marine."—"The term 'seaman and marine' means a petty officer or seaman, non-commissioned officer of marines, or marine, or other person forming part in any capacity of the complement of any of Her Majesty's vessels, or otherwise belonging to Her Majesty's naval or marine forces (not being an officer within the meaning of this Act—i.e. a commissioned, warrant or subordinate officer or assistant engineer)."—Naval and Marine Pay and Pensions Act, 1865 (28 and 29 Vict. c. 73, s. 1).

"Soldier."—In the Army Act "the expression 'soldier' does not include an officer as defined by this Act (i.e. a commissioned officer), but . . . does include a warrant officer not having an honorary commission and a non-commissioned officer and every person subject to military law during the time that he is so subject" [44 and 45 Vict. c. 58, s. 190 (6)].

"Regular forces."—In the Army Act, "the expression 'regular forces,' Her Majesty's Regular Forces, means officers and soldiers who by their commissions, terms of enlistment or otherwise are liable to render continuously for a term, military service to Her Majesty in any part of the world . . . and subject to this qualification that when the reserve forces are subject to military law such forces become during the period of their being so subject part of the regular forces."—44 and 45 Vict. c. 58, s. 190 (8).

For the purposes of this section the Army Reserve when called out on permanent service and the Territorial Force when embodied are a part of the Regular Forces [subs. (7)] q.v.

"Who has joined an approved society."—See Appendix V, p. 863. In the case of those who have not joined an approved society the contributions of the Admiralty and Army Council are unlimited, since they have to guarantee the solvency of the fund [subs. (3) (c).]

"In the manner hereafter mentioned."—See subs. (2) (a), (b).

"One penny halfpenny per week."—The true contribution of the employers in respect of a soldier, marine, or seaman is not 1½*d.*, but 2½*d.*; since a further ½*d.* is contributed in respect of them to the reserve fund [subs. (2) (iv.)] out of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund, which is guaranteed by the Admiralty and Army Council.

"As may be prescribed."—i.e. by the Insurance Commissioners under s. 65. See however subs. (3) (c) and note thereto, and Appendices II—26, p. 669, and II—27 and 28, pp. 670, 672.

"Re-engaged for pension."—This paragraph confers upon men who have re-engaged for pension, unless they elect to be included, a right to exemption similar to that which is given by s. 2 (1) (a), if they claim it, to those who have already obtained pensions. A man serving for pension at the commencement of the Act has, however, the right to contribute and to have a reserve value credited in respect of him if he so elects [see subs. (3) (e) hereof]; and whether he contributes or no he is entitled to full benefits out of the

- S. 46 (1) Navy and Army Insurance Fund if discharged in a precarious state of health, whether with or without a pension. See pars. (3) (e), (4) hereof.

"Elects."—The effect of election is to determine whether or no the section applies to the re-engagement, and that for this purpose the re-engagement must be treated as a whole so that the election relates back to the moment of re-engagement, and contributions must be deducted in respect of the intervening period.

(2) A seaman, marine, or soldier—

- (a) who was at the date of his entry or enlistment an insured person and had joined and was at that date a member of an approved society ; or
- (b) who within six months from the date of his entry or enlistment, or, in the case of a seaman, marine, or soldier serving at the commencement of this Act, within six months after the commencement of this Act, or within such longer period as may be prescribed, joins an approved society for the purposes of this Part of this Act ;

"As may be prescribed." (See Appendix II, 30, p. 680.)

shall, for the purposes of this Part of this Act, be treated as if he were an employed contributor, subject, until his discharge, to the following modifications :—

- (i) The employed rate shall be three pence, and the deductions made from his pay and the contributions made in respect of him by the Admiralty or Army Council shall be treated as the contributions paid in respect of him ;
- (ii) He shall not be entitled to medical benefit, sanatorium benefit, sickness benefit, or disablement benefit ;

- (iii) Maternity benefit shall be payable, notwithstanding that both he and his wife are resident outside the United Kingdom at the date of the confinement, and the society may arrange with the Admiralty or Army Council for the administration of the benefit through the Admiralty or Army Council ;
- (iv) The sum to be retained out of each weekly contribution by the Insurance Commissioners towards the discharge of their liabilities in respect of reserve values shall be one penny, and the remaining five-ninths of a penny shall be paid out of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund hereinafter constituted.

"As if he were an employed contributor."—These words seem to make it clear that a seaman, marine or soldier, although an "insured person" (see note above s. 44 ante) is not an "employed contributor," and that his service is not employment within the meaning of the Act, a view which is confirmed by par. (a) of Part II of the First Schedule. If, however, he is a member of an approved society, he is to be treated as an employed contributor, but not if he is a member of the Navy and Army Fund.

An insured person who falls within this section will be entitled to maternity benefit extended as provided in par. (iii) above, and may be entitled to additional benefits paid out of the surplus of the society, but will receive no other of the ordinary benefits.

(3) With respect to seamen, marines, and soldiers who have not joined an approved society as aforesaid, the following provisions shall have effect :—

- (a) The sums so deducted and the contributions so made as aforesaid in respect of such men shall be paid into the National Health Insurance Fund, and out of such sums there shall be retained by the Insurance Commissioners towards discharging their liabilities in respect of the reserve values created under this Part of this Act the like amount as if such men were members of approved societies, and the balance shall be credited to a special fund to be called the Navy and Army Insurance Fund :

Note that this whole subsection is framed as if seamen, marines, and soldiers were not insured persons at all, and as if the rest of the Act did not apply to them ; a view which is distinctly suggested by the preamble to the section.

"Who have not joined an approved society."—A member of an approved society cannot transfer to the Navy and Army Insurance Fund.

"Navy and Army Insurance Fund."—It is noteworthy that the Act contains no provision whatever for the general control and management of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund, though provision is made for the administration of benefits out of the Fund, either by the Naval or Military authorities or by the Insurance Committees. See paragraphs (f) and (h) hereof.

By s. 28 and First Schedule (E) of the Act of 1913 [q.v. under s. 65 (1) infra] the Insurance Commissioners may make regulations for applying to that fund such provisions of the Acts as they think necessary for facilitating admission transfers and administration. But it would seem (App. II—32 ¶8) post, p. 684) that the Commissioners have so applied the Act already.

- (b) There shall also be paid into the Navy and Army Insurance Fund in each year out of moneys provided by Parliament a sum equal to two-ninths of the amount, calculated in the prescribed manner, which would have been payable in that year in respect of medical, sanatorium, sickness, and disablement benefits (including expenses of administration) had all seamen, marines, and soldiers from whose pay deductions are made under this section been members of approved societies and entitled to such benefits as employed contributors :

"Two-ninths of the amount calculated in the prescribed manner."—The apparent intention of this section is to give the same State subsidy for the insurance of men in the armed services as for that of civilians. Nothing, however, is indicated as to the basis of the calculations, and it is clear that there are at least two diverse principles on which the calculations can be based. Either the actual sickness experience of the Navy and Army in each year can be made the basis of contribution, or it can be assumed that had the members of the fund been employed contributors they would have been subject to the usual sickness experience of employed contributors at corresponding ages. The latter assumption has apparently been made by the actuaries engaged in investigating the probable working of this section. See the regulations, App. II—31, p. 680.

"As employed contributors."—See the note above.

- (c) The weekly contributions to be made by the Admiralty and Army Council in respect of such men shall be such as may from time to time be required to keep the Navy and Army Insurance Fund solvent:

This paragraph is apparently directory for the purpose of enabling the Insurance Commissioners to prescribe the rates of contribution as required by subsection (1) of this section. It is clear that these rates must be prescribed in advance from time to time, since the duty of the Admiralty and the Army Council is to contribute "such sum per week as may be prescribed" [subs. (1)]. (See p. 669.)

- (d) If any such man was at the date of his entry or enlistment a deposit contributor, he shall, for the purpose of dealings with the sum standing to his credit in the Post Office fund, be treated as if the Navy and Army Insurance Fund had been an approved society, and he had at the date of his entry or enlistment become a member of that society:

"The sum standing to his credit."—The sum carried by a Post Office contributor on enlistment to the credit of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund will be his whole credit in the Post Office Fund or the value of his contributions, as if he had joined an approved society at entry, whichever may be the less [s. 43 (2)].

S. 10, which deals with reduction of benefits to persons in arrear, applies only to members of approved societies. But the Commissioners have powers under s. 23 of 1913 to apply it to this Fund, and have so applied it before the passing of the Act. (See p. 684, post.)

(e) In the case of a seaman, marine, or soldier serving at the commencement of this Act, there shall be credited to the Navy and Army Insurance Fund such reserve value as would have been credited to an approved society had he at that date become a member of the society as an employed contributor : Provided that no such reserve value shall be credited to that fund if at the date aforesaid he had completed the period of his first engagement and had re-engaged for pension, unless he elects to have deductions made from his pay, or unless, not having so elected, he becomes on discharge entitled to benefits payable out of that fund as hereinafter mentioned :

"Unless he elects," i.e., within the prescribed time [subs. (1) hereof].

"Becomes on discharge entitled to benefits," i.e., under paragraph (h) hereof.

(f) Every such man shall, until discharged, be entitled to maternity benefit payable out of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund, and shall be entitled to such benefit notwithstanding that both he and his wife are at the date of the confinement resident outside the United Kingdom, and the benefit shall be administered by the Admiralty and Army Council either directly or through Insurance Committees :

The use of the phrase 'maternity benefit' imparts the conditions attached thereto as to arrears, etc. ; but the condition as to residence is expressly abolished by the foregoing paragraph ; and see also App. III—A, 10, p. 810.

- (g) On the discharge of a seaman, marine, or soldier, from whose pay deductions have been made and continue to be made up to the date of his discharge, there shall be debited to the Navy and Army Insurance Fund, and, if he becomes a member of an approved society within the prescribed time from his discharge there shall be credited to that society, or, if he does not become a member of such a society within the prescribed time from his discharge, there shall, unless he becomes entitled to benefits out of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund as hereinafter mentioned, be carried to his credit in the Post Office fund the transfer value which would have been payable in respect of him had he been a member of an approved society throughout his period of service, or in the case of a man serving at the date of the commencement of this Act, since that date, and, if he becomes a deposit contributor, so much of the reserve value, if any, credited to the Navy and Army Insurance Fund in respect of him shall be cancelled as would have been cancelled had he been transferred from an approved society to the Post Office fund :

This paragraph puts the Navy and Army Insurance Fund in exactly the same position as an approved society as to transfers to the Post Office [s. 43 (1)], or to approved societies, from the fund (s. 39) ; it is in fact the complement of paragraph (d). No provision whatever is made for transfer from approved societies to the Fund as such a transfer is not possible under the Act. See also proviso (iv) to para-

- S. 46 (3) graph (A). It appears to follow from this that although societies need not accept persons in the Naval and Military services of the Crown, who have, in fact, no statutory right even to apply for membership [s. 30 (1)], a Society cannot expel a member on the ground of his having joined one of those services. See s. 30 (2) and Appendix V, Model Rules B., 14 and 18.

"The prescribed time."—No time has been prescribed under this section, but it is conceived that the Time of Joining Regulations, 1912, (App. II—20, p. 659) will, if he become Employed, apply and render him a deposit contributor after three months. Quære whether in that case the transfer of funds must be made, since on his re-entering the Navy and Army Insurance Fund within six months there is no provision for a re-transfer of funds from the P.O.

Until the expiry of the prescribed time he is not a deposit contributor, and unless he has joined a society the Act provides no machinery for giving him benefits or for dealing with his contributions. But by s. 28 and First Schedule (E) of the Act of 1913 [q.v. under s. 65 (1) infra], the Insurance Commissioners may make regulations for giving him maternity benefit out of the Navy and Army Fund during this period. And see the National Health Insurance (Discharged Seamen, Marines and Soldiers) Order, 1913.

- (h) A man discharged from service as a seaman, marine, or soldier who proves that the state of his health is such that he cannot obtain admission to an approved society may, if he so elects, on making application to the Insurance Commissioners in the prescribed manner within three months of his discharge, or such longer time as may be prescribed, become, subject to regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners after consultation with the Admiralty and Army Council, entitled to benefits (other than additional benefits) provided under this Part of this Act at the full rate, the cost of which benefits shall be payable out of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund, and such benefits shall be administered by Insurance Committees or otherwise in such manner as may be pre- s. 48 (3) scribed by such regulations as aforesaid, (4) and any contributions paid under this Part of this Act by or in respect of him shall be paid into that fund :

"A man discharged."—The words include every man whether he has been a contributor or has re-engaged for a pension [see proviso (i) below]; "discharged" includes transferred to Reserve [subs. (5)].

"Admission to an approved society."—Quære as to the effect of these words. It is clearly not the intention of the paragraph that the man should have to seek admission to every approved society, the word used being "an" and not "any"; and it is submitted that rejection on medical grounds by any one society will be evidence on which to found a claim.

If he so elects.—As to election by a man of unsound mind, see Act of 1913, First Schedule (G) under s. 65 (4), infra.

"The prescribed manner."—I.e. in the forms set out in the First Schedule to the Navy and Army Fund Regulations, 1913 (post p. 688). See art. 5 of the Regulations.

"The prescribed time."—I.e. 6 months from discharge. Naval and Military Forces (Time limits) Regulations, 1912, Amendment Regulations (1913). App. II—29, p. 678.

Subject to Regulations.—See the Navy and Army Fund Regulations, 1913 (post p. 683). These Regulations provide for administration by the Commissioners either through Insurance Committees or otherwise (art. 3), and apply in effect the Model Rules issued by the Commissioners for Approved Societies.

"Other than additional benefits."—Since the employers' contributions are to be sufficient only to keep the Navy and Army Insurance Fund solvent there can be no surplus for additional benefits. It is clear, too, that by virtue of this paragraph the sickness experience under that fund will be very large.

"Any contributions." i.e., in respect of civil employment after leaving the Army or Navy.

Provided that—

(i) no deductions from benefits shall be made on account of any pension to which a man may be entitled ;

(ii) the rate of sickness benefit shall be reduced, in the case of a man who entered into insurance when of the age of seventeen or upwards or who is in arrears, to the like extent as it would be reduced had he been an employed contributor and a member of an approved society who entered into insurance at the like age or who is in arrears to the like extent, so however that the rate of sickness benefit shall in no case be reduced below five shillings a week ;

"Benefit shall be reduced."--See ss. 9 (4), 10 (2), and the Fifth Schedule.

(iii) there shall in each year be repaid to the Navy and Army Insurance Fund, out of moneys provided by Parliament, a sum equal to two-ninths of the amount expended out of the fund on such benefits as aforesaid, including the expenses of administration ;

(iv) if a man who is so entitled to benefits payable out of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund at any time becomes a member of an approved society for the purposes of this Part of this Act, he shall cease to be entitled to benefits payable out of that fund, and there shall be debited to that fund and credited to such society the transfer value which would have been so debited and credited if he had been at that time transferred from one approved society to another approved society. s. 46 (3)

(4) (iv)

“Transfer value.”—Cf. par. (g) supra, and note thereto.

(4) In the application of this Part of this Act to a man who is or has been a seaman, marine, or soldier, and to whom this section applies—

- (i) the date of his entry or enlistment as a seaman, marine, or soldier, or, if he was serving at the commencement of this Act, the date of that commencement, shall, unless he was an insured person at the date of his entry or enlistment, be treated as the date of his entry into insurance ;

See, however, subs. (6). The effect is to exempt a man who has been a seaman, marine, or soldier from any penalties under s. 9 (4) in respect of his period of service. Sed quare as to the position of a man who re-engaged and elected not to have deductions made. Is he deemed to be in arrear? Cf. par (ii).

- (ii) deductions from pay, with the corresponding contributions made by the Admiralty and Army Council, shall be treated as payments of contributions at the employed rate for the purpose of reckoning the number of contributions made in respect of him, arrears, and transfer value, and for the purpose of qualifications for becoming a voluntary contributor :

“Number of contributions.”—See s. 8 (8).

“Arrears.”—See s. 10, and the Fifth Schedule.

“Transfer value.”—See s. 31 (1)

“Becoming a voluntary contributor.”—S. 1 (3) (b).

- (iii) a seaman, marine, or soldier during his term of service shall, if he has joined an approved society as aforesaid before his entry or enlistment, be deemed to reside in that part of the United Kingdom in which he resided immediately before his entry or enlistment, or, if after his entry or enlistment, in the part of the United Kingdom in which the registered office or other principal place of business of the society or branch which he has joined is situate, and in any other case in England, and all persons entitled to benefits payable out of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund shall be deemed to reside in England.

"Deemed to reside . . . in England."—Every seaman, marine, or soldier in the Navy and Army Insurance Fund is therefore deemed to reside in England so that the English Reserve Fund gains by his 13d. under subs. (3) (d). See also subss. (2) (iii) and (3) (e) and cf. ss. 8 (4) and 48 (12). Quære whether a member of an approved society might by reason of this provision become entitled to an additional benefit while out of the United Kingdom.

(5) Discharge shall, in the case of a seaman, marine, or soldier who on the completion of any term of service is transferred to a reserve, include such transfer.

(6) This section shall not apply to a seaman, marine, or soldier who entered or enlisted before the age of sixteen until he attains that age, and on attaining that age shall apply to him as if he had entered or enlisted at the time when he attained that age.

(7) The foregoing provisions of this section shall, subject to such adaptations and modifications as may be prescribed, apply to men belonging to the Naval Reserves when employed on service during war or any emergency, and to men of the Army Reserve when called out on permanent service, and to men of the Territorial Force when called out on embodiment, but, except as aforesaid, shall not apply to any such men. s. 46 (7)

(8) Where a man of the Naval Reserves, the Army Reserve, or the Territorial Force is being trained and is in receipt of pay out of the moneys provided by Parliament for Navy or Army services, he shall, for the purposes of this Part of this Act, be deemed, whilst so training, to be employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act and to be in the sole employment of the Crown. Provided that this subsection shall not apply to a man who was not immediately before the training an insured person, except in such cases and under such circumstances as may be specified in a special order made by the Insurance Commissioners.

Cf. First Schedule, Pt. II (a), s. 98, and Appendix III. B-6, p. 832.

The Army Council must pay contributions under both parts of this Act for Reservists and Territorials during training. Cf. the F. S. A. 1896, s. 43.

47.—(1) The Insurance Commissioners shall from time to time make special orders specifying any classes of employment in which a custom or practice is shown to their satisfaction to prevail according to which the persons employed receive full remuneration during periods of disease or disablement, or any part thereof, and, where the custom or practice is confined to certain localities, the order shall also specify the localities in which the custom prevails, and, subject to the provisions of this section, the Special provisions where employer liable to pay wages during sickness.

- s. 47⁽¹⁾ order may contain such incidental, supplemental, and consequential provisions as appear necessary for adapting the other provisions of this Part of this Act to cases under this section.

"Special Orders."—See s. 113, the Ninth Schedule, and Appendix III. B—7.

"Custom or practice."—In the legal application of the word a "custom" must be (a) reasonable, and (b) so universally adopted in any employment or locality that any persons entering into a contract to which it may apply must be taken to have known of it and to have intended to incorporate it into their contract. "A 'custom' is in effect the common law within that place to which it extends, although contrary to the general law of the Realm," per Tindal, C.J., in Lockwood v. Wood, 6 Q.B. 50, cited by Scrutton J., in Anglo-Hellenic S.S. Co. v. Dreyfus, 108 L.T. 37. A "practice" would seem to be something less definite and binding. A custom of such a character may be proved by parol evidence for the purpose of varying or explaining a written contract. Such customs have in numerous cases been proved in the courts for the purpose of establishing the length of notice required for the dismissal of a servant or employee, e.g.:—

- (a) A domestic or menial servant is hired by the year subject to a calendar month's notice on either side or a month's wages (Fawcett v. Cash, 5 B. & Ad. 904; Turner v. Mason, 14 M. & W. 112); but not board wages (Gordon v. Potter, 1 F. & F. 644). Menial servants include "those persons whose main duty it is to do actual bodily work as servants for the personal comfort, convenience, or luxury of the master, his family, and his guests, and who for this purpose become part of the master's residential or quasi-residential establishment"; (per Collins, J., in Pearce v. Lansdowne, 69 L.T.N.S. 317); e.g., a head gardener living in a lodge (Nowlan v. Ablett, 2 C.M. & R. 54); a gardener and odd-job man (Johnson v. Blenkinsop, 5 Jur. 870); and a huntsman (Nicoll v. Greaves, 17 C.B.N.S. 27)—are menials; but a governess is not (Todd v. Kerrick, 8 Ex. 151). An alleged custom whereby such an engagement may be terminated at the end of the first month by notice at the end of the first fortnight is not unreasonable, but will not always be judicially recognised without proof in each case (Moult v. Halliday, 1898, 1 Q.B. 125); although, if a judge, having had such a custom frequently proved before him, chooses to accept it without further proof, the superior Court will not interfere with his decision (George v. Davies, 27 T.L.R. 415).
- (b) Members of a newspaper staff are customarily engaged for a year (Baxter v. Nurse, 1 C. & K. 10; Holcroft v. Barber, ib. 4).
- (c) As to the customs regarding agricultural labourers see Cd. 2376 of 1905, and note to the Second Schedule under s. 4 (1) supra. They are not "menials" (Lilley v. Elwin, 11 Q.B. 742).
- (a) Nor are clerks (Beeston v. Collyer, 4 Bing. 309; Huttman v. Boulnois, 2 C. & P. 510), but there appears to be no judicially recognised custom with regard to them.

(e) As to periods of notice of artisans, &c., see Labour Commission, S. 47 (1) 1892, Answers to Schedules of Questions, Group C, 6795.

There is no judicially recognised "custom" associated with any particular employment or locality with regard to payment of wages during sickness (though the existence of such a custom may always be proved by sufficient evidence), and the general law on the subject is not very easy to apply to industries in which the period of notice is short. A contract of service, being a personal contract, is terminated by any circumstance which makes performance totally impossible on either side, e.g., by the death of the parties (Hall v. Wright, E.B. & E. 746, 793; Robinson v. Davison, L.R. 6 Ex. 269, 274; Farrow v. Wilson, L.R. 4 C.P. 744 &c., &c.), and is so terminated without any act done or notice given on either side (see judgment of Wright, J., in Coates v. Maple, 88 L.T. 288. In accordance with this principle it has been held that a contract of apprenticeship is terminated by the act of God, in the permanent illness of the apprentice (Boast v. Firth, L.R. 4 C.P., 1; see also Taylor v. Caldwell, 3 B. & S. 826). In Robinson v. Davison (supra) and Poussard v. Spiers and Pond (1 Q.B.D. 410), it was held that a temporary illness was also sufficient to terminate the contract; but those, being cases of theatrical or musical performances where the appearance of the particular performer on a day named was of the essence of the contract, can hardly govern ordinary contracts of service. On the other hand, in Cuckson v. Stones (28 L.J.Q.B. 25) and in Storey v. Fulham Steel Works Co. (24 T.L.R. 89), it was held that temporary illnesses do not terminate a contract, unless the illness puts an end in a business sense to the business engagement and frustrates the object of it (see Jackson v. Union Marine Insurance Co., L.R. 10 C.P. at p. 155). But in those cases the contract was for a considerable term of years, and the illness extending over a period in the middle of the term, it was held that wages were recoverable for that period and until the end of the term. It remains open to question whether an illness which, though temporary, will clearly incapacitate the servant for the remainder of the term, or of the period of notice, if notice is given, entitles the employer to terminate the contract at once. Probably in the case of a menial servant or otherwise of a yearly hiring, an illness likely to last beyond the year would terminate the contract, but not one only likely to last beyond the month.

Apparently, however, it will not be necessary for the Insurance Commissioners, before making a special order under this section, to be satisfied of the existence of a custom in the strict legal sense defined above. Probably the addition of the word "practice" here is intended to indicate this. Cf. Prestney v. Mayor &c. of Colchester (21 Ch. D. 111 at p. 120), and the words "established custom," and "legal liability" in subs. (12) infra. The order will not be binding upon all employers, but merely gives them an option under subs. (2) infra.

"Full remuneration."—Inclusive of board, lodging or any other allowance to which the servant may be entitled during the service, or the value thereof. See notes to the First Schedule, Part II (g), under s. 1 (2), and Second Schedule under s. 4 (1) supra. If custom is to be given its strict legal meaning it would seem that menial servants are excluded, for it is open to the employer to dismiss the servant with a month's wages only (see the last note). For the modification of this

s. 47 (1) provision in the case of persons employed by or under the Crown see s. 53 (2) infra.

"Disease or disablement."—See ss. 79 infra and 8 (1) (c) supra.

(2) It shall be lawful for any employer who employs persons in any class of employment specified in any such order, within a locality (if the custom is confined to certain localities) so specified, to give to the Insurance Commissioners the prescribed notice, and thereupon the employer shall, as respects all such persons, be subject to the liabilities, and this Part of this Act shall apply in respect of all such persons, subject to the modifications hereinafter mentioned.

"It shall be lawful for any employer."—The employee has no option in the matter, except in cases under subs. (7) infra.

"The prescribed notice."—Appendix II—33, p. 702.

"All such persons."—The employer must exercise the option entirely or not at all; he cannot pick and choose among his employees.

"The liabilities."—See subss. (3) and (9) infra.

"The modifications."—See subss. (4), (5), (6) infra.

(3) The employer shall be liable to pay full remuneration to every such person during any period or periods not exceeding six weeks in the aggregate in any one year during which such person may be suffering from any disease or disablement commencing while such person is in his employment, notwithstanding that such person may have left his employment before the expiration of that time:

"Full remuneration."—See note to subs. (1) supra.

"In any one year."—It is very doubtful whether this means calendar year (cf. Gibson v. Barton, L. R. 10 Q. B. 329), or any consecutive twelve months. The Interpretation Act, 1889, gives no definition of "year." Note that in subs. (10) infra, the words "calendar year," and in s. 8 (5) supra the words "twelve months" are used, making the meaning clear in each case. Probably "twelve months" is the meaning most convenient in practice.

"Disease and disablement."—See ss. 8 (1) (c), 79, and notes. S. 47 (3)
It will be necessary that the disease or disablement should wholly incapacitate the employee from work, as in the former section. This point may be important where an employer claims immunity on the ground that the six weeks are already exhausted.

Provided that, if any such person is engaged for a term of not less than six months certain, the employer shall be liable to pay full remuneration during any period of disease or disablement lasting less than six weeks, and for the first six weeks of any period of disease or disablement lasting more than six weeks, notwithstanding that the aggregate exceeds six weeks, but, where any such period extends beyond the term of the engagement, the employer shall not be liable to make any payment in respect of any part thereof after the expiration of such term.

"Any period."—The effect is that the employer's liability ceases with the employment, but may be unlimited within the period of employment, provided he shall not be liable for more than six weeks continuously; s. (8) (5) supra is clearly not intended to apply to such a case, but difficulties may well arise as to whether a "period of disease" is continuous, or whether a new period has begun.

(4) This Part of this Act shall apply in respect of persons so employed as aforesaid, subject to the following modifications :—

(a) Sickness benefit shall not be payable in respect of any period during which full remuneration is payable by the employer under this section, but for the purpose of calculating the rate and duration thereof, shall be deemed to have been paid for six weeks before the date as from which it becomes actually payable :

"Sickness benefit."—See s. 8 (1) (c).

"Shall be deemed to have been paid for six weeks."—Sickness benefit may become payable after a period of full remunera-

- S. 47 (4) tion actually less than six weeks. (a) under the first paragraph of subs. (3) supra, if the last of two or more discontinuous periods of sickness brings the total up to six weeks in the year [in which case the periods would have counted as one for the purpose of sickness benefit, s. 8 (5)]; (b) under the proviso to subs. (3), if the employment comes to an end before the six weeks. The calculation must be made by ascertaining, independently of this section, the rate and duration of sickness benefit which would have been payable, and then assuming that sickness benefit has been paid for six weeks, and that it then dated from the fourth day of illness [s. 8 (1) (c)]. In fact the "full remuneration" will have dated from the first day, and the net effect of this arrangement is that the full rate of sickness benefit comes to an end three days earlier than it otherwise would have done, i.e., the insured person loses the three days at the end, instead of at the beginning, of his illness.

This provision is also important from the point of view of the finances of approved societies [see (d) infra and "reserve value" (s. 55)], in that it enables the full value to be credited to a society as though it had been liable to pay the benefit for the whole time.

- (b) The employed rate shall be reduced, by twopence (or, where the employed contributor is a woman, one penny half-penny):

"The employed rate."—See s. 4 (1) and the Second Schedule supra.

- (c) The weekly contributions payable by the employer shall be reduced by one penny (or, where the employed contributor is a woman, one half-penny), and the weekly contributions payable by the employed contributor shall be reduced by one penny:

In view of subs. (11) infra, no difficulty will arise in applying this reduction except in Ireland, where the contribution payable by a contributor whose remuneration is under 2s. a day is $\frac{1}{2}d.$ (Second Schedule, Part II). This is met by s. 81 (16) infra.

- (d) There shall be credited to the approved society of which any such person is a member, or, if he is a deposit contributor, to his account in the Post Office fund, the difference between the amount of contributions at such reduced rate actually paid in respect of him and the amount which would have been paid if those contributions had been at the full rate, and the amount of that difference shall be treated as having been expended on sickness benefit, and the proper proportion thereof shall accordingly be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament :

“Credited.”—See s. 56 (1) infra.

“Post Office fund.”—See s. 42 (a) supra.

“The full rate.”—See s. 4 (1) and Second Schedule supra.

“The proper proportion.”—See s. 3 supra.

(e) Contributions shall not be payable in respect of any period of disease or disablement during which full remuneration is payable under this section if the prescribed notice has been given :

Cf. the proviso to the Third Schedule (1) under s. 4 (2) supra ; this is the only case where the employer escapes liability unless the benefit is actually paid. See also s. 10 (4) (a) supra, which provides that arrears shall not be counted against the insured person in such a case, and it is submitted that this will hold good (as far as he is concerned), even if the “prescribed notice” is not given in accordance with this subs. The provision here merely limits the right of the employer to escape payment of contributions. If through ignorance or carelessness no notice is given, and the employer continues to pay contributions, he cannot recover them, and he is presumably entitled to deduct the contributor’s share from his wages, provided he complies with the Third Schedule (3).

(f) The rules of an approved society or Insurance Committee as to notices and proof of disease and disablement may extend to periods of disease and disablement during which full remuneration is payable under this section.

“Rules.”—See s. 14 (2) (3) supra.

- s. 47 (5) (5) Where a person on ceasing to be so employed becomes temporarily unemployed, paragraphs (b) and (d) of the last foregoing subsection shall continue to apply in respect of him, and sickness benefit shall not be payable in respect of the first six weeks of any period of disease or disablement commencing after he ceased to be so employed, but, for the purpose of calculating the rate and duration thereof, shall be deemed to have been paid during those six weeks, and notwithstanding anything in this Part of this Act a disease or disablement shall not, for the purposes of sickness benefit, be treated as a continuation of a previous disease or disablement unless the medical practitioner attending such person certifies that it in fact is so.

"Commencing after he ceased to be so employed."—See subs. (1) supra. In the case of a disease commencing during the employment and continuing thereafter it is clear that benefit becomes payable when remuneration stops, which, in cases to which the proviso to subs. (3) applies will be at the termination of the employment, and may be after (say) 3 weeks' illness. But will the benefit then be payable for 20 weeks or 26? There are no words which will make it 23. It is submitted that as the subsection does not expressly apply to this case the benefit will be payable for 26 weeks.

"Temporarily unemployed."—As to when temporary unemployment ceases to be temporary, see s. 79 infra.

"Paragraphs (b) and (d)."—i.e., he can pay contributions, or if he does not arrears will be reckoned, at the reduced rate. But in order that the society may take advantage of (d) he must actually pay up the reduced rate, or no grant will be earned. Only the reduced employer's contribution will be remitted under s. 7 of 1913.

"Sickness benefit shall not be payable."—Practically applying paragraph (a) supra. He may thus be deprived of benefit for those six weeks altogether, even if he is not in arrear at all, if the illness arises after he leaves the employment [see subs. (3) supra], except that under the first part of that subs. he will be entitled to remuneration if his six weeks are not exhausted in the current year.

"Notwithstanding anything."—See s. 8 (5) supra.

- (6) Where such a person as aforesaid ceases to be employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act, and is entitled to become a voluntary contributor paying contributions at the employed rate, paragraphs (b) and (d) of subsection (4) shall, if he becomes a voluntary contributor, continue to apply in respect of him, and sickness benefit shall not be payable in respect of the first six weeks of any period of disease or disablement commencing after he became a voluntary contributor, but, for the purpose of calculating the rate and duration thereof, shall be deemed to have been paid during those six weeks, and notwithstanding anything in this Part of this Act a disease or disablement shall not, for the purposes of sickness benefit, be treated as a continuation of a previous disease or disablement unless the medical practitioner attending such person certifies that it in fact is so :

"Ceases to be."—See s. 79 infra, and see note on "Employed" under First Schedule, Part II. (a) infra.

"Entitled to become . . . employed rate."—After being for five years an "employed contributor," [ss. 1 (3) (b) and 5 (1) (b)], possibly also if he was under 45 at entry before Oct. 13th, 1913 [s. 5 (1) (a)].

"Paragraphs (b) and (d)."—See notes to subs. (5) supra.

Provided that if any such person at any time wishes to become an ordinary voluntary contributor, he may become such after the payment of twenty-six weekly contributions at the full rate, or, if the society of which he is a member consents, after the payment of such less number of such contributions as the society may appoint.

"Ordinary voluntary contributor."—i.e., paying at the "voluntary rate" [s. 5 (1)], and drawing full sick-pay from the fourth day of illness [s. 8 (1) (c)].

"Twenty-six . . . at the full rate."—During which time he would still be subject to the disabilities of this subsection.

(7) Where any employers wish to avail themselves of the provisions of this section as respects the

- s. 47 (7) persons employed by them in a class of employment, or in a locality, in which no such custom or practice as aforesaid exists, they may apply to the Insurance Commissioners, and the Commissioners, if, after ascertaining the views of the persons so employed, they think fit, may make a special order extending the provisions of this section as respects the applicants to the class of employment or locality mentioned in the application as if it were a class of employment or locality in which such a custom or practice as aforesaid prevailed.

“As aforesaid.”—Subs. (1) supra.

“After ascertaining . . . so employed.”—By any method of inquiry that they may select and with any result which may satisfy them.

“Special order.”—See s. 113, the Ninth Schedule, and Appendix III—51, p. 801.

“As respects the applicants.”—Any other applicants even in the same class of employment and locality will, if they want to follow this example, have to get a separate order.

- (8) Any question as to whether an employer is entitled to avail himself of the provisions of this section as respects any persons employed by him shall be determined by the Insurance Committee, subject to appeal to the Insurance Commissioners.

“Entitled to avail himself.”—i.e. whether the employment is within the terms of the “special order,” not whether such order ought to be made.

“Shall be determined.”—Such a question would also be a question within s. 66 (1) (b) infra, but the difference between the two methods of determination is trifling, and this subsection would, of course, prevail.

- (9) The payment of contributions purporting to be at the reduced rate authorised by this section as respects any persons employed by an employer in any class of employment, shall be conclusive evidence that he is, as respects those persons and all other persons employed by him in the same s. 47 (9) class of employment in the same locality, under the liability imposed by this section.

"The reduced rate."—See subs. (4) (b) and (c) supra.

"In any class of employment."—The meaning of these words is not clear, but it appears to be the accepted view that this refers only to classes of employment with reference to which a special order has been made, and does not attach the liability to an employer in any other employment who wrongfully pays contributions at the lower rate.

Quære whether an employer who so pays contributions without complying with the formalities prescribed in subs. (2) can be prosecuted for non-payment or otherwise for an offence against the Act. If not, the utility of subs. (2) is scarcely apparent.

"And all other persons . . . in the same locality."—Cf. subs. (2) supra. If the "special order" does not confine the custom to any locality, then it would appear from that subsection that the presumption will not be confined to any locality either, but the language here is not so clear.

(10) An employer who has given such notice as aforesaid may, by giving three months' previous notice to the Insurance Committee, withdraw his notice as from the commencement of the next calendar year, and in such case, as from that date, this section shall cease to apply in respect of the persons employed by him in the class of employment to which the notice of withdrawal relates.

"As aforesaid . . . to the Insurance Committee."—See subs. (2) supra, where, however, it is laid down that the original notice is to be given to the Insurance Commissioners.

"Shall cease to apply."—But the employer will not thereby be relieved of any liability imposed on him by the custom, of which the making of the "special order" would or would not be a strong indication according to the interpretation put upon the words "custom or practice" [see notes to subs. (1) supra]. He may, however, escape a liability under the second paragraph of subs. (3) if the "term of not less than six months certain" extends beyond the calendar year.

(11) None of the provisions of this section shall apply as respects any person employed at a rate of remuneration which is less than ten shillings a week.

"Rate of remuneration."—See note to subs. (1) supra

- S. 47 (12) (12) Nothing in this section shall relieve any employer from any, legal liability to pay wages during sickness to any person employed by him in accordance with any established custom.

See notes to subs. (1) supra.

Special provisions as to the mercantile marine.

48.—In the application of this Part of this Act to masters, seamen, and apprentices to the sea service and the sea fishing service the following provisions shall have effect:—

- (1) Neither sickness benefit nor disablement benefit shall be paid to a master, seaman or apprentice suffering from any disease or disablement in respect of any period during which the owner of the ship is under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, as amended by any subsequent enactment, or otherwise, liable to defray the expense of the necessary surgical and medical advice and attendance and medicine, and of his maintenance, but, for the purpose of calculating the rate and duration of sickness benefit, such benefit shall be deemed to have been paid from the commencement of the disease or disablement until the determination of such liability as aforesaid, and he shall not be entitled to medical benefit during such period :

Provisions as to the mercantile marine.

“ Provided that in respect of that part of such period as aforesaid during which the owner of the ship, is not liable to pay wages to the master, seaman, or apprentice so suffering from disease or disablement, sickness benefit may be paid in whole or part if such master, seaman, or apprentice has dependants, and was serving on a home-trade ship, and the benefit so paid shall be paid to or applied for the relief or maintenance of such dependants in such manner as the society or committee by which the benefit is administered, after consultation whenever possible with the master, seaman, and apprentice, thinks fit."

1913.

"Application." The payment and collection of contributions under this section is governed by special regulations, Appendix II—34, p. 704.

"Masters, seamen, and apprentices."—The words include all persons (of either sex) except pilots "employed or engaged in any capacity on board any ship." See subs. (10) hereof, which incorporates the definition of the Merchant Shipping Act, and see the Act, 57 and 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 742. See, however, the First Schedule Part I (b), p. 11 and notes, and Appendix V. The definition has been construed as having a narrower meaning than the words at first suggest. They apply to all persons engaged in the work of the ship, but not to such a person as the valet of a passenger (Schwartz v. India Rubber, etc. Co., 27 T.L.R. 231).

"Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, as amended." As to the liability of the shipowner to maintain and provide medical attendance, etc., see M.S.A., 1906 (6 Edw. 7 c. 48, s. 34):

"(1) If the master of, or a seaman (or apprentice, ib. s. 49) belonging to, a ship (see below) receives any hurt or injury in the service of the ship (including illness brought on by bad provisions, see Board of Trade v. Sundholm, 4 Asp. 196), or suffers from any illness, not being venereal disease or an illness due to his own wilful act or default (see In re Young & Harston's Contract, 31 Ch.D. 168; see also Lewis v. G.W. Ry. Co., 3 Q.B.D. 195), or to his own misbehaviour, the expense of providing the necessary surgical and medical advice and medicine, and also the expenses of the maintenance of the master or seaman until he is cured, or dies, or is returned to a proper return port (i.e., the port at which he was shipped, or a port in the country to which he belongs, s. 45), and of his conveyance to the port, and in the case of death the expense (if any) of his burial, shall be defrayed by the owner of the ship, without any deduction on this account from his wages.

"(2) If the master or a seaman is on account of any illness temporarily removed from his ship for the purpose of preventing infection, or otherwise for the convenience of the ship, and subsequently returns to duty, the expense of the removal and of providing the necessary advice and attendance and medicine, and of his maintenance while away from the ship shall be defrayed in like manner.

"(3) The expense of all medicines, surgical and medical advice, and attendance given to a master or seaman whilst on board his ship shall be defrayed in like manner.

"(4) In all other cases any reasonable expenses duly incurred by the

- S. 48 (1) owner for any seaman in respect of illness, and also any reasonable expenses duly incurred by the owner in respect of the burial of any seaman who dies whilst on service, shall, if duly proved, be deducted from the wages of the seaman." (See also s. 35, as to the means of recovering such expenses.)

The owners are also bound to supply medicines and carry a store on board (M.S.A., 1894, s. 200), and to carry a doctor on every foreign-going ship having 100 persons on board (ib. s. 209).

For the purposes of the above provisions, "ship" means a sea-going ship registered in the United Kingdom (M.S.A., 1906 s. 49; M.S.A., 1894, s. 260), or one which ought to have been so registered (ib. s. 266), or a sea-going British ship registered out of the United Kingdom, except when within the jurisdiction of the British possession in which it is registered [ib. s. 261 (d)], light-ships and pleasure yachts (ib. s. 262), and fishing-boats (ib. s. 263), unless fishing exclusively on the coasts of the United Kingdom.

In the case of venereal disease a seaman is not entitled to medical attendance under the Merchant Shipping Act, but he will be entitled to medical benefit if he is a member of the Seamen's National Insurance Society, because under subs. (12) he is deemed to reside in England [cf. ss. 8 (4), 14 (4)], though he will not be so entitled if he elects to join another approved society instead.

- (2) In the case of masters, seamen, and apprentices serving on foreign-going ships or ships engaged in regular trade on foreign stations, the employed rate and the employer's contributions shall each be reduced by one penny a week, and every four weekly contributions paid in any calendar year by a master, seaman, or apprentice whilst serving on such a ship shall, for the purposes of determining the number of contributions to be paid by him in that year and for the purposes of calculating arrears, be treated as five such contributions :

"Foreign-going ships."—"Foreign-going ship includes every ship employed in trading or going between some place or places in the United Kingdom, and some place or places situate beyond the following limits ; that is to say the coasts of the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands, and Isle of Man, and the Continent of Europe between the River Elbe and Brest, inclusive." (57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 742.) See also subs. (10) hereof.

"Employed in" necessarily implies that the ship habitually "goes foreign" (The Winestead, 1895, P. 170 ; The Glanystwyth, 1899,

P. 118), and includes the time when she is touching at home ports at the beginning or end of a voyage, and apparently even when she is laid up for survey or repair. S. 48 (2)

"Trade on foreign stations."—See subs. (10) hereof.

"The employed rate."—The seaman's contributions remain 4*d*. The employer pays 2*d*. and the employed rate is 6*d*.

"To be paid by him."—The seaman is entitled to count his contribution for every week in the foreign trade as 1½, and for every week in any other employment as one, and is therefore entitled under par. (3) of the Third Schedule to demand payment in full of all wages accruing after paying 52 contributions on that basis in any calendar year.

"For the purposes of calculating arrears."—See s. 10 (4) and (7). For the purpose of paying up arrears the seaman must pay contributions in full, since four weekly contributions will count as five, only if paid in the calendar year and whilst serving on a foreign-going ship. Quære, however, whether the rate to be paid is 6*d*. or 7*d*., clearly under s. 10 (6) only 2*d*. can be excused in the case of a man whose last employment was in the foreign trade.

Provided that—

(a) nothing in this provision shall affect the number of employer's contributions to be paid in respect of such a master, seaman, or apprentice, but no employer's contributions paid in respect of any week in respect of which no contribution is payable by the master, seaman, or apprentice shall be taken into account in reckoning the amount of his arrears ;

"Taken into account."—It appears to follow that such contributions cannot be referred to either for the purpose of reducing his arrears if paid, or of aggravating them if unpaid. A seaman in respect of whom forty-two whole contributions have been paid is clear of arrears, and it makes no difference to him whether the employer pays further contributions or no.

(b) there shall be credited to the approved society of which the master, seaman, or apprentice is a member, or, if he is a deposit contributor, to his account in the Post Office fund, a sum equal to two-fifths of the amount of the contributions actually paid in respect of him, and an equal sum shall be treated as having been expended on sickness benefit, and the proper proportion thereof shall accordingly be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament :

"Credited to the approved society."—As to the special credit for superannuation allowances, see subs. (7) (a) infra.

"Two-fifths."—This is in addition to the contributions (less 1½*d.*) which are credited to the society under s. 56. For the purpose of making up the Parliamentary grant a further sum is credited and treated as spent [cf. s. 47 (4) (a)].

- (3) A master, seaman, or apprentice who is neither domiciled nor has a place of residence in the United Kingdom shall not be deemed to be employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act, but the employer shall be liable to pay the same contributions in respect of him as would otherwise have been payable by him as employer's contributions, except in cases where the ship is engaged in regular trade on foreign stations :

"Domiciled."—" 'Domicile' means the place or country which is considered by law to be a person's permanent home" (Dicey on Domicile, p. 1), or, "habitation in a place with the intention of remaining there for ever, unless some circumstances should occur to alter that intention" (per Lord Wensleydale, in Wicker v. Hume, 4 Jur. N.S. 936).

"Place of residence."—See notes to First Schedule, Part I (b), under s. 1 (2) and to s. 8 (4) supra.

"The same contributions."—i.e., 2*d.* or 3*d.* weekly according as the ship is engaged in home or foreign trade, see subs. (2). These contributions are expended on British seamen under subs. (6).

"On foreign stations."—See subs. (10).

- (4) The Board of Trade shall, as soon as may be after the passing of this Act, cause a society to be formed, to be called the Seamen's National Insurance Society, of which any masters, seamen, and apprentices to the sea service and the sea fishing service who are employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act shall be entitled to become members, but nothing in this section shall prevent any such person joining another approved society instead of the society so formed :

(2) The rules of the Seamen's National Insurance Society may, notwithstanding anything in subsections (4) and (8) of section forty-eight of the principal Act, provide for the admission to the society of masters, seamen, and apprentices to the sea service or sea-fishing service who are entitled to be or become voluntary contributors, and for allowing a member who leaves the sea service and who is or continues to be a voluntary contributor to remain a member of the society.

The Seamen's National Insurance Society has adopted as its emblem the international code signal D.C. "We are coming to your assistance." We venture to submit that I.N., "Let us keep together for mutual protection," would meet the case.

"Shall be entitled to become members."—The right apparently accrues so soon as a master, seaman, or apprentice becomes employed and therefore liable to contribute. How it may be exercised (e.g., whether a seaman can join the society when on ship-board) must depend upon the scheme to be prepared ; as to the conditions under which a person previously insured can join an approved society see ss. 30 (1), 43 (2). There can be no medical examination of candidates for the Seamen's Society, and ss. (6) and (12) confer very great advantages upon members of the Seamen's Society.

(5) The affairs of the Seamen's National Insurance Society shall be managed by a committee constituted in accordance with a scheme to be prepared by the Board of

S. 48 (5)

Trade with the approval of the Insurance Commissioners, comprising representatives of the Board of Trade, of shipowners, and of members of the society in equal proportions, and the society shall, notwithstanding anything in this Part of this Act, become an approved society :

"Scheme"—This scheme constitutes the committee only. Another "scheme" prepared by the committee will regulate the extra benefits (subs. 7).

"An approved society."—Save as expressly provided in this section, the other provisions of Part I of this Act will apply to the Seamen's Society in like manner as to other approved societies. The provisions as to transfer values [modified by subs. (7) hereof], reserve values, valuation, and control of funds will therefore apply. It is submitted that the Board of Trade scheme cannot vary these provisions. (Sed cf. s. 78.)

- (6) All contributions paid by employers in respect of masters, seamen, or apprentices who are neither domiciled nor have a place of residence in the United Kingdom, and consequently deemed not to be employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act, shall be credited to the Seamen's National Insurance Society :

Contributions."—See subs. (3). The society must necessarily keep them separate from its other funds.

- (7) In addition to medical, sanatorium, sickness, disablement, and maternity benefits members of the Seamen's National Insurance Society shall be entitled to such other benefits as may be provided under a scheme to be prepared by the committee of management, with the approval of the Board of Trade and the Insurance Commissioners, and such other benefits shall include pensions for masters and seamen with long sea service, and the scheme may provide for preference being given to masters and seamen who have served in foreign-going ships or ships engaged in foreign trade over those who have served in the coasting and home trade ships, and such preference may be proportionate to the length of time spent in the first-mentioned service :

"Such other benefits."—These need not apparently be "additional benefits" as defined in s. 8 (1) (f) and the Fourth Schedule. It is submitted that s. 37 (3) does not apply to these benefits which are not paid out of a surplus found on valuation.

"As may be provided."—It is not clear whether Parliament will pay two-ninths of the cost of these benefits also ; see notes to s. 44 (2) supra. If not, the surplus arising from subs. (2) (a) and (b) and on the general working of the Society could be dealt with by a scheme for additional benefits under s. 37.

Provided that—

(a) The scheme shall provide for making a proper proportion of the sums credited to the Seamen's National Insurance Society under the last foregoing subsection applicable towards the payment of pensions or superannuation allowances granted by other approved societies to members with such sea service that, had they been members of the Seamen's National Insurance Society, they would have been entitled to pensions under the scheme ; and

(b) in the case of the transfer of a member of the society to another approved society, the transfer value payable in respect of him shall be

“Transfer value.”—Par. (a) refers only to men who are not members of the Seamen's National Insurance Society at all. A man who is a member of that society cannot transfer his pension rights to any other, but may transfer his other rights. If these do not include any right to the additional benefits mentioned in s. 8 (1) (f), though they may include other extra benefits, this may cause his transfer value to be slightly less than that of a member of an ordinary approved society of the same age. On the other hand he will continue after transfer to be entitled to a pension from the Seamen's National Insurance Society.

- (8) The rules of the Seamen's National Insurance Society shall provide for allowing a member who leaves the sea service and is unable to obtain admission to another approved society on account of the state of his health to continue a member of the Seamen's National Insurance Society for the purposes of this Part of this Act, and the rules of that society may provide that a member of the society who has fulfilled the conditions entitling him to such pension as aforesaid shall not be deprived of his right to the pension by reason only that he has ceased to be a member of the society at the time when the pension first becomes payable or ceases so to be at any subsequent time :

Cf. s. 46 (3) (A).

- (9) Where a master, seaman, or apprentice is at the commencement of this Act a member of a society which becomes an approved society he may, if that society and the Seamen's National Insurance Society so agree, continue to be a member of the first-mentioned society for the purposes of benefits under this Part of this Act other than pension, and become a member of the last-mentioned society for the purposes of pension only, and in such case the balance of the contributions payable in respect of him (after deducting the sums to be retained by the Insurance Commissioners towards discharging their liabilities in respect of reserve values) shall be divided between the two societies in such proportion as they may agree :

Cf. subs. (2) (b) hereof.

In the case of a seaman in a foreign-going ship no provision is made as to the division between the Seamen's Society and another approved society of the special Parliamentary grant under par. (b) of subs. (2), which is not in the usual language of the Statute included in the term contributions.

- (10) Expressions in this section have the same meaning as in the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1894 to 1907, and the expressions "foreign-going ships" and "home trade" ships include ships engaged in the sea-fishing service, and the expression "ship engaged in regular trade on foreign stations" means a ship engaged regularly in trade between ports outside the British Islands when trading between such ports, but, for the purposes of this provision, a ship shall not be deemed not to be engaged in such a trade by reason only that she puts into a port in the United Kingdom for the purpose of survey or repair :

S. 48 (10) "Engaged regularly."—See the Glanystwyth (1899) (68 L.J.P. 37) on the words "employed in the coasting trade." See also the Cayo Bonito (1902) P. 216.

"For the purpose."—It is submitted that if when coming home she does so for the primary purpose of survey or repair she does not lose her exemption because she takes the opportunity of bringing a cargo. The word "only" governs not the purpose of the voyage but the reason of disqualification.

- (11) The provisions of this Part of this Act affecting the employed rate and the rates of contributions of employers and contributors in Ireland, and depriving insured persons in Ireland of medical benefit, shall not apply to any such master, seaman, or apprentice, unless he has a permanent place of residence in Ireland and is not a member of the Seamen's National Insurance Society; and in the case of a master, seaman, or apprentice serving on a foreign-going ship or a ship engaged in foreign trade to whom such provisions do apply the amount by which the employed rate and the employer's contributions are to be reduced shall be one half-penny a week:

"Ireland."—See s. 81 and the Second Schedule, Part II.

"Permanent place of residence."—See notes to First Schedule, Part I (b), under s. 1 (2) and s. 8 (4) supra.

- (12) Members of the Seamen's National Insurance Society shall, for the purposes of this Part of this Act, be deemed to reside in England, and the medical benefit and sanatorium benefit of such members shall be administered by the society instead of by the Insurance Committee, and the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to the administration of those benefits shall apply s. 48 (12) accordingly subject to such modifications as may be prescribed, but nothing in this provision shall prevent the society agreeing with Insurance Committees for the administration of those benefits by the Committees in relation to individual members of the society.

"Prescribed."—See Appendix II—35, 36, pp. 722, 724.

"Deemed to reside in England."—The effect of this subsection may be that a man who is a member of the Seamen's Society is entitled to benefit in whatever part of the world he may be so long as the owner of the ship is not liable to provide him with necessaries (e.g., if he has been returned to a foreign port at which he was shipped, or is suffering from an injury resulting from his own misconduct); or it may be held that he is nevertheless "temporarily resident" [s. 8 (4)] in the place where he is in the flesh, although his "place of residence" is deemed to be in England, whereas it is actually in Scotland, Ireland, or Wales.

In any case these words definitely assign the supervision of his benefits to the English Commission, and may therefore bring that Commission into relation with Scottish, Irish, and Welsh Insurance Committees, notwithstanding the provisions of ss. 80-82.

49.—Repealed by s. 3 (2) of the Act of 1913.

50.—Where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners that a trade or business carried on by any employers is of a seasonal nature and subject to periodical fluctuation, and that those employers systematically employ persons throughout the year and work short time during the season when the trade or business is depressed, the Insurance Commissioners may make a special order reducing, as respects such persons, the employed rate and the contributions payable by the employers and contributors to such extent and for such period in the year as may be specified in the order, and increasing such rate and contributions to a Special provisions as to seasonal trades.

s. 50 — corresponding extent and for a corresponding period during the remainder of the year, and the order may contain such incidental, supplemental, and consequential provisions as may appear necessary for adapting the other provisions of this Part of this Act to cases under this section.

Cf. the powers of the Commissioners under s. 19 of 1913 as to casual or intermittent employment, post p. 429.

“Systematically.”—This does not necessarily mean that the whole of the same persons will be employed throughout the year, and it may, of course, happen that some persons having paid the higher rate of contribution during the busy season will either be dismissed (from some cause unconnected with the depression) or voluntarily seek other employment during the slack season, in which case the full ordinary rate will have to be paid in respect of them.

“Special Order.”—See s. 113 and the Ninth Schedule.

“The employed rate.”—See s. 4 (1) and the Second Schedule supra.

Special provisions as to inmates of charitable homes, &c.

51.—(1) Where the managers of any institution carried on for charitable or reformatory purposes prove that the persons who for such purposes are inmates of the institution receive maintenance and medical attendance when sick, the Insurance Commissioners may grant a certificate of exemption to those managers, and, where such a certificate of exemption is granted, any such inmates who are employed by the managers of the institution shall not in respect of such employment be deemed to be employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act:

The words in italics are added by s. 24 of 1913, which deleted the words “and supported by.”

“Charitable.”—See notes to s. 12 (1) supra.

“Reformatory.”—Including a Reformatory School under the Children Act, 1908, and also a Rescue Home or similar institution.

“Inmates.”—The word is wide enough to include not only the patients or other recipients of the charity of such an institution, but also the indwelling staff, as, e.g., the nurses living in a hospital. It has been held that a clerk is an "inmate" of his employer's place of abode within s. 150 of the Public Health Act, 1848 (Mason v. Bibby, 2 H. & C. 881). "It would rather seem that every lodger is an 'inmate'" (Buxton v. Jones, 1 M. & G. 86, and note thereto). See also R. v. Slade, 65, L.J.M.C. 109. But it is doubtful whether a hospital nurse is "supported" by an institution which maintains her as part of her reward for services rendered.

"Certificate of exemption."—Cf. s. 2 supra.

"Who are employed."—It is very doubtful whether an ordinary inmate can be said to be employed within the meaning of this Act. See notes to the First Schedule, Part I (a), under s. 1 (2) supra, and especially Burns v. Manchester and Salford Wesleyan Mission (99 L.T. 579).

Provided that it shall be a condition of such exemption that the managers shall be liable to pay in respect of any such inmate who, having been an inmate of the institution for more than six months, leaves the institution, the following sums :

- (a) In the case of a person who was at the time of entering the institution below the age of sixteen, such capital sum as will be sufficient to secure him benefits under this Part of this Act at the full rate ;

"Liable to pay."—To the National Health Insurance Fund, s. 54 (1).

"Below the age of sixteen."—There will be nothing to pay unless he is of the age of 17 or upwards on leaving, [s. 9 (4)].

"Such capital sum."—See s. 9 (4) supra, but note that nothing is payable until the person becomes an employed contributor, or if he has spent his time since attaining the age of 17 "in a school or college, in indentured apprenticeship or otherwise under instruction without wages, or otherwise in the completion of his education"—which would apply to the majority of the institutions referred to here.

- (b) In the case of a person who was at the time of entering the institution of the age of sixteen or upwards, and who was at that time an insured person and a member of an approved society, a sum equal to the value, calculated in the prescribed manner, of the contributions which, apart from this section, would have been payable in respect of him during the time he was in the institution.

“The value of the contributions.”—See note to s. 43 (2) (a) supra, and Appendices II—37, p. 726, and IV—9.

(2) Every such inmate as aforesaid shall, if he was an insured person before entering the institution, be suspended from benefits whilst he is such an inmate, and, if he was at such time a member of an approved society and has been an inmate of the institution for a period exceeding six months, the time during which he is in the institution shall be disregarded for the purpose of reckoning arrears.

“Such inmate.”—These words apparently denote an inmate who is employed [subs. (1)], but it cannot be pretended that the reference of the word “such” is clear. In any case it would seem that s. 12 prevents the payment of a benefit to the inmate in person, and this subsection can therefore only operate as a disqualification of his dependants. It is to be hoped that the narrow construction of this section, which as a final clause it should receive, will be accepted.

Any period less than six months will be counted in reckoning arrears.

Special provision as to persons becoming
teachers

52.—Where a person who has been employed to teach in a public elementary school ceases to be employed within the meaning of this Part of this Act by reason of becoming a teacher to whom the Elementary School Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1898, applies and does not become a voluntary contributor, there shall be paid to the Board of Education by the approved society of which he is a member or, if he is not a member of an approved society, out of the amount standing to his credit in the Post Office fund, a sum equal to the value calculated in the prescribed manner of the contributions paid by or in respect of him under this Part of this Act since he first began to teach in a public elementary school, or, if the amount standing to his credit is less than that sum, then the whole amount so standing to his credit; and the sum so paid to the Board of Education shall be placed by them to his credit in the Deferred Annuity fund in accordance with the rules for the time being applicable thereto.

"Employed."—A teacher is employed within the meaning of this Act only if employed "under a contract of service or apprenticeship." See the First Schedule, Part I (a) and note thereto, under s. 1 (2) at p. 4 supra.

The assumption underlying the present section of the Act is that an elementary school teacher is an employed person within the meaning of the Act, i.e., is under a contract of service. See, however, Crisp v. Thomas, 63 L.T. 756, and Baxter v. Barber, Times Newspaper, 24th April, 1903, on the question whether a teacher is under a contract of service or no. See also Crocker v. Plymouth Corporation (1903), 1 K.B. 494, as to who is the employer of a teacher in a non-provided school.

It would appear on the whole that since an assistant-teacher is bound to conform to the directions of the headmaster as to the manner in which he shall discharge his duties, his contract is clearly one of service, though the cases above cited throw some doubt upon the question of whom he serves.

The case of a pupil teacher or a student-teacher is, however, by no means easy. Such "teachers" are commonly in fact scholars or bursars in receipt of a maintenance grant in the nature of a prize won in competitive examination. They are, however, frequently "employed under a contract" expressly framed to conceal this fact, and purporting to be a contract of service or apprenticeship. The reason for this is that the old school boards had no power to spend money otherwise than on elementary education; and the training of students in the art of teaching being higher, or technical education, the school boards, who were bound to maintain the supply of teachers for their own purposes, could not give them scholarships or accept them as students. They therefore purported to give them "wages" and to employ them in elementary schools, and this fiction was winked at by the Board of Education.

Now that the Elementary Education Authority is, except in certain boroughs and urban districts merged in the Education Authority, the fiction is scarcely required; but, owing to the limitation of the funds available for higher education under the Act of 1902, there are still some teachers trained at the expense of the funds for elementary education under the old fiction. There are therefore side by side in many schools and colleges students under one article of the code who purport to be employees, and students under another article who frankly are not.

S. 52 It is submitted that none are really employed, and none therefore insurable.

"Ceases to be employed."—See First Schedule, Part II (d) under s. 1 (2) at p. 17.

"The Elementary School Teachers Superannuation Act 1898."—This Act (61 & 62 Vict. c. 57) applies to every teacher certificated after the passing of the Act (ib. s. 1) and to those previously certificated who elected to come under the scheme. Such teachers are excluded from the number of employed contributors under this Act [First Schedule, Part II (d)]. "The expression 'certificated teacher' means a teacher who is recognised under the Education Code as a certificated teacher for public elementary schools" (61 & 62 Vict. c. 57, s. 11), or under the Scotch Education Code as a certificated teacher in a school in receipt of annual Parliamentary grant (ib. s. 12).

"Value calculated in the prescribed manner."—This value bears no relation whatever to the transfer value of an insured person under s. 31 (1), but is a purely arbitrary sum. The intention is apparently that the Post Office or approved society should pay to the Board of Education the surplus of the contributions previously paid by the Local Education Authority in respect of the teacher over the estimated expenditure on benefits. If the actual amount of the contributions be taken it is clear that a society must pay considerably more than it has ever received in respect of such a teacher, since by reason of s. 55 (3) it is credited with only seven-ninths of those contributions; and there is no provision in this section that the sum paid out shall be treated as having been expended on benefits for the purpose of recovering Parliamentary grant equal to the other two-ninths. It is, however, clearly the intention of the section that the sums so payable in respect of a deposit contributor and of a society member should be calculated in the same manner. The manner is prescribed by Regulations in App. II—38, p. 726.

"The amount standing to his credit."—This proviso apparently applies only to the deposit contributor, as the phrase is meaningless when applied to a society member.

"To his credit in the Deferred Annuity fund."—S. 4 of the Act of 1898, provides that the amount of teachers' annuities shall be determined "in respect of the contributions made by them from time to time under this Act." It is presumably the intention of this section that the sum so "placed to his credit in the Deferred Annuity fund" should for the purpose of estimating his annuity be treated as a "contribution made by him" under the Act of 1898.

As to Irish teachers see s. 81 (17).

Application to other persons in the service of the Crown.

53.—(1) This Part of this Act shall apply to persons employed by or under the Crown, other than those with respect to whom special provision is made by this Part of this Act, in like manner as if the employer were a private person :

Provided that, in the case of a person employed in the private service of the Crown, the head of the department of the Royal Household in which he is employed shall be deemed to be his employer. s. 53 (1)

"Under the Crown."—The "public service" means any service of the Crown anywhere, and includes the Government of India (re Sir Stuart Samuel, 108 L.T. 696). It is submitted that the words of this section are of equally wide meaning, and require the insurance of persons employed under the Government of India or of a Crown Colony, or probably of a self-governing Dominion, subject, however, to the exemption of persons within the First Schedule, Part II (b), under s. 1 (2) supra.

"Other than those . . . this Act."—The First Schedule, Part II (a), (b) and s. 46 supra.

(2) The provisions of this Act relating to reduced insurance in cases where the employer is liable to pay wages during sickness shall extend in respect of persons employed by or under the Crown to cases where two-thirds only of the full remuneration are payable during periods, or parts of periods, of disease or disablement, if such remuneration is so payable for not less than three months in any year, and those provisions shall apply accordingly as if two-thirds of the full remuneration were substituted for the full remuneration and as if three months were substituted for six weeks as the maximum amount of time during any year such remuneration is payable.

"Reduced insurance."—See s. 47 supra, and the special orders referred to, Appendix III—B 7.

Financial Provisions.

54.—(1) All sums received in respect of contributions under this Part of this Act and all sums paid out of moneys provided by Parliament under this Part of this Act in respect of the benefits thereunder and the expenses of administration of such benefits

National Health Insurance Fund.

s. 54 (1) shall be paid into a fund, to be called the National Health Insurance Fund, under the control and management of the Insurance Commissioners, and the sums required to meet expenditure properly incurred by approved societies and insurance committees for the purposes of the benefits administered by them and the administration of such benefits shall be paid out of that fund.

"Moneys provided by Parliament."—These include not only the statutory two-ninths under ss. 3, 46, 47, and 48, but also the sanatorium penny under s. 16 (2) (b); and, under the head of "contributions," the sums referred to in the proviso to s. 4 (1) and in s. 49 (2).

"The National Health Insurance Fund."—The adventures of the money paid into this fund are somewhat complicated, as appears below. To take the processes in their chronological order. First comes payment into the fund under s. 54 (1); next, deduction of the 1½d. contributed to reserve values, under s. 54 (3); then the crediting to societies under s. 56 (1) (a); then the ascertainment of balances available for investment under s. 54 (3); and finally the division of the balances under s. 56 (1) (b), and the application of the divided portion under s. 54 (3) and under s. 56 (2).

"Shall be paid out of that fund."—An approved society has apparently unlimited power of drawing upon the National Health Fund for the cost of benefits under the Act, and the proper expenses of management. The effect is that until the first valuation (s. 36), the payment of the benefits mentioned in s. 8 (1) (a) to (e), and thereafter, from one valuation to another, that of those conferred by any scheme under ss. 37 (1) (a) or (c) or 38 (1) (b) is guaranteed to members of approved societies, although, if they overdraw the average expenditure, they will suffer at the next valuation.

On the question whether an Approved Society may borrow money for the purposes of its statutory business and apply the funds under this section in payment of interest thereon, see Reg. v. Reed, (s. Q.B.D. 483; 49 L.J.Q.B. 600).

Part payments have been made under Orders under s. 78 (App. III—A 11-21).

(2) The sums payable to the said fund out of moneys provided by Parliament shall be paid in such manner and at such times as the Treasury may determine.

Cf. ss. 3, 4 (1), 46 (3) (b), 47 (4) (d), 48 (2) (b), 49 (2) and the Second Schedule.

Parliamentary contributions under ss. 4 (1), 49 (2) and the Second Schedule obviously stand on a different footing from the Parliamentary proportion of benefits and will presumably be paid at a different time.

(3) The Insurance Commissioners shall ascertain periodically what sums standing in the National Health Insurance Fund to the credit of the several societies and of the Deposit Contributors' fund and of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund are available for investment, and the amount so ascertained shall, so far as not required under the provisions of this Part of this Act to be paid over to societies for investment, or to be retained for investment on their behalf, or for the discharge of liabilities of societies, be carried to a separate account, called the Investment Account, and shall be paid over to the National Debt Commissioners and by them invested in accordance with regulations made by the Treasury in any securities which are for the time being authorised by Parliament as investments for Savings Banks funds, but those Commissioners shall, in making the investment, give preference to stock or bonds issued under the provisions of the Acts relating to borrowing for raising capital for the purposes of the local loans fund where the purposes for which such capital is required is the making of advances for the purposes of the Housing of the Working Classes Acts, 1890 to 1909 : •

Provided that nothing in this provision shall prevent the Insurance Commissioners paying over to the National Debt Commissioners for temporary investment, pending the ascertainment of the amount available for investment as aforesaid, any sums in the National Health Insurance Fund not required to meet current liabilities. •

"To the credit," i.e., under s. 56 (1) (a).

"Several societies."—Including the Seamen's Society [s. 48 (5)].

S. 54 (6) "Available for investment."—It is apparently a matter entirely for the discretion of the Commissioners what proportion of a society's balance, under s. 56 (1), can properly be invested.

"To be paid over," i.e., under s. 56 (1) (b). Three-sevenths of the moneys not required for the discharge of liabilities are to be carried to Investment Account.

"Regulations made by the Treasury."—See these Regulations, Appendix I—2, p. 453.

"Securities—authorised."—See the Savings Bank Act, 1863, 26 and 27 Vict. c. 87, s. 19.

"Local loans fund—housing."—See 53 and 54 Vict. c. 70, ss. 25, 43, 65, 66, 67; 63 and 64 Vict. c. 59, s. 3 (2); 3 Edw. 7, c. 39, ss. 1, 15; 9 Edw. 7, c. 44, ss. 3, 4, 30.

The effect of these sections is shortly that money may be advanced to a local authority for the purposes of housing and improvements on the security of the rates up to any amount, the period of repayment being 80 years. It may be advanced to a society registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, and prohibited from paying more than 5 per cent., on mortgage of freehold or long leasehold premises, up to two-thirds of the value, and may be advanced to other persons and companies undertaking the housing of the working classes up to one-half of the value of the mortgaged premises, the period of repayment in either case being forty years.

(4) There shall be credited to the Deposit Contributors' fund and to the Navy and Army Insurance Fund interest at the prescribed rate per annum on the sums from time to time standing to the credit of those funds in the Investment Account.

"The prescribed rate."—At present $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. See the Regulations, 1913, Appendix II—39, p. 728.
Cf. s. 56 (1) (c), and Appendix II—40, art. 16, p. 736.

(5) The accounts of the National Health Insurance Fund shall be audited by the Comptroller and Auditor-General in such manner as the Treasury may direct.

(6) The National Debt Commissioners shall present to Parliament annually an account of the securities in which moneys forming part of the said fund are for the time being invested.

55.—(1) The Insurance Commissioners shall s. 55 (1) cause tables to be prepared showing, in cases in which such provision is necessary, the capital sums ^{Reserve values.} (in this Part of this Act referred to as "reserve values") which it is necessary to provide in respect of members entering into insurance at ages over the age of sixteen to meet the estimated loss (if any) arising through the acceptance by an approved society of such persons as members upon the terms and conditions as regards contributions and benefits prescribed by this Part of this Act.

"Tables."—See Appendix IV—10, 11, 12.

"In cases in which such provision is necessary."—The reserve value of a person entering into insurance is the sum with which an approved society containing him would be debited in respect of him on actuarial valuation. It is, therefore, at the moment of his entering into insurance, the same as his transfer value, under ss. 31 (1) and 43 (1). The reserve value of an insured person may therefore generally be defined as his transfer value at the time of becoming insured. In calculating the reserve values it must be observed that the liability of a society which accepts him is to provide seven-ninths of the benefits and cost of administration under this Part of this Act. The contributions which it will receive for the purpose in respect of an employed contributor [s. 4 (1), Second Schedule] and of a voluntary contributor below the age of forty-five entering into insurance within six months after the commencement of this Act [s. 5 (1) (a)] are 7*d.* per week, less 1½*d.* [subs. (3) hereof], i.e., 5½*d.* or ⅔ of 7*d.*

In the case of (a) voluntary contributors entering into insurance above the age of 45 [s. 5 (1) (a)];

(b) voluntary contributors entering into insurance after sixty-five weeks from the commencement of the Act [s. 5 (1)], the contributions are to be increased; and in the case of

(c) employed contributors (other than women married at the commencement of the Act, widows, or persons emerging from school, college, or apprenticeship) entering into insurance above the age of 17 and after sixty-five weeks from the commencement of this Act [s. 9 (4)], or re-entering after suspension from benefit [ss. 10 (1) and 44 (1)], the sickness benefit is to be reduced or the contributions increased. Case (a) is the only one in which the liability to contribute to reserve values is remitted by subs. (3) hereof, but see note thereon: it will be for the Commissioners to say whether any reserve value is required in cases (b) and (c), and to adjust the contributions to the benefits in preparing their tables. See note to s. 5 (1) p. 40 supra.

S. 55 (1) "Members entering into insurance."—A person entering into insurance will not in general be already a "member" of an approved society, and it is therefore submitted that the word "members" is synonymous with "persons," and that a reserve value is ascribed to every person entering into insurance within 12 months from the commencement of the Act, though it is not credited to any account unless and until he joins an approved society. See subs. (2) hereof and note thereto.

"Contributions."—See ss. 4 (1), 5 (1).

"Benefits."—See ss. 8, 9, 10.

"The estimated loss."—The amount of the reserve values so estimated will depend on two elements :

(1) The age of the person entering into insurance.

(2) The actuarial tables of sickness and maternity rates used in estimating the liability of the society. The Government actuaries in their published estimates of the total reserve values required, do not take into account the value of the prospective extension of benefits under s. 8 (9) of the Act; and it is submitted that since the Act makes no definite provision as to the amount of such extension, which is a matter for subsequent legislation, this section does not require that it should be taken into account. The liability of the society is, therefore, to pay seven-ninths of the cost of benefits and management, including additional benefits [s. 8 (1) (f)], receiving a contribution of 5*d.* per week for the purpose [see subs. (3) hereof].

The actuarial tables of sickness are, though possibly they need not have been, the same for all the divisions of the United Kingdom. It is claimed that the rates of sickness are lower in Scotland than in England, and if this be the case, Scottish Societies may anticipate a surplus on valuation. The reserve values credited to Scotland may be smaller per head than in England if there is a lower age distribution in Scotland. The provisions for writing off the reserve values made by subs. 1 (3) and (4) hereof is, however, precisely the same in all the members of the United Kingdom, so that it may be reasonable to anticipate in consequence of the provision for separation of funds made by ss. 80-82 hereof, that the period occupied by this process of writing off may be shorter in Scotland, and probably longer in Ireland, than in England, and the times at which the benefits will be extended in the different countries would vary accordingly. [See s. 83 and notes thereto, and the notes to subs. (4) hereof.]

(2) On a person of the age of seventeen or upwards joining an approved society for the purposes of this Part of this Act, there shall be credited to the society the reserve value (if any) appropriate to such person in accordance with such tables.

The sums so credited to a society in respect of reserve values shall carry interest at the rate of three S. 55 (2) per centum per annum.

"A person."—The word clearly includes a person who is already a deposit contributor. If he became a deposit contributor within twelve months from the commencement of the Act, an approved society accepting him at any time thereafter becomes liable to him for the full benefits under the Act, and his is, therefore, one of the "cases in which such provision (i.e., of reserve values) is necessary" in the words of subs. (1) hereof. See Appendix V. Model Rules B 7 (6).

The sum carried by him under s. 43 (2) from the Post Office account to the credit of the approved society is the excess of his transfer value over his reserve value [see note to subs. (1) hereof]; and it is therefore clear that a society cannot accept him without loss unless a reserve value is credited to the society in respect of him making up the full transfer value. Since it is the policy of the Act to encourage insured persons to join approved societies (e.g., no additional benefits are payable to deposit contributors) it appears that the somewhat ambiguous language of this and the preceding sub-section intends that a reserve value shall be credited to the approved society in such a case. This contention is supported by the fact that every such person is compelled to contribute to the reserve values fund under the sub-section next ensuing.

The persons in respect of whom Reserve Values must be credited are employed contributors over the age of 17, and Voluntary Contributors between the ages of 17 and 45 entering into insurance before the expiration of sixty-five weeks from the commencement of the Act, as well as all persons entering into insurance as employed contributors above the age of 32, in the case of men, and 22 in the case of women, at any time (see Appendix IV—4, 5, post), and persons who complete their education after 17 [s. 9 (4)] and all women married before entry into insurance. The bulk of the Reserve Values, will therefore be credited as in the first year of the Act, but there will be a constant slight drain on the fund thereafter.

By s. 28 and First Schedule (D) of the Act of 1913 [q.v. under s. 65 (1) infra], the Insurance Commissioners may make regulations as to the crediting or variation and cancellation of reserve values.

(3) Out of each weekly contribution paid by or in respect of an insured person who is a member of an approved society (other than a voluntary contributor who entered into insurance within six months after the commencement of this Act and at the date of that entry was of the age of forty-five years or upwards) there shall be retained by the Insurance Commissioners the sum of one penny and five-ninths (or in the case of women one penny half-penny), and

- s. 55 (3) the amounts so retained shall, together with any other moneys available for the purpose, be applied in manner provided by this Part of this Act towards discharging the liabilities of the Insurance Commissioners to approved societies in respect of the reserve values created by this section.

"An insured person."—There are three other exceptions to the number of insured persons to whom this section applies, beside the one expressly set out in this subsection. Married women voluntarily insured, and aliens, pay nothing to the reserve fund [ss. 44 (2) (c) and 45 (2) (iv)]; and in the case of naval seamen, marines and soldiers who are members of approved societies, id. only is deducted from their contribution for reserve values, the remaining £d. being contributed out of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund [(s. 46 (2) (iv.)).]

"Shall be applied."—That is to say in the manner provided by the next subsection. All such moneys, though not immediately credited to any society, remain a part of the National Health Insurance Fund under s. 54 (1), unless and until dealt with under s. 56 (1) (b).

(4) The Insurance Commissioners shall periodically apportion amongst the several societies, including the Navy and Army Insurance Fund, the sums retained by them, and the sums, if any, otherwise available for the discharge of such liabilities as aforesaid, in proportion to the amount of reserve values for the time being credited to the several societies, and shall credit to each society the amount so apportioned, and any balance of the sums so credited to a society, after providing for interest on the reserve values for the time being credited to the society, shall be written off the amount of the reserve values so credited.

"Sums . . . otherwise available."—e.g., under s. 10 (1) and s. 43 (1) (b).

"Shall credit."—The effect of this provision is that approved societies receive a total credit equal to the total contribution, but two-ninths of the contributions are dealt out among the societies according to the age of their members and not according to the source of the contributions.

"In proportion to the amount of reserve values for the time being credited."—The effect of this is to provide for the simultaneous extinction of all reserve values in English societies, whether credited in respect of men or women. So also the Scottish reserve values will be simultaneously extinguished, though the period may be reached either earlier or later in Scotland, Ireland or Wales according to the sickness there experienced.

"Shall be written off the . . . reserve values."—The effect is simply to substitute slowly a real credit for the purely fictitious one provided by subs. (2), which is in fact nothing more than a device for distributing the State grant in accordance with the age distribution in different societies. These fictitious reserve values are slowly transformed into the real reserves of the different approved societies, four-sevenths of which will be under their private control [(s. 56 (1) (d))]. When this period of substitution is completed the benefits are to be extended under s. 8 (9); a part of the 1½d. being set free for the purpose. It is however clear that to maintain actuarial soundness a further reserve must be built up in respect of such extended benefits, and a part of the 1½d. must therefore still be retained for the purpose.

(5) If any person is convicted of the offence of knowingly making any false statement as to his age in any declaration made for the purpose of obtaining a reserve value to be credited to an approved society in respect of him, the reserve value shall be cancelled and the member of the society in respect of whom it was credited shall be treated as if he had entered into insurance after the expiration of sixty-five weeks from the commencement of this Act.

"Offence."—The member will also be liable to three months' imprisonment or a fine (S.J. Act, 1879), under s. 69 (1) hereof.

"Shall be treated as if," &c.—If an employed contributor, his benefits will be reduced [s. 9 (4)], and if a voluntary contributor his contributions will be increased [s. 5 (1)].

"Sixty-five weeks."—By s. 2 (1) of the Act of 1913, p. 420.

56.—(1) The Insurance Commissioners shall, ^{Trans-}subject to the approval of the Treasury, ^{actions be-}make ^{tween the}regulations with respect to crediting and debiting ^{Insurance}to the several societies sums received and paid by ^{Commis-}the Insurance Commissioners on behalf of and to ^{sioners}societies and as to the payments to be made by and ^{and}

s. 58 (1) to the Commissioners to and by societies, and those regulations shall, amongst other things—

(a) provide for crediting to each society the contributions paid by or in respect of the members of the society after deducting the amounts retained thereout for discharging the liabilities of the Insurance Commissioners in respect of reserve values ;

"Make regulations."—See s. 65 and Appendix II—40, p. 728.

"Paid . . . to societies."—These payments are not apparently limited to the amount of the society's credit ; but are limited under s. 54 (1) to expenditure properly incurred, i.e., for minimum or additional benefits and management.

"The amounts retained."—These are also credited [s. 55 (4)], but not to the same societies.

(b) require the Insurance Commissioners, on carrying any sum to the credit of an approved society in the investment account, to pay over to the society for investment, or, at the request of the society, to retain for investment on behalf of the society four-sevenths, or, so far as the sums are attributable to women, one-half, of the amount so credited to the society ;

See Appendix II—40, art. 12, p. 734.

"Investment account."—See s. 54 (3) and note thereto.

"At the request of the society."—The effect of making such a request is that the society may be exempted from giving other security to the Commissioners [s. 26 (1)].

"Retain for investment."—See subs. (3) hereof.

"Amount so credited."—The words "so credited" clearly refer to the process of crediting under par. (a) hereof. The sum to be paid over under this paragraph must be estimated before any sum can be carried to the Investment Account under s. 54 (3). The clear intention of the section is that the balance of the member's contribution should be paid to his society, and the balance of the employer's contribution to the Investment Account.

- (c) provide for crediting to each society interest at the prescribed rate per annum on the sums for the time being standing to the credit of the society in the investment account ;

"The prescribed rate."—The actuarial calculations upon which the financing of the benefits is based are made on the assumption that the rate of interest will be 3 per cent. ; any higher rate obtained will increase the possibility of additional benefits, but will have no effect in diminishing the period for extension of benefits after substitution of reserve values.

- (d) provide for the discharge of debit balances in such manner as the Insurance Commissioners determine, either by the reduction of the reserve values credited to the society or out of the proceeds of the realisation of securities held by the society or by the Commissioners on behalf of the society, and out of the sums standing to the credit of the society in the investment account proportionately :

"Reduction of the reserve values."—See s. 43 (1) (a), and the proviso to s. 44 (2). The effect of reducing the reserve values is to penalise the society concerned by diminishing its share of the credits given from time to time under s. 55 (4).

"Sums standing to the credit."—Approved societies are not concerned with the fluctuations in capital value of securities held by the National Debt Commissioners for the Investment Account, but are absolutely entitled, for the purpose of discharging their debit balances, to the sums so standing to their credit. (Cf. the provisions of the various Savings Banks Acts.)

Provided that, in the case of any society which gives notice to that effect to the Insurance Commissioners, no part of the sums carried to the credit of the society in the investment account shall be paid over to the society or retained by the Commissioners for investment on its behalf, but the whole amount shall remain to the credit of the society in

S. 56 (1) the investment account, and in such case the regulations made under the foregoing provisions shall apply to the society subject to the prescribed modifications.

"Notice."—The effect of such notice will be to relieve the society from the task of supervising its investments, to guarantee its funds, and to relieve it of the need for giving security.

"No part."—The society cannot apparently, by notice require the Commissioners to invest a part of the sums due and pay over the balance. It is, however, submitted that such notice does not bind all funds thereafter becoming due, but may be limited to the funds immediately payable.

Quære whether the notice can be withdrawn and the funds demanded. Apparently not.

(2) Every approved society shall invest any sums paid to the society for investment, and shall, for the purpose have power to invest in any securities in which trustees are for the time being by law empowered to invest trust funds, or in any stocks, mortgages, or other securities issued by any local authority within the meaning of the Local Loans Act, 1875, and charged on any rates levied by or on the order or precept of such authority, or in any other securities for the time being approved by the Insurance Commissioners.

"Trust Funds."—The securities referred to are :

(a) Parliamentary stocks or public funds, or Government securities, of the United Kingdom, including Bank Annuities and Exchequer Bills (see Brown v. Brown, 4 K. & J. 704; Slingsby v. Grainger, 7 H.L.C. 273).

(b) Real or heritable securities in Great Britain or Ireland: i.e. on mortgage, but not purchase, of fee simple or copyhold lands in England and Wales, and in Scotland also of heritable leaseholds, and in Ireland also of leaseholds perpetually renewable with a head-rent (Macleod v. Annesley, 16 Beav. 600) or of lands held upon fee-farm grants under 12 and 13 Vict. c. 105 and 31 and 32 Vict. c. 62. But trustees should not invest upon a contributory mortgage (Dive v. Roebuck, 1909, 1 Ch. 328) a second or other deferred mortgage (Drosier v. Brereton, 15 Beav. 226; Chapman v. Browne, 1902, 1 Ch. 785), a deposit of title deeds (Swaffield v. Nelson, 1876, W.N. 255) a stock mortgage (Whitney v. Smith, L.R. 4 Ch. 513), a mortgage of unfinished houses or other buildings (Walker v. Walker, 59 L.J.

Ch. 386), or a mortgage of real property held for lives (Head v. Gould, 1898, 2 Ch. 250). Trustees should not invest upon mortgage of property belonging to one of themselves (Francis v. Francis, 5 De G. M. and G. 103), and would probably be well advised not to advance the society's money upon mortgage to other officers of the society, but there is no reason why they should not advance it to other members, if the security is suitable.

(c) Stock of the Banks of England or Ireland.

(d) India 3½ and 3 per cent. stocks, or other capital stocks issued by the Indian Government under statutory authority, and charged upon the revenues of India.

(e) Securities the interest of which is for the time being guaranteed by Parliament (see In re National Permanent Building Society, 1890, W.N. 117).

(f) Consolidated stock created by the Metropolitan Board of Works or by the L.C.C., or debenture stock created by the Receiver for the Metropolitan Police District.

(g) Debenture, rent-charge, guaranteed or preference stock of any railway company in Great Britain or Ireland incorporated by special Act of Parliament, and having paid a dividend during each of the 10 years preceding the investment.

(h) Stock of any railway or canal company in Great Britain or Ireland whose undertaking is leased in perpetuity, or for a term of not less than 200 years at a fixed rental to any such railway company as is mentioned in (g), either alone or jointly with any other railway company.

(i) Indian guaranteed railway stocks or shares, provided they are not redeemable within 15 years from the date of investment, or debenture stocks of such railway companies, the interest on which is paid or guaranteed by the Indian Government, even if so redeemable.

(j) "B" annuities of the Eastern Bengal, East Indian, and Scinde, Punjab and Delhi Railways, and any like annuities created since 1893 or in future, on the purchase of any railway by the Indian Government, charged on the revenues of India, and authorised by statute to be accepted by trustees in lieu of any stock held by them in the purchased railway; also deferred annuities Class D, and annuities Class C of the East Indian Railway Company.

(k) Stock of any Indian railway company upon which a fixed or minimum dividend in sterling is paid or guaranteed by the Indian Government, or upon the capital of which the interest is so guaranteed.

(l) Debenture, guaranteed or preference stock of any company in Great Britain or Ireland, established for the supply of water for profit, and incorporated by special Act of Parliament or by Royal Charter (not under the Companies Acts), and having during each of the 10 years preceding the investment paid a dividend of not less than 5 per cent. on its ordinary stock.

(m) Nominal or inscribed stock issued or to be issued by the corporation of any municipal borough having, according to the returns of the last census prior to the date of investment, a population exceeding 50,000, or by any county council under the authority of any Act of Parliament or Provisional Order.

(n) Similar stock of any commissioners incorporated by Act of Parliament for the supply of water, and having a compulsory power

S. 56 (2)

S. 57 (1) — “Personal experience of general practice.”—The necessity to have had personal experience of general practice only applies to the medical member of the English Commissioners and not to those of Scotland, Ireland and Wales. By “general practice” is usually meant ordinary domiciliary practice in contrast to hospital practice or practice as a consultant or as a specialist. “Has had personal experience,” that is, he need not be a general practitioner at the time of his appointment as a Commissioner, if he has previously been in general practice.

(2) The Insurance Commissioners may sue and be sued, and may for all purposes be described by that name, and shall have an official seal which shall be officially and judicially noticed, and such seal shall be authenticated by any Commissioner or the secretary to the Commissioners, or some person authorised by the Commissioners to act on behalf of the secretary.

“Judicially noticed.”—The seals of the Local Government Board and similar bodies and of other permanent statutory Commissioners are similarly privileged. See also 8 & 9 Vict., c. 113, s. 1.

(3) The Insurance Commissioners may appoint such officers, inspectors, referees, and servants, for the purposes of this Part of this Act as the Commissioners, subject to the approval of the Treasury as to number, may determine, and there shall be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament to the Commissioners and to such officers, inspectors, referees, and servants, such salaries or remuneration as the Treasury may determine; and any expenses incurred by the Treasury (including the remuneration of valuers and auditors appointed by the Treasury) or the Commissioners in carrying this Part of this Act into effect, to such extent as the Treasury may sanction, shall be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament.

“Any expenses.”—Including the printing, &c., of cards and books, s. 7 and Appendix II—2, art. 13, p. 468.

"Valuers and auditors appointed by the Treasury."—As S. 57 (3) to valuers of the accounts of approved societies see s. 36 (1); and as to valuation of the National Health Insurance Fund see s. 54 (5).

Accountants for the purposes of the National Health Insurance Fund and credits of approved societies therein are not appointed by the Treasury, but are the servants of the Commissioners [s. 56 (1)].

(4) Every document purporting to be an order or other instrument issued by the Insurance Commissioners and to be sealed with the seal of the Commissioners authenticated in manner provided by this section, or to be signed by the secretary to the Commissioners or any person authorised by the Commissioners to act on behalf of the secretary, shall be received in evidence and be deemed to be such order or instrument without further proof, unless the contrary is shown.

"Order or other instrument."—These words do not include an ordinary business letter. In interpreting the words "deed, will, or other written instrument," in Order LIVa, r.1. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, Mr. Justice Stirling said: "It seems to me that the word 'instrument' was meant to receive a wide construction, and that it would apply to any written document under which any right or liability, whether legal or equitable, exists" (in Mason v. Schuppiesser, 81 L.T. 147 at p. 148). So also Dr. Johnson: "a writing containing any contract or order"; and Webster: "a writing expressive of some act, contract, process, or proceeding," both cited and approved by Sir Henry Hawkins in R. v. Riley (1896), 1 Q.B. 309, at p. 314.

See the Statute, 8 & 9 Vict., c. 113, which largely covers the field of this section.

(3) The Documentary Evidence Act, 1868, as amended by the Documentary Evidence Act, 1882, shall apply to each of the said several bodies of Insurance Commissioners, and to the said joint committee, as if each of those bodies and the joint committee were included in the first column of the schedule to the first-mentioned Act, and the chairman or any other member or the secretary or clerk, or any person authorised to act on behalf of the secretary or clerk, of the body or committee, were mentioned in the

S. 57 (4) second column of that schedule, and as if the regulations referred to in those Acts included any document issued by any of those bodies or that committee.

The effect of this provision is to make a certified copy or King's Printer's copy of any order, special order, or regulation of the Commissioners or of the Joint Committee receivable in evidence.

(5) The Insurance Commissioners may empower any inspector appointed by them to exercise in respect of any approved society or any branch of an approved society all or any of the powers given by section seventy-six of the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, to an inspector appointed thereunder :

Provided that any complaint or report as to any such branch as aforesaid made by an inspector under this subsection shall be communicated to the central body or other central authority of the society.

"Inspector appointed by them."—Home Office inspectors and other Government inspectors acting under s. 112 (4) on behalf of the Insurance Commissioners will have no such power.

"Powers given by . . . the Friendly Societies Act."—i.e., to examine into and report on the affairs of a society. See 59 and 60 Vict., c. 25, s. 76. These powers can only be exercised upon the requisition of members of the society supported by evidence of the applicants' bona fides.

Appointment of Advisory
tee.

58.—The Insurance Commissioners shall, as soon as may be after the passing of this Act, appoint an Advisory Committee for the purpose of giving the Insurance Commissioners advice and assistance in connexion with the making and altering of regulations under this Part of this Act, consisting of representatives of associations of employers and approved societies, of duly qualified medical practitioners who have personal experience of general practice, and of such other persons as the Commissioners may appoint, of whom two at least shall be women. S. 58

See Appendices I—1, 17, p. 452, and III A—22.

"Have personal experience."—These words probably have the same meaning as "has had personal experience" in s. 57 (1), q.v.

Insurance Committees.

59.—(1) An Insurance Committee shall be constituted for every county and county borough. Appointment of Insurance Committees.

"County."—i.e., administrative county (s. 79 infra). See the Local Government Act, 1888.

As to actions against Insurance Committees for negligence, see Henly v. Lyme Regis, 6 L.J. (O.S.) 226, 227, C.P.

(2) Every such committee shall consist of such number of members as the Insurance Commissioners, having regard to the circumstances of each case, determine, but in no case less than forty or more than eighty, of whom—

(a) three-fifths shall be appointed in such manner as may be prescribed by regulations of the Insurance Commissioners so as to secure representation of the insured persons resident in the county or county borough who are members of approved societies, and who are deposit contributors, in proportion, as nearly as may be, to their respective numbers ;

"In proportion."—The proportion required is only between numbers of societies as a whole and deposit contributors as a whole, not between members of different societies, though the regulations Appendix II—41, p. 741) secure the proportion throughout.

(b) one-fifth shall be appointed by the council of the county or county borough ;

(c) two members shall be elected in manner provided by regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners, either by any association of duly qualified medical practitioners resident in the county or county borough which may have been formed for that purpose under such regulations, or, if no such association has been formed, by such practitioners ;

“Medical practitioners.”—It will be seen that the Act provides that whatever the size of the local insurance committee may be, two medical practitioners shall be directly elected by the profession, and at least one more added by the Commissioners. In addition there are other practitioners to be chosen by the Councils, varying in number with the size of the committee [par. (d)]. Thus in a committee of 40 there must be at least four, in a committee of 60 or upwards at least five, and in a committee of 80 at least six medical practitioners. Medical practitioners who are on the list of practitioners entering into agreements with the committee to give medical attendance to the insured [s. 15 (2)] are not excluded from being members of the committee, but the representatives appointed need not themselves be on the list of medical practitioners referred to in s. 15 (2) supra, or indeed medical practitioners at all. Cf. s. 62 infra. See Appendix II—42, p. 755.

“Formed for that purpose.”—This would exclude branches of the British Medical Association, or any other medical society, which are formed for other purposes, from electing the medical members of the committee. It is suggested as a convenient arrangement that the regulations might recognise the local medical committee (s. 62) as being formed for this, among other purposes, especially as it is to be representative of all the practitioners in the area.

(d) one member or, if the total number of the committee is sixty or upwards, two members, or if the total number of the committee is eighty, three members, shall be duly qualified medical practitioners appointed by the council of the county or county borough ;

The members so appointed will be in addition to those appointed under (b).

(e) the remaining members shall be appointed by the Insurance Commissioners :

Provided that—

(i) The regulations with respect to the appointment of members to represent insured persons shall provide for conferring on the approved societies which have members resident in the county or county borough the power of appointing the representatives of such members, and, where an association of the deposit contributors resident in the county or county borough has been formed under such regulations as aforesaid, for conferring on such association the power of appointing the representatives of the deposit contributors ;

“Conferring on the approved societies.”—i.e., on the central bodies of such societies, not necessarily on the members resident in the county or county borough.

- (ii) Of the members appointed by the council of the county or county borough two at least shall be women, and of the members appointed by the Insurance Commissioners one at least shall be a duly qualified medical practitioner and two at least shall be women.

“A duly qualified medical practitioner.”—So that the representation of medical practitioners will vary from four to six according to the size of the committee.

- (3) The Insurance Commissioners may, where any part of the cost of medical benefit or sanatorium benefit is defrayed by the council of the county or county borough, increase the representation of the council and make a corresponding diminution in the representation of the insured persons.

“Is defrayed by the Council.”—See ss. 15 (7), (8), 17 (2) (3) and 21 supra.

- (4) The Insurance Commissioners may make regulations as to the appointment, quorum, term of

s. 59 (4) office, and rotation of members and proceedings generally (including the appointment of sub-committees consisting wholly or partly of members of the committee) of the committee, and the employment of officers and the provision of offices by the committee, including the use by the committee, with or without payment, of any offices of a local authority, but subject to the consent of such authority, and any such regulations may provide for the constitution of district insurance committees, and for apportioning amongst the several district insurance committees any of the powers and duties of the Insurance Committee and regulating the relations of district insurance committees to the Insurance Committee and to one another :

(2) At least one woman shall be on every sub-committee formed by an insurance committee for dealing with the administration of any benefit, and section fifty-nine of the principal Act shall be varied accordingly.

“Regulations.”—Appendix II—43, p. 763 and II—44, pp. 765.

“Local authority.”—Defined in the Public Health Act, 1875, s. 4, as an urban or rural sanitary authority, now urban or rural district councils (Local Government Act, 1894, s. 21), including the council of a borough and county borough, but not a metropolitan borough [London Government Act, 1899, s. 31 (1)]. No other authority is there included in this phrase, which does not therefore include a board of guardians, a parish council, or the council of a county other than a county borough, unless the phrase is to have a wider interpretation in this Act. (See the wider definition in the Local Loans Act, 1875, supra, p. 236).

Provided that the regulations so made shall require the Insurance Committee of every county (except in cases where, owing to special circumstances, the Commissioners consider it unnecessary) within six months after the commencement of this Act to prepare after consultation with the county council and submit for approval to the Commissioners a scheme for the appointment of district insurance committees for the county and prescribing the area to be assigned to each such committee, and in particular the scheme shall provide for the appointment of a district insurance committee for each borough (including the City of London and a metropolitan borough) within the county having a population of not less than ten thousand, and for each urban district within the county with a population of not less than twenty thousand, but, if the Insurance Committee or, on appeal, the Insurance Commissioners consider it expedient in the case of any such borough (outside London) or urban district, any adjoining areas may be grouped with such borough or urban district for the purpose of the appointment of a district insurance committee.

"Each borough."—See s. 21 supra.

"Adjoining areas."—Not necessarily existing local government areas, but rural districts are generally grouped round a borough or urban district.

(5) Any Insurance Committee may, and shall if so required by the Insurance Commissioners, combine with any one or more other Insurance Committees for all or any of the purposes of this Part of this Act, and, where they so combine, the provisions of this Part of this Act shall apply with such necessary adaptations as may be prescribed.

30.—(1) Every insurance committee constituted or to be constituted under section fifty-nine subsection (1) of the principal Act shall be a body corporate by the name of the insurance committee for the borough (or county) of , and every such insurance Insurance committees.

S. 30⁽¹⁾ — committee shall have perpetual succession and a common seal, and may sue and be sued, and (subject to the consent in every case of the Insurance Commissioners) have power and authority (without any licence in mortmain) to take, purchase, and hold land for the purposes of the principal Act and this Act.

As to the effect of this section on pending actions and contracts see Dean v. Mellard, 32 L.J.C.P., 282.

Powers and duties of Insurance Committees.

60.—(1) The Insurance Committee of a county or county borough shall, in addition to the other powers and duties conferred and imposed on it by this Part of this Act, have the following powers and duties :—

“The other powers and duties.”—Administration of medical benefit (s. 15), sanatorium benefit (ss. 16, 17), all benefits of “deposit contributors” (s. 42), and see also ss. 2 (2), 14, 21, 39 (4) (5) (7), 46 (3) (f) (4), 48 (12), 63.

(a) It shall make such reports as to the health of insured persons within the county or county borough as the Insurance Commissioners, after consultation with the Local Government Board, may prescribe, and shall furnish to them such statistical and other returns as they may require, and may make to them such other reports on the health of such persons and the conditions affecting the same, and may make such suggestions with regard thereto as it may think fit, and the Insurance Commissioners shall forward to the councils of the counties, boroughs, and urban and rural districts, which appear to them to be affected by or interested in any such reports, returns, or suggestions, copies of such reports, returns, and suggestions, and the reports and returns so made shall include ^{s. 60 (1)} such reports and returns as will enable an ^(a) analysis and classification to be made of the persons who are deposit contributors :

"Such reports as to the health of insured persons."—
 There is no provision in s. 15 (medical benefit), requiring the provision of reports upon their patients to be made part of the duty of medical practitioners with whom arrangements are made.

"Deposit contributors."—S. 42 supra.

- (b) It shall make such provision for the giving of lectures and the publication of information on questions relating to health as it thinks necessary or desirable: and may, if it thinks fit, for that purpose make arrangements with local education authorities, universities and other institutions.

"Make such provision."—As to the funds for these purposes
 see s. 61 (2) infra.

- (c) It shall keep proper books and accounts in the prescribed form and shall, when required, submit such accounts to audit by auditors appointed by the Treasury.

Cf. s. 35 (1) (a) supra, and Appendix II—45, p. 768.

(2) For the purpose of assisting Insurance Committees in the exercise and performance of their powers and duties under this Part of this Act, and with a view to promoting co-operation between such committees and the councils of counties, boroughs, and urban and rural districts, any medical officer of health may, at the request of an Insurance Committee and with the consent of the council by whom he is appointed, attend meetings of the committee and give such advice and assistance as is in his power.

S. 60 (2) "Medical officer of health . . . the council."—See Local Government Act, 1888, ss. 17, 18; and Housing and Town Planning Act, 1909, s. 68, as to counties and county boroughs. Public Health Act, 1875, ss. 189-191, and Housing, &c., Act, 1909, s. 69, as to urban and rural districts; and Public Health (London) Act, 1891, s. 106, as to metropolitan boroughs. There is nothing in the Act to prevent a council appointing their medical officer as a representative on the Insurance Committee.

(3) For the purposes of this section the council of a borough includes the mayor, aldermen, and commons of the City of London in common council assembled, and the council of a metropolitan borough.

Income. 61.—(1) All sums available for sanatorium benefit in a county or county borough, and all sums payable in respect of the members of approved societies and deposit contributors resident in the county or county borough for the purposes of medical benefit and administrative expenses in any year, shall be paid or credited to the Insurance Committee at the commencement of that year.

"Credited at."—Must be read as credited as at, for the sum to be credited cannot be ascertained at the commencement of the year. See e.g. Appendix III, A—24.

"Sums available for sanatorium benefit."—See ss. 16 (2) 17 (2) (3).

"Sums payable . . . medical benefit."—See ss. 15 (6) (7) (8), 42 (d).

"Administrative expenses."—S. 42 (c), where, however, the words are "in the administration of benefits"; this can hardly include the duties referred to in s. 60. The "sums" must in each case include the Parliamentary contribution of two-ninths.

"At the commencement of the year."—Or, by s. 28 and First Schedule (F) of the Act of 1913 [q.v. under s. 65 (1), infra], at such times as the Insurance Commissioners with the consent of the Treasury may prescribe.

(2) There shall also be paid to the Insurance Committee in every year by each approved society having members who are insured persons resident in the county or county borough, in respect of each such member, the sum of one penny towards the s. 81 (2) administrative expenses of the committee :

"One penny."—The Committee and not the Society will spend this penny on the administration of benefits and draw the State grant thereon under s. 3. It follows that the Society really loses and the Committee gains not 1*d.* but 1*½d.* See the Accounts of Approved Societies Regulations, 1913, App. II—18, Sch. I, 10 (i) d., p. 653.

The sums mentioned in this and the next succeeding subs. are apparently the only ones which will be available for the general expenses (apart from the actual administration of benefits), e.g., the expenses mentioned in s. 60 ; see also note to s. 63 (5) infra.

Provided that, if the special circumstances of any county, or county borough, are such that the Insurance Commissioners consider that the travelling expenses of the members of the committee should be repaid to them by the committee, the Insurance Commissioners may authorise such payment, and in such case may increase the said sum of one penny to such sum, not exceeding twopence, as they may determine.

The words in italics are inserted by s. 31 (2) of 1913.

See also s. 31 (1) of 1913, post p. 433.

(3) It shall be lawful for any local authority, out of any fund or rate out of which the expenses of the authority are payable, to subscribe such sums as it may think fit towards the general purposes of the Insurance Committee.

"Any local authority."—See note to s. 59 (4) supra.

"Any fund or rate."—As to county (and other) boroughs, see note to s. 15 (8) supra. As to urban districts, the Public Health Act, 1875, ss. 209, 210, and the Local Government Act, 1894, s. 28. And as to rural districts, the Public Health Act, 1875, s. 229, and the Local Government Act, 1894, s. 29.

"General purposes."—Including the benefits of deposit contributors and the administration thereof, in addition to the contributions to medical benefit under s. 15 (7) (8), and to sanatorium benefit under s. 17 (2) (3), as well as administrative expenses ; cf. s. 12 (2) (b) for another source of revenue to this fund.

(3) An insurance committee may pay as general expenses incurred by them in the execution of their

- S. 61 (3) duties any sum, not exceeding ten pounds in any one year, as a subscription to the funds of any association of insurance committees whose objects are approved by the Insurance Commissioners, as well as any reasonable expenses of the attendances of representatives, not exceeding in any case four, at meetings of such associations, on a scale to be approved by the Commissioners.

The Insurance Committee may also contribute to the expenses of a local committee of medical practitioners or chemists under s. 33 (2) of 1913 (under s. 62 infra).

Local medical
tees.

62.—Where a local medical committee has been formed for any county or county borough or for any area for which a district committee has been formed and the Insurance Commissioners are satisfied that such committee is representative of the duly qualified medical practitioners resident in the county or county borough or such area as aforesaid, they shall recognise such committee, and, where a local medical committee has been so recognised, it shall, subject to regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners, be consulted by the Insurance Committee or district committee, as the case may be, on all general questions affecting the administration of medical benefit, including the arrangements made with medical practitioners giving attendance and treatment to insured persons, and shall perform such other duties, and shall exercise such powers, as may be determined by the Insurance Commissioners.

“District committee.”—See s. 59 (4).

“Resident.”—This qualification is not required in order to enable a practitioner to be placed on the list for the district, s. 15 (2) (b) supra.

“Administration of medical benefit.”—s. 15 supra.

This section was inserted on the suggestion of the British Medical Association. There is no statutory necessity that such a committee should be formed, but it is expected that in the interests of the profession the Association will take steps to see that such a committee is formed in every area and district in such a way as to satisfy the Commissioners. The only right (though it is an extremely important one to the medical profession), conferred by the Act on this committee, is the right to be consulted by the Insurance Committee on matters affecting the profession in its relation to the Act. No provision is made for meeting the expenses of the committee. See Appendix I A, 16 (d), pp. 452.

32. Where it is made the duty of an insurance committee under the provisions of this Act or of the principal Act, or of regulations made thereunder, to ascertain, in respect of any matter affecting the administration of medical benefit in the area, the opinions and wishes of the medical practitioners who have entered into agreements with the insurance committee for the attendance and treatment of insured persons whose medical benefit is administered by the committee, they shall do so through a committee appointed by such practitioners in accordance with regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners, and such committee shall perform such duties and shall exercise such powers as may be determined by the Insurance Commissioners, and in any area in which within six months of the time of the passing of this Act no local medical committee has been recognised under the provisions of section sixty-two of the principal Act a committee elected in the manner hereinbefore provided may be recognised as the local medical committee for that area.

Consultation with practitioners who have entered into agreements with insurance committees.

33—(1) In every county or county borough there shall be elected in accordance with regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners, by the persons, firms, and bodies corporate, who have agreed to supply drugs, medicines, and appliances to insured persons whose medical benefit is administered by the committee, a local committee, and it shall, subject to regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners, be consulted by the insurance committee on all general questions affecting the supply of drugs, medicines, and appliances, to insured persons, and shall perform such duties and exercise such powers as may be determined by the Insurance Commissioners.

(2) The insurance committee, if requested so to do by any committee elected by the medical practitioners who have entered into agreement with the insurance committee for the attendance and treatment of insured persons whose benefit is administered by the insurance committee, and if requested by the local committee elected in manner provided by the last foregoing subsection, may be authorised by the Insurance Commissioners out of moneys available for the provision of medical benefit within the area to allot to and for the administrative expenses of each of the said committees, respectively, such a sum not exceeding one penny in all in respect of each insured person entitled to obtain medical attendance and treatment from the practitioners who have entered into agreement with the insurance committee as may be determined by the insurance committee with the consent of the Commissioners.

Excessive Sickness.

Inquiries into causes of excessive sickness, &c.

63.—(1) Where it is alleged by the Insurance Commissioners or by any approved society or Insurance Committee that the sickness which has taken place among any insured persons, being, in the case where the allegation is made by a society or committee persons for the administration of whose sickness and disablement benefits the society or committee is responsible, is excessive, and that such excess is due to the conditions or nature of employment of such persons, or to bad housing or insanitary conditions in any locality, or to an insufficient or contaminated water supply, or to the neglect on the part of any person or authority to observe or enforce the provisions of any Act relating to the health of workers in factories, workshops, mines, quarries, or other industries, or relating to public health, or the housing of the working classes, or any regulations made under any such Act, or to observe or enforce any public health precautions, the Commissioners or the society or committee making such allegation may send to the person or authority alleged to be in default a claim for the payment of the amount of any extra expenditure alleged to have been incurred by reason of such cause as aforesaid, and, if the Commissioners, society, or committee and such person or authority fail to arrive at any agreement on the subject, may apply to the Secretary of State or the Local Government Board, as the case may require, for an inquiry, and thereupon the Secretary of State or Local Government Board may appoint a competent person to hold an inquiry.

"Being in the case where . . . responsible."—See note to "any extra expenditure" infra.

"Nature of employment."—See, however, subss. (2) (a) and (4) infra.

"Neglect . . . to observe or enforce."—It is submitted that this does not enable any claim to be made in respect of the failure of an authority to put in force any provisions which are merely permissive.

"The provisions of any Act relating to the health of workers in factories, workshops . . ."—See the Factories Act,

- S. 63 (1) 1901, ss. 1-22 especially, but no doubt a breach of other sections of that Act, if it resulted in injury to health, would be included; the Factory and Workshop Act, 1907; the Public Health Act, 1875, s. 91 (6); and the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, ss. 25-27, 38.

For the distinction between a factory and a workshop see the Act of 1901, s. 149, and Sixth Schedule.

"Mines."—See the Metalliferous Mines Regulation Acts, 1872 and 1875; the Coal Mines, &c., Acts, 1887 and 1896; and the Mines Act, 1911. Every mine which is not within the latter Acts is within the former. As to the difference between a "mine" and a "quarry," see Bell v. Wilson (L.R. 1 Ch. 303); A.-G., of Isle of Man v. Mylchreest (4 App. Cas. 294); Lord Provost of Glasgow v. Farie (13 App. Cas. 657); Midland Railway Co. v. Robinson (15 App. Cas. 19); Tidd, Birleston & Co. v. North Eastern Railway Co. (1903, 1 K.B. 603).

"Quarries."—See the Quarries Act, 1894, and the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901, as applied by the Sixth Schedule, Part II (26) of that Act.

"Public health."—See the Public Health Acts, 1875, especially ss. 13-50, 91-111, 120-129 and 134-140, and 1890, especially ss. 16-27, and the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, especially ss. 1-18, 29-46, 55-74, 82 and 113. The contamination of water is specially dealt with by the Act of 1875, ss. 68-70, and that of 1891, ss. 50-54, 136.

The sale of unsound meat is dealt with by the Act of 1875, ss. 116-9, that of 1890, ss. 28-31, and that of 1891, s. 47; dairies are regulated by ss. 28 and 71 of the latter Act. See also the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, 1875 and 1899.

There are of course numerous other Statutes which impose duties relating to public health, e.g., the Infectious Disease (Notification) Act, 1889.

"Housing of the Working Classes."—See the Acts of 1890, 1900, 1903, and the Housing and Town Planning Act, 1909. Also the Public Health Acts, 1875, ss. 71-90, 91 (5), 97, 109; 1890, s. 33, and the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, ss. 63-5, 94-8.

Part I of the Housing, &c., Act, 1890, relating to the clearing of unhealthy areas, and re-housing of persons displaced, is mandatory, although the loop-holes for escape by a local authority are numerous. As to the duty to make a scheme for that purpose, see s. 4, now strengthened by s. 4 of the Act of 1903, and s. 11 of that of 1909; and as to the duty of carrying it into effect when made, see ss. 12 and 13, and s. 11 of the Act of 1909.

To Part II of the Act of 1890, which deals with unhealthy or obstructive buildings, closing and demolition orders, and reconstruction schemes for small areas, the same remarks apply: see ss. 32-4, 38 (3), (4), and 39 of the Act of 1890, s. 4 of the Act of 1903 and ss. 10 (1), 11, 15 (3), 17, 18 of that of 1909.

Part III, relating to the erection of houses for the working classes, apart from the reconstruction of unhealthy areas, is purely permissive: until the Act of 1909 it was also adoptive (s. 1). But s. 10 of that Act enables the Local Government Board to declare a local authority which has failed to exercise its powers "in default," and may order either that authority, or in the case of an urban or rural district, the county council, to exercise them. Disobedience to such an order would render the council amenable to the provisions of this section.

There are also duties with regard to housing imposed upon persons other than local authorities: (1) upon medical officers of health, by ss. 5, 16, 30, 31, 38, 76, 79, of the Act of 1890, and s. 17 (1), (2) of the Act of 1909: such an officer would doubtless be personally liable under this section for neglect of those duties. S. 68 (1)

(2) Upon any authority, company, or person who under statutory powers for the acquisition of land displaces working-men's dwellings, to provide rehousing accommodation, by many private Acts, and generally by s. 3 and the Schedule of the Act of 1903.

(3) Upon the owner of a house as to which a demolition order has been made by s. 34 (1) of the Act of 1890. By ss. 14 and 15 of the Act of 1909 the letting of a house at a rent not exceeding £40 in London, £26 in a borough or urban district with 50,000 inhabitants, and £16 elsewhere, is subject to an implied condition that it is, and shall throughout the holding be, in all respects reasonably fit for human habitation. See also s. 75 of the Act of 1890 and s. 12 of that of 1903, which forbids contracting out of the provisions of s. 75, but does not apply to those of the Act of 1909. There is no such implied condition or warranty at common law, except in the case of a house let furnished, and then it applies only to the commencement of the tenancy (Wilson v. Finch Hatton, 2 Ex. D. 336).

The Small Holdings and Allotments Act, 1907, confers upon county and parish councils the power but not the duty to erect upon small holdings and allotments respectively acquired by them dwellings for occupation in connection therewith [ss. 7, 11, 21 (2)].

"Any public health precautions."—It is submitted that this can only mean "any precautions the duty of observing which is imposed by law," and in view of the previous reference to statutory duties, it must mean "by the common law." "Every person is guilty of a misdemeanour at common law, known as common nuisance, who does an act not warranted by law, or omits to discharge a legal duty, if the effect of the act or omission is to endanger the life or health . . . of the public." Archbold Cr. Pl. 23rd Ed. p. 1121, citing 2 Chit. Cr. Law. 565, 1 Hawk. c. 75, Hubert v. Groves, 1 Esp. 147, Wilkes v. Hungerford Market Co. 2 Bing. N.C. 281. Thus it is indictable: to expose in the public streets any person or animal suffering from an infectious disease (R. v. Vantandillo, 4 M. and S. 73; R. v. Henson, Dears. 24; R. v. Burnett, 4 M. and S. 272; Metropolitan Asylum District v. Hill, 6 App. Cas. 193 at p. 204, where Lord Blackburn explains what might be a lawful excuse for such an act); to pollute water (R. v. Medley, 6 C. and P. 292); to keep a corpse unburied (R. v. Vann, 2 Den. 331); to sell food unfit for human consumption (R. v. Dixon, 3 M. and S. 11; R. v. Dennis, 1894, 2 Q.B. 458; Shillito v. Thompson, 1 Q.B.D. 12; if death results it is manslaughter; R. v. Stevenson, 2 F. and F. 106; R. v. Kempson, 28 L.J. Newsp. 477).

Whether a breach of the statutory and common law duties referred to in this subsection will in every case confer a right of action upon any person injured in health thereby against the person or authority in default, is a question of much difficulty. In the case of the sale of unsound food there is usually an action for breach of warranty arising in contract, if not also an action in tort. The breach of any of these common law duties gives rise to an action for damages at the suit of any person injured thereby, and this is not taken away because a

- S. 63 (1) penalty is imposed by statute for the same breach. But in the case of breach of a duty which is statutory only if a penalty is attached to the offence no action will lie, if not it will (see Beven on Negligence, Book II, Ch. 3 and Harrington v. Derby Corporation, 1905. 1 Ch. 205 at p. 222 et seq. and cases there cited).

“The amount.”—See note on “such excess” under the next subsection.

“Any extra expenditure.”—Including apparently expenditure on benefits other than sickness and disablement benefits [see subs. (7) infra] in spite of the words “persons for the administration of whose sickness and disablement benefits the society or committee is responsible” supra. In the case of members of approved societies it will apparently be necessary in view of those words, if it is sought to recover expenditure on benefits other than these, either for the claim to be made by the Insurance Commissioners, or for the society and committee to combine for the purpose.

“Fail to arrive at any agreement.”—No period is mentioned within which a decision is to be reached, but the inquiry will presumably not be ordered unless there has been a genuine but unsuccessful attempt.

“As the case may require.”—Presumably this means that the application is to be made to the department concerned with the administration of the statute (if any) under which the claim is alleged to arise. This is the Secretary of State in the case of the Factory and Workshop Acts, the Metalliferous Mines Acts, the Coal Mines Regulation Acts, the Quarries Act; and the Local Government Board in the case of the Public Health Acts, and the Housing of the Working Classes Acts. But in the case of the common law duties referred to above, and perhaps also of some statutory duties which may be within the terms of this subsection, there is no provision for any inquiry to be held by either of these departments, and it is not clear to whom the application is to be made.

“Competent person.”—There is no special qualification mentioned in any of the statutes referred to.

(2) If upon such inquiry being held, it is proved to the satisfaction of the person holding the inquiry that the amount of such sickness has—

- (i) during a period of not less than three years before the date of the inquiry; or
- (ii) if there has been an outbreak of any epidemic, endemic or infectious disease, during any less period;

“Epidemic, endemic, or infectious disease.”—The phrase is that used in the Public Health Acts. By “infectious” disease is meant a disease which is communicable, whether it be directly by inoculation (contagious), or indirectly by air-borne or water-borne causes. An epidemic disease is one which "falls as it were suddenly upon a people, generally spreads widely and rapidly, though its prevalence is often of limited duration." (Bristowe's Medicine.) Endemic diseases are those "habitually present in certain localities, and which, when external conditions are favourable, give rise to sudden and widespread dissemination, which is then termed an epidemic." (Parkes' Hygiene.) E.g., influenza is an infectious disease which is now endemic in England and often becomes epidemic.

"Period."—A question arises as to the application of the Public Authorities Protection Act, 1893, s. 1 (a):—

"The action, prosecution, or proceeding shall not lie or be instituted unless it is commenced within six months next after the act, neglect or default complained of, or in case of a continuance of injury or damage, within six months next after the ceasing thereof."

It applies to "any act done in pursuance, or execution, or intended execution of any Act of Parliament, or of any public duty or authority, or in respect of any alleged neglect or default in the execution" thereof. Although an inquiry under this section is not an "action" or "prosecution," it is doubtless a "proceeding"; see that word used in subs. (9) infra. If it is a "proceeding," when is it "commenced"? Presumably when the application is made for an inquiry. It might be argued that it is "commenced" when the claim for payment is made; but as to this see the Act of 1893, s. 1 (d). The majority of cases under this section would involve "a continuance of injury or damage." These words do not mean or refer to a damage inflicted once for all which continues unrepaired, but a new damage recurring day by day in respect of an act done, it may be, once and for all at some prior time, or repeated, it may be, from day to day (Harrington v. Derby Corporation, 1905, 1 Ch. 205 at p. 227).

been in excess of the average expectation of sickness by more than ten per cent., and that such excess was in whole or in part due to any such cause as afore-said, the amount of any extra expenditure found by the person holding the inquiry to have been incurred under this Part of this Act by any societies or committees where the allegation is made by the Insurance Commissioners, or, if the allegation is made by a society or committee, by the society or committee in question, by reason of such cause shall be ordered by him to be made good in accordance with the following provisions:—

"The average expectation."—See subs. (4) infra.

"Such excess . . . any extra expenditure."—The amount

- S. 68 (2) which may be recovered is the whole excess, not merely such part as is over ten per cent.

"In whole or in part."—The excess may be divided up, and part of it allocated to any one or more of the causes above mentioned, the expenditure being allocated in the same proportion as aforesaid. [See subs. (1) and notes.]

- (a) Where the excess or such part thereof as aforesaid is due to the conditions or nature of the employment or to any neglect on the part of any employer to observe or enforce any such Act or regulation as aforesaid, it shall be made good by the employer :

"Conditions or nature."—Subject to subs. (4) infra. The liability imposed by these words is irrespective of any default on the part of the employer. It would cover cases of accident for which no compensation or damages are payable for any reason. In fact, where there is such default the employer would be liable at common law [subs. (4)] unless the workman knew of, and consented to accept, the risk (Smith v. Baker, 1891, A.C. 325), and the liability under this section would be excluded. The case is the same, and the common law liability more difficult to escape, where the injury or disease is due to breach of the employer's statutory duty (Britton v. G.W. Cotton Co., 41 L.J. Ex. 99; Thomas v. Quartermaine, 18 Q.B.D. at p. 696; Butler v. Fife Coal Co., 28 T.L.R. 150).

- (b) Where such excess or such part thereof as aforesaid is due to bad housing or insanitary conditions in the locality, or to any neglect on the part of any local authority to observe or enforce any such Act or regulation or such precautions as aforesaid, it shall be made good by such local authority as appears to the person holding the inquiry to have been in default, or, if due to the insanitary condition of any particular premises, shall be made good either by such authority or by the owner, lessee, or occupier of the premises who is proved to the satisfaction of the person ^{s. 63 (2)} holding the inquiry to be responsible : ^(b)

Or to any neglect . . . in default.—Unless it is due to any neglect, it is difficult to see how the authority can be “in default,” so that it is not clear what independent meaning is to be attached to the words “due to bad housing or insanitary conditions in the locality.” However, such conditions in a locality could hardly exist without some neglect of statutory duty by the authority.

“Or by the owner, lessee, or occupier.”—Subject to the authority having taken the steps provided in subs. (3) infra, or to a claim having been sent to him under subs. (1) supra.

“To be responsible.”—It cannot be a condition precedent to such responsibility that the owner, etc., should have been served with, and failed to comply with, a notice under the Public Health or Housing Acts, requiring him to remedy the insanitary conditions : it will be sufficient if he has been liable to be so served.

—(c) Where the excess or such part thereof as aforesaid is due to an insufficient or contaminated water supply, it shall be made good by the local authority, company, or person by whom the water is supplied, or who having imposed upon them the duty of affording a water supply have refused or neglected to do so, unless the local authority, company, or person prove that such insufficiency or contamination was not due to any default on the part of the authority, company, or person, but arose from circumstances over which they had no control.

“Insufficient.”—Where a company or authority obtains by a special Act power to supply water, the provisions of the Waterworks Clauses Acts, 1847 and 1863, are usually incorporated therewith. Ss. 35-53 of the former and 12-15 of the latter regulate the supply which the undertakers are required to provide. They are bound to connect any dwelling-house within their limits of the annual value of less than £10, and the owner or occupier of any other such house may connect it with the mains ; the undertakers are then required, under penalties, to keep a constant supply at a pressure sufficient to reach the top storey of the highest house within their limits (with an exception for frost, unusual drought, or other unavoidable cause or accident) They are also bound to provide a sufficient supply for cleansing

- S. 63 (2) sewer's, drains, streets, for public pumps, baths and wash-houses, and for extinguishing fires; but, subject to the local Act, not for other purposes.

The powers of a local authority to undertake a supply of water are contained in ss. 51-67 of the Public Health Act, 1875 (urban and rural district councils), the Local Government Act, 1894, s. 8 (1) (e) (parish councils). There is no obligation upon them to do so, unless they are declared by the Local Government Board to be in default under s. 299 of the Act of 1875, or by the county council upon the application of the parish council, under s. 16 of the Act of 1894. But where they do undertake such a supply they are required to maintain it (s. 55 of the Act of 1875, substituted for ss. 35-43 of the Act of 1847), and the provisions of the Act of 1847 (ss. 44-53), relating to the connection of houses to the mains, are incorporated. As to the Metropolitan area, see the Metropolitan (Water) Act, 1902, and ss. 48-53 of the Public Health (London Act), 1891.

"Contaminated."—The water supplied is required, by s. 35 of the Act of 1847 and s. 55 of that of 1875, to be "pure and wholesome" (see also s. 25 of the Act of 1902). Ss. 61-67 of the Act of 1847, ss. 68-70, of that of 1875, and ss. 50-54, and 136 of that of 1891, provide against contamination by persons other than the undertakers, but this section does not appear to give any remedy against them, unless it may arise in a particular case from the concluding words of (b) supra.

"Duty."—See note to "insufficient," the special Act authorising a person to supply water may of course confer upon it duties other than those contained in the general Acts.

(3) Where any such inquiry as aforesaid is held in respect of bad housing or insanitary conditions in any locality, it shall be lawful for the local authority to serve notice upon the owner, lessee, or occupier of any premises which are the subject-matter of the inquiry, and, where it is proved that such a notice has been served and that any such extra expense as aforesaid, or any part thereof, has been caused by the act or default of such owner, lessee or occupier, the person holding the inquiry may order the owner, lessee, or occupier to repay to the local authority the amount of the extra expenditure or part thereof which has been so caused.

"To serve notice."—In such a case the owner, etc., would be entitled to be heard in the inquiry, although no claim has been made against him under subs. (1), and could be awarded his costs against the authority under subs. (5).

"To repay."—This procedure is alternative to that in subs (2) (b).

(4) For the purpose of this section, the average s. 63 (4) expectation of sickness shall be calculated in accordance with the tables prepared by the Insurance Commissioners for the purpose of valuations under this part of this Act, but any excessive sickness attributable to any disease or disablement which is due to any disease or injury in respect of which damages or compensation are payable under the Employers' Liability Act, 1880, or the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, or at common law, shall not be taken into account.

"Valuations."—See s. 36 supra.

~~"Disease or disablement."~~—See ss. 79 infra and 8 (1) (c) supra.

"Damages or compensation."—See notes to s. 11 (1) supra, the wording of which is almost (though unfortunately not quite) the same. The words "or any scheme certified thereunder" are here omitted, and as s. 3 (1) of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, gives no remedy to the workman other than that which he may have under the contract which the employer is permitted to make with him, it is doubtful whether such a scheme can be included here by implication, except perhaps by reference to that section. But probably the words "at common law" include such a case, since the remedy is not really statutory.

"Payable."—This word is difficult. Apparently the person or authority against whom the claim is made may allege in defence that although no proceedings have been taken against them under s. 11, they ought to have been, and would have been successful. The effect is to make unsuccessful proceedings under that section (in cases to which it may apply) almost a condition precedent to proceedings under this section.

"At common law."—If this subsection stood alone it might well be argued that the ejusdem generis rule would apply, and that this would include only cases where damages are recoverable from an employer. But as the words "from his employer or any other person" are found in s. 11 (1) supra, they must probably be implied here. The intention clearly is that no sickness shall be taken into account for which no benefit has become payable, and that the defaulter shall not be made to pay twice. Any damages or compensation recoverable under any statute other than those named are however not within this subsection.

(5) The Insurance Commissioners shall make regulations as to the procedure on inquiries under this section, and a person holding an inquiry under

s. 63 (5) this 'section shall have all such powers as an inspector of the Local Government Board has for the purposes of an inquiry under the Public Health Acts, and shall have power to order how and by what parties costs, including such expenses as the Secretary of State or Local Government Board may certify to have been incurred by them, are to be paid, and an order made by such person' under this section may by leave of the High Court be enforced in the same manner as a judgment or order of the Court to the same effect :

"All such powers . . . Public Health Acts."—See the Act of 1875, s. 296, which gives to such an inspector the powers of a ~~poor~~ law inspector under the Acts relating to the relief of the poor, as to which see 10 and 11 Vict. c. 109, ss. 11, 19-22, and 26. The powers enable an inspector to require any person to give evidence on oath (with the penalties of perjury), provided he does not have to travel more than ten miles for the purpose, or to make a statutory declaration, and to produce all documents, plans, etc., except documents of title to lands which are not the property of any parish or union.

A serious question arises as to whether such an inquiry is governed by the Arbitration Act, 1889. By s. 24 of that Act it is made applicable to "every arbitration under any Act passed before or after the commencement of this Act as if the arbitration were pursuant to a submission, except in so far as this Act is inconsistent with the Act regulating the arbitration, or with any rules or procedure authorised or recognised by that Act." An arbitration has been thus defined : "a reference to the decision of one or more persons, either with or without an umpire, of a particular matter in difference between the parties" (per Romilly, M.R., Collins v. Collins, 28 L.J., Ch. 184). The essential qualities of an arbitration appear to be that there shall be a difference, and that that difference shall be referred for decision, whether before or after it arises, and whether compulsorily (cf. the Judicature Act, 1884, s. 8) or by consent, to some person or persons independently of the ordinary courts of law (see Thomson v. Anderson, L.R. 9, Eq. 523, per Malins, V.C. at p. 531 ; Wadsworth v. Smith, L.R. 6 Q.B. 332).

Here we have a difference ("if the Commissioners . . . fail to arrive at any agreement," subs. (1) supra), which is to be decided by the "competent person" mentioned in subs. (1). The principal importance of the question is that by s. 7 (b) of the Arbitration Act, the arbitrator may state his award in the form of a special case for the opinion of the court, and by s. 19 he may be required by the court to state a case at any stage of the reference on any question of law. It is clear that such questions may easily arise under this section.

As to the meaning of "inconsistent," in s. 24 of the Arbitration Act, see Tabernacle Permanent Building Society v. Knight, 1892, A.C. 298

Inquiries under this section differ from most of those to which ss. 293-6 of the Public Health Act, 1875, apply, in that the latter are held for the information of the authority which orders them, and which retains the final decision in its own hands; here the person holding the inquiry himself decides the matter in dispute, [cf. s. 80 (11)]. It was apparently, for instance, the view of the court (though not actually decided) in Kent C.C. v. Sandgate Local Board, 1895, 2 Q.B. 43, that the Arbitration Act does not apply to inquiries under s. 87 of the Local Government Act, 1888. Note also that ss. 293-5 of the Public Health Act, 1875, do not apply here. Cf. ss. 66, 67, 88, 91 (1) (b), 101 (6) infra, and note that in ss. 67 (4) and 88 (3) it is contemplated that but for those provisions, the Arbitration Act would apply to proceedings under those sections.

"Costs."—See the Arbitration Act, 1889, s. 20, and the first Schedule (i) to that Act.

"May certify."—Such a certificate could not be questioned on taxation.

"May by leave . . . to the same effect."—Cf. the Arbitration Act, 1889, s. 12. The court will not, on such an application, re-open the whole matter, nor will it grant the application if there is a bond-fide intention to take proper steps see [ss. 10 (1) and 11 (2) of that Act] to question the order, nor if there is any doubt as to whether it is valid or binding (see In re Stone and Hastie, 1903, 2 K.B. 463.) The practice is similar to that under O. 14; the court cannot order judgment to be entered, therefore no bankruptcy notice can be issued (1907, 1 K.B. 478).

Provided that a society or committee shall not be ordered to pay the costs of the other party to the inquiry if the person holding the inquiry certifies that the demand for an inquiry was reasonable under the circumstances, and, when he so certifies, the Treasury may repay to the society or committee the whole or any part of the costs incurred by it.

The fund out of which a society or committee would be obliged to pay any costs falling upon them is apparently that allowed for administration; see ss. 35 (2), 54 (1), and 61 supra. If that is insufficient an approved society would have to make a special levy under s. 35 (2), but it is not clear what an Insurance Committee could do, as the source of revenue mentioned in s. 61 (3) would probably not be available.

(6) Without prejudice to any other method of recovery, any sum ordered under this section to be paid by a local authority may, in accordance with the regulations of the Local Government Board

s. 68 (6) with the approval of the Treasury, be paid out of the Local Taxation Account and deducted from any sums payable either directly or indirectly out of that account to the local authority.

"Deducted."—Cf. Local Government Act, 1888, s. 27.

"Directly."—See Local Government Act, 1888, ss. 20–22.

"Indirectly."—See Local Government Act, 1888, ss. 23 (2) (ii), 24.

(7) For the purposes of this section, any expenditure on any benefit administered by an Insurance Committee shall be deemed to be expenditure of that Committee, but any sums paid to any such Committee under this section to meet extra expenditure on sickness benefit or disablement benefit shall be dealt with for the benefit of deposit contributors in accordance with regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners.

"Any benefit administered."—See ss. 15, 16, 17 and 42 supra. See note to "any extra expenditure," under subs. (1) supra. Any sums ordered to be paid to a committee to meet extra expenditure on medical and sanatorium benefits, would be paid by them to the funds provided for that purpose (in respect of all the insured persons resident in their area) under ss. 15 (6), 16 (2) and 42 (d) (e).

(8) Where under this section any sum is paid to the Insurance Commissioners, the Insurance Commissioners shall apply the same in discharge of any expenses incurred by the Commissioners under this section and shall distribute the balance amongst the societies and committees which appear to the Commissioners to have incurred extra expense on account of the excessive sickness in such proportions as the Commissioners think just.

"Any expenses incurred."—Over and above any costs ordered to be paid to them under subs. (5) supra.

(9) Where an association of deposit contributors resident in any county or county borough has been formed under regulations made by the Insurance Commissioners, the Insurance Committee for the county or county borough shall, if so required by the association, take proceedings under this section on behalf and at the expense of the association.

"At the expense."—It is not clear from what source such an association would derive any funds for this or any other purpose, except from voluntary contributions.

Supplementary Provisions.

64.—(1) If under any other Act of the present session any sum is made available for the purposes of the provision of or making grants in aid to sanatoria and other institutions for the treatment of tuberculosis or such other diseases as the Local Government Board with the approval of the Treasury may appoint, such sum shall be distributed by the Local Government Board with the consent of the Treasury in making grants for those purposes, and the Treasury before giving their consent shall consult with the Insurance Commissioners :

Provision of sanatoria, &c.

Provided that such sum shall be apportioned between England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland in proportion to their respective populations ascertained in accordance with the returns of the census taken in the year nineteen hundred and eleven.

"If under any other Act of the present session any sum."—By the Finance Act, 1911, s. 16 (1) (b), the sum of £1,500,000 is set apart for this purpose. See the Circular of the Board to local authorities, dated May 14th, 1912.

(2) If any such grant is made to a county council, the Local Government Board may authorise the county council to provide any such institution, and, where so authorised, the county council shall have power to erect buildings and to manage and main-

- s. 64 (2) tain the institution and for that purpose to enter into agreements and make arrangements with the Insurance Committees and other authorities and persons, and to do all such things as may be necessary for the purposes aforesaid, and any expenses of the county council, so far as not defrayed out of the grant, shall be defrayed out of the county fund as expenses for general county purposes, or, if the order of the Local Government Board so directs, as expenses for special county purposes charged on such part of the county as may be provided by the order.

"Agreements . . . with local Insurance Committee."—
See s. 16 (1) supra.

"General county expenses . . . special county expenses."—See Local Government Act, 1888, s. 68.

As to the powers of Scottish Authorities to provide such institutions see s. 41 (1) and (3) of 1913 [under s. 80 (2) infra].

In Wales the provision of sanatoria may be made in like manner by the King Edward the Seventh Welsh National Memorial Association, by virtue of s. 42 (2) of 1913 [under s. 82 (4) infra].

(3) For the purpose of facilitating co-operation amongst county councils, county borough councils, and other local authorities (not being Poor Law authorities) for the provision of such sanatoria and other institutions as aforesaid, the Local Government Board may by order make such provisions as appear to them necessary or expedient, by the constitution of joint committees, joint boards, or otherwise, for the joint exercise by such councils and authorities of their powers in relation thereto, and any such order may provide how, in what proportions, and out of what funds or rates the expenses of providing such institutions, so far as they are not defrayed out of grants under this section, are to be defrayed, and may contain such consequential, incidental, and supplemental provisions as may appear necessary for the purposes of the order, and an order so made shall be binding and conclusive in respect of the matters to which it relates. s. 64 (3)

(4) An Insurance Committee may, with the consent of the Insurance Commissioners, enter into agreements with any person or authority (other than a Poor Law authority) that, in consideration of such person or authority providing treatment in a sanatorium or other institution or otherwise for persons recommended by the Committee for sanatorium benefit, the Committee will contribute out of the funds available for sanatorium benefit towards the maintenance of the institution or provision of such treatment, such annual or other payment, and subject to such conditions and for such period as may be agreed, and any such agreement shall be binding on the Committee and their successors, and any sums payable by the Committee thereunder may be paid by the Insurance Commissioners and deducted from the sums payable to the Committee for the purposes of sanatorium benefit.

"The sums payable."—See ss. 16 (2) and 17 (3) supra.

65.—The Insurance Commissioners may make regulations for any of the purposes for which regulations may be made under this Part of this Act or the schedules therein referred to, and for prescribing anything which under this Part of this Act or any such schedules is to be prescribed, and generally for carrying this Part of this Act into effect, and any regulations so made shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament as soon as may be after they are made, and shall have effect as if enacted in this Act :

* As to the employer of outworkers (s. 26 of 1913).

*† Finally, they may by order, with the consent of the Treasury, before January 1st, 1914, do anything (including a limited power of modifying this Act), for establishing Insurance Committees, and otherwise bringing this Part of this Act into operation (s. 78).

"Generally . . . into effect."—They may therefore, prescribe matters not specifically referred to, but (subject to s. 78), they must be governed by the ordinary law as to the validity of byelaws and regulations. In order to be valid a byelaw must be (1) within the terms of the statute authorising its making; (2) not repugnant to the general law, and (3) reasonable. See note to s. 7, p. 160 supra.

By the Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 32 (1), "where an Act . . . confers a power or imposes a duty, then unless the contrary intention appears, the power may be exercised and the duty shall be performed from time to time as occasion requires"; and ib. (3) "where an Act . . . confers a power to make any rules, regulations or byelaws, the power shall, unless the contrary intention appears, be construed as including a power, exercisable in the like manner and subject to the like consent and conditions, if any, to rescind, revoke, amend or vary the rules, regulations, or bye-laws." It is not quite clear whether this extends to orders (s. 78) or special orders (s. 113). But it is extended to them by s. 40 of 1913, post, p. 303.

Separate regulations are to be made, and these other powers separately exercised, by the Insurance Commissioners for Scotland [s. 80 (1)], Ireland [s. 81 (1)], and Wales [s. 82 (1)], and for the purpose (among others) of valuation of societies with members resident in more than one country, by the joint committee of Commissioners [s. 83 (3) and Appendix I—1, p. 446]. By s. 69 (2) a breach of any regulation is made an offence punishable in the same way as a breach of the Act itself.

s. 65

Provided that, if an address is presented to His Majesty by either House of Parliament within the next subsequent twenty-one days on which that House has sat next after any such regulation is laid before it, praying that the regulation may be annulled, His Majesty in Council may annul the regulation, and it shall thenceforth be void, but without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done thereunder.

"Thenceforth be void . . . done thereunder."—See note to s. 83, infra.

Although it is not specifically enacted that this section is to come into operation on the passing of the Act, that result follows from s. 37 of the Interpretation Act, 1889.

Special provisions as to casual and intermittent employment.

19.—(1) The Insurance Commissioners may by special order modify the principal Act in its application to persons whose employment is of a casual or intermittent nature, and the employers of such persons, and any such order may apply either generally or to any one or more particular trades or industries or branches thereof and either generally or in any one or more particular localities, and where any such order is restricted to a particular trade or industry or branch thereof in a particular locality, it may extend to other persons if employed in the same class of employment as the persons to whom the order primarily relates.

(2) The order may make provision as to the amount of the employed rate and the contributions payable by the employer and by the employed contributor respectively, and the payment, recovery and collection of such contributions in such manner, in such proportions, and in respect of such periods as may be specified in the order, and for the apportionment amongst employers of the amount payable by employers, and may modify and adapt the provisions of the principal Act accordingly, so however that the employer's contributions shall not exceed sixpence nor the employed contributor's contributions fourpence (or in the case of a woman threepence) in any week, nor, if the contributions are payable day by day, shall the employed contributor's contribution for any day exceed one penny.

(3) The provisions of the principal Act as to the laying of regulations before both Houses of Parliament and the proceedings consequent thereon shall apply to special orders made under this section in lieu of the provisions contained in subsection (2) of section one hundred and thirteen of the principal Act.

Provided that in lieu of the inquiry as regards any draft order under the said section one hundred and thirteen, there shall be substituted for the purposes of this section an inquiry to be held by one or more competent and impartial persons to be appointed by the Lord Chancellor on the demand (made in the prescribed manner) of the person making the objection to the draft order.

66.—(1) If any question arises—

(a) as to whether any employment or any class of employment is or will be employment within the meaning of this Part of this Act or as to whether a person is entitled to become a voluntary contributor ; or

Determination of questions by Insurance Commissioners.

See ss. 1 (2) and the First Schedule, 1 (3), 44 (2) (3) (7), supra.

Where the question is to be settled by special order (s. 113) clearly, and probably also where it is to be settled by certificate, of the Commissioners, this section [see (i) infra] does not give an appeal against that order or certificate.

(b) as to the rate of contributions payable by or in respect of any insured person ; or

S 66 (1) See ss. 4 (1) and the Second Schedule (Employed Rates), 5 (1), (b) 38 (1) (b) (i), 44 (2) (a), 46 (1), (2) (d) (i), 47 (4) (b) (c), (5) (6), 48 (2) (3), — 49 (1), 50.

(c) as to the rates of contributions payable in respect of an employed contributor by the employer and the contributor respectively ;

See ss. referred to under (b), and especially the Second Schedule (contributions by employers and employed contributors):

the question shall be determined by the Insurance Commissioners, in accordance with regulations made by them for the purpose :

(2) If any question arises as to the person who is the employer of an employed contributor, the question shall be determined in like manner as a question in paragraph (a) of section sixty-six of the principal Act, and that section shall apply accordingly.

“Determined.”—Cf. the Local Government Act, 1894, s. 70, on which the whole of this section is closely modelled. A letter from the Commissioners setting out their opinion is a sufficient “determination” within that Act (A.-G. v. Hughes, 81 L.T. 679). In cases under pars. (b) and (c) there is no provision for appeal, and a question arises as to the applicability of the Arbitration Act, 1889, to such proceedings [as to which see note to s. 63 (5), supra].

Cf. also Wilford v. West Riding of Yorkshire C.C. (1908, 1 K.B. 685), and Board of Education v. Rice (27 T.L.R. 378), decided under s. 7 (3) of the Education Act, 1902. In the latter case Lord Loreburn, L.C., said (at p. 381):—

“Comparatively recent statutes have extended, if they have not originated, the practice of imposing upon departments or officers of State the duty of deciding or determining questions of various kinds. In the present instance, as in many others, what comes for determination is sometimes a matter for discretion, involving no law. It will, I suppose, usually be of an administrative kind ; but sometimes it will involve matter of law as well as matter of fact, or even depend upon matter of law alone. In such cases the Board of Education will have to ascertain the law and also to ascertain the facts. I need not add that in doing either they must act in good faith and fairly listen to both sides, for that is a duty lying upon everyone who decides anything. But I do not think they are bound to treat such a question as though it were a trial. They have no power to administer an oath, and need not examine witnesses. They can obtain information in any way they think best, always giving a fair opportunity to those who are parties in the controversy for correcting or contradicting any relevant statement prejudicial to their view. Provided this is done, there is no appeal from the determination of the Board under s. 7 (3) of this Act. The Board have, of course, no jurisdiction to decide abstract questions of law, but only to determine actual concrete differences that may arise, and as they arise, between the managers and the Local Education Authority. The Board is in the nature of an arbitral tribunal, and a court of law has no jurisdiction to hear appeals from the determination, either upon law or upon fact. But if the Court is satisfied either that the Board have not acted judicially in the way I have described or have not determined the question which they are required by the Act to determine, then there is a remedy by mandamus and certiorari." S. 66 (1)

The passage above set out was cited at length in the Scottish case of Don Bros. v. Anderson where it was held that there is no appeal from a determination of the Commissioners under s. 66 (1) (c).

"Regulations."—See Appendix II—46, p. 772.

Provided that—

- (i) if any person feels aggrieved by the decision of the Insurance Commissioners on any question arising under paragraph (a), he may appeal therefrom to the county court, with a further right of appeal upon any question of law to such judge of the High Court as may be selected for the purpose by the Lord Chancellor, and the decision of that judge shall be final ;

"Person feels aggrieved."—These and similar words have given rise to a number of decisions under several statutes. Under the Trade Marks Act, 1875, s. 5, any person who can show that the registration of a trade mark "tends to his injury or to his damage in the legal sense of that word" even if he is not himself an applicant for a similar trade mark, and is not carrying on business within the jurisdiction, may be "aggrieved" (In Re Riviere's Trade Mark, 26, Ch. D. 48). "The words are used to prevent the action of common informers or of persons interfering from merely sentimental motives, but they must not be so read as to make evidence of great and serious damage a condition precedent to the right to apply" (In Re Appollinaris Co.'s Trade Marks, 1891, 2 Ch. 186, at p. 224; Powell v. Birmingham Vinegar Brewery Co., 1894, A.C. 8). By the Copyright Act, 1842, s. 5, "any person who shall deem himself aggrieved" may apply to expunge an entry in the register. This does not include a person who has been convicted of an infringement, unless the entry interferes with some right he would otherwise have (Graves' Case, L.R. 4, Q.B. 715). The Licensing Act, 1828, s. 27, gives a right of appeal to "any person who shall think himself aggrieved." This enables the mortgagee of licensed premises to appear and appeal against a refusal by justices to renew a license, although the actual licensee opposed the renewal

S. 66 (1) (Garrett v. Middlesex JJ., 12, Q.B.D. 620). But a rival innkeeper is not "aggrieved" by the grant of a license (R. v. Middlesex, 3 B. and Ad. 938); and the owner of licensed premises cannot appeal against the endorsement of a conviction of his tenant upon the license, under s. 52 of the Licensing Act, 1872, because he could never have been a party to the original proceedings (R. v. Andover, 16 Q.B.D. 711). See also Drapers' Co. v. Haddon (9 T.L.R. 36), Verlin v. Wray (2 Q.B.D. 608), Hollis v. Marshall (2 H. & N. 755), Ross v. Taylerson (62 J.P. 181), Hornsey B.C. v. Kershaw (73 J.P. 335), and R. v. Keepers of Peace and Jf. of County of London (25 Q.B.D. 357). The Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 104 (2), gives an appeal to "any person aggrieved." This includes the Official Receiver in a matter within his province, although he has no personal interest (In Re Reed, Bowen & Co., 19 Q.B.D. 174), and the holder of a bill of sale whose title is affected by an adjudication (Exp. Ellis, 2 Ch. D. 797).

The following persons or bodies (see Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 19) might conceivably "feel aggrieved" by a decision under this section :—

(1) An employer, or person alleged to be such, who has appeared before the Commissioners; it is clear (Garrett v. Middlesex JJ. ubi. sup.) that he may appeal although his employee desires to be treated as an employed contributor.

(2) An employee who has appeared before the Commissioners; he can appeal, with or without the consent of his employer.

(3) Any other employer or employee who will be affected by the decision; in spite of R. v. Andover (ubi. sup.) there seems little doubt that he might appeal.

(4) An approved society of, which any such employee is, or is about to become, a member; in view of the substantial advantages conferred by the Act upon a society in respect of each of its members who is an insured person [see e.g., s. 55 (2) supra], and the heavier liability which it would have to undertake with regard to him apart from this Act, it is at least arguable that, especially with regard to its existing members, a society is within the definition given, e.g., in Powell v. Birmingham, &c., Co. (ubi. sup.).

(5) A local Insurance Committee; here the same considerations hardly apply, and such a committee appears to have no locus standi.

(6) A medical practitioner, or local medical committee (s. 62 supra), might consider themselves aggrieved by a decision conferring upon a patient or class of patients the right to medical benefit, especially if the question of income limit [s. 15 (3)] and the First Schedule, Part II (g)] were involved.

(7) An inspector appointed by the Commissioners [(ss. 57 (3) supra and 112 infra)] will doubtless have some duties in the enforcement of this Act, and might possibly be "aggrieved" within the meaning of In re Reed, Bowen & Co. (ubi. sup.). See however Robinson v. Currey (7 Q.B.D. 465).

"Any question . . . paragraph (a)."—It is very doubtful whether this includes cases where the inclusion or exclusion of a particular class of employment is to depend on the "certificate" [see the First Schedule Part II (b) and (c), or 'opinion' [ib. (g)], of the Commissioners, so as to give an appeal against such certificate or opinion. Probably it does not give any appeal in such a case though there is a distinction between the appeal to the County Court, which may involve matters of fact, and the further appeal to a judge of the High Court, which is confined to questions of law (see the next note): clearly it cannot apply so as to give an appeal against a "special order" for the inclusion or exclusion of a particular employment [ib. Part I (c) and Part II (k), s. 1 (2), see s. 113 and the Ninth Schedule]. But it will of course apply to any question which may arise as to whether any employment is included in the terms of such special order, and perhaps certificate, when made.

"Any question of Law."—Any question relating to the interpretation of a statute, even if it involves the consideration of matters of fact, is a question of law (R. v. Bridge 24 Q.B.D. 609, not overruled by Westminster C.C. v. Gordon Hotels, Ltd. 1907, 1 K.B. 910 and 1908, A.C. 142). But where the question depends upon the discretion of any tribunal, the decision cannot be erroneous in point of law (Diss Urban Sanitary Authority v. Aldrich, 2 Q.B.D. 179): see last note.

Any such appeal is subject to the County Court Rules (Addenda, App. VI. p. 1125), which rather absurdly makes the Commissioners parties on the Inland Revenue model.

- (ii) the regulations of the Insurance Commissioners may provide for questions under paragraph (b) being determined, in the case of any person who is or is about to become a member of an approved society, by the society.

See Art. 2 of these regulations, App. II—46, p. 772.

"About to become."—This must mean "accepted as a member."

- (iii) the Insurance Commissioners may, if they think fit, instead of themselves deciding whether any class of employment is or will be employment within the meaning of this Part of this Act, submit the question for decision to the High Court in such summary manner as subject to rules of court may be directed by the court, and the court, after hearing such parties and taking such evidence (if any) as it thinks just, shall decide the question, and the decision of the court shall be final.

"Subject to rules of Court."—See Appendix, VII—1, p. 996; the following rules were made under s. 29 of the Local Government Act,

S. 66 (1) 1888, and s. 70 (1) of that of 1894, which are both in the same terms as this paragraph :

"The summary proceeding for submitting any question for decision to the High Court of Justice . . . shall be by special case to be agreed upon by the parties or in default of such agreement to be settled by an arbitrator agreed upon by the parties, or (if necessary) appointed by a judge at chambers, or to be settled by a judge at chambers. The special case, when settled, shall be filed at the Crown Office Department, at the Central Office of the Supreme Court, by the . . . local authority concerned, within eight days from the settlement thereof, and shall be put into the Crown paper for argument as if it were a case stated by Justices under 20 and 21 Vict. c. 43."—(R.S.C., Aug. 10th, 1892, and Dec. 10th, 1894.)

"Shall be final."—These words are not in s. 29 of the Act of 1888, but no appeal lay under that section (Ex parte Kent C. C., 1891, 1 Q.B. 725).

(2) This section shall come into operation on the passing of this Act.

Power to take evidence on oath.

38. Where under any provision of the principal Act or any regulations made thereunder the Insurance Commissioners are required or authorised to hold, or to appoint any committee or person to hold an inquiry, the witnesses shall, if the Commissioners think fit, or if any one of the parties so demand, be examined on oath, and the committee or person appointed to hold an inquiry shall have power to administer oaths for the purpose.

Disputes. 67.—(1) Subject to the provisions of the foregoing section every dispute between—

- (a) an approved society or a branch thereof and an insured person who is a member of such society or branch or any person claiming through him ;
- (b) an approved society or branch thereof, and any person who has ceased to be a member for the purposes of this Part of this Act of such society or branch, or any person claiming through him ;

(c) an approved society and any branch thereof ; s. 67 (1)

(d) any two or more branches of an approved society, relating to anything done or omitted by such person, society, or branch (as the case may be) under this Part of this Act or any regulation made thereunder, shall be decided in accordance with the rules of the society, but any party to such dispute may in such cases and in such manner as may be prescribed appeal from such decision to the Insurance Commissioners.

27.—(1) Any dispute between any approved society and any person as to whether that person is or was at any date a member of that society, for the purposes of Part I. of the principal Act, shall be decided in like manner as a dispute between an approved society and an insured person who is a member thereof, and any dispute between two or more approved societies or between an approved society and an insurance committee or between two or more insurance committees, shall be decided in like manner as a dispute between an insured person and an insurance committee, and section sixty-seven of the principal Act shall apply accordingly. Decision of disputes.

"In accordance with the rules of the Society."—And of the statute (if any) under which the society is registered or established. See the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, ss. 43 (2) and 68, the Collecting Societies Act, 1896, s. 7 (which applies also to industrial assurance companies), the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, s. 49, &c. As to the position of a Trade Union, see note to s. 35 (4), p. 246 supra. See also Appendix II—47, p. 784.

"Appeal."—There are cases in which appeal is provided for under the statutes referred to above ; unless those cases are excluded by regulation, it would seem that the appeal to the Insurance Commissioners would be from the final decision under those statutes. See the Regulations, Third Sched. 7, post. p. 797.

- s. 67 (2) (2) Every dispute between an insured person and the Insurance Committee, relating to anything done or omitted by such person or the Insurance Committee under this Part of this Act, or any regulation made hereunder, shall be decided in the prescribed manner by the Insurance Commissioners.

"Anything done or omitted."—See note to the 4th subsection. There is no express provision for the decision of disputes between a society and an Insurance Committee; see, however, s. 15 (6) supra. As, however, the words here are so wide, any such question could probably be raised by one or more insured persons, members of the society, on its behalf.

(3) The Insurance Commissioners may authorise referees appointed by them to decide any appeal or dispute submitted to the Insurance Commissioners under this section.

(4) The Insurance Commissioners may make regulations as to the procedure on any such appeal or dispute, and such regulations may apply any of the provisions of the Arbitration Act, 1889, but, except so far as it may be so applied, the Arbitration Act, 1889, shall not apply to proceedings under this section, and any decision given by the Insurance Commissioners or a referee under this section shall be final and conclusive.

Cf. s. 88 (4) infra, and note to s. 63 (5) supra; also the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, s. 68 (7), and other Statutes referred to under subs. (1) supra.

Protection against distress and execution in certain cases.

68.—(1) Where the medical practitioner attending on any insured person in receipt of sickness benefit certifies that the levying of any distress or execution upon any goods or chattels belonging to an insured person and being on premises occupied by him, or the taking of any proceedings in ejectment or for the recovery of any rent or to enforce any judgment in ejectment against such person, would endanger his life, and such certificate has been sent to the Insurance Committee and has been recorded in manner hereinafter provided, it shall not be lawful during any period named in the certificate for any person to levy any such distress or execution or to take any such proceedings or to enforce any such judgment against the insured person :

"Distress or Execution."—Distress may in the ordinary way be levied without legal process of any kind, and without demand ; execution can only issue as the result of a judgment or award, but in general, without leave. Execution may, however, be stayed at any time at the discretion of the court : see as to the High Court R.S.C., O. 42 r. 17 (b) ; and as to County Courts, the County Courts Act, 1888, s. 153, where sickness is specially mentioned as the principal reason for such a stay.

"Occupied by him."—This includes occupation for purposes of business, &c., as well as of residence, though perhaps that is not the intention.

"Proceedings in ejectment or for the recovery of any rent."—These may be in the County Court, where the value and rent are under £100 a year, under ss. 138-9 of the County Courts Act, 1888 ; but the making of an order is in the discretion of the judge, and is subject to the defendant "showing good cause" against it. Although there is no reported decision on the point, there can be little doubt that serious sickness would be included in this. There is a similar provision in the Small Tenements Recovery Act, 1838, s. 1, which empowers justices to make an ejectment order where the rent is under £20, and the term does not exceed seven years.

"Enforce any judgment in ejectment."—Writ of possession in the High Court, issues without leave (O. 47 r. 2), and is apparently not subject to O. 42 r. 17 ; nor is a possession warrant in the County Court subject to s. 153 of the County Courts Act, 1888.

"It shall not be lawful."—In addition to the penalties of subsection (3), a person levying such distress, &c., would be liable to an action at the suit of the insured person.

Provided that, if any person desirous of levying such distress or execution or taking such proceedings or enforcing such judgment disputes the accuracy of the certificate, he may apply to the registrar of the county court, who, if he is of opinion that the certificate should be cancelled or modified, may

S. 68 (1) make an order cancelling or modifying it, and no appeal shall lie against any such order or a refusal to make any such order.

The medical profession has strongly objected to power being given to the county court registrar to cancel a medical certificate stating that ejection would endanger life. But probably few registrars would take the responsibility without obtaining a second medical opinion.

(2) A certificate granted for the purpose of this section shall continue in force for one week or such less period as may be named in the certificate, but may be renewed from time to time for any period not exceeding one week, up to but not beyond the expiration of three months from the date of the grant of the original certificate, but no such renewal shall have effect unless sent to the Insurance Committee and recorded as aforesaid :

"Months."—See note to s. 5 (1) (a).

Provided that the protection conferred by this section shall not extend beyond the expiration of one month from such date if, on demand being made by the person desirous of levying such distress or execution, or taking such proceedings, or enforcing such judgment, proper security is not given for payment of rent thereafter to become due from the insured person or the amount of the judgment debt, as the case may be, and any dispute as to the sufficiency of the security shall be determined by the registrar of the county court, whose decision shall be final and not subject to appeal.

"Proper security."—This may be either by bond, with sureties, or by deposit (County Court Act, 1888, ss. 108-9; cf. also the Small Tenements Recovery Act, 1838, ss. 3-4).

"Rent thereafter to become due."—This clearly cannot exceed two calendar months' rent, because after three months the certificate will automatically lapse.

(3) If any person knowingly levies or attempts to s. 68 (3) levy any such distress or execution or takes any such proceedings or enforces or attempts to enforce any such judgment in contravention of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds.

"Knowingly," i.e., knowing that such a certificate has been recorded, but in view of the next subsection it is difficult to see how any person could, otherwise than wilfully, be ignorant of it.

"Summary Conviction."—See note to s. 69 (1) infra.

(4) A certificate or renewal thereof granted under this section shall forthwith be sent to the Insurance Committee, and the Committee shall, unless it has reason to suspect its genuineness, record it in a special register without fee, and such register shall at all reasonable times be open to inspection; and, where so recorded, its genuineness shall not be questioned in any proceedings against a sheriff or other officer for failure to levy any distress or execute any warrant.

"Forthwith."—If in spite of reasonable diligence in complying with the provision, there is nevertheless an interval between the grant and recording of a certificate or renewal, that will probably not authorise proceedings in such interval which would not be lawful after it has been recorded.

"In any proceedings . . . any warrant."—This will not of course prevent its being questioned in any other proceedings, particularly if the insured person is a party to them, whether a sheriff or other officer is also a party or not.

(5) Where the time within which a warrant may be executed is limited, any period during which the warrant cannot be executed by reason of the provisions of this section shall be disregarded in computing the time within which the warrant may be executed.

S. 69 (1) 69.—(1) If, for the purpose of obtaining any benefit or payment or the crediting of a reserve value under this Part of this Act, either for himself or for any other person, any person knowingly makes any false statement or false representation, he shall be liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months with or without hard labour.

Offences.

"Either for himself or any other person."—This would include the case of an official of a society making a false statement or representation.

"On summary conviction," i.e., before justices or a stipendiary, subject, if imprisonment is inflicted without the option of a fine, to an appeal to Quarter Sessions on any question of law or fact (Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, s. 19), or to the right to have a case stated on any point of law for a Divisional Court (ib. s. 33; Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1857, s. 2). The latter right is open to the prosecutor as well as to the defendant.

(2) If any employer has failed to pay any contributions, which under this Part of this Act he is liable to pay in respect of an employed contributor, or if any such employer, any insured person, or any other person is guilty of any other contravention of or non-compliance with any of the requirements of this Part of this Act or the regulations made thereunder in respect of which no special penalty is provided, he shall for each offence be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding ten pounds, and where the offence is failure or neglect on the part of the employer to make any such contributions, to pay to the Insurance Commissioners a sum equal to the amount of the contributions which he has so failed or neglected to pay, which sum when paid shall be treated as a payment in satisfaction of such contributions :

"Has failed."—The section does not require "wilful" failure, but it is doubtful if failure without some element of personal default or guilty knowledge on the part of the employer is sufficient to justify a conviction under the section for a nonfeasance (see Dickenson v. Fletcher, L.R. 9 C.P. 1). If, for instance, contributions are unpaid through the default of a manager or servant appointed by the employer for the purpose, it is doubtful if the employer can be convicted. See however Cundy v. Le Cocq (13 Q.B.D. 207), Bond v. Evans (21 Q.B.D. 249), Blake v. Tillstone (1894, 1 Q.B. 345), Sherras v. De Rutzen (1895, 1 Q.B. 918) and the words "failure or neglect" infra.

"Pay any contributions."—See notes to s. 66 (1), and cf. s. 101; note, however, that the insured person under Part I cannot [as he can by s. 101 (2)], be proceeded against for any failure to pay contributions, and that there is no provision here similar to s. 101 (6), making the decision of an umpire, referee, &c., binding in such proceedings. It is, therefore, open to an employer instead of adopting or taking part in the procedure under s. 66, to dispute his liability if proceedings are taken against him under this section, with the right to have a case stated (see the last note) on any point of law. And even if he was a party to a decision under s. 66, that decision will not be binding upon him in a criminal prosecution, to establish the truth of the facts on which it was based (R. v. Fontaine Moreau, 17 L.J.Q.B., 187). Any decision of the Court of King's Bench on any matter of law will, of course, be an authority in such proceedings, but as there is no appeal to the Court of Appeal, the Court of King's Bench may review its own decisions.

"Any other person."—Including a society registered or unregistered, although it is not a "body corporate" (Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 19); e.g., failure to submit a scheme under s. 72 would be an offence punishable under this section. Apparently, however, the society cannot be itself amenable to summary jurisdiction [Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, s. 49; Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 2 (1)]. Quere whether trustees can be convicted on its behalf [F.S.A. 1896, ss. 84, 91 (1), 94 (1), (4), (6)].

"The regulations."—See Appendix II, p. 455, especially 2, p. 458, and note to s. 7 at p. 44 supra.

As to proceedings in Scotland see s. 41 (5) and (6) of 1913, under s. 80.

Provided that no person shall be liable to any penalty in respect of any matter if he has acted in conformity with any decision in respect thereto by the Insurance Commissioners, or, if the matter is one which the Insurance Committee is competent to decide, in conformity with its decision.

(3) The time within which proceedings may be taken under subsection (2) of section sixty-nine of the principal Act against an employer charged with an offence of failing or neglecting to pay any contribution in respect of an employed contributor shall be one year from the date of the commission of the alleged offence, and where an employer has been convicted of such an offence then, if notice of the intention to do so is served with the summons or warrant, evidence may be given of failure or neglect on the part of the employer to pay other contributions in respect of that employed contributor during the year preceding the date when the information was laid, and on proof of such failure or neglect the employer shall be liable to pay to the Insurance Commissioners a sum equal to the total amount of all the contributions which he is so proved to have failed or neglected to pay.

Civil proceedings against employer for neglecting to pay contributions.

70.—(1) Where an employer has failed or neglected to pay any contributions which under this Part of this Act he is liable to pay in respect of a person being a member of an approved society in his employment, and by reason thereof that person has been deprived in whole or in part of his right to any benefits which would otherwise have been payable to him, he shall be entitled to take proceedings against the employer for the value of the right of which he has been so deprived, and in any such proceedings the employer may be ordered to pay to the Insurance Commissioners a sum equal to the value so ascertained, which sum when paid shall be carried to the credit of the society of which such person is a member, and thereupon such person shall thenceforth be entitled to receive from the society benefits at the same rate as he would have been entitled to had the contributions been properly paid, together with the difference between the amount of the benefits (if any) he has actually received and the benefits he would have received had the contributions been properly paid. s. 70(1)

"Failed or neglected."—Cf. note to the preceding section.

"Being a member of an approved society."—See s. 79.

A deposit contributor has no claim against his employer under this section. But, in addition to the remedy provided by this section, an employee, whether a member of an approved society at the time of the failure to pay contributions or not, has a remedy at common law for the breach by the employer of the duty imposed upon him by the Act, that duty being one imposed for the benefit of the employee rather than of the public at large. Under those circumstances the remedy by action for damages is not taken away by the penalty clause (s. 69). See the distinction drawn in Atkinson v. Newcastle Waterworks Co., 2 Ex.D. 441, Cowley v. Newmarket Local Board (1892), A.C. 345, Groves v. Lord Wimborne (1898), 2 Q.B. 402, Kelly v. Glebe Sugar Co., 20 R. 833, Butler v. Fife Coal Co. (1912), A.C. 149 at p. 165. It would not, of course, be possible in an action at common law to obtain the special remedies provided by the section, but the benefits actually lost can be recovered. This right would be specially valuable to an employee who has become a member of an approved society after the omission complained of but has been deprived of benefit by previous omissions (see s. 43): if he has never joined a society, no doubt the actual amount of the contributions is all he is entitled to, and that he can recover by means of s. 69.

S. 70 (1) and not a mere contingent right to benefit. Quare whether benefits payable include medical and sanatorium benefit.

"To take proceedings," i.e., in the County Court or High Court according to the amount claimed, or where the claim is less than £10 in a court of Summary Jurisdiction under the Employers and Workmen Act, 1875. The statutory limit of six months imposed by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts does not apply to such proceedings (Charles v. Mortgagees, &c., 60 L.J.M.C. 20). Quare whether a member who has acquiesced in non-payment by his employer, or himself contravened the regulations (Appendix II—2 §5, p. 46), by failure to present a card for stamping, is deprived of his right of action. See note to s. 7 at p. 44 supra. Probably the duty upon the employer being absolute, no acquiescence in its breach by the employee would deprive him of his rights under this section, though it might at common law.

The right of action probably does not survive to the personal representatives of the contributor or against those of the employer. If the action were for the benefit of the contributor's estate it might survive to his representatives (Finlay v. Chirney, 58 L.T. 664), but it is to the Insurance Commissioners and not to the estate that the damages are to be paid, and probably the rule "Actio personalis moriturus cum persona" applies.

"The value of the right."—The right being one to immediate payment of benefits, since no action can accrue until the benefits would have been payable, the value of the right would appear to be the actual benefit lost.

(2) Proceedings may be taken under either this or the last preceding section notwithstanding that proceedings have also been taken under the other section in respect of the same failure or neglect to pay contributions.

"The real question is whether the rights intended to be protected by the Statute were those of the public only, or of any other persons also who may suffer from its breach," per Farwell, C.J., ibid. See also *Brawn v. Repayment of benefits improperly

71.—If it is found at any time that a person has been in receipt of any payment or benefit under this Part of this Act without being lawfully entitled thereto he, or in the case of his death his personal representatives, shall be liable to repay to the Insurance Commissioners the amount of such payment or benefit, and any such amount may be recovered as a debt due to the Crown and when so recovered shall be carried to the credit of the society of which such person was a member, or if he was not a member of any approved society, of the Deposit Contributors' fund. s. 71 (2)

"Lawfully entitled."—This would seem to be a departure from the old rule of law that money paid under a mistake of law cannot be recovered. Sed quare whether that is the true meaning of the section, or whether it applies only to misrepresentation or mistake of fact.

72.—(1) Every registered friendly society which provides benefits similar to any of those conferred by this Part of this Act shall submit to the Registrar of Friendly Societies a scheme for continuing, abolishing, reducing, or altering such benefits as respects members who become insured persons and for continuing, abolishing, or reducing the contributions of such members, so, however, that the combined effect of the alteration of the benefits and contributions shall not prejudicially affect the solvency of the society, and, if the scheme or a supplementary scheme shows on an actuarial valuation that, owing to the alterations in the benefits and contributions effected by the scheme, any part of the existing funds of the society is set free as not being required to meet the liabilities of the society, the scheme or the supplementary scheme shall provide for the application of the part of the funds so set free in any one or more of the following ways :—

Provisions as to application of existing funds of friendly societies.

"Every registered friendly society."—Note that this section is not limited in its operation to approved societies.

"Shall submit . . . a scheme."—See note to s. 69 (2). The section gives to the Registrar no express power of refusal to confirm

S. 72 (1) or register such scheme, nor does it explicitly require him to do so. Such a scheme must, however, necessarily involve and be an alteration of the rules of the society, as to which s. 13 (2) of the Friendly Societies Act, 1896 (59 and 60 Vict., c. 25), provides that "the registrar shall, on being satisfied that any amendment of a rule is not contrary to the provisions of this Act, issue to the society an acknowledgment of registry of the amendment, and that acknowledgment shall be conclusive evidence that the amendment is duly registered."

Apparently, therefore, if such a scheme contravenes neither the provisions of the Friendly Societies Acts (which are to be read as one) nor the provisions of this section, the registrar is bound to register and acknowledge it, a proceeding which is apparently the "confirmation" referred to in subs. (3), and is conclusive (Dewhurst v. Clarkson, 23 L.J. Q.B. 247). Cf. s. 23 (3), note on "may grant approval," at p. 227 supra, and R. v. Registrar of Companies (28 T.L.R. 457).

As to appeals from refusal to register changes of rules, see 59 and 60 Vict. c. 25, s. 13 (3).

"Shall submit."—The section is mandatory, but there is nothing to compel the society to modify the contributions and benefits of insured members to any defined extent, or at all. Quære, however, whether if it did not, a member who objected to paying the whole of the present contribution as well as that required under this Act would have a locus standi to oppose the confirmation of the scheme by the Registrar.

"Insured persons," including persons in the armed services [subs. (4)], but not persons over 65 at the commencement of the Act [ss. 1 (4) and 49].

"Shall not prejudicially affect the solvency of the society."—The benefits must be reduced in value to at least the same extent as the contributions of members becoming insured persons. On the other hand there is no provision that the scheme shall not prejudicially affect the members becoming insured persons; since they are the other parties to the bargain with the society it is inevitable that it should do so unless it be drawn with such meticulous care as to vary in no way the value of either party's rights. The intention of the statute would appear to be that the insured person, being himself assisted by his employer and the State, should be liable himself to render some slight assistance to his fellow members who are left outside the National Insurance Act. See par. (a) hereof.

"If . . . any part of the existing funds . . . is set free."—That is either by a scheme to some extent prejudicial to the insured persons who are members of the society, or, in the case of an approved society, by the reserve values credited to it in relief of its liabilities.

(a) towards the cost of the provision of other or increased benefits payable by the society independently of this Part of this Act to existing members whether insured persons or not;

"Existing members," i.e., at the passing of this Act [subs. (4)]. S. 72 (1)

"Whether insured persons or not."—This paragraph will allow friendly societies, whether they become approved or no, to make special provision for the medical treatment of those members who, being left out of the National Insurance Scheme on account of disablement or otherwise, may be unable to get medical attendance at the same contract rate as in the past ; see s. 15 (2) (e).

(b) in reduction of the contributions payable by such members in respect of the benefits payable by the society independently of this Part of this Act ;

(c) towards the payment or repayment of contributions payable under this Part of this Act by such of its existing members as are entitled and elect to receive benefits under this Part of this Act through the society.

"To receive benefits . . . through the society."—Only a friendly society which becomes approved can pay or repay its members' statutory contributions. It is clear that a society which is already giving to a member of long standing sick pay and medical benefit equal to that given under the Act in return for a small contribution, will be in a position, on receiving his reserve value, to pay a part if not the whole of his statutory contribution while paying also the statutory benefits, without loss to the society.

(2) This section shall apply to branches of registered societies in like manner as to societies : Provided that a society with branches may, if it so desires (subject always to the exercise of any right of a branch, expressly conferred by the rules of the society, to dispose of any of its funds for the benefit solely of the members of the branch), submit a scheme applicable to all its branches, and it shall be competent for the society to provide by its scheme or supplementary scheme for the application of the whole or any part of any sums so set free towards the discharge of any deficiencies in any of its branches which may be found to exist on such actuarial valuation as aforesaid.

S. 72 (2) "A scheme applicable to all its branches."—By s. 106 of the Friendly Societies Act, 1900, a "branch" is a "number of the members of a society, under the control of a central body." The rules of the central body, therefore, prevail generally over those of the branch, and can even restrain it from seceding [Wilkinson v. Jagger, 20 Q.B.D. 423; Schofield v. Vaux (1886) 36 W.R. 170, n]. See also rule 3 of the model rules for branches issued by the central registry office.

(3) Any scheme adopted by a society or branch of a society in accordance with its rules when confirmed by the Registrar of Friendly Societies shall be deemed to be incorporated in the registered rules of the society or branch and may be amended accordingly, so, however, that no amendment shall be inconsistent with the provisions of this section.

"When confirmed."—See note to subs. (1) hereof.

(4) This section shall apply to seamen, marines, and soldiers, from whose pay deductions are made under this Part of this Act as if they were insured persons, and for the purposes of this section "existing" means existing at the passing of this Act.

(5) This section shall come into operation on the passing of this Act.

Provisions
as to existing employers' provident funds.

73.—(1) Where at the passing of this Act a superannuation or other provident fund has been established for the benefit of the persons employed by one or more employers, the provisions of the last foregoing section shall apply with the necessary adaptations and with this modification that, where under the Act, deed, or other instrument establishing the fund or otherwise any sum is payable by the employer towards benefits secured by the Act or deed, and those benefits include benefits similar to any of those conferred by this Part of this Act, the scheme may provide for allowing the employer to deduct from any contributions payable by him as aforsaid towards benefits of a nature similar to s. 78 (1) those under this Part of this Act an amount not exceeding the amount of the employer's contributions payable by him under this Part of this Act.

"A superannuation . . . fund."—This applies to all such funds whether approved under s. 25 or no, and will apply to the funds referred to in the First Schedule, Part II, pars. (b) and (c), if they contain insured persons.

"Payable by the employer towards benefits."—These words are wide enough to cover both a general subscription of the employer to the fund, and also the case where the employer under the Act, deed, or instrument, guarantees the benefits or pays a fixed proportion of them, etc.

"Similar to those under this Part of this Act."—In cases where the employer's contribution is ear-marked (e.g., in part for sick pay and in part for death benefits or widows' pensions) the deduction can be made only from that part which is not appropriated to benefits outside this Act; but where the contribution is a general one the Registrar must be satisfied that any proposed deductions comply with the terms of this section.

It is submitted that for the purpose of such deductions superannuation allowances can be taken into consideration only in so far as they secure provision in respect of sickness or disablement [Cf. s. 72, First Schedule, Part II (c)].

How far they do secure such provision is a matter for actuarial investigation, having regard to the probable sickness experience of persons drawing superannuation benefit.

The remittance of contributions by insured employees (to which s. 72 applies) is not subject to any such restriction as is that of the employer's contributions.

"Employer's contributions."—The effect of the whole subsection is to permit, within certain limits, the withdrawal of both employers' and employees' contributions, up to a maximum of sevenpence per week, from an existing superannuation or provident fund.

(2) Where the fund is one out of which pensions or superannuation allowances are payable, and it is proved to the satisfaction of the Insurance Commissioners that the rearrangements required in consequence of this Part of this Act will, upon a valuation under the existing rules of the fund, affect prejudicially the sum available for the payment of pensions or superannuation allowances, the Insurance Commissioners may grant a certificate authorising

- s. 73 (2) the value of the prospective extension of benefits under this Part of this Act when the reserve values have been written off as hereinbefore provided, to be brought into account in the valuation of the assets available for the discharge of the liabilities of the fund in respect of pensions and 'superannuation allowances.

"Certificate."—See Appendix I—1, 16 (e), p. 452.

"A valuation under the existing rules of the fund."—The intention of the section is apparently to protect those now entitled or shortly to be entitled to pensions, and yet whose pensions might under the existing rules as to valuation suffer diminution. The assumption apparently underlying the subsection is that in eighteen years' time, or such other time as is required to pay off the reserve values, some provision will be made for extended superannuation allowance to the younger members of the fund; and the Insurance Commissioners may allow this expectation to be discounted for the benefit of the older members. Where such a certificate as in this subsection mentioned has been granted, superannuation allowances can be paid during the coming years at a rate not actuarially justified by the reduced contributions, drawing upon existing reserves in the anticipation that extended benefits hereafter will secure a superannuation allowance out of the funds of approved societies for those qualifying in the more distant future.

"The prospective extension of benefits," i.e., under s. 8 (9) hereof, which does not specify the benefits nor give any guidance as to their present value.

who are members of approved
societies.

74.—Any member of an approved society who is a minor may execute all instruments and give all acquittances necessary to be executed or given under the rules of such society, but shall not be a member of the committee, or a trustee, manager, or treasurer of such society or any branch thereof.

This section is taken from the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 25, s. 36 (2). It is required only in the case of approved societies which are not registered as friendly societies within the meaning of that Act. This section does not empower minors to contract loans from their society [Nottingham Permanent Building Society v. Thurston, (1903), A.C. 6], nor to appoint an agent to do the acts permitted by the section [Rudd v. James (1896), 2 Ch. 554].

The care of persons of unsound mind is to be provided for by regulations made by the Commissioners under s. 28 and First Schedule G. of the Act of 1913 (q.v. under s. 65 supra).

75.—Any society for the purpose of carrying on business under this Act, either alone or together with any purpose mentioned in section eight, subsection (1), of the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, may, after the passing of this Act, be registered as a friendly society under the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, notwithstanding that the contributions under this Act are not voluntary.

"Any purpose mentioned in," &c.—The purposes are those (F.S.A., 1896, s. 8) "of providing by voluntary subscriptions of the members thereof, with or without the aid of donations, for :—"

- (a) Relief and maintenance of members and a limited class of dependants during sickness, infirmity, old age, infancy, and widowhood.
- (b) Death benefits, and payments to Jews during confined mourning.
- (c) Relief in travel, distress, shipwreck, etc.
- (d) Endowment.
- (e) Fire insurance of tools, etc.
- (f) Guaranteeing performing of their duties by officers and servants of the society or branches.

"Voluntary."—See note above, and s. 23 of the F.S.A., which, of course, applies to voluntary contributors under this Act.

76.—(1) Except in so far as may be inconsistent with this Part of this Act, any business transacted under this Part of this Act by any approved society shall be treated as part of the ordinary business transacted by societies of the class to which that society belongs, and any enactment applying to the society in relation to the transaction of such ordinary business shall apply accordingly in relation to the business transacted by the society under this Part of this Act.

"Any enactment."—This subsection incorporates the whole or the Friendly Societies Acts, 1896 and 1908, in Part I of this Act, so far as relates to friendly societies becoming approved societies. It incorporates in like manner the Shop Clubs Act, 1902, the Collecting Societies and Industrial Assurance Companies Act, 1896, the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, and the Assurance Companies Act, 1909, &c., so far as societies otherwise within those Acts and operating under Part I of this Act are concerned.

SECOND SCHEDULE.

1. Draft, or order, or receipt given by or to an approved society, or branch, or insurance committee in respect of money payable in pursuance of Part I. of the principal Act, or of the rules of the society or branch.

2. Letter or power of attorney granted by any person as trustee for the transfer of any money of an approved society, or branch, or insurance committee invested in his name in the public funds.

3. Bond or other security given to, by, or on account of an approved society or branch, or by the treasurer or other official thereof.

4. Appointment or revocation of appointment of agent, or other document required or authorised by or in pursuance of Part I. of the principal Act, or by the rules of an approved society or branch.

5. Agreement entered into between an approved society or branch and an insurance committee in regard to medical benefit under Part I. of the principal Act.

This section extends to Approved Societies the advantage already given to registered Friendly Societies by s. 33 of the F.S. Act, 1896.

(2) This section shall apply to an approved society which is a separate section of another body, subject to the necessary adaptation.

"Separate section."—See s. 22 (1). This subsection applies the provisions of 59 and 60 Vict. c. 26, so far as not inconsistent with this Act, to a section of a collecting society set up under s. 23 hereof, q.v. and notes.

77.—(1) The Local Government Board¹ may, S. 77 (1) for the purposes of their powers and duties under this Part of this Act, hold such local inquiries and investigations as they may think fit, and the Board and their inspectors shall have for the purposes of such an inquiry the same powers as they respectively have for the purposes of an inquiry under the Public Health Acts, and the expenses incurred by the Board in respect of such inquiries and other proceedings under this Part of this Act (including the salary of any inspector or officer of the Board engaged in the inquiry or proceedings, not exceeding three guineas a day) shall be paid by such authorities and persons and out of such funds and rates as the Board may by order direct, and the Board may certify the amount of the expenses so incurred, and any sum so certified and directed by the Board to be paid by the authority, or person shall be a debt from that authority or person to the Crown: Provided that this provision shall not apply to inquiries with respect to responsibility for excessive sickness.

Powers of the Local Government
 Board.

"Powers and duties."—These are as follows: To appoint diseases other than tuberculosis for sanatorium benefit [s. 8 (1) (b)]; to approve sanatoria and other institutions, and other treatment, for the purposes of that benefit, [s. 16 (1)]; to consult with the Insurance Commissioners as to the reports to be furnished by local Insurance Committees [s. 60 (1) (a)]; to appoint a competent person in certain cases to hold an inquiry as to excessive sickness [s. 63 (1)]; to make regulations for the deduction of sums payable by a local authority after such an inquiry out of sums due to that authority from the Local Taxation Account [s. 63 (6)]; but s. 77 is not to apply to cases under s. 63; to distribute any sum available for the provision of sanatoria, and to authorise and control its expenditure (s. 64).

"The same powers."—See note to s. 63 (5) supra.

"Excessive sickness."—S. 63 supra.

(2) Any approval given by the Local Government Board under this Part of this Act may be given

S. 77 (2) for such term, and subject to such conditions as the Board may think fit, and the Board shall have power to withdraw any approval which they have given.

"Withdraw any approval."—Cf. s. 29 supra.

(3) The Local Government Board may make it a condition of any approval to be given, or grant of money to be made under this Part of this Act, that the Board shall have such powers of inspection as may be agreed.

Power to
difficulties.

78.—If any difficulty arises with respect to the constitution of Insurance Committees, or the advisory committee, or otherwise, in bringing into operation this Part of this Act, the Insurance Commissioners, with the consent of the Treasury, may by order make any appointment and do anything which appears to them necessary or expedient for the establishment of such committees or for bringing this Part of this Act into operation, and any such order may modify the provisions of this Act so far as may appear necessary or expedient for carrying the order into effect: Provided that the Insurance Commissioners shall not exercise the powers conferred by this section after the thirty-first day of December nineteen hundred and fourteen.

The words in italics are in effect inserted by s. 40 (2) of 1913, infra.

"By order."—The Act contains no provision as to the manner of making such an order. Regulations must be laid before Parliament (s. 65) and Special Orders must follow a public inquiry (s. 113), but orders modifying the provisions of the Act may apparently be made in such manner as the Commissioners may think fit. See Appendix III—A. There was probably no power to amend or rescind such an order prior to the Act of 1913. See note to s. 65, p. 275 supra.

"So far as may appear necessary or expedient."—The Court will doubtless watch jealously the process of modification of statute law by administrative act; and it is submitted that if the validity of such an order be called in question, the Commissioners must show reasonable grounds for holding it to be necessary or expedient. S. 78

See however the still wider powers given to the Commissioners by s. 28 of the Act of 1913 (under s. 65 supra), which may be exercised without the consent of the Treasury.

40.—(1) Any order or special order made under the principal Act or this Act may be revoked, varied, or amended by an order or special order made in like manner as the original order. Revocation and amendment of orders and extension of time for making orders under s. 78 of principal Act.

(2) The time within which the powers of the Insurance Commissioners to make orders under section seventy-eight of the principal Act may be exercised shall be extended to the thirty-first day of December nineteen hundred and fourteen.

The like power to vary, revoke, and amend regulations is given by s. 32 (3) of the Interpretation Act, 1859.

79.—For the purposes of this Part of this Act unless the context otherwise requires— Interpretation.

The expression "branch," in relation to a society shall not include any branch of the society which is not itself separately registered;

See note to s. 23 (1)

See s. 8 (1) (c).

The expression "dependants," in relation to any person, includes such persons as the approved society or Insurance Committee shall ascertain to be wholly or in part dependent upon his earnings;

S. 79 — “Wholly or in part dependent.”—See s. 13 of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, where these words occur, and decisions thereon. See particularly the cases set out in note to s. 2 (1) (b) supra.

A person whose normal occupation is employment within the meaning of this Part of this Act shall, for the purpose of reckoning the number and rate of contributions, be deemed to continue to be an employed contributor notwithstanding that he is temporarily unemployed, but, if such period of unemployment extends beyond twelve months, he shall not continue to be an employed contributor unless the approved society of which he is a member or, if he is not a member of such a society, the Insurance Committee, is satisfied that his unemployment is due to inability to obtain employment, and is not due to any change in his normal occupation ;

“Inability to obtain employment.”—Quere as to the position of a person who is superannuated. In a sense his normal occupation is changed, is in fact destroyed ; yet he can probably allege with truth that he is unable to obtain employment, and has not, voluntarily at least, changed his normal occupation. But now see hereon s. 4. of 1913, (supra p. 24).

Note that there is no reference here to “suitable” employment as in s. 86 proviso ; and that a man may by reason of this section lose his status if he refuses to take any job that offers.

The suspension of a member of an approved society from benefits under this Part of this Act shall not be deemed to deprive the member of his membership ;

“Suspension of a member.”—See ss. 10 (1) and 44 (1). A member so suspended continues to have a transfer value under the former section, and has certain advantages in the event of his resuming employment.

Membership of an approved society means membership for the purposes of this Part of this Act ;

The expression "valuer" means a person possessing actuarial qualifications as may be approved by the Treasury ; s. 79

The expression "county" means administrative county ;

The Scilly Isles shall be deemed to be a county and the council of those Isles the council of a county, but the Insurance Committee for the Scilly Isles shall be constituted in such manner as the Insurance Commissioners prescribe ;

Monmouthshire shall be deemed to form part of Wales ;

A person shall be deemed according to the law in England, Wales, and Ireland, as well as according to the law in Scotland, not to have attained the age of seventeen until the commencement of the seventeenth anniversary of the day of his birth and similarly with respect to other ages.

- (2) All sums received from contributions under this Part of this Act in respect of insured persons resident in Scotland, and all sums s. 80 (1) paid out of moneys provided by Parliament in respect of benefits under this Part of this Act to such persons, and the expenses of administration of such benefits shall be paid into a fund to be called the Scottish National Health Insurance Fund, under the control and management of the Scottish Insurance Commissioners, and the sums required to meet expenditure properly incurred by approved societies and Insurance Committees for the purposes of such benefits and the administration of such benefits shall be paid out of that fund, and the foregoing provisions of this Act, with respect to the National Health Insurance Fund, shall, with the necessary modifications, apply to the Scottish National Health Insurance Fund accordingly.

- (3) The expression "Local Government Board" ss. 8 (1) (b), means the Local Government Board for 16, 63, 64, 77. Scotland (in this section referred to as the Board): Provided that, as regards the making of regulations respecting sums payable out of the Local Taxation (Scotland) Account, the said expression means the Secretary for Scotland; the expression "Local Taxation Account" s. 63 (6). means the Local Taxation (Scotland) Account; and the expression "inspector of the Local Government Board" ss. 63 (5) 77 (3), 112 (4). includes a person acting under section seven or section eight of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897:

The words in italics are added by s. 41 (4) of 1913.

- (5) References to a county and the county council thereof shall, as regards—

(a) the counties of Kinross and Clackmannan; and mittees, the Insurance Committee of a county shall consult with the county council, or any committee thereof appointed for the purpose, and shall consider any representation received from them :

- (9) Where, owing to sparseness of population, difficulties of communication, or other special circumstances, they consider it desirable, an Insurance Committee shall have power, with the consent of the Scottish Insurance Commissioners, to modify or suspend any benefits for the administration of which they are responsible ; but, where such modification or suspension takes place, provision shall be made by the Committee, with the like consent, for the increase of other benefits or the grant of one or more additional benefits to an amount equivalent to the value of the modification or suspension :

“Modify or suspend any benefit.”—It is anticipated that in many parts of the Highlands and islands of Scotland, the arrangements of s. 15 for the administration of medical benefit may have to be modified or suspended, owing to difficulties of communication. The proportion of uncertified deaths in many parts is very high owing to difficulties in obtaining medical attendance.

- (10)—(a) If it appears to any county council that, having regard to the number of employed contributors resident in the county who are not members of any society approved under the foregoing provisions of this Act, it is desirable that steps should be taken for the establishment under the council of an approved society for the county (in this section referred to as a county society) the council may, at any time before the expiration of one year from the

(vii) such other matters as may appear necessary, and in particular such further modifications of the provisions of this Part of this Act with respect to approved societies as may be required for the purpose of adapting those provisions to the case of a county society ;

(c) Where such a scheme has been approved by the Scottish Insurance Commissioners, the provisions of the scheme shall have effect, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Part of this Act ; and subject to those provisions, the county society shall be an approved

- (12) Expenses incurred by a county council under ss. 15 (8), this Part of this Act shall be defrayed out of ^{17 (3),} ^{61 (3).} the general purposes rate; provided that, notwithstanding anything contained in the Act of 1889, the ratepayers of a police burgh shall not be assessed by the county council for any such expenses unless the police burgh is, for the purposes of this Part of this Act, held to be within the county; and provided further that, with respect to every burgh within the meaning of the Act of 1889, which is, for the purposes of this Act, held to be within the county, subsection three and subsection four of section sixty, and section sixty-six, of the Act of 1889, shall, so far as applicable, have effect as if such expenses were expenditure therein mentioned:

(2) Expenses of a district committee defrayed out of the public health general assessment within the district in pursuance of an agreement under the principal Act or this Act, or in the exercise of any power of dealing with tuberculosis or such other disease as aforesaid as an infectious disease, shall not be reckoned in any calculation as to the statutory limit of that assessment.

“Contributions paid in Great Britain.”—Though this section begins with the words, “This Part of this Act, in its application to Ireland, shall be subject to the following modifications,” it is clearly the intention of Parliament that the provisions of this subsection should be applied in England. (d) A county council desirous of submitting a scheme under this section may, at any time

(d) after the passing of this Act, take such steps as appear necessary with a view to ascertaining what insured persons resident in the county are eligible and willing to become members of the proposed county society, and generally for the formation of the society :

s. 59. (8) The provisions with respect to the appointment of Insurance Committees shall have effect, subject to the following modifications, namely :—

s. 59 (2). The number of members of an Insurance Committee shall be twenty-four, and of that number—

(a) twelve shall be appointed in such manner as may be prescribed by regulations of the Irish Insurance Commissioners so as to secure representation of the insured persons resident in the county or county borough who are members of approved societies, and who are deposit contributors, in proportion, as nearly as may be, to their respective numbers, and the regulations so made shall provide for conferring on the approved societies, which have members resident in the county or county borough the power of appointing representatives of such members, and, where an association of deposit contributors resident in the county or county borough has been formed under such regulations as aforesaid, for conferring on such association the power of appointing the representatives of the deposit contributors ;

s. 59 (2)
(a), (i).

(b) eight (of whom at least one shall be a member of a local sanitary authority and at least two shall be women) shall be appointed by the council of the county or county borough and

(c) four (of whom at least two shall be duly qualified medical practitioners) shall be appointed by the Irish Insurance Commissioners :

In the Irish Local Insurance Committees there are no medical practitioners directly elected by practitioners, nor chosen by the councils, but the Commissioners appoint "at least two," whereas in England they appoint "at least one" medical practitioner. [S. 59 (2).] The smaller proportion of medical practitioners on the committees is doubtless due to the fact that there is no medical benefit in Ireland.

Provided that the Irish Insurance Commissioners may, where any part of the cost of sanatorium benefit is defrayed by the council of the county or county borough, increase the representation of the council and make a corresponding diminution in the representation of the insured persons :

- (9) An insured person in Ireland shall not be entitled to medical benefit under this Part of this Act, and the provisions with respect to medical benefit shall not apply :

Provided that medical benefit for an insured person being a member of an approved society shall be deemed to be included amongst the additional benefits specified in Part II of the Fourth Schedule to this Act, and that such medical benefit when provided shall be administered by the Insurance Committee in accordance with the provisions of this Part of

- S. 81 (9) — this Act unless the Irish Insurance Commissioners otherwise direct:

In the Bill as originally introduced medical benefit was provided. The proviso that if medical benefit is given as an additional benefit by an approved society, it shall be administered by the Insurance Committee, not by the society, was inserted at the request of the Irish medical profession that it should be administered in the same way as set forth in s. 15 for England. Cf. s. 14 (1) as to additional benefits "in the nature of medical benefits."

- S. 4 (1). (10) As respects employed contributors in Ireland, the employed rate shall be the rate specified in Part II of the Second Schedule to this Act, and the contributions by the contributors and contributions by the employers shall be at the rates specified in Part II instead of the rates specified in Part I of that schedule, and there shall be credited to the society of which any employed contributor in Ireland is a member or, if he is a deposit contributor, to his account in the Post Office fund, the difference between the amount of contributions actually paid by or in respect of him at the rate specified in Part II of the Second Schedule to this Act and the amount which would have been paid if those contributions had been at the rate specified in Part I of that schedule, and the amount of that difference shall be treated as having been expended on benefits and the proper proportion thereof shall accordingly be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament :

shall have effect, subject to the modification that, where the rate of contributions payable by the employed contributor is one half-penny a week, the weekly contributions payable by the employer shall be reduced by one penny half-penny (or, if the employed contributor is a woman, one penny), and the weekly contributions payable by the employed contributor shall be reduced by one half-penny:

(17) In the special provisions as to persons becoming certificated teachers references to the Board of Education, to the Elementary School Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1898, and to a Public Elementary School shall respectively be construed as references to the Superintendent of Teachers Pension Office, to the National School Teachers (Ireland) Act, 1879, and to a National School, and any sums paid to the Superintendent of the Teachers Pension Office in pursuance of those provisions shall be carried to the Pension Fund established under the last mentioned Act and shall be dealt with in accordance with rules under that Act:

(18) As respects insured persons in Ireland, "six-elevenths" shall be substituted for "four-sevenths" and (in the case of women) "four-ninths" shall be substituted for "one-half":

wife having such qualifications as may be prescribed. s. 81 (20)

82.—(1) For the purpose of carrying this Part of this Act into effect in Wales, there shall be constituted, as soon as may be after the passing of this Act, Commissioners for Wales (to be called the Welsh Insurance Commissioners) with a central office in such town in Wales as the Treasury may determine, and with such branch offices in Wales as the Treasury may think fit, and the Welsh Insurance Commissioners, of whom one at least shall be a duly qualified medical practitioner, shall be appointed by the Treasury, and may appoint such officers, inspectors, referees, and servants for the purposes aforesaid as the Welsh Insurance Commissioners, subject to the approval of the Treasury, may determine, and the provisions of this Part of this Act with respect to the payment of the salaries and remuneration of the Insurance Commissioners, and the officers, inspectors, referees, and servants appointed by them, and with respect to the payment of the expenses incurred by the Treasury or the Insurance Commissioners in carrying this Part of this Act into effect shall, with the necessary modifications, apply to the payment of the salaries and remuneration of the Welsh Insurance Commissioners and the officers, inspectors, referees, and servants appointed by them, and to the payment of expenses incurred by the Treasury or the Welsh Insurance Commissioners in carrying this Part of this Act into effect in Wales, and for the purpose aforesaid the Welsh Insurance Commissioners and the officers, inspectors, referees, and servants

S. 82 (1) appointed by them shall respectively have all the like powers and duties as are by the provisions of this Act conferred and imposed on the Insurance Commissioners and the officers, inspectors, referees, and servants appointed by them, and references in those provisions to the Insurance Commissioners shall be construed as references to the Welsh Insurance Commissioners.

s. 54 (1). (2) All sums received from contributions under this Part of this Act in respect of insured persons resident in Wales, and all sums paid out of moneys provided by Parliament in respect of benefits under this Part of this Act to such persons, and the expenses of administration of such benefits shall be paid into a fund to be called the Welsh National Health Insurance Fund, under the control and management of the Welsh Insurance Commissioners, and the sums required to meet expenditure properly incurred by approved societies and Insurance Committees for the purposes of such benefits and the administration of such benefits shall be paid out of that fund, and the foregoing provisions of this Act, with respect to the National Health Insurance Fund, shall, with the necessary modifications, apply to the Welsh National Health Insurance Fund accordingly.

Persons resident in Wales.—Not including members resident in Wales of a society not approved in Wales. See subs. 16 (4) of 1913, under s. 83 (3) infra. p. 335.

. 64. (3) The powers of the Local Government Board with respect to the distribution of any sum available for the purpose of the provision of or making grants in aid to sanatoria and other institutions shall, as respects the part thereof apportioned to

Wales, be exercised by the Welsh Insurance Commissioners. s. 82(3)

42.—(1) Where the area of an insurance committee making an arrangement under subsection (1) of section sixteen of the principal Act is situate in Wales, the Welsh Insurance Commissioners shall be substituted for the Local Government Board as the authority whose approval is required under that subsection for the purpose of enabling that committee to enter into such an arrangement. Special provisions as to Wales.

(2) The council of a county or county borough in Wales may agree with King Edward the Seventh Welsh National Memorial Association to make such annual or other payments, subject to such conditions and for such periods as may be approved by the Welsh Insurance Commissioners, and any expenses incurred under this subsection shall, in the case of a county council, be defrayed in like manner as expenses under subsection (2) of section four of the principal Act, and, in the case of a county borough council, as part of their expenses incurred in the execution of the Public Health Acts.

(4) If before or within twelve months after the commencement of this Act there is established for Wales by royal charter an association for the purpose of providing sanatoria and other institutions for the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis or such other diseases as the Local Government Board, with the approval of the Treasury, may appoint, the Welsh Insurance Commissioners in making and the Treasury in approving grants from any such sum as is in the last preceding subsection mentioned s. 64.

S. 82 (4) shall have regard to the provision of such institutions which may have been made, or may be proposed to be made, by the association.

Joint committee of Commissioners.

83.—(1) There shall be constituted as soon as may be after the passing of this Act, in accordance with regulations to be made by the Treasury, a joint committee of the several bodies of Commissioners appointed for the purposes of this Part of this Act, consisting of such members of each such body selected in such manner as may be provided by the regulations and of a chairman and other members (not exceeding two in number) to be appointed by the Treasury, and the chairman shall not by reason of his office be incapable of being elected to or voting in the Commons House of Parliament.

"Regulations."—See subs. (4) hereof, and Appendix I A, p. 495.

Joint committee and Insurance Commissioners.

29.—(1) Regulations made by the Treasury under section eighty-three of the principal Act may incorporate the joint committee constituted under that section.

(2) All documents issued before the commencement of this Act by the joint committee, either alone or jointly with any of the bodies of Insurance Commissioners appointed for the purposes of Part I. of the principal Act, shall be deemed to have been validly issued if issued under a seal purporting to be the seal of the joint committee, or under the hands of any four or more of the members of the committee countersigned by the secretary or clerk to the joint committee.

By s. 83 (3) of 1913 [under s. 57 (4) supra]. The Documentary Evidence Acts, 1867–1882, are applied to the Joint Committee as well as to the several Commissions.

(2) The joint committee may make such financial adjustments as may be necessary between the several funds under the control and management of the several bodies of Commissioners, and shall exercise and perform such powers and duties of the several bodies of Commissioners under this Part of this Act, either alone or jointly with any of those bodies, as may be provided by such regulations. s. 83 (2)

"Financial adjustments."—One difficulty in financial adjustments between the various divisions of the United Kingdom arises from differences in the normal sickness experience, which suggest different actuarial tables for England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales, with reserve values and transfer values computed upon different bases, and questions would then arise upon the transfer of a member from a society in one division to a society in another as to the correct transfer value to be assigned to him when the liability of the society receiving him differs from that of the society which he leaves. Clearly the operation of s. 31, without modification, would work some hardship in such a case. Uniform tables for the whole Kingdom seem to be the only solution.

The problem is further complicated by the fact that there is no true mutuality in transfers; there is, for instance, a steady emigration from Scotland to England, and there is a marked difference in the average ages of the migrant and remigrant streams.

As to the effects of the provisions for reserve values upon the different members of the United Kingdom, and their prospect of extended benefits, see ss. 8 (9), 55 (1) and (4), and notes thereto.

(3) Amongst the powers so exercisable by the joint committee shall be included a power of making regulations as to the valuation of societies and branches which have amongst their members persons resident in England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales, or any two or any three of such parts of the United Kingdom.

16.—(1) So much of subsection (3) of section eighty-three of the principal Act as provides that the regulations made under that subsection shall require that in the case of a society or branch which has amongst its members persons resident in England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales, or any two or any Provisions as to societies having members in more than one part of the United Kingdom.

three of such parts of the United Kingdom, the members in each such part shall, for the purposes of Part I. of the principal Act relating to valuations, surpluses, deficiencies, and transfers, be treated as if they formed a separate society, is hereby repealed:

Provided that where the joint committee are satisfied, on representations made within six months after the passing of this Act, that the members of any such society resident in a part of the United Kingdom other than that in which the registered office of the society is situated desire that they shall be treated as if they formed a separate society, the members of the society resident in that part shall for the purposes aforesaid continue to be so treated and the joint committee in the exercise of their powers under this proviso shall in each case consult with the Commissioners for the part of the United Kingdom in question and hold an inquiry, or, where in their opinion the wishes of members cannot otherwise be properly ascertained, cause a poll to be taken in the prescribed manner.

(2) A society shall not be required to be approved in respect of any part of the United Kingdom other than that in which its registered office is situated by reason of the fact that among its members are persons for the time being resident in that part of the United Kingdom, but a society shall not admit as a member any person resident at the time of admission in any part of the United Kingdom in respect of which the society is not an approved society.

(3) A society which has received approval for more than one part of the United Kingdom may relinquish approval for any part or parts other than that in which its registered office is situate, if it satisfies the joint committee that it fulfils one or other of the following conditions :—

1913.
S. 16 (3)

- (i) that none of its members are resident in the parts of the United Kingdom in respect of which approval is proposed to be relinquished ; or
- (ii) that any members who are so resident were at the time when they were admitted to membership of the society resident in a part of the United Kingdom in which the society will remain an approved society.

For the purposes of this provision admission to membership of a society means admission to membership whether for the purposes of Part I. of the principal Act or for any other purposes of the society, and in the case of a society which is a separate section of another society includes admission to membership of that other society.

(4) Where any members of a society reside in a part of the United Kingdom in respect of which the society is not an approved society, the provisions of subsection (2) of section eighty of the principal Act, which relate to payments into and out of the Scottish National Health Insurance Fund, and the corresponding provisions of the principal Act relating to the Irish and Welsh National Health Insurance Funds, shall apply as if those members resided in the part of the United Kingdom in which the registered office of the society is situated or, in the case of a society with branches, in which the registered office of the branch of which they are members is situated.

This subsection shall apply as respects the members of a branch of a society resident in a part of the United Kingdom other than that in which the registered office of the branch is situated, notwithstanding that the society is approved for that part, unless the joint committee, on the application of the society, otherwise determined, but no branch to which the said provisions apply shall admit as a member of the branch any person resident at the time of admission in any part of the United Kingdom other than that in which the registered office of the branch is situated.

1913.

(5) For the purposes of facilitating adjustments in respect of persons removing from Ireland to Great Britain or from Great Britain to Ireland the transfer values and reserve values of persons resident in Ireland shall be calculated as if they were resident in Great Britain, and where any member of an approved society is at the time of attaining the age of seventy resident in Ireland, the prescribed part of his transfer value shall be carried by the society of which he is a member to a separate account and dealt with in such manner as may be prescribed.

The provision as to separation of the funds of societies according to geographical distribution is clearly necessary if different actuarial tables are to be used for the valuation of branches within different geographical boundaries. See s. 40 and Appendix I—1, 4, p. 444

(4) Regulations made by the Treasury under this section shall be laid before Parliament as soon as may be after they are made, but, if an Address is presented to His Majesty by either House of Parliament within the next subsequent twenty-one days on which that House has sat next after any such regulation is laid before it, praying that the regulation may be annulled, His Majesty in Council s. 83 (4) may annul the regulation and it shall thenceforth be void, but without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done thereunder.

"It shall thenceforth be void."—Most of the Statutes requiring orders, minutes, regulations, and the like, to be laid before Parliament, provide that they shall come into force only after lying on the table for the prescribed time. (See for instance 33 & 34 Vict. c. 75, s. 97.) These regulations, on the contrary, are to be good, unless and until avoided by His Majesty in Council, upon an address, and then are only to be void "thenceforth." Apparently, therefore, prior proceedings of the committee would not be avoided by such amendment; but the committee itself would cease to exist, its appointment being void from that time forth.

"Anything previously done."—A question of considerable difficulty might arise in the event of annulment of regulations appointing the committee, as to whether subsidiary regulations, previously made by the committee, were thereby avoided for the future. "When authority is given by any Statute to make a By-law, and the Statute is subsequently repealed, the By-law ceases to be operative" (Lumley, By-laws, p. 65). But a Statute repealed is not avoided "thenceforth" only, but avoided ab initio. "It has long been established that, when an Act of Parliament is repealed, it must be considered, except as to transactions past and closed, as if it had never existed" (per Lord Tenterden, C.J., in Gastier v. Ellison, 9 B. & C. 750 at p. 752. See also R. v. Denton, 18 Q.B. 761).

The Treasury Regulations under s. 82 are, in fact, voidable by His Majesty in Council, and if avoided, will presumably be deemed to have been valid until avoided, like voidable contracts (Duncan v. Dixon, 44 Ch.D. 211, 59 L.J. Ch. 437), (Valentini v. Canali, 59 L.J.Q.B. 74, 4 Q.B.D. 166).

The case most directly in point, however, is that of Smith v. Galloway [(1898) 1 Q.B. 71], which clearly establishes that a rule made by a friendly society remains in force though the statutory authority under which it was made is repealed; and it is submitted that the analogy holds good, and that rules made by the committee would continue valid, although the authority of the committee were itself annulled.

PART II

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

s. 84 84.—Every workman who, having been employed in a trade mentioned in the Sixth Schedule to this Act (in this Act referred to as “an insured trade”), is unemployed, and in whose case the conditions laid down by this Part of this Act (in this Act referred to as “statutory conditions”) are fulfilled, shall be entitled, subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, to receive payments (in this Act referred to as “unemployment benefit”) at weekly or other prescribed intervals at such rates and for such periods as are authorised by or under the Seventh Schedule to this Act, so long as those conditions continue to be fulfilled, and so long as he is not disqualified under this Act for the receipt of unemployment benefit :

Right of workmen in insured trades to unemployment
benefit.

Provided that unemployment benefit shall not be paid in respect of any period of unemployment which occurs during the six months following the commencement of this Act.

See Appendix X—2.

“Every workman.”—The word workman includes workwoman [Interpretation Act, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 63, s. 1 (1)]. See the definition given in s. 107 (1) and note thereto infra.

“Having been employed.”—In order to draw benefit under this part of the Act a man must have been employed in an insured trade within four years and six months last past [s. 86 (1)].

"In a trade mentioned in the Sixth Schedule."—The interpretation of the Schedule is controlled by subs. (2) of section 107, which provides that "regard shall be had to the nature of the work in which the workman is engaged rather than to the business of the employer by whom he is employed." But see s. 104 (a).

"Is unemployed."—See s. 86 (3).

"Statutory conditions."—See ss. 86, 91 (1) (c).

"Shall be entitled."—The workman is entitled to the payment of the full benefits unless under the provisions of s. 93 (2), the Board of Trade have temporarily reduced the benefits, in consequence of the insolvency of the fund, or have varied the benefits under the powers conferred by the Seventh Schedule. See the last paragraph thereof and note thereto. The workman is liable under s. 101 (5) to repay to the fund any benefit received by him while not so entitled.

"Unemployment benefit."—For the rate and periods of unemployment benefit, see the Seventh Schedule set out below.

"Disqualified."—See s. 87, and the notes thereto infra.

The Sixth Schedule is as follows. The decisions of the Umpire [see ss. 89 (1) and 91 (1) (b)] on questions arising out of this Schedule are published by the Board of Trade weekly in their Journal, and monthly in their Labour Gazette; see Appendix X—1.

SIXTH SCHEDULE.

LIST OF INSURED TRADES FOR THE PURPOSES OF PART II OF THIS ACT RELATING TO UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

(1) Building; that is to say, the construction, alteration, repair, decoration, or demolition of buildings, including the manufacture of any fittings of wood of a kind commonly made in builders' workshops or yards.

"Construction."—See 60 & 61 Vict. c. 37, s. 7 (1). The insertion of iron girders into a building six months after its erection, for the purpose of strengthening it, is construction [Hoddinott v. Newton (1901), A.C. 49].

"Construction, repair, demolition—these three operations cover, I think, every varying phase in the life of a building from its beginning to its end" (per Lord Macnaghten, ibid., at pp. 54, 55). See also Dudge v. Conway, 17 T.L.R. 355, and Hobbs and Samuel v. Bradley, 37 Sc. L.R. 532.

"Building."—Though the verb "building" has never been interpreted by the courts, there are numerous decisions as to what is "a building." Thus, a structure of wood measuring 16 ft. by 13 ft., and intended to be permanently used as a shop is a building within 18 & 19 Vict. c. 122, although only resting on the surface of the soil (Stevens v. Gourlay, 7 C.B.N.S. 99.) A bay window (Coles v. Sims, 5 D.M. and G. 1) and a high wall (Child v. Douglas, Kay 560) have been held to be buildings; but a hoarding is not a building under the Metropolitan Open Spaces Acts, 1877 and 1881, and the Disused Burial Grounds Act, 1884, though it is a "building or erection" (Pocock v. Gillman, 1 Cab. and Ell., 104).

"One may say of this or that structure, this or that is not a building; but no general definition can be given, and our lexicographers do not

S. 84 attempt it. Without, therefore, presuming to do what others have failed to do, I may venture to suggest that by a building is usually understood a structure of considerable size, and intended to be permanent or at least to endure for a considerable time." (Per Byles J. in Stevens v. Gourlay, 7 C.B.N.S. 99, at p. 112.)

"The manufacture of any fittings of wood."—Joiners' manufacturing doors, window frames, and the like, are included in Part II of the Act, although they work in a factory which is in no way connected with a builder's business, if the articles made are of a kind "commonly made" in a builder's yard.

"Commonly made."—There is no legal decision on the exact meaning of the word "commonly" except in the phrase "commonly understood" (45 & 46 Vict. c. 50 s. 241).

"We think 'commonly understood' means commonly understood by any person . . . , that no person would be misled." (Per Lopes, J., in Moorhouse v. Livesey, 15 Q.B.D. 273 on p. 279.)

"Commonly—as a usual circumstance; as a general thing, in ordinary cases; usually, ordinarily, generally." (Murray's Dictionary.)

It is submitted that to bring fittings of wood within this definition they must be such as it is the general practice of builders to make in their yards, not merely such as are frequently made there.

(2) Construction of works; that is to say, the construction, reconstruction, or alteration of railroads, docks, harbours, canals, embankments, bridges, piers or other works of construction.

Cf. the definition in the Workman's Compensation Act, 1897:—

"'Engineering work' means any construction or alteration or repair of a railroad, harbour, dock, canal or sewer, and includes any other work for . . ."

It has been decided under that section that the employment must be on or in or about the works themselves. [Chambers v. Whitehaven Harbour Commissioners (1899), 2 Q.B. 132].

"Railroads."—This includes everything which is a necessary part of a railway as a going concern. (Fullick v. Evans, 17 T.L.R. 346; per Romer, L.J. See remarks of A. C. Smith, M.R., in same case).

"Harbours."—"Harbour" for the purposes of the Merchant Shipping Acts includes "harbours properly so called, whether natural or artificial, estuaries, navigable rivers, piers, jetties, and other works in or at which ships can obtain shelter or ship and unship goods or passengers" (57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 742.)

"Embankments, bridges, piers."—These words are not in the corresponding section of the Workman's Compensation Act, 1897, though "piers" may perhaps be included under harbours.

"Other works of construction."—It has been held that the words "any other work . . ." in the definition already referred to, include any kind of constructional work, and particularly the addition of a further story to an existing building. (Cosgrave v. Partington, 17 T.L.R. 39).

* (3) Shipbuilding; that is to say, the construction, alteration, repair or decoration of ships, boats or other craft by persons not being usually members of a ship's crew, including the manufacture of any fittings of wood of a kind commonly made in a ship-building yard. S. 84

"Construction."—See note to paragraph (1).

"Ships."—Under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, "Ships" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars, and "'Vessel' includes any ship or boat or any other description of vessel used in navigation."

On close examination these definitions leave something to be desired.

"Boats or other craft."—The word "boat" may include a steam-boat (Tisdell v. Combe, 7 L.J.M.C. 48). The word "craft" may include or exclude almost anything that floats. Cf. 1 and 2 W. 4, c. 76, s. 51, "ship, lighter, barge or other craft"; 1 & 2 Vict. c. 101, s. 4 "lighter, vessel, barge or other craft"; held not to include a ship (Blanford v. Morrison, 19 L.J.Q.B. 533); 7 & 8 G. 4, c. 85, s. 37, "wherry, lighter, or other craft," held not to include a steam-tug (Reed v. Ingham, 23 L.J.M.C. 156); and "risks of craft or lighter," when Day, J., held that "The word 'craft' in this policy clearly was intended to cover both steamer and barge." (Russell v. Lodge, 6 T.L.R. 353.)

"Members of a ship's crew."—The fact that they do alterations, repairs, decorations, etc., does not bring the members of a ship's crew within the unemployment provisions. The "crew" does not include employees of a cargo owner voyaging in charge of cattle, although they help to work the ship (Anglo-Argentine Agency v. Temperley, 1899, 2 Q.B. 403).

"Manufacture of any fittings."—See note to paragraph (1) of this Schedule.

Ship-breaking is not included as an insured trade.

(4) Mechanical engineering, including the manufacture of ordnance and fire-arms.

"Mechanical engineering."—"The term engineer, as pointed out in the special instructions for the census of 1891 (No. 14) is a vague term equally applicable to a civil engineer, an engine driver, and an engine maker" (Hudson on Building Contracts, Vol. I, p. 30).

"Engineering, the art of designing and constructing works, embraces a very wide range of subjects, and the different departments into which the profession is now divided do not admit of very strict definition; but it may be mentioned that mechanical engineering includes machinery, mill-work, steam engines, iron shipbuilding, agricultural implements, etc." (Encyclopædia Britannica, 9th Edition, Vol. IX, p. 215).

"In present use the 'engineer' in this sense (specifically 'mechanical engineer') is a maker of steam engines or of heavy machinery generally. In this sense the term is applied to the working artisan as well as to the employer of labour. . . . Engineering—the art and science of the engineer's profession" (Murray's Dictionary, Title, Engineer, Engineering).

There can be no doubt that among engineers "engine driving" is

S. 84 — not spoken of as “engineering” in spite of the census instructions, and Dr. Murray agrees in substance with the Encyclopædia Britannica that mechanical engineering is the making, repairing, etc., of machinery in a wide sense of the word. Query whether the phrase includes the making of tools other than machine tools (e.g., the tempering and grinding of cold chisels in an engineering works), also the making of a machine or engine of wood, such as a pianola. The definition given in Funk and Wagnall’s Dictionary “one who designs, constructs, or operates machines and machine tools,” is obviously too wide, unless the verb “operate” be confined to machine tools. The Institution of Mechanical Engineers judiciously refrains from defining the term.

“Ordnance and fire-arms.”—“Ordnance—mounted guns, cannon” (Murray’s Dictionary). Under the Gun License Act, 1870, “the term ‘gun’ includes a fire-arm of any description, and an air-gun or any other kind of gun from which any shot, bullet, or other missile can be discharged” (33 & 34 Vict. c. 57, s. 2). The term fire-arm, therefore, does not apparently include an air-gun. Dr. Murray defines it as “a weapon from which missiles are propelled by the combustion of gunpowder or other explosive.”

A toy pistol has been held to be a fire-arm if capable of inflicting injury (Campbell v. Hadley, 40 J.P. 756).

(5) Ironfounding, whether included under the foregoing headings or not.

(6) Construction of vehicles ; that is to say, the construction, repair, or decoration of vehicles.

“Construction, &c.”—See note to paragraph (1) supra.

“Vehicles.”—Including bicycles, &c. (Taylor v. Goodwin, 4 Q.B.D. 228 ; Cannan v. Earl of Abingdon, 1900, 2 Q.B. 66 ; Simpson v. Teignmouth and Shaldon Bridge Co., 1903, 1 K.B. 405 at p. 414) ; also wheelbarrows (ib.).

(7) Sawmilling (including machine woodwork) carried on in connection with any other insured trade or of a kind commonly so carried on.

A large number of industries, such as spar and block-making will fall under paragraph (7) as well as under paragraph (3) or (1).

“In connection with.”—It is submitted that there must be some connection in the management of the sawmill, &c., with a builder’s or ship-builder’s yard, or a manufactory of builder’s or ship-builder’s fittings, or other insured trade. (See G.W. Ry. v. Central Wales Ry., 5 Ry. and Canal Traffic Cases, 1.) The mere fact of supplying the trade cannot connect the “carrying on” of the business with an insured trade.

“Commonly so carried on.”—See note above and note to paragraph (1), “commonly.” This last phrase is probably wide enough to include almost every sawmill.

The Solicitor-General in a popular exposition of Part II of the Act enumerates the following operatives as included in this Schedule, but the statement can scarcely be taken as a considered opinion by a law officer :—

S. 84

- (1) Bricklayers, carpenters, plasterers, painters, plumbers, scaffolders, paperhangers, glaziers, slaters, and all the labour dependent upon them.
- (2) All the work upon which navvies are engaged ; all the labour used in making harbours, docks, bridges, railways, reservoirs, and the like.
- (4) Fitters, turners, borers, slotters, and other machinists of all kinds ; makers of ordnance and fire-arms, millwrights, drillers, ironfounders, copper-smiths, blacksmiths, and all the unskilled labour which assists in these trades.
- (3) Boilermakers, shipwrights, riveters, caulkers, boat and barge builders, and all shipyard labourers and the like.
- (5) Coachbuilders, coachpainters, wheelwrights motor body builders, and allied trades.

SEVENTH SCHEDULE.

RATES AND PERIODS OF UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFIT.

In respect of each week following the first week of any period of unemployment, seven shillings, or such other rates as may be prescribed either generally or for any particular trade or any branch thereof.

"Each Week."—Nine days in which the workman does two days' work only, during a period of unemployment constitute a week in respect of which he is entitled to benefit [s. 107 (1)], infra, and note thereto).

Under the Factory and Workshops Act, 1901, "'Week' means, the period between midnight on Saturday night and midnight on the succeeding Saturday night" (1 Edw. 7, c. 22, s. 156) ; but usually a week means any consecutive 7 days (Bazalgette v. Lowe, 24 L.J.Ch. 368, at p. 416). Cf. the Third Schedule (11) under s. 4 (2).

"Following the first week."—It is sufficient if not more than six weeks of unemployment have intervened since the first week [s. 107 (1)].

"Period of unemployment."—See note to the fifth paragraph hereof.

"Such other rates."—The rates in insured trades may be temporarily reduced to not less than 5s. per week [s. 93 (2)], or may be permanently varied by regulations made under this Schedule, and s. 91 (1). See the last paragraph of the Schedule. In other trades to which the Act is extended by the Board of Trade under s. 103, the rates of benefit may be any rates prescribed in the order so extending the Act.

"For any particular trade."—See note to s. 93 (2) infra.

Provided that, in the case of a workman under the age of eighteen, no unemployment benefit shall be paid while the workman is below the age of seventeen, and while the workman is of

- S. 84 — the age of seventeen or upwards but below the age of eighteen, unemployment benefit shall only be paid at half the rate at which it would be payable if the workman was above the age of eighteen.

"Age."—Note that s. 79 does not apply to this part of the Act, so that (except in Scotland) a particular age is attained on the commencement of the day previous to the anniversary of birth (cf. Old Age Pensions Act, 1911, s. 1).

The contributions of such workmen are two-fifths of the ordinary contributions, and are treated as such for the purpose of estimating rights to later benefits (Eighth Schedule); but not for the purpose of estimating right to benefit under this paragraph.

No workman shall receive unemployment benefit for more than fifteen or such other number of weeks as may be prescribed either generally or for any particular trade or branch thereof within any period of twelve months, or in respect of any period less than one day.

"As may be prescribed," i.e., under s. 91 (1).—The use of the word "prescribed" in this Schedule empowers the Board of Trade to act under that section.

"Less than one day."—It appears from these words that benefit may be drawn in respect of a part of one week, following another week of unemployment.

No workman shall receive more unemployment benefit than in the proportion of one week's benefit for every five contributions paid by him under this Act:

Provided that for the purpose of the foregoing paragraph—

- (a) in the case of a workman who satisfies the Board of Trade that he is over the age of twenty-one and has habitually worked at an insured trade before the commencement of this Act, there shall be deemed to be added to the number of contributions which he has actually paid five contributions for each period of three months or part of such period during which he has so worked before the commencement of this Act, up to a maximum of twenty-five contributions; and
- (b) where, owing to the fact that the wages or other remuneration of a workman are paid at intervals greater than a week, or for any other like reason contributions are paid under Part II of this Act in respect of any workman at intervals greater than a week, that workman shall be entitled to treat each of such contributions as so many contributions as there are weeks in the period for which the contribution has been paid.

"Paid by him."—See s. 107 (1).

"Over the age of twenty-one."—i.e., at the time of receiving benefit. This paragraph is a proviso to the preceding one and controlled thereby.

"Twenty-five contributions."—See the proviso to s. 84. At the expiry of six months from the commencement of the Act each workman regularly employed in the past three years will have fifty-one contributions to his credit, and will be entitled to draw benefit for ten weeks.

Any time during which a workman is, under Part II of this Act, disqualified for receiving unemployment benefit shall be excluded in the computation of periods of unemployment under this Schedule.

"Disqualified."—i.e., under s. 87, by trade dispute, misconduct, imprisonment, &c.

"Computation of periods of unemployment."—A workman who has been disqualified cannot receive benefit in respect of the first week after the disqualification ceases, by virtue of this paragraph of the Schedule.

A period of unemployment shall not be deemed to commence till the workman has made application for unemployment benefit in such manner as may be prescribed.

"Has made application."—See ss. 86 (2), 91 (1) (d).

Note that a workman must make application for benefit a week before the period of benefit begins to run, and therefore, if he draws weekly, a fortnight before he begins to draw.

The power conferred by this Schedule on the Board of Trade to prescribe rates and periods of unemployment benefit shall not be exercised so as to increase the rate of benefit above eight shillings per week or reduce it below six shillings per week, or to increase the period of unemployment benefit above fifteen weeks, or to alter the proportion which the period of benefit bears to the number of contributions paid, except by rules confirmed by an order made in accordance with the provisions of this Act relating to special orders.

"By this Schedule."—The use of the word "prescribed" confers the power to prescribe under s. 91 (1).

"Special order."—See section 113.

85.—(1) The sums required for the payment of unemployment benefit under this Act shall be derived partly from contributions by workmen in the insured trades and partly from contributions by employers of Contributions by workmen, employers, and the Treasury.

s. 85 (1) such workmen and partly from moneys provided by Parliament.

"Partly from contributions by workmen."—The proportions of the various contributions are always the same, no matter how the total contribution is varied by regulation or special order. Thus the contributions of employers and workmen must always be equal [Eighth Schedule, s. 93 (2), s. 102], and the State contribution must always be two-thirds of each of the others [s. 85 (6)].

Contributions paid under a mistaken belief that the workman is in an insured trade shall be returned, s. 100 (2).

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, every workman employed within the United Kingdom in an insured trade, and every employer of any such workman, shall be liable to pay contributions at the rates specified in the Eighth Schedule to this Act.

"Every workman."—The workman is himself liable to pay contributions under Part II of this Act; but by subs. (3) hereof that liability is suspended in the first instance unless reimposed by regulations. Contra under Part I (cf. s. 4). Under Part II a workman may be prosecuted for "neglect" to pay contributions [s. 101 (2)] and it is submitted that it is his duty under the Act to inquire of an employer who pays him full wages whether the contributions have in fact been paid. See note to subs. (3) hereof.

"Every employer."—A contribution is payable by every employer who takes on a workman in an insured trade though on the last day of the week (see the Eighth Schedule, infra), unless the workman is sent by a Labour Exchange with which the employer has made an arrangement under s. 99 (1) hereof. The employer is not relieved of his duty to contribute under Part II, as he is under Part I, by an earlier payment made by another employer.

EIGHTH SCHEDULE.

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR THE PURPOSES OF PART II OF THIS ACT RELATING TO UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

RATES OF CONTRIBUTION FROM WORKMEN AND EMPLOYERS.

From every workman employed in an insured trade for every week he is so employed - $2\frac{1}{2}d.$

From every employer by whom one or more workmen are employed in an insured trade, in respect of each workman, for every week he is so employed - $2\frac{1}{2}d.$

Provided that in the case of a workman below the age of S. 85 (2) eighteen, 1*d.* shall be substituted for 2½*d.* as the contribution from the workman and from the employer, but, for the purpose of reckoning the number of contributions in respect of such a workman except as regards the payment of unemployment benefit before he reaches the age of eighteen, the 1*d.* shall be treated as two-fifths of a contribution.

"From every workman."—The workman is himself liable to pay the contribution. See ss. 85 (2), 101 (2). See cf. s. 84 (3), by which the liability of the workman is suspended unless revived by regulations of the Board of Trade.

"2½*d.*"—As to variation in the rate of contributions by Special Order or otherwise, see ss. 93 (2), 102. In every case the contributions of employer and workmen must be equally varied, and they cannot in any case be increased beyond 4½*d.* See note to s. 102.

Every such period of employment of less than a week shall, for the purposes of this schedule, be treated as if it were employment for a whole week, except that, where the period of employment is two days or less, the contributions both of the employer and of the workman shall be reduced to one penny if the period does not exceed one day and to twopence if it exceeds one day; and, in such case, in reckoning the number of contributions under Part II of this Act and the schedules therein referred to, contributions at such reduced rates shall be treated as two-fifths or four-fifths of a contribution as the case may require.

"Shall be reduced to one penny."—This contribution cannot be increased by the Board of Trade, though it may be reduced (see note to s. 102).

As to the special case of workmen taken for short periods through a Labour Exchange, and the recovery back of contributions above 2½*d.* per week, paid under this paragraph, see s. 99.

(3) Except where the regulations under this Part of this Act otherwise prescribe, the employer shall, in the first instance, be liable to pay both the contribution payable by himself, and also on behalf of and to the exclusion of the workman, the contribution payable by such workman, and subject to such regulations, shall be entitled, notwithstanding the provisions of any Act or any contract to the contrary, to

s. 85 (3) recover from the workman by deductions from the workman's wages or from any other payment due from him to the workman the amount of the contributions so paid by him on behalf of the workman.

"Except where the regulations under this part of this act otherwise prescribe."—Board of Trade regulations shall protect employers and workmen from proceedings and penalties in cases where they have refrained from paying contributions in accordance with a decision of the umpire [s. 91 (1) (b)]. Such a decision need not apparently be given in any matter to which the employer in question was a party. Employers and workmen will be justified in taking the law from the umpire, though the umpire's interpretation of the Act may be erroneous.

"The employer shall be liable to pay."—The meaning of "employer" is nowhere defined, except by implication in s. 107 (1). The employer is, therefore, the other party to the workman's contract, i.e., the person to whom the workman looks for payment; see notes to the First Schedule, Part I (a), under s. 1 (2). Payment of contributions is enforced by the penalties set out in s. 101 (2); and in the bankruptcy of the employer, or liquidation of an employing company these contributions are entitled to priority under the Stannaries Act 1887, the Preferential Payments in Bankruptcy Act, 1888, and the Companies Consolidation Act, 1908 (see s. 110 hereof). As to employment under a sub-contractor, see s. 91 (1) (f).

"Notwithstanding the provision of any Act."—See the Third Schedule (3). Payments for the purpose of providing unemployment benefit may not otherwise be deducted from wages under the Truck Act, 1831.

"To the exclusion of the workman."—The liability imposed upon workmen by s. 85 (2), is therefore again suspended in the first instance by s. 85 (3), but power is given to the Board of Trade to reimpose the obligation, and so to make the workman liable under s. 101 to prosecution for non-payment of contributions.

By this procedure of imposing and then suspending a tax, the Statute avoids creating the undesirable precedent of giving to the Crown the power of itself imposing and varying the incidence of such a charge in the first instance.

It is to be observed, however, that the words of the section are that "the employer shall be liable . . . to pay . . . to the exclusion of the workman," not that "the employer shall be liable to the exclusion of the workman." The liability of the workman therefore always remains until the employer has in fact paid.

(4) Notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, the employer shall not be entitled to deduct from the wages of or other payment due to the workman, or otherwise recover from the workman by any legal process the contributions payable by the employer s. 85 (4) himself.

This subsection does not prevent deductions by indirect means if the employer desires, and is strong enough to reduce wages. See note to Third Schedule (7).

(5) Subject to the Provisions of this Part of this Act, the Board of Trade may make regulations providing for any matters incidental to the payment and collection of contributions payable under this Part of this Act, and in particular for—

(a) payment of contributions by means of adhesive or other stamps affixed to or impressed upon books or cards, or otherwise, and for regulating the manner, times and conditions in, at and under which such stamps are to be affixed and impressed or payments are otherwise to be made ;

(b) the issue, sale, custody, production, and delivery up of books or cards and the replacement of books or cards which have been lost, destroyed or defaced.

“Make regulations” in manner provided by s. 91 (3). The Ninth Schedule does not apply to such regulations. See Appendix X—2, 3-9.

“Issue, sale, custody or delivery up of books or cards.” —The cost of printing and issuing cards may clearly be borne by the Board of Trade under s. 89 (2), but the Act gives no power to the Board to make a charge for cards, and it would clearly be ultra vires of the Board to make regulations compelling the public to pay for cards. Presumably therefore the cards must be issued gratuitously.

For loss of the card a workman or employer can be fined 1s. [s. 100 (3)]. See Appendix X—2, (7).

(6) A contribution shall be made in each year out of moneys provided by Parliament equal to one-third of the total contributions received from employers

S. 85 (6) and workmen during that year, and the sums to be contributed in any year shall be paid in such manner and at such times as the Treasury may determine.

Statutory conditions for receipt of unemployment
benefit.

86.—The statutory conditions for the receipt of unemployment benefit by any workman are—

- (1) that he proves that he has been employed as a workman in an insured trade in each of not less than twenty-six separate calendar weeks in the preceding five years ;
- (2) that he has made application for unemployment benefit in the prescribed manner, and proves that since the date of the application he has been continuously unemployed ;
- (3) that he is capable of work but unable to obtain suitable employment ;
- (4) that he has not exhausted his right to unemployment benefit under this Part of this Act :

"Has been employed."—The effect of this subsection is that the policy lapses four and a-half years after leaving the trade. However long a workman has been in regular employment in an insured trade, it would appear that he cannot for more than four and a-half years rely upon the unemployment fund.

"The prescribed manner."—The Board of Trade are to "prescribe" and may prescribe application to the Post Office ; the intention of the Act, however, appears to be that where there is a labour exchange available, application should be made through the labour exchange. See s. 91 (1) (d) and notes. See Appendix X—2, 10-11.

"Continuously unemployed."—See this phrase defined in s. 107, infra. The effect of this definition is that a workman can draw unemployment benefit in respect of the second period of one week's unemployment occurring within six weeks of the last, and can draw benefit for every week after the first in which he does less than two days' work.

"Capable of work."—If "rendered incapable of work by some specific disease or by bodily or mental disablement," the workman is entitled to sickness or disablement benefit under paragraphs (c) and (d) of section 8 (1). [See notes thereto, supra.]

The conditions of unemployment benefit and of sickness or disablement benefit are therefore mutually exclusive.

See also s. 87 (4) below.

"Suitable employment."—Save that section 100 makes it clear that the skill of the workman is to be "taken into consideration in determining what is suitable employment for the workman," the Statute makes no attempt to define the meaning of the words. The question is in fact left for the decision of the referees and umpire primæ impressionis; but it is submitted that the paragraph must be read as a whole and that employment offered must be suitable, having regard to the applicant's capability for work.

"Exhausted his right."—The right to unemployment benefit is exhausted

(a) When the workman has drawn fifteen weeks' benefit in the course of twelve months.

(b) When the workman has drawn one week's benefit in respect of each 1s. old contributed by him.

See notes to the Seventh Schedule, under s. 84 supra.

Provided that a workman shall not be deemed to have failed to fulfil the statutory conditions by reason only that he has declined—

(a) an offer of employment in a situation vacant in consequence of a stoppage of work due to a trade dispute; or

(b) an offer of employment in the district where he was last ordinarily employed at a rate of wage lower, or on conditions less favourable, than those which he habitually obtained in his usual employment in that district, or would have obtained had he continued to be so employed; or

(c) an offer of employment in any other district at a rate of wage lower or on conditions less favourable than those generally observed in such district by agreement between associations of employers and of workmen, or, failing any such agreement, than those generally recognised in such district by good employers.

The effect of this proviso is substantially to declare certain employments unsuitable. The applicant is in no way debarred from accepting an offer of any such employment, but on the other hand he cannot be penalised for refusing it. It is clearly the intention of the Statute that the fund derived equally from employers and employed shall not be used against the direct interests of either. At the same time it is clear that the effect of the Act in assisting Trade Unions to pay sick and unemployment benefits, which were heretofore payable out of their general funds, will be to set free a large part of those funds for use in connection with trade disputes.

"Trade dispute."—As defined in s. 107 (1) hereof. By the Trade Disputes Act, 1906, "'trade dispute' means any dispute between employers and workmen, or between workmen and workmen, which is connected with the employment or non-employment, or the terms of employment, or with the condition of labour of any person, and the expression 'workmen' means all persons employed in trade or industry, whether or not in the employment of the employer with whom a trade dispute arises" [6 Edw. 7, c. 47, s. 5 (3)].

"Conditions less favourable than those which he habitually obtained."—Some difficulty may be experienced in harmonising this proviso with s. 100 (1). Under the latter section the Insurance Officer and the Court of Referees may decide that work less skilled, and therefore probably under less favourable conditions than "those which he habitually obtained," is "suitable employment"; but notwithstanding that subsection this proviso clearly empowers the workman to refuse such employment and require the payment of his benefit.

The effect of the proviso is to maintain union rates so far as Trade Union members are concerned, and to empower other workmen to demand their customary rate.

"Employment in any other district."—It must be clearly understood that employment at the standard rate in another district is not declared by this section to be suitable employment. The question raised by subsection (3) remains in every case one for the Insurance Officer to decide subject to appeal to the Court of Referees.

Disqualifications for unemploy-
benefit.

87.—(1) A workman who has lost employment by reason of a stoppage of work which was due to a trade dispute at the factory, workshop, or other premises at which he was employed, shall be disqualified for receiving unemployment benefit so long as the stoppage of work continues, except in a case where he has, during the stoppage of work, become bonâ fide employed elsewhere in an insured trade.

Where separate branches of work which are commonly carried on as separate businesses in separate premises are in any case carried on in separate departments on the same premises, each of those departments shall, for the purposes of this provision, be deemed to be a separate factory or workshop or separate premises, as the case may be. s. 87 (1)

"Trade dispute."—See note to section 86 (a) supra. This sub-section is complementary to proviso (a) in section 86. Thus the Unemployment Fund cannot be used either to assist workmen to strike or to enable employers to procure strike breakers.

"Disqualified."—The effect of the Seventh Schedule, q.v., is to prevent the payment of benefit for one week after the disqualification ceases.

"At the factory."—The embargo upon benefits applies only to factories in which a strike or lock-out takes place.

Factories in which unemployment occurs as a consequence of a trade dispute elsewhere are not within the section, and workmen thrown out of employment in consequence are entitled to benefit.

"Continues."—When work is resumed any workman who is not taken back will be entitled to benefit.

(2) A workman who loses employment through misconduct or who voluntarily leaves his employment without just cause shall be disqualified for receiving unemployment benefit for a period of six weeks from the date when he so lost employment.

"Misconduct."—The ultimate authority to decide these questions is the Court of Referees [see note to s. 88 (1) (a), infra].

"Six weeks."—In effect seven weeks. See Seventh Schedule, and notes thereto.

(3) A workman shall be disqualified for receiving unemployment benefit whilst he is an inmate of any prison or any workhouse or other institution supported wholly or partly out of public funds, and whilst he is resident temporarily or permanently outside the United Kingdom.

"Disqualified."—See s. 86 (3), and note thereto.

"Resident."—Cf. s. 8 (4) and notes.

(4) A workman shall be disqualified for receiving unemployment benefit while he is in receipt of any sickness or disablement benefit or allowance under Part I. of this Act.

Determination of claims.

88.—(1) All claims^e for unemployment benefit under this Part of this Act, and all questions whether the statutory conditions are fulfilled in the case of any workman claiming such benefit, or whether those conditions continue to be fulfilled in the case of a workman in receipt of such benefit, or whether a workman is disqualified for receiving or continuing to receive such benefit, or otherwise arising in connection with such claims, shall be determined by one of the officers appointed under this Part of this Act for determining such claims for benefit (in this Act referred to as "insurance officers") :

Provided that—

- (a) in any case where unemployment benefit is refused or is stopped, or where the amount of the benefit allowed is not in accordance with the claim, the workman may require the insurance officer to report the matter to a court of referees constituted in accordance with this Part of this Act, and the court of referees after considering the circumstances may make to the insurance officer such recommendations on the case as they may think proper, and the insurance officer shall, unless he disagrees, give effect to those recommendations. If the insurance officer disagrees with any such recommendation, he shall, if so requested by the court of referees, refer the recommendation, with his reasons for disagreement, to the umpire appointed under this Part of this Act, whose decision shall be final and conclusive ;

- (b) the insurance officer in any case in which he considers it expedient to do so may, instead of himself determining the claim or question, refer it to a court of referees, who shall in such case determine the question, and the decision of the court of referees shall be final and conclusive. s. 88 (1)

"Referees."—See s. 90.

"Final and conclusive."—On the question whether the decision of the umpire is always conclusive of the question whether or no a workman is a workman in an insured trade, see s. 91 (1) (b), and notes thereto. Contributions from the employer can only be enforced by conviction by a court of summary jurisdiction under s. 101 (2), q. 71.

Section 88 constitutes a court of referees as a court of appeal from the decision of an insurance officer, who is himself a person with judicial duties. Further appeal lies only at the instance of the insurance officer, and there is no appeal when the referees and insurance officer agree. The insurance officer cannot appeal from the decision of the court of referees when he has himself referred the matter to them. The Board of Trade are to regulate the procedure and appeal under s. 91 (1) (b), (c), (d).

The intention of the Act would appear to be that the umpire should be appealed to only on questions of law, and for the purpose of co-ordinating the decisions of various local courts.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing an insurance officer or umpire, or a court of referees, on new facts being brought to his or their knowledge, revising a decision or recommendation given in any particular case, but, where any such revision is made, the revised decision or recommendation shall have effect as if it had been an original decision or recommendation, and the foregoing provisions of this section shall apply accordingly, without prejudice to the retention of any benefit which may have been received under the decision or recommendation which has been revised.

(3) The Arbitration Act, 1889, shall not apply to proceedings under this section except so far as it

s. 88(3) may be applied by regulations under this Part of this Act.

(4) For the purposes of proceedings under this section in Ireland regulations may apply all or any of the provisions of the Common Law Procedure (Ireland) Act, 1856, with respect to arbitration.

Subsection (3) is not repeated in ss. 91 and 101, to which it may, therefore, be presumed that the Arbitration Act will apply except in so far as it is inconsistent with the regulations made under those sections. See notes to ss. 63 (5) and 66.

Appointment of umpire, insurance officers, inspectors,
&c.

89.—(1) For the purposes of this Part of this Act, an umpire may be appointed by His Majesty, and insurance officers shall be appointed by the Board of Trade (subject to the consent of the Treasury as to number) and the insurance officers shall be appointed to act for such areas as the Board direct.

(2) The Board of Trade may appoint such other officers, inspectors, and servants for the purposes of this Part of this Act as the Board may, with the sanction of the Treasury, determine, and there shall be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament to the umpire and insurance officers and to such other officers, inspectors, and servants, such salaries or remuneration as the Treasury may determine; and any expenses incurred by the Board of Trade in carrying this Part of this Act into effect to such amount as may be sanctioned by the Treasury shall be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament:

Provided that such sum as the Treasury may direct, not exceeding one-tenth of the receipts, other than advances by the Treasury, paid into the unemployment fund on income account shall, in accordance with regulations made by the Treasury, be applied as an appropriation in aid of money provided by Parliament for the purpose of such salaries, remuneration, and expenses. S. 89(2)

"In carrying this Part of this Act into effect."—The cost of printing cards and the like can be defrayed under this section; and since the Act does not require workmen to make any payment for their cards it is submitted that the cost must be so paid.

Payment of referees is to be borne by the Treasury under this head, s. 90 (5).

"One-tenth of these receipts."—The maximum appropriation of one-tenth amounts to $\frac{1}{2}d.$ in each weekly contribution, leaving $6d.$ available for benefit. Having regard to the fact that benefit is not payable for the first week of unemployment, the contribution will, therefore, suffice to provide for an average unemployment rate of 8.46 per cent.

This section is in fact a statutory undertaking by the Board of Trade to manage the scheme at a cost not exceeding $\frac{1}{2}d.$ per head per week.

90.—(1) A court of referees for the purposes of this Part of this Act shall consist of one or more members chosen to represent employers, with an equal number of members chosen to represent workmen, and a chairman appointed by the Board of Trade. Courts of referees.

(2) Panels of persons chosen to represent employers and workmen respectively shall be constituted by the Board of Trade for such districts and such trades or groups of trades as the Board may think fit, and the members of a court of referees to be chosen to represent employers and workmen shall be selected from those panels in the prescribed manner.

(3) Subject as aforesaid, the constitution of courts of referees shall be determined by regulations made by the Board of Trade:

See Appendix VI B, 20–21, pp. 658–60.

(4) The regulations of the Board of Trade may further provide for the reference to referees chosen from the panels constituted under this section, for consideration and advice, of questions bearing upon

- s. 90(4) the administration of this Part of this Act, and for the holding of meetings of referees for the purpose.

— “Consideration and advice.”—Subsection (4) provides an elastic advisory committee to assist the Board of Trade, exercising similar function to the committee set up under s. 58, q.v. See Appendix X—2, 22.

(5) The Board of Trade may pay such remuneration to the chairman and other members of a court of referees and such travelling and other allowances (including compensation for loss of time) to persons required to attend before any such court, and such other expenses in connection with any referees, as the Board, with the sanction of the Treasury determine, and any such payments shall be treated as expenses incurred by the Board of Trade in carrying this Part of this Act into effect.

Regulations.

91.—(1) The Board of Trade may make regulations for any of the purposes for which regulations may be made under this Part of this Act and the Schedules therein referred to, and for prescribing anything which under this Part of this Act or any such Schedules is to be prescribed, and—

- (a) for permitting workmen who are employed under the same employer partly in an insured trade and partly not in an insured trade to be treated with the consent of the employer as if they were wholly employed in an insured trade; and
- (b) for giving employers, and workmen, and the Board of Trade an opportunity of obtaining a decision by the umpire appointed under this Part of this Act on any question whether contributions under this Part of this Act are payable in respect of any workman or class of workmen, and for securing that a workman in whose case contributions have been paid in accordance with any such decision, shall, as respects any unemployment benefit payable in respect of those contributions, be treated as a workman employed in an insured trade, and for securing that employers and workmen shall be protected from proceedings and penalties in cases where, in accordance with any such decision, they have been paid or refrained from paying contributions; and

(b)

“Regulations.”—See Appendix X—2.

“Workman.”—See s. 107 (1). The jurisdiction of the umpire exists only when the employee is a “workman,” and whether he is so or no it is not within the province of the umpire to decide.

“Decision by the umpire.”—See the Umpire Regulations, Appendix X—1. It is to be observed that the Statute provides no machinery for compelling an employer to obtain or abide by a decision of the umpire as to whether contributions are payable in respect of any workman or class of workmen. The employer can only be compelled to contribute in respect of any workman by proceedings under s. 101 (2), q.v.; and it will always be open to him to decline to seek a decision by the umpire until the question is referred to him by the court. See s. 101 (6), under which the court must refer the matter. On the other hand, should the employer decide to take the opinion of the umpire, he is apparently protected by the above subsection from proceedings under s. 101 (2) when the umpire decides in his favour. If, however, the decision of the umpire is adverse to the employer it may not be necessarily conclusive, notwithstanding s. 101 (6), and the provision for protecting the interests of employers and workmen acting in accordance with any decision of the umpire clearly recognises that the umpire may be held to be wrong in law. The decision of the umpire is no doubt conclusive against the employer so far as it relates to a question of fact. In a case arising under section 7, subsection (3) of the Education Act, 1902 (2 Edw. 7, c. 42), which provides that:—

“If any question arises under this section between the local education authority and the managers of a school not provided by the authority, the question shall be determined by the Board of Education.”

Channel, J., in Wilford v. West Riding [(1908) 1 K.B. 685, at p. 700], interpreted the effect of that section as follows:—

“I think the words ‘If any question arises under this section

S. 91 (1) really mean 'any question of facts arising under this section,' and do not cover the enforcement of the obligations of the section. The enforcement of obedience to the law must, as it seems to me, always rest with the tribunals of the country, although it is not uncommon in modern legislation to depute to some person or body assumed to be skilled in the matter the sole power of deciding matters necessary to be decided in applying the law. In such cases the Courts always strictly confine the person so deputed to the limits of his jurisdiction."

On the other hand, in the case of Board of Education v. Rice (1911), A.C. 179, Lord Loreburn said: "The Board have of course no jurisdiction to decide abstract questions of law, but only to determine actual concrete differences that may arise, and as they arise, between the managers and the local educational authority. The Board is in the nature of an arbitral tribunal, and a court of law has no jurisdiction to hear appeals from the determination either upon law or upon fact."

So far, therefore, as the decision of the umpire relates to a matter of law, it may be liable to review by the Courts before any penalty can be enforced against the employer in a criminal proceeding. The Board of Trade [see s. 101 (3)], when taking proceedings for a penalty, cannot allege that the matter is res judicata.

"The maxim of the civil law, 'res judicata pro veritate accipitur,' applied only when the identical question, which had been once judicially decided, was again raised between the same parties—the rule laid down in the Digest, lib. XLIV., t. 2, s. 3, being 'exceptionem rei judicate ob stare, quoties eadem questio inter easdem personas revocatur.' This plea, therefore, is exactly analogous to a plea in the English Courts of 'judgment recovered'; in which it is necessary, in order to make the judgment operate as an estoppel, that it should be between the same parties and upon the same subject matter coming directly in question, either in the same Court, or in another Court of co-ordinate jurisdiction" (per Lord Chelmsford in the Leith Harbour Commissioners v. Inspector of the Poor, L.R. 1 H.L., &c. 17, at p. 22).

It would appear, therefore, that the decision of the umpire may not be binding upon the Court in a proceeding such as a proceeding under s. 101 of the Statute, so far, at least, as the decision of the umpire relates to a question of law.

It is to be observed that subs. (3) of c. 88 is not repeated in this section. As to the application of the Arbitration Act, 1889, to the proceedings before the umpire under this paragraph, see s. 101 (6), and note thereon.

See Appendix X—2, 10-13.

The intention of this paragraph is clearly to require the attendance of workmen receiving unemployment benefit at Labour Exchanges at stated hours. Members of Trade Unions in insured trades who receive benefits from their unions under s. 105, may be required by the Board of Trade to attend at Labour Exchanges as a condition of the statutory refund to their unions ; and insured workmen who draw benefit through the Post Office may likewise be required to attend at the Labour Exchange in order to satisfy the statutory condition that they are unable to obtain suitable employment [s. 86 (3)].

The Board of Trade cannot, under the powers conferred by this paragraph, require the attendance of a workman not in an insured trade, although he receives State aided unemployed pay under s. 106, q.v. since such payments are not "unemployment benefit" within the meaning of the Act, s. 84.

(d) for prescribing the manner in which claims for unemployment benefit may be made and the procedure to be followed on the consideration and examination of claims and questions to be considered and determined by the insurance officers, courts of referees, and umpire, and the mode in which any question may be raised as to the continuance, in the case of a workman in receipt of unemployment benefit, of such benefit, and for making provision with respect to the appointment of a deputy umpire in the case of the unavoidable absence or incapacity of the umpire ; and

(e) with respect to the payment of contributions and benefits during any period intervening between any application for the decision of any question or any claim for benefit, and the final determination of the question or claim ; and

"During any period intervening."—Benefits so paid may be recovered back under s. 101 (5) if it should be found that the recipient

S. 91 (1) was not entitled thereto. There is, however, no provision requiring the Board of Trade to take steps to recover such overpayments, and regulations under this paragraph may presumably provide that such payments should not be recovered. Cf. s. 88 (2). See Appendix X—2, 13.

(f) for providing that, where any workmen are employed in or for the purposes of the business of any person, but are not actually employed by that person, that person may be treated for the purposes of this Part of this Act as their employer instead of their actual employer, and for allowing that person to deduct from any payments made by him to the actual employer any sums paid by him as contributions on behalf of the workmen, and for allowing the actual employer to recover the like sums from the workmen ; and

"For the purposes of the business."—Cf. the Third Schedule (6). Under this paragraph the chief employer of a chargeman's gang or the like may be made responsible for the contributions of each member. It is to be noted that this paragraph, unlike the corresponding paragraph of Part I, will apply to an out-worker though not himself directly employed by the head of the business in which he works. See Appendix X—2, 36.

generally for carrying this Part of this Act into effect, and any regulations so made shall have effect as if enacted in this Act.

Any regulations made under this section for giving an opportunity of obtaining a decision of the umpire may be brought into operation as soon as may be after the passing of this Act.

(2) The regulations may, with the concurrence of the Postmaster-General, provide for enabling claimants of unemployment benefit to make their claims for unemployment benefit under this Act through the Post Office, and for the payment of unemployment benefit through the Post Office. S. 91 (2)

(3) All regulations made under this section shall be laid before each House of Parliament as soon as may be after they are made, and, if an address is presented to His Majesty by either House of Parliament within the next subsequent forty days on which that House has sat next after any such regulation is laid before it, praying that the regulation may be annulled, it shall thenceforth be void, but without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done thereunder, or to the making of any new regulation.

The provisions herein contained as to regulations are similar to the provisions already existing as to the Code of Regulations prepared by the Board of Education for elementary schools, 33 & 34 Vict. cap. 75, s. 97.

“Previously done.”—See note to s. 83, supra.

92.—(1) For the purposes of this Part of this Act there shall be established under the control and management of the Board of Trade a fund called the unemployment fund, into which shall be paid all contributions payable under this Part of this Act by employers and workmen and out of moneys provided by Parliament, and out of which shall be paid all claims for unemployment benefit and any other payments which under this Part of this Act are payable out of the fund. Unemployment fund.

(2) The accounts of the unemployment fund shall be audited in such manner as the Treasury may direct.

(3) Any moneys forming part of the unemployment fund may from time to time be paid over to the National Debt Commissioners and by them invested

S. 92 (3) in accordance with regulations made by the Treasury in any securities which are for the time being authorised by Parliament as investments for savings banks moneys.

(4) The National Debt Commissioners shall present to Parliament annually an account of the securities in which moneys forming part of the said fund are for the time being invested.

"Unemployment fund."—The fund set up by this section is not comparable in amount with the National Health Fund, as all that is required is a sufficient reserve made up in years of good trade to tide through a period of depression with the help of Treasury advances under the succeeding section. There is no provision in the nature of reserve values for the increase of unemployment among the older members of the fund.

"All claims."—Assuming that the maximum appropriation of one-tenth of the receipts [s. 89 (2)], i.e. $\frac{3}{4}d.$ per week per man, is made for the cost of management, the sum available for benefit is $6d.$ per workman per week, of which $\frac{1}{2}d.$ represents the employer's contribution, $\frac{1}{4}d.$ the workman's, and $\frac{1}{4}d.$ the State's; the State also bearing the cost of administration.

Of the $7s.$ benefit, therefore, $2s. 11d.$ represents the workman's contribution, $2s. 11d.$ the employer's, and $1s. 2d.$ the State's, and these proportions cannot be affected by any revision of the rates of contribution.

Without allowing for the saving to the fund through a certain number of members exhausting their right to benefit, it is clear that the fund must be solvent so long as the average unemployment rate is less than 8·6 per cent.

Treasury
advances

93.—(1) The Treasury may out of the Consolidated Fund or the growing produce thereof advance on the security of the unemployment fund any sums required for the purpose of discharging the liabilities of that fund under this Part of this Act: Provided that the total amount of advances outstanding at any time shall not exceed three million pounds.

(2) If, whilst any part of any such advance is outstanding, it appears to the Treasury that the unemployment fund is insolvent, the Board of Trade shall, if the Treasury so direct, by order, make such temporary modifications in any of the rates of contribution, or the rates or periods of unemployment benefit, and during such period, as the Board of Trade think fit, and as will on the whole, in the opinion of the Treasury, be sufficient to secure the solvency of the unemployment fund :

Provided that no order made under this subsection shall reduce the weekly rate of unemployment benefit below the sum of five shillings, or shall increase the rates of contribution from employers or workmen by more than one penny per workman per week, or increase those rates unequally as between employers and workmen, and no such order shall remain in force more than three months after all the advances and interest thereon have been repaid, or come into force until one month after it is made.

"Insolvent."—This subsection clearly refers, not to actuarial insolvency, which is provided for by s. 102, q.v., but to temporary insolvency owing to a period of distress. It is clear that although the rates of contribution may be really adequate to meet the cost of benefits, there may yet be a deficit at the close of a year of bad trade. Such a deficit may arise even after a revision of rates under s. 102, and the two sections should be regarded as cumulative in their operation.

"By order."—This is not a special order under s. 113, but must comply with the provisions of subs. (4) hereof. Cf. s. 78.

"In any of."—The meaning of the section is clearly "in any of the rates of contribution, or in any of the rates or periods of unemployment benefit."

Cf. the first paragraph of the Seventh Schedule "such other rates as may be prescribed . . . for any particular trade."

(3) An order under this section shall not be made so as to be in force at any time while any previous order made under this section is in force.

"Any previous order."—This does not refer to a special order under s. 102.

- S. 93 (4) (4) On any such order being made the Board of Trade shall cause the order, together with a special report as to the reasons for making the order, to be laid before Parliament.

Cf. s. 113 and the Ninth Schedule, which apply to "special orders" only.

(5) The Treasury may, for the purpose of providing for the issue of sums out of the Consolidated Fund under this section, or for the repayment to that fund of all or any part of the sums so issued, or for paying off any security issued under this section, so far as that payment is not otherwise provided for, borrow money by means of the issue of Exchequer bonds or Treasury bills, and all sums so borrowed shall be paid into the Exchequer.

(6) The principal of and interest on any Exchequer bonds issued under this section shall be charged on and payable out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom, or the growing produce thereof.

(7) Notwithstanding anything in any other Act, money in the hands of the National Debt Commissioners for the reduction of the National Debt shall not be applied to purchasing, reducing, or paying off any Exchequer bonds or Treasury bills issued under this section.

94.—(1) The Board of Trade shall, on the application of any employer made within one month after the termination of any calendar year, or other prescribed period of twelve months, refund to such employer out of the unemployment fund a sum equal to one-third of the contributions (exclusive of any contributions refunded to him under any other provisions of this Part of this Act) paid by him on his own behalf during that period in respect of any workman who has been continuously in his service through the period, and in respect of whom not less than forty-five contributions have been paid during the period. S. 84(1)

"Prescribed period."—See Appendix X—2, 23.

"Continuously in his service."—This section does not require that the workman should have been at work in every week of the year. It is sufficient that forty-five weeks' contributions have been paid. If, however, the workman has been out of work whether through sickness or slackness of trade a question will necessarily arise whether he has been in the service of the employer. There are a number of decisions on the words of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1897,¹ "period during which he has been in the employment of the same employer."

In the case of Jones v. Ocean Coal Coy.,² A. L. Smith, L.J., said, "I think there must be continuous employment during the twelve months to bring a workman within that provision; that is, a continuous relationship of master and servant."

Vaughan Williams, L.J., adds: "But must the employment be continuous during the whole twelve months (or lesser period) without any break in point of time? For myself I should say obviously not; it is impossible to find any employment as to which it would be literally true to say that there had been no break in point of time. The question is substantially whether the relation of master and servant existed during the whole of the period under consideration. . . . The real question is whether there has been any break in that relation. To answer that question we may put this test: Are the facts such that we can assume that the workman, if called upon to work, will do so, or that the employer, if asked to give employment, will allow the man to work? If there is a period of time during which that could not be truly assumed then the relation of master and servant will have come to an end."³

In that case the Court of Appeal held that a strike had broken the continuity of employment. So also in the case of Appleby v. Horseley Coy.,⁴ it was held that a period of eleven months' sickness followed by employment in a different capacity was a break in employment. A. L. Smith, L.J., said: "The relationship of master and servant cannot properly be said to have existed during that period."⁵

It may therefore be presumed that temporary unemployment due to sickness, slack trade or holidays is no interruption of continuous service within the meaning of this section. On the other hand, the service will clearly have been interrupted if the workman has accepted employment under another master for any period, however short.

S. 94 (2) made under the foregoing provisions of this section, or for the purpose of making provision for any period which may elapse between the date on which contributions commence to be payable under this Part of this Act and the date on which the first period for the refund of contributions under the foregoing provisions of this section commences, the Board of Trade may, so far as necessary for the purpose, apply the provisions of this section to any period less than twelve months, subject to such proportionate reduction of the number of contributions required as they direct, and this section shall take effect as regards any such period of less than twelve months as so applied.

Repayment of part of contributions by workmen in certain cases.

95.—(1) If it is shown to the satisfaction of the Board of Trade by any workman or his personal representatives that the workman has paid contributions in accordance with the provisions of this Part of this Act in respect of five hundred weeks or upwards, and that the workman has reached the age of sixty, or before his death had reached the age of sixty, the workman or his representatives shall be entitled to be repaid the amount, if any, by which the total amount of such contributions have exceeded the total amount received by him out of the unemployment fund under this Act, together with compound interest at the rate of two and a half per cent. per annum calculated in the prescribed manner.

(2) A repayment to a workman under this section shall not affect his liability to pay contributions under this Part of this Act, and, if after any such repayment he becomes entitled to unemployment benefit, he shall be treated as having paid in respect of the period for which the repayment has been made the full number of contributions which is most nearly equal to five-eighths of the number of contributions actually paid during that period. S. 95 (2)

Having regard to the provision of this section, a workman who is entitled to withdraw a part of his contributions should consider very carefully whether it is advisable for him to do so, unless he has finally ceased to follow an insured trade. For every 29s. drawn by him at the age of sixty under subsection (1), he loses the right to unemployment benefit to the extent of £3 3s.

If, however, he has ceased to follow an insured trade for a period of five years, he will not be entitled to any further unemployment benefit until he has worked at the trade for a further period of twenty-six weeks [s. 86 (1)]. In that case, therefore, the motives for leaving the money in the fund at the interest of 2½ per cent. apply with less force.

96.—(1) If any employer satisfies the Board of Trade that during any period of depression in his business workmen employed by him have been systematically working short time, and that during such period he has paid contributions under this Part of this Act on behalf of such workmen, as well as on his own behalf, without recovering such contributions from such workmen either by way of deductions from wages or otherwise, there shall be refunded to him out of the unemployment fund, in accordance with regulations made by the Board of Trade, the contributions so paid by him in respect of those workmen (including those paid on behalf of the workmen as well as those paid on his own behalf), for the period or such part thereof as in the circumstances may seem just : Refund of contributions paid in respect of workmen working short time.

Provided that, except in a case where the working of short time has been effected by stopping the work for some day in the week which has been usually recognised as a working day of at least four hours in the trade and district, no such refund shall be made in respect of any workmen for any week in which the

s. 96 (1) hours of work have exceeded five-sixths of the number usually recognised as constituting a full week's work at that time in the trade and district.

(2) Any employer who desires to take advantage of this section may make an application to the Board of Trade with a view to obtaining their ruling as to the circumstances under which, and the means by which, he proposes to effect a reduction of working hours, and the Board of Trade may, if they think fit, on the necessary information being supplied, give their ruling as to whether the circumstances are such, and the proposed means of reducing working hours are such, as to satisfy the requirements of this section.

The Board of Trade is the sole authority on the subject of this section, and will presumably decide questions on grounds of expediency rather than of law, it being the obvious intention of the section that the Board should collaborate with employers to mitigate the effects of trade depression. It is therefore possible for the Board to bind itself in advance by promising a remission of contributions in particular cases.

"Workmen."—It is apparently unnecessary that all the workmen in the factory should be on short time, provided that the two conditions are satisfied that there is depression in the business and that the short time has been "systematic," i.e. based on a scheme for coping with the existing depression.

— “All or any of the duties.”—These duties include the purchase and affixing of stamps, but do not include the deduction of the workman's contribution from wages. It is no part of the employer's duty to make such deduction. Under section 85 (3), however, the employer may deduct “the amount of the contributions paid by him on behalf of the workman,” and contributions paid by the Labour Exchange on behalf of the employer are presumably contributions paid by the employer under s. 85 (3). But s. 85 (3) is clearly limited to the deduction of contributions actually paid. (See note to subs. 2 hereof.)

“On behalf of the employer.”—Qui facit per alium facit per se. Contributions paid by a Labour Exchange on behalf of an employer are for all purposes (except that of claiming a return of contributions) the contributions of the employer.

Cf. ss. 94 (1), 96 (1) and 107 (1).

(2) Where any such arrangement has been made, all the periods of employment during which a workman engaged through a labour exchange is employed by one or more employers with whom such an arrangement has been made, may, subject to regulations made by the Board of Trade, on the application of the workman, be treated for the purposes of his contributions under this Part of this Act as a continuous period of employment under one employer, and those regulations may provide for the refund of part of his contributions under this Part of this Act accordingly.

“The refund.”—So far as contributions under Part I of the Act are concerned there will be no overpayments and therefore no occasion to refund. But under Part II overpayment must arise.

It is clearly the duty of the Labour Exchange under sub-section (1) hereof to pay on the employer's behalf the contribution which the employer is liable under s. 85 (2) and the Eighth Schedule to pay, that is to say a contribution of 2*d.*, 4*d.*, or 5*d.*, according to the period of employment. Notwithstanding that a sum exceeding 5*d.* has already been paid during the week in respect of that workman, a further payment must be made upon his transfer to a new employer, since “every employer of any such workman” is liable to contribute under s. 85 (2).

The Labour Exchange must therefore refund to any workman who takes advantage of this subsection the amount overpaid, and must recover the sum so refunded out of the unemployment fund in such manner as may be provided.

Subsidiary provisions.

100.—(1) If the repeated failure of any insured workman to obtain or retain employment appears to the insurance officer to be wholly or partly due s. 100 (1) to defects in skill or knowledge, the insurance officer may, if he thinks fit, for the purpose of testing the skill or knowledge of the workman, offer to arrange for the attendance of the workman at a suitable place for the purpose, and may, out of the unemployment fund, pay all or any of the expenses incidental to such attendance.

If the workman fails or refuses either to avail himself of the offer, or to produce satisfactory evidence of his competence, or if as a result of the test the insurance officer considers that the skill or knowledge of the workman is defective, and that there is no reasonable prospect of such defects being remedied, such facts shall be taken into consideration in determining what is suitable employment for the workman.

If in any case as a result of the test the insurance officer considers that the skill or knowledge of the workman is defective, but that there is a reasonable prospect of the defects being remedied by technical instruction, the insurance officer may, subject to any directions given by the Board of Trade, pay out of the unemployment fund all or any of the expenses incidental to the provision of the instruction, if he is of opinion that the charge on the unemployment fund in respect of the workman is likely to be decreased by the provision of the instruction.

“What is suitable employment.”—The results of the test may lead the Insurance Officer and the Court of Referees to decide that less skilled work than the workman has done in the past is “suitable employment” for him under s. 86 (3), (e.g., that labourer’s work is suitable employment for a bricklayer), but if the wages offered or conditions of employment in the work so deemed suitable are on the whole less favourable than in the recent employment, the workman is still entitled to refuse such employment under proviso

S. 100 (1) (δ) to s. 86, unless the Court should decide that the conditions which he "would have obtained had he continued to be so employed" (i.e. in his usual employment in that district) are the conditions of the less skilled trade.

It is submitted that apart from express provision in the Act the Court cannot so hold, and that s. 100 (1) is therefore nugatory, unless the umpire should enable the Court so to hold by a decision which would be, superficially at least, in contradiction of the words of the Statute, though probably in accord with its intention.

"The charge on the unemployment fund."—This is a question purely for the discretion of the Insurance Officers.

(2) The Regulations of the Board of Trade made under this Part of this Act shall provide for the return to a workman who is not a workman in an insured trade and to his employer of any contributions paid by them respectively under the belief that the workman was a workman in an insured trade, subject, in the case of the workman's contributions, to the deduction of any amount received by him in respect of unemployment benefit under a similar belief.

Cf. ss. 91 (1) (e), 101 (5). See Appendix X—2, 31.

(3) Where under regulations made by the Board of Trade any sum has been paid out of the unemployment fund by way of reward for the return of a book or card which has been lost, the person responsible for the custody of the book or card at the time of its loss shall be liable to repay the sum so paid, not exceeding one shilling in respect of any one occasion.

See Appendix X—2, 7 (3) (4).

Offences and proceedings for recovery of contributions, &c.

101.—(1) If for the purpose of obtaining any benefit or payment under this Part of this Act, either for himself or for any other person, or for the purpose of avoiding any payment to be made by himself under this Part of this Act, or enabling any other person to avoid any such payment, any person knowingly makes any false statement or false representation, he shall be liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, with or without hard labour. s 101 (1)

"Imprisonment."—A court of summary jurisdiction may impose a fine not exceeding £25 instead of imprisonment, if the court thinks the justice of the case will be better met by a fine (Summary Jurisdiction Act, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 42, s. 4). In a case where imprisonment without the option of a fine is imposed, the defendant has a right of appeal to quarter sessions (ibid. s. 19). Cf. s. 69 (1).

(2) If any employer or workman has failed to pay any contributions which he is liable under this Part of this Act to pay, or if any employer or workman or any other person refuses or neglects to comply with any of the requirements of this Part of this Act, or the regulations made thereunder, he shall for each offence be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding ten pounds, and also, where the offence is failure or neglect to make any contribution under this Part of this Act, to pay to the unemployment fund a sum equal to three times the amount which he has refused or neglected to pay (not exceeding five pounds), which sum, when paid, shall be treated as a payment in satisfaction of the contributions which he has so refused or neglected to pay.

"Employer."—See s. 85 (3), s. 91 (1) (b).

"Or workman."—Though the employer is "in the first instance liable to pay both" contributions [s. 85 (3)], the workman is also ultimately liable [s. 85 (2)]. A workman who goes to a new employer for the first time in any week, and knowingly receives payment in full without calling his employer's attention to his unpaid contribution, is clearly liable to prosecution under this section if the employer has not in fact paid. Cf. s. 69 (2) where the words "or workman" do not occur.

(3) Proceedings under the foregoing provisions of this section shall not be instituted except by, or with the consent of, the Board of Trade, and may be

s. 101 (3) commenced at any time within three months of the date at which the offence comes to the knowledge of the Board of Trade.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing the Board of Trade from recovering any sums due to the unemployment fund by means of civil proceedings, and all such sums shall be recoverable in such proceedings as debts due to the Crown.

(5) If it is found at any time that a person has been in receipt of unemployment benefit under this Part of this Act whilst the statutory conditions were not fulfilled in his case, or whilst he was disqualified for receiving unemployment benefit, he shall be liable to repay to the unemployment fund any sums paid to him in respect of unemployment benefit whilst the statutory conditions were not fulfilled, or whilst he was disqualified for receiving the benefit, and the amount of such sums may be recovered as a debt due to the Crown.

Cf. ss. 71, 91 (1) (e), 100 (2).

(6) In any proceedings under this section, or in any proceedings involving any question as to the payment of contributions under this Part of this Act, or for the recovery of any sums due to the unemployment fund, the decision of the umpire appointed under this Part of this Act on any question arising, whether the trade in which the workman is or has been employed is an insured trade or not, shall be conclusive for the purpose of those proceedings, and, if no such decision has been obtained and the decision of the question is necessary for the determination of the proceedings, the question shall be referred, in accordance with the regulations made under this Part of this Act, to the umpire for the purpose of obtaining such a decision. s. 101 (6)

“Conclusive.”—Quære whether this section refers to a decision of fact only. Cf. Wilford v. West Riding C.C. (1908), 1 K.B., 685 and Board of Edn. v. Rice, 1911 A.C. 179, at p. 182, as to how far the Court can delegate the duty of determining a question of law. It must be borne in mind that the passage referred to in the latter case is obiter dictum, and that the former case was not cited in the House of Lords. See also s. 91 (1) and note thereto.

Quære also whether the Arbitration Act, 1889, applies to such a reference. By s. 24 of that Act it “shall apply to every arbitration under any Act passed before or after the commencement of this Act, as if the arbitration were pursuant to a submission, except in so far as this Act is inconsistent with the Act regulating the arbitration, or with any rules or procedure authorised or recognised by that Act.” What then is an arbitration? Vice-Chancellor Malins has said that “if there be a difference between the parties, then a reference to settle those differences is an arbitration” (in Thomson v. Anderson, L.R., 9 Eq. 523, at p. 531).

Clearly the procedure under this section is not unlike a compulsory reference to arbitration under the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, s. 3.

Now by s. 19 of the Arbitration Act, 1889, “any referee, arbitrator, or umpire may at any stage of the proceedings under a reference, and shall, if so directed by the Court or a judge, state in the form of a special case for the opinion of the Court, any question of law arising in the course of the reference.”

Under s. 88 (3), it is expressly provided that the Arbitration Act, 1889, shall not apply to proceedings under that section before the umpire or the Court of Referees. There is no such provision in s. 91 (1) (b) or in this section, and it would appear therefore that the Act applies except in so far as it may be barred by the regulations to be made under this Part of this Act (Tabernacle Permanent Building Society v. Knight, 1892, A.C. 298); and the umpire can accordingly be required to state a case on any question of law. See cf. Westminster v. Gordon Hotels, 1907, 1 K.B. 910. (See also the cases of Munday v. Norton, 1892, 1 Q.B. 403, Potter v. West of England Iron Co., 1894, 2 Q.B. 159, and Collins v. Collins, 26 Beavan 306; and see R.S.C., Order 36; Jud. Act, 1884, s. 8; Arbitration Act, 1894, s. 14.) Cf. ss. 63 (5) and 69 (2).

102.—If at any time after the expiration of seven years from the commencement of this Act it appears to the Board of Trade that the unemployment fund is insufficient or more than sufficient to discharge the liabilities imposed upon the fund under this Part of this Act, or that the rates of contribution are excessive or deficient as respects any particular revision of rates of

tion.

s. 102 — insured trade, or any particular branch of any such trade, the Board may, with the sanction of the Treasury, by special order made in manner hereinafter provided revise the rates of contribution of employers and workmen under this Part of this Act, and any such order may, if the Board think fit, prescribe different rates of contribution for different insured trades or branches thereof, and where any such order is made, the rates prescribed by the order shall as from such date as may be specified in the order be substituted as respects trades or branches thereof to which it relates for the rates prescribed by this Act :

Provided that where such a revision has been made no further revision under this section shall be made before the expiration of seven years from the last revision, and that no order under this section shall increase the rates of contribution from employers or workmen by more than one penny per workman per week above the rates specified in the Eighth Schedule to this Act, or shall vary such rates unequally as between employers and workmen.

“Seven years.”—Contributions cannot be varied under this section within seven years ; they can, however, be temporarily increased at any time at the instance of the Treasury under s. 93 (2), provided that the fund is insolvent at the time, and that there is a loan from the Treasury outstanding. The provision of this section is, however, intended to meet not temporary distress but actuarial insolvency, and is obviously required in view of the inadequate statistics as to unemployment available at the time of framing of the Act. If contributions and benefits do not balance, the Board of Trade may at any time vary the rate and conditions of benefit within the limits defined in the Seventh Schedule (see s. 84) ; but contributions cannot be reduced at all, or permanently increased, except under this section.

“Special order.”—See s. 113 and the Ninth Schedule.

“The rates prescribed shall be substituted.”—The variation in rates is a permanent one, unlike the variation under s. 93 (2).

“By more than one penny per week.”—The Board of Trade may increase the contributions permanently to 7*d.* a week for master and man. They cannot, however, make any further increase for another seven years. If the maximum increase possible under this section is inadequate to provide the benefits, recourse must be had to the powers of the Treasury under s. 93 (2), to reduce the benefits to 5*s.* per week.

It is submitted that where the Board of Trade has increased the contributions to 7*d.* per week, the Treasury on making a loan can require a further increase up to 9*d.*, the limit imposed by s. 93 being that "no order . . . shall increase the rates of contribution from employers or workmen by more than one penny per workman per week." The words appearing in s. 102, "above the rates specified in the Eighth Schedule to this Act," do not appear in s. 93. If, therefore, at the time of making any such temporary order, the rates had already been increased to 7*d.* for the joint contribution, it appears that a further temporary increase to 9*d.* is permissible. Under these circumstances the Treasury contribution becomes 3*d.*, and the total sum available 1*s.* per week. Since benefit can be drawn only for one week in respect of five weeks' contributions, it follows that there is power under the Act to secure that 5*s.* shall have been paid in in respect of each workman before he can draw a benefit whose statutory minimum is also 5*s.* Since the maximum Treasury loan of £3,000,000 will always be sufficient to cover administrative expenses through a long period of depression, it is inconceivable that the fund should ever be unequal to the payment of the minimum benefits.

The joint contributions of 2*d.* a day, payable under the Eighth Schedule in respect of short periods of employment cannot be increased under either s. 93 or s. 102, without infringing the statutory limit.

On the other hand, if the fund shows a large balance, contributions may be reduced under this section to any extent, or benefit may be increased by regulation under s. 91 (1) to 8*s.* a week, and by special order under s. 113, to an unlimited amount.

103.—If it appears to the Board that it is desirable to extend the provisions of this Part of this Act to workmen in any trade other than an insured trade, or to vary the definition of "workman" with respect to the age of the persons included therein, either generally or for any particular insured trade, or any particular branch of any such trade, the Board may, with the consent of the Treasury, make, in manner hereinafter provided, a special order extending this Part of this Act to such workmen or so varying the definition of "workman," as the case may be, either without modification or subject to such modifications extend to other trades.

- s. 102 — of rates of contribution or rates or periods of benefit as may be contained in the order, and, on any such order being made, this Part of this Act shall, subject to the modifications (if any) contained in the order, apply as if the trade mentioned in the order were an insured trade, or as if the definition of "workman" were varied in accordance with the order, as the case may be, and as if the rates of contribution and the rates and periods of benefit mentioned in the order were the rates of contribution and the rates and periods of benefit provided by this Part of this Act in respect of such trade.

"Desirable to extend."—It was clearly the intention of Parliament that unemployment insurance should ultimately be extended to all trades. See the speech of the Chancellor of the Exchequer in the House of Commons, May 4th, 1911.

"Modification of rates."—There is no limit to the rate of benefits which may be paid in a trade brought into insurance by such an order, except the proviso below as to the contributions from employers, workmen, and Parliament, q.v.

"As if the trade . . . were an insured trade."—This provision gives to the Treasury and to the Board of Trade the same power of varying the contributions as are given with respect to insured trades.

"Subject to the modifications (if any) contained in the Order."—There is no limit set to the modifications which may be made in this part of the Act by such an order. It is, however, submitted that since there are no express words in the Statute repealing the Bill of Rights (1 W. & M. see s. 2, c. 2), the Crown cannot hereunder increase the total burden of taxation, and therefore the Board of Trade cannot by any such order increase the Parliamentary contribution beyond one quarter of the whole cost [s. 85 (6)], nor extend the powers of varying the compulsory contributions of employers and workmen contained in ss. 93 (2) and 102. Quære if the Board can reduce the Parliamentary contribution for the purpose of keeping the whole grant within the limits set by the proviso hereto.

Provided that no such order shall be made if the person holding the inquiry in relation to the order reports that the order should not be made, or if the order would, in the opinion of the Treasury, increase the contribution to the unemployment fund out of moneys provided by Parliament to a sum exceeding one million pounds a year before the expiration of three years from the making of the order, and that the rates of contribution mentioned in the order shall not exceed the rates specified in the Eighth Schedule to this Act, and shall be imposed equally as between employers and workmen. s. 103

104.—The Board of Trade may, if in any case they consider that it is desirable, by special order exclude from the occupations which are to be deemed employment in an insured trade for the purpose of this Part of the Act—

of subsidiary occupations.

- (a) Any occupation which appears to them to be common to insured and uninsured trades alike, and ancillary only to the purposes of an insured trade ; and “Ancillary only.”—Under the Workmen’s Compensation Act, 1897 (60 & 61 Vict. c. 37, s. 4) an exception is made of “any work which is merely ancillary or incidental to, and is no part of or process in, the trade or business carried on by such undertakers.” In Pearce v. L. & S. W. Ry. (1900) 2 Q.B. 100, at p. 102, Collins, L.J., said: “I think it would be difficult to give a better illustration of what constitutes merely ancillary or incidental work as distinguished from the actual business carried on by the undertakers than that which is afforded by the present case. . . . The building of a station was not in my opinion a part of, or process in, the business which the company carried on.”

- (b) Any occupation which appears to them to be an occupation in a business which, though concerned with the making of parts or the preparation of materials for use in connection with an insured trade is mainly carried on as a separate business or in connection with trades other than insured trades ; and, on any such order being made, the occupation to which the order relates shall not be treated as

s. 104 employment in an insured trade for the purposes of this Part of this Act.

Any special order made under this section may be made so as to cover one or more occupations. The provisions of this Part of this Act as to the laying of regulations before Parliament and the presentation of an Address thereon shall apply to special orders made under this section.

"A separate business."—Precisely what is a separate business it is apparently left to the Board of Trade to decide. The Courts have, however, frequently construed the words "business carried on separately" in the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, s. 2. It has been held that although the husband may help (Re Edwards, 11 T.L.R. 338) "carried on separately" means "without the husband's interference" (Ashworth v. Outram, 46 L.J. Ch. 687).

It is submitted that a business separately managed is a separate business for the purpose of this paragraph.

Arrangements with associations of workmen in insured trade who make payments to members whilst unemployed.

105.—(1) The Board of Trade may, on the application of any association of workmen the rules of which provide for payments to its members, being workmen in an insured trade, or any class thereof, whilst unemployed, make an arrangement with such association that, in lieu of paying unemployment benefit under this Part of this Act to workmen who prove that they are members of the association there shall be repaid periodically to the association out of the unemployment fund such sum as appears to be, as nearly as may be, equivalent to the aggregate amount which such workmen would have received during that period by way of unemployment benefit under this Part of this Act if no such arrangement had been made, but in no case exceeding three-fourths of the amount of the payments made during that period by the association to such workmen as aforesaid whilst unemployed.

See Appendix X—2, 14–19.

"Out of the unemployment fund."—See s. 92 and note S. 105 (1) thereto. It is to be observed that the Board of Trade contribution to trade unions under s. 105 is paid out of a different fund and is quite independent of any contribution made by the Board under s. 106, q.v.

"Which such workmen would have received."—In order that a trade union paying unemployed benefits should be able to claim and refund under this section in respect of any member it must be able to show that he would have received benefit but for an arrangement made under this section, i.e., that he satisfied the conditions laid down in s. 86 and regulations made under s. 91 (1) (a) and (c), and was not disqualified under s. 87. The trade union must therefore take steps to secure that an insured member shall comply with all regulations as to claims, attendance at the Labour Exchange and the like, which may be made, and should if necessary amend its rules as to unemployment benefit for the purpose.

"In no case exceeding three-fourths."—The calculation is not to be based upon the amount paid in particular weeks, or to individual workmen, but upon the whole amount paid in respect of all qualified members, including the amounts paid while they were not qualified for benefit under the Act, e.g., during the first week of unemployment or after their right under the Act is exhausted. But probably only workmen who were qualified under the Act during some part of the period can be taken into account, and only the amounts which they would have drawn from the fund can be repaid. It will depend on the conditions prescribed by the Board of Trade whether a trade union paying this minimum benefit is entitled to draw one-sixth of the quarter paid out of its funds as a Parliamentary contribution under section 106.

"During that period."—These words occur twice in the paragraph, and in each case clearly refer back to the sentence "there shall be repaid periodically." It would appear, therefore, that a trade union settling accounts quarterly with the Board of Trade can claim in respect of an insured workman who has fulfilled the statutory conditions three-fourths of the payments made to him during the whole quarter (not being more than the benefits to which he is entitled under the Seventh Schedule, and the claim is not limited to three-fourths of the payments made during the period in which the workman's right to benefit continued. Thus if a trade union member falls out of employment a week before the commencement of the quarter, having twenty contributions to his credit, so that he is entitled to draw benefit under the Act for four weeks starting from the quarter day, a trade union which pays him 7s. a week for twelve weeks, starting from the first week of unemployment will be entitled to recover 28s. from the unemployment fund at the end of the quarter. If, however, the workman had one hundred contributions to his credit so that he might have drawn the whole 84s. from the unemployment fund, the trade union will be entitled to draw 63s. only in respect of him; and to get the whole 84s. must pay him benefits at a rate of not less than 9s. 4d. per week.

"Such workmen as aforesaid."—i.e., no doubt "workmen to whom benefit would otherwise have been paid under the Act," though

S. 105 (1) it might be taken to refer to any "workmen in an insured trade," even though not qualified for benefit under the Act at all.

(2) The council or other governing body of any association of workmen which has made such an arrangement as aforesaid shall be entitled to treat the contributions due from any of its members to the unemployment fund under this Part of this Act, or any part thereof, as if such contributions formed part of the subscriptions payable by those members to the association, and, notwithstanding anything in the rules of the association to the contrary, may reduce the rates of subscription of those members accordingly.

"May reduce the rates of subscription."—In estimating the gain to trade union funds under s. 105, it must be remembered that five-twelfths of the unemployment fund represents workmen's contributions, which trade unions may remit under this subsection; assuming therefore that no increased burden is laid upon the workman, the net gain to trade unions is 4s. 1d. in each 7s. of benefit, together with such further advantage as may be obtained under s. 106, q.v.

(3) For the purpose of determining whether a workman has exhausted his right to unemployment benefit under this Part of this Act, the amount of any sum which, but for this section, would have been paid to him by way of unemployment benefit shall be deemed to have been so paid.

(4) The Board of Trade may make regulations for giving effect to this section, and for referring to the umpire appointed under this Part of this Act any question which may arise under this section.

(5) The fact that persons other than workmen can be members of an association shall not prevent the association being treated as an association of workmen for the purposes of this section, if the association is substantially an association of workmen.

106.—(1) The Board of Trade may, with the consent of the Treasury, and on such conditions and either annually or at such other intervals as the Board may prescribe, repay out of moneys provided by Parliament to any association of persons not trading for profit the rules of which provide for payments to persons whilst unemployed, whether workmen in an insured trade or not, such part (in no case exceeding one-sixth) as they think fit, of the aggregate amount which the association has expended on such payments during the preceding year or other prescribed period, exclusive of the sum (if any) repaid to the association in respect of such period in pursuance of an arrangement under the last foregoing section, and exclusive in the case of payments which exceed twelve shillings a week of so much of those payments as exceeds that sum.

See Appendix X—2, 27–30.

“On such conditions.”—It is clearly necessary, in order to make the section consistent with s. 87, that one of the conditions should be that the grant shall not be paid in respect of strike pay.

“Out of moneys provided by Parliament.”—The unemployment fund is not in any way involved in the financing of this section, which must be regarded as a provision entirely distinct from the rest of the Statute.

“Exclusive of any sum repaid.”—This applies only to the sums actually repaid, and not to the expenditure in respect of which such sum was repaid under s. 105 (1), q.v. It is necessary under that section that a Trade Union should pay 9s. 4d. of benefit in order to receive 7s. from the unemployment fund. It can then, if the Board of Trade so arranges, recover also 4½d. out of general taxation under this section. The maximum sum recoverable in respect of one week's payment to any trade union member is 7s. 10d., which can be repaid to a Trade Union paying 12s. benefit to a workman in an insured trade; 5s. 9d. of this sum will represent clear gain to the Union if it remits a subscription equal to the workman's contribution under this Part of this Act.

(2) No repayment shall be made under this section in respect of any period before the expiration of six months from the commencement of this Act.

Cf. s. 8 (8) and s. 84.

man has not been employed for more than twenty-four hours, or two periods of unemployment of not less than one week each, separated by an interval of not more than six weeks, shall be treated as a continuous period of unemployment, and the expression "continuously unemployed" shall have a corresponding meaning ;

"Continuously unemployed."—See s. 86 (2) and the Seventh Schedule. The effect of this definition is that a workman who in a period of eight weeks is unemployed for two separate weeks can draw benefit in respect of the second week, and two days' work during a spell of unemployment has no effect whatever upon the benefits.

Temporary work provided by a central body or distress committee under the Unemployed Workmen Act, 1905, or towards the provision of which any such central body or distress committee has contributed under that Act, shall not be deemed to be employment in an insured trade ;

A workman shall not be deemed to be unemployed whilst he is following any remunerative occupation in an insured trade, or whilst he is following any other occupation from which he derives any remuneration or profit greater than that which he would derive from the receipt of unemployment benefit under this Part of this Act ;

"Remunerative occupation in an insured trade."—Work under a distress committee will not therefore deprive the workman of benefit unless he receives more than 7s. a week.

"Remuneration."—"Remuneration" means a quid pro quo. Whatever consideration a person gets for giving his services seems to me a 'Remuneration' for them. Consequently, if a person was in receipt of a payment or of a percentage, or any kind of payment which would not be an actual money payment, the amount he would receive annually in respect of this would be 'remuneration' (per Blackburn, J., in R. v. Postmaster-General, 1 Q.B.D. 658, at p. 664). It appears S. 107 (i) therefore that payment made primarily from charitable motives—as to a street singer—is not remuneration. Cf. the First Schedule, Part II (g), under s. 1 (2), and the Second Schedule, under s. 4 (1), and notes.

“Greater than that which he would derive.”—Some question is likely to arise as to the method of computing remuneration or profit for the purpose of this comparison. A workman may make larger profit in parts of several days by shovelling snow than by drawing unemployment benefit, and yet make less profit in a week. It is submitted that as the rate of benefit is throughout measured by the week, the week is the proper unit of comparison.

A workman shall not, for the purposes of contributions, be deemed to be employed in any period in respect of which he receives no remuneration from his employer, notwithstanding that he continues during such period in his employment ;

A workman is not in these circumstances to be deemed to be unemployed. There are no contributions and no benefits while such employment continues ; cf. case of a factory working short time during a period of distress, and see s. 94 and note thereto supra.

The provision will in fact apply to holidays without pay, during which it is clear that employment continues. See Jones v. Ocean Coal Coy. (1899), 2 Q.B. 124.

The expression “trade dispute” means any dispute between employers and workmen, or between workmen and workmen, which is connected with the employment or non-employment, or the terms of employment, or with the conditions of labour, of any persons, whether workmen in the employment of the employer with whom the dispute arises or not.

Cf. ss. 86, 87.

This definition is taken from the Trade Disputes Act, 1906. See note to s. 86 supra.

(2) In determining any question as to whether any trade in which a workman is or has been employed is an insured trade or not, regard shall be had to the

- s. 107 (2) nature of the work in which the workman is engaged — rather than to the business of the employer by whom he is employed.

Cf. notes to the Sixth Schedule under s. 83 supra.

(3) This Part of this Act shall apply to workmen employed by or under the Crown to whom this Act would apply if the employer were a private person, except to such of those workmen as are serving in an established capacity in the permanent service of the Crown, subject, however, to such modifications as may be made therein by Order in Council for the purpose of adapting the provisions of this Part of this Act to the case of such workmen.

See Appendix X—2, 37.

(4) If the Board of Trade are satisfied that any class of workmen are, having regard to their claim to pension or to the other terms of their service, in as permanent a position as that of persons serving in an established capacity in the permanent service of the Crown, the Board of Trade may exempt that class of persons from the provisions of this Part of this Act, and any persons so exempt shall not be deemed to be workmen.

“Shall not be deemed to be workmen.”—The umpire is nowhere given power to decide who is a workman, and will therefore have no jurisdiction to decide who falls within an exemption under this subsection

PART III

GENERAL

108.—Stamps required for the purposes of this Act shall be prepared and issued in such manner as the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, with the consent of the Treasury, may direct, and the said Commissioners may, by regulations in accordance with the provisions of Part I of this Act relating to regulations by the Insurance Commissioners, provide for applying, with the necessary adaptations, as respects such stamps, all or any of the provisions (including penal provisions) of the Stamp Duties Management Act, 1891, as amended by any subsequent Act, and section sixty-five of the Post Office Act, 1908, and may with the consent of the Postmaster-General provide for the sale of such stamps through the Post Office.

Provisions
stamps.

“The Stamp Duties Management Act, 1891” (54 & 55 Vict. c. 38), as amended by The Revenue Act, 1898 (61 and 62 Vict. c. 46, ss. 9–13), provides for the sale of stamps and for the repurchase of and allowance for unused stamps, within a period of two years, and for penalising frauds connected with stamps.

109.—In granting outdoor relief to a person in receipt of or entitled to receive any benefit under this Act, a board of guardians shall not take into consideration any such benefit, except so far as such benefit exceeds five shillings a week.

Outdoor relief.

“Outdoor relief.”—This is precisely the same provision as is already made for out-relief in the case of members of Friendly Societies See 57 & 58 Vict. c. 25, s. 1 ; 4 Edw. 7, c. 32, s. 1.

S. 109 — As to out-relief generally, see the Poor Law Orders, and particularly the General Consolidated Order of 1847.

Priority of claims for contributions due by bankrupt employers.

110.—(1) There shall be included among the debts which, under section one of the Preferential Payments in Bankruptcy Act, 1888, and section two hundred and nine of the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, are, in the distribution of the property of a bankrupt and in the distribution of the assets of a company being wound up, to be paid in priority to all other debts, all contributions payable under this Act by the bankrupt or the company in respect of employed contributors or workmen in an insured trade during the four months before the date of the receiving order, or, as the case may be, the commencement of the winding up or the winding-up order, and those Acts shall have effect accordingly, and formal proof of the debts to which priority is given under this section shall not be required except in cases where it may otherwise be provided by rules made under the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, or the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908.

"Debts . . . to be paid in priority."—The other such debts are rates and taxes for twelve months last past, wages or salary of any clerk or servant for four months and up to £50, wages of any labourer or workman for two months and up to £25, and sums due under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906 [51 & 52 Vict. c. 62, s. 1 (1); 6 Edw. 7, c. 58, s. 5 (3); 8 Edw. 7, c. 69, s. 209 (1)]. These debts rank equally among themselves, and are entitled to be paid in full in priority to all other debts [51 & 52 Vict. c. 62, s. 1 (2); 8 Edw. 7, c. 69, s. 209 (2)].

(2) In the case of the winding up of a company within the meaning of the Stannaries Act, 1887, such contributions as aforesaid shall, if payable in respect of a miner, have the like priority as is conferred on wages of miners by section nine of that Act, and that section shall have effect accordingly.

A company within the Stannaries Act, 1887.—i.e. S. 110 (2) any persons or partnership body, joint stock company, etc., engaged in or formed for working mines within the stannaries of Cornwall and Devon (50 & 51 Vict. c. 43, s. 2).

“Priority conferred on miners.”—See s. 4 of that Act. The privilege conferred is subject in the case of a limited company to the claims of clerks, servants and labourers under the Companies Acts.
set out in the note of subs. (1) hereof.

(3) This section shall not apply where a company is wound up voluntarily merely for the purposes of reconstruction or of amalgamation with another company.

(4) In the application of this section to Scotland, a reference to section three of the Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act, 1875, and the respective dates therein mentioned shall be substituted for the reference to section one of the Preferential Payments in Bankruptcy Act, 1888, and the date of the receiving order; and an Act of Sederunt under the Bankruptcy Amendment (Scotland) Act, 1856, shall be substituted for rules under the Bankruptcy Act, 1883.

(5) In the application of this section to Ireland a reference to section four of the Preferential Payments in Bankruptcy (Ireland) Act, 1889, shall be substituted for the reference to section one of the Preferential Payments in Bankruptcy Act, 1888; and a reference to general orders made under the first-mentioned Act shall be substituted for the reference to rules made under the Bankruptcy Act, 1883; and any reference to a bankrupt shall include a reference to an arranging debtor; and the reference to the receiving order shall be construed as a reference to the order of adjudication in the case of a bankrupt, or to the filing of the petition for arrangement in the case of an arranging debtor.

s. 110 (5) 111.—Every assignment of, or charge on, and every agreement to assign or charge, any of the benefits conferred by this Act shall be void, and, on the bankruptcy of any person entitled to any such benefit, the benefit shall not pass to any trustee or other person acting on behalf of his creditors

Benefits to

inspectors

112.—(1) An inspector appointed under this Act shall, for the purposes of the execution of this Act, have power to do all or any of the following things, namely :—

- (a) to enter at all reasonable times any premises or place, other than a private dwelling-house not being a workshop, where he has reasonable grounds for supposing that any employed contributors or workmen in an insured trade are employed ;
- (b) to make such examination and inquiry as may be necessary for ascertaining whether the provisions of this Act are complied with in any such premises or place ;
- (c) to examine, either alone or in the presence of any other person, as he thinks fit, with respect to any matters under this Act, every person whom he finds in any such premises or place, or whom he has reasonable cause to believe to be or to have been an employed contributor or workman in an insured trade, and to require every such person to be so examined, and to sign a declaration of the truth of the matters in respect of which he is so examined ;

- (d) to exercise such other powers as may be s. 112 (1) necessary for carrying this Act into ^(c) effect.

"Private Dwelling House."—A farm house is undoubtedly a private dwelling house. Quare, as to an hotel. Water supplied to an hotel is a supply for domestic purposes within the Metropolitan Water Act (Metropolitan Water Board v. Avery, 108 L.T. 602), but that fact is far from conclusive. Probably the private apartments of guests are privileged but not the kitchens, &c., of an hotel.

"Appointed under this Act."—Including a Home Office or other Government inspector acting under this Act. See subs. (4) hereof. See ss. 57 (3), 89 (2). As to powers of inspectors in relation to Friendly Societies, see s. 57 (5), and note thereto.

(2) The occupier of any such premises or place and any other person employing any employed contributor or workman in an insured trade, and the servants and agents of any such occupier or other person, and any employed contributor or workman in an insured trade shall furnish to any inspector all such information and shall produce for inspection all such registers, books, cards, and other documents as the inspector may reasonably require.

(3) If any person wilfully delays or obstructs an inspector in the exercise of any power under this section or fails to give such information or to produce such documents as aforesaid, or conceals or prevents or attempts to conceal or prevent any person from appearing before or being examined by an inspector, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds:

Provided that no one shall be required under this section to answer any question or give any evidence tending to incriminate himself.

The foregoing subsections, except for the exemption of a private dwelling-house, are taken almost literally from s. 119 of the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901.

(4) Where any such premises or place are

- s. 112 (3) liable to be inspected by inspectors or other officers, or are under the control, of some other Government department, the Insurance Commissioners or Board of Trade may make arrangements with that other Government department for any of the powers and duties of inspectors under this section being carried out by inspectors or other officers of such other Government department, and, where such an arrangement is made, such inspectors and officers shall have all the powers of an inspector under this section.

"Inspectors of some other Government Department."

—The Home Office has power to inspect under the Coal Mines Regulation Acts, the Factory Acts, the Employment of Children Act, 1903, and a variety of other Acts.

The inspectors acting under these Acts have power to undertake the duties of inspection under the present Statute and also under the Truck Acts, the Elementary Education Acts, etc.

The Board of Trade has powers of inspection under the Railway Employment Act, 1900; and their inspectors under the Weights and Measures Act, 1878, have power to visit various coal mines, shops, etc. It is, however, submitted that as the duty of these latter inspectors is not to inspect the "premises or place," but only the weights and measures there used, this subsection does not apply to them.

The Board of Trade also appoints under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, inspectors (ss. 728-730), and medical inspectors (ss. 202-205), while all the superintendents and officers of the Board have wide powers of inspection of ships under s. 723.

(5) Every inspector shall be furnished with the prescribed certificate of his appointment, and on applying for admission to any premises for the purposes of this Act shall, if so required, produce the said certificate to the occupier.

"Certificate."—See s. 57 (4).

"Appointment."—See s. 57 (3), s. 89 (2).

113.—(1) Sections eighty and eighty-one of the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901, relating to the making of regulations under that Act, as set out and adapted in the Ninth Schedule to this Act, shall apply to special orders made under this Act.

(2) Before a special order (other than a special S. 113 (1) order excluding any occupation from the occupations which are to be deemed employment in an insured trade) comes into force, it shall be laid before each House of Parliament for a period of not less than thirty days during which the House is sitting, and, if either of those Houses before the expiration of those thirty days presents an address to His Majesty against the order or any part thereof, no further proceedings shall be taken thereon, without prejudice to the making of any new order.

Procedure for making special orders.

"Special Order."—As to revocation or amendment of such an order see s. 40 (1) of 1913, p. 303. For draft orders see Appendix III.—B, p. 826. In cases of urgency the Joint Committee have taken power to make provisional orders under this section to come into force at once. See Appendix III.—A, 25, p. 824.

But as to Special Orders made under s. 19 of the Act of 1913, see that section supra, under s. 65.

NINTH SCHEDULE.

PROVISIONS OF THE FACTORY AND WORKSHOP ACT, 1901, APPLIED TO SPECIAL ORDERS MADE UNDER THIS ACT.

80.—(1) Before the authority empowered to make special orders make any special order under this Act, they shall publish, in such manner as they may think best adapted for informing persons affected, notice of the proposal to make the order, and of the place where copies of the draft order may be obtained, and of the time (which shall be not less than twenty-one days) within which any objection made with respect to the draft order by or on behalf of persons affected must be sent to the authority.

(2) Every objection must be in writing and state—

- (a) the draft order or portions of draft order objected to ;
- (b) the specific grounds of objection ; and
- (c) the omissions, additions, or modifications asked for.

(3) The authority shall consider any objection made by or on behalf of any persons appearing to them to be affected which is sent to them within the required time, and they may, if they

S. 113 (2) think fit, amend the draft order, and shall then cause the amended draft to be dealt with in like manner as an original draft.

(4) Where the authority does not amend or withdraw any draft order to which any objection has been made, then (unless the objection either is withdrawn or appears to them to be frivolous) they shall, before making the order, direct an inquiry to be held in the manner hereinafter provided.

81.—(1) The authority may appoint a competent and impartial person to hold an inquiry with regard to any draft order, and to report to them thereon.

(2) The inquiry shall be held in public, and any objector and any other person who, in the opinion of the person holding the inquiry, is affected by the draft order, may appear at the inquiry either in person or by counsel, solicitor, or agent.

(3) The witnesses on the inquiry may, if the person holding it thinks fit, be examined on oath.

(4) Subject as aforesaid, the inquiry and all proceedings preliminary and incidental thereto shall be conducted in accordance with rules made by the authority.

(5) The fee to be paid to the person holding the inquiry shall be such as the authority may direct and shall be deemed to be part of the expenses of the authority in carrying this Act into effect.

(6) For the purposes of this Schedule the expression "authority" means the Insurance Commissioners or the Board of Trade, as the case may be.

"May appoint."—Since, under s. 80 (3) as set out in this Schedule, the authority "shall" hold an inquiry, and since no other provision is made for such inquiry than that contained in s. 81, it follows that the authority not only may but must appoint a person to hold the inquiry.

"Rules made by the Authority."—These rules are as follows :—
1.—(1) These rules may be cited as the National Health Insurance (Special Order Inquiry) Rules (England), 1912.

(2) In these Rules :—

The expression "the Act" means the National Insurance Act, 1911 :

The expression "Order" means a Draft Special Order made under Part I. of the Act.

(3) The Interpretation Act, 1889, applies to the interpretation of these Rules as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

2. An Inquiry with regard to an Order shall be held at such time and place as may be fixed by the person appointed by the Authority to hold the Inquiry, and not less than fourteen days' notice of the time and place so fixed shall be given and published in such manner as the person so appointed (in these Rules referred to as "the appointed officer^m) thinks best suited for bringing the holding of the Inquiry to S. 113 (2) the knowledge of objectors and any other persons interested :

Provided that failure to give or to publish any such notice shall not invalidate the Inquiry or render necessary any adjournment thereof.

3. The appointed officer may adjourn the Inquiry from time to time as he thinks fit and may hold adjourned sittings at such time and place as may appear to him, suitable having regard to the convenience of the persons appearing at the Inquiry.

4. The appointed officer may give such directions as he thinks necessary or proper as to the priority in which the objections to the Order shall be considered and the persons appearing at the Inquiry shall be heard.

5. If any person who has not made an objection to the Order in accordance with the provisions of the Ninth Schedule to the Act claims to be heard at the Inquiry, and is in the opinion of the appointed officer a person affected by the Order, the appointed officer may, if he thinks fit, allow that person to be heard and may in that case require him to give particulars in writing of his objection or contention, with the specific grounds thereof, and of the omission from, additions to, or modifications of, the Order which he claims should be made.

6. If the objections to the Order made by two or more objectors appearing at the Inquiry appear to the appointed officer to be the same in substance, he may select an objector whom he considers representative of the largest number of those objectors to state those objections and to call evidence (if required) in support thereof.

Any other objector may by leave of the appointed officer be heard subsequently in support of the same objections.

7. The appointed officer may stop any statement which appears to him to be irrelevant to the objection or contention under consideration or to involve unnecessary repetition or arguments already fully stated.

8.—(1) The appointed officer may at any stage of the Inquiry and upon such terms as he thinks fit allow the amendment of any statement of objection to the Order or of any statement made by a person to whom leave has been given to be heard.

(2) The appointed officer may at any time require the objector or any person to whom leave has been given to be heard to furnish to him in writing such particulars as he may think necessary or relevant in relation to the objection made or contention advanced.

9. Subject to the provisions of the Ninth Schedule to the Act and these Rules the proceedings at the Inquiry shall be conducted in such manner as the appointed officer may direct.

10. The report of the appointed officer on any Order shall be in writing signed by the officer, and shall as soon as may be after the determination of the Inquiry be sent to the Authority.

September 20th, 1912.

UNDER PART I OF THIS ACT RELATING TO HEALTH INSURANCE.

Third Schedule

(1) A weekly contribution shall be payable for each calendar week during the whole or any part of which an employed contributor has been employed by an employer: Provided that, where one weekly contribution has been paid in respect of an employed contributor in any such week, no further contribution shall be payable in respect of him in the same week, and that, where no remuneration has been received and no services rendered by an employed contributor during any such week, or where no services have been rendered by an employed contributor during any such week and the employed contributor has been in receipt of sickness or disablement benefit during the whole or any part of that week, the employer shall not be liable to pay any contribution either on his own behalf or on behalf of the contributor in respect of that week.

(2) The employer shall, except as hereinafter provided, be entitled to recover from the employed contributor the amount of any contributions paid by him on behalf of the employed contributor.

(3) Except where the employed contributor does not receive any wages or other pecuniary remuneration from the employer, the amounts so recoverable shall, notwithstanding the provisions of any Act or any contract to the contrary, be recoverable by means of deductions from the wages or other remuneration, and not otherwise; but no such deductions may be made from any wages or remuneration other than such as are paid in respect of the period or part of the period in respect of which the contribution is payable, or in excess of the sum which represents the amount of the contributions for the period (if such period is longer than a week) in respect of which the wages or other remuneration are paid.

(4) Where a contribution paid by the employer on behalf of an employed contributor is recoverable from the contributor but is not recoverable by means of deductions as aforesaid, it shall (without prejudice to any other means of recovery) be recoverable summarily as a civil debt, but no such contribution shall be recoverable unless proceedings for the purpose are instituted within three months from the date when the contribution was payable.

(5) Where the contributor is employed by more than one employer in any calendar week, the first person employing him in that week or such other employer or employers as may be prescribed shall be deemed to be the employer for the purposes of the provisions of Part I of this Act relating to the payment of contributions and of this schedule.

(6) Regulations of the Insurance Commissioners may provide that in any cases or classes of cases where employed contributors work under the general control and management of some person other than their immediate employer, such as the owner, agent, or manager of a mine or quarry, or the occupier of a factory or workshop, such person shall, for the purposes of the provisions of Part I of this Act relating to the payment of contributions and of this schedule, be treated as the employer, and may provide for allowing him to deduct the amount of any contributions (other than employer's contributions) which he may become liable to pay from any sums payable by him to the immediate employer, and for enabling the immediate employer to recover from the employed contributors the like sums and in the like manner as if he were liable to pay the contributions.

(7) Where the contributor is not paid wages or other money payments by his employer or any other person, the employer shall be liable to pay the contributions payable both by himself and the contributor, and shall not be entitled to recover any part thereof from the contributor.

(8) Notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, the employer shall not be entitled to deduct from the wages of or otherwise to recover from the contributor the employer's contribution.

(9) Any sum deducted by any employer from wages or other remuneration under this schedule shall be deemed to have been entrusted to him for the purpose of paying the contribution in respect of which it was deducted.

(10) The Insurance Commissioners may, by regulations, provide

Provided that, where the joint committee are satisfied, on representations made within six months after the passing of this Act, that the members of any such society resident in a part of the United Kingdom other than that in which the registered office of the society is situated desire that they shall be treated as if they formed a separate society, the members of the society resident in that part shall, for the purposes aforesaid, continue to be so treated, and the joint committee in the exercise of their powers under this proviso shall in each case consult with the Commissioners for the part of the United Kingdom in question and hold an inquiry, or, where in their opinion the wishes of members cannot otherwise be properly ascertained, cause a poll to be taken in the prescribed manner.

(2) A society shall not be required to be approved in respect of any part of the United Kingdom other than that in which its registered office is situated by reason of the fact that among its members are persons for the time being resident in that part of the United Kingdom, but a society shall not admit as a member any person resident at the time of admission in any part of the United Kingdom in respect of which the society is not an approved society.

A.D. 1913. This subsection shall apply as respects the members of a branch of a society resident in a part of the United Kingdom other than that in which the registered office of the branch is situated, notwithstanding that the society is approved for that part, unless the joint committee, on the application of the society, otherwise determine, but no branch to which the said provisions apply shall admit as a member of the branch any person resident at the time of admission in any part of the United Kingdom other than that in which the registered office of the branch is situated.

(Operative on September 1st, 1913. See p. 123.)

(3) An employer may, if he thinks fit, inscribe upon the card of an employed contributor employed by him, but only in such manner as to be easily erased or removed, the number of that contributor upon the pay-list or in the books of the employer.

(4) The Commissioners may, if they think fit, and subject to such terms and conditions as they may impose, approve any arrangement whereby stamps are affixed at times, or contributions paid, in a manner other than those prescribed by this Regulation, so, however, that no such arrangement shall authorise the payment of any contribution at a date later than that upon which the wages or other pecuniary remuneration for the period in respect of which the contribution is payable are paid.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

INSURANCE BOOKS.

This book will contain a record of the contributions paid in respect of the insured person (called the contributor), of the arrears due from and paid by him, and of the benefits which he has received under the Act. Great care should therefore be taken to guard against its loss.

The book must be deposited by the contributor with his Society:

- (a) upon surrendering his contribution card,
(b) when he gives notice of disease or disablement, and
(c) whenever the Society requires it for production to an Inspector or other authorised person.

It will be returned within 21 days after deposit, or at the end of the disease or disablement.

The book must also be produced when the contributor makes a claim for maternity benefit.

The contributor should satisfy himself that the necessary entries have been correctly made in the book.

If the contributor is a workman in an insured trade the book must be produced when a claim for unemployment benefit is made or when he desires to obtain payment in respect of unemployment from an association. If the book is then in the hands of his Society it will be returned within 7 days after application for it.

The contributor on changing his address should alter the address on page 1 of this book and inform his Society within 7 days.

Upon the contributor ceasing to be a member of the Society, or transferring to another branch of the Society, the book must be surrendered.

The contributor should obtain from his Society a copy of the rules of the Society in which will be found particulars of the conditions of membership and of the benefits.

No person may assign or charge or agree to assign or charge any Insurance Book, and any sale, transfer, assignment of or charge on any Insurance Book is void and of no effect.

The employer cannot demand the production of this Book.

CONTRIBUTION CARDS.

The contributions are collected by means of National Health Insurance Stamps affixed to contribution cards.

The contributor must produce his card to his employer at any time when required, and must deliver it up to his employer whenever the employer requires it for the purpose of stamping, or of production to an Inspector or other authorised person.

A weekly contribution is payable by the employer for each week (commencing Monday) during the whole or any part of which the contributor has been employed, but only one contribution is payable for each week, and no contribution is payable by the employer in respect of any week during which the contributor renders no service, and either (a) receives no remuneration, or (b) receives sickness benefit for the whole or part of the week.

The employer is required to affix to the card on a day not later than the day on which wages are paid a single National Health Insurance Stamp of the value of the joint contribution due from himself and from the contributor for every week for which a contribution is payable. (The Insurance Commissioners may allow exceptional arrangements to be made for stamping cards in special cases.)

All contributions payable at the date of the expiration of the card must be paid and stamps affixed by that date whether the wages have been paid or not. Upon the termination of an employment, or at any time after 24 'hours' notice by the contributor, a stamp must be affixed in respect of every week for which a contribution is payable by the employer.

When the contributor receives no wages or other money payments from his employer, the latter must affix a stamp on the first day of employment in each week.

The card when stamped will be returned to the contributor, but if he is in continuous employment the card may, with the consent of the contributor, be retained by the employer, who will be responsible for its safe custody.

It must be returned to the contributor, subject to 48 hours' notice, on demand by him, and in any case at the end of the period for which it is issued, and on his leaving his employment.

If the card should be lost or destroyed the contributor should immediately apply to his Society for the issue to him of a new card.

If at any time the contributor, while not in possession of a card, requires one for immediate delivery to his employer, he may obtain one at any Post Office on making an application on a form to be obtained there, and on production of this book.

If the contributor without reasonable cause fails to produce his card to his employer at the proper times, the contributor is liable to a fine not exceeding TEN POUNDS. If for any reason the contributor fails to produce a card the employer will use a special Emergency Card for him which, when stamped, he will hand to the contributor.

The contributor must, within 14 days after the expiration of the card, sign and deliver up to his Society the contribution card and any emergency cards used for him in the period. A card for the next period will then be issued to him if one has not already been issued.

Any contributor who surrenders a card on which contributions have been paid by his employer at the rate of 6*d.* or 4*d.*, must make a declaration on a form to be obtained from his Society, in respect of every such contribution, stating the names and addresses of his employers.

The stamped card or cards are the only evidence of the payment of contributions for the period, and no allowance will be made for any stamps on any card unless and until the card or cards have been delivered up.

A contributor must deliver up his card to his Society before it expires and obtain a new one if—

- (1) it has been defaced ;
- (2) he ceases to be a member of the Society ;
- (3) he transfers to another Society or branch ;
- (4) he changes his place of residence to Wales, England, or Ireland ;
- (5) he becomes a voluntary contributor.

A contributor may, if he chooses, on changing his employment, deliver up his contribution card and obtain a new card from his Society.

Upon making any claim for benefit the contributor must, if required, produce his card to his Society.

Any person having in his possession the card or book of an insured person must produce it at any reasonable time when required by an Inspector or other officer appointed under the Act, or duly authorised to act in the execution of the Act.

In the event of the death of the contributor this book, together with the contribution card and any emergency cards issued in respect of him, must be returned to the Society.

RATES OF CONTRIBUTION.

The joint contribution payable by the contributor and his employer is in ordinary cases in Great Britain 7*d.* a week. In the event of the contributor being employed in Ireland, contributions in respect of him are payable at the Irish rate.

Where the rate of the remuneration earned by a contributor who is 21 or upwards is less than 2*s.* a working day and the remuneration does not include board and lodging, the joint contribution is 6*d.* a week, and 1*d.* a week is added by the State.

Remuneration includes everything to which the contributor is entitled in return for his services; thus the remuneration of a domestic servant includes in most cases board and lodging in addition to money wages. In certain circumstances it is necessary to fix the money value of the remuneration where it includes or consists of other things than money payments before the rate of contribution can be determined.

When the contributor receives wages or other money payments from his employer, the employer can only recover the contributor's contribution by deducting a corresponding amount from his wages, and he can only deduct from wages the contributions due for the period for which the wages are paid.

When the contributor receives wages or other money payments but from some person other than his employer, the employer can recover the contributor's contributions by process of law, if the contributor refuses to repay such contributions.

Notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, the employer is not entitled to deduct from the wages of or otherwise to recover from the contributor the employer's contributions.

Contributions cease to be payable in respect of the contributor when he reaches the age of 70.

The table on page 1 of this book shows the various rates of contribution, and how the joint weekly contribution in each case is divided between the contributor and his employer where the contributor receives wages or other money payments.

When the contributor receives no wages or other money payments either from his employer or from any other person, the whole of the contribution is payable by the employer, and he is not entitled to recover any part of it from the contributor.

A contributor who is out of employment, or whose employer is not liable to pay the contribution in any week may, if he chooses, himself pay the contributions by affixing the proper stamps to his card as the contributions become due.

Any person who affixes a stamp to a card is required immediately after affixing it to cancel the stamp by writing the date in ink across the face of the stamp.

ARREARS :—(EMPLOYED CONTRIBUTORS ONLY)

The contributor may, if he so desires, pay arrears of contributions, obtaining for the purpose an Arrears Card from his Society. After a stamp has been affixed to an Arrears Card it must be cancelled immediately and the card forwarded to his Society. The date of the receipt of the card by the Society will be treated as the date of payment of the arrears. Upon the production of this book to the Society, the date and amount of the payment will be entered.

OFFENCES.

Any person who fraudulently removes a stamp from a card or makes use of a stamp removed from a card is guilty of felony.

If the contributor for the purpose of obtaining any benefit knowingly makes any false statement, he is liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months with or without hard labour.

If the contributor is guilty of any other contravention of, or non-compliance with any of the requirements of the health provisions of the National Insurance Act, 1911, or the Regulations made thereunder, he is for each offence liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding TEN POUNDS.

If it is found at any time that a person has received any benefit to which he was not lawfully entitled, he, or, in the case of his death, his personal representatives, will be liable to repay to the Insurance Commissioners the value of such benefits.

If any employer has failed to pay any contributions which he is liable to pay in respect of an employed contributor, he is for each offence liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding TEN POUNDS, and to pay a sum equal to the amount of the contributions which he has failed to pay. Further, the contributor may take proceedings against his employer, in which case the employer may be compelled to make good any loss of benefits which the contributor has suffered.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

INSURANCE BOOKS.

This book will contain a record of the contributions paid in respect of the insured person (called the contributor) and of the benefits which he has received under the Act. Great care should therefore be taken to guard against its loss.

The book must be handed in by the contributor at a Post Office upon surrendering his contribution card.

The book will be forwarded by the Post Office to the Insurance Commissioners, and after the necessary particulars have been entered will be returned to the contributor who should satisfy himself that the entries have been correctly made.

If the contributor is a workman in an insured trade the book must be produced when a claim for unemployment benefit is made. If the book is then in the hands of the Insurance Commissioners it will be returned within seven days after application for it.

The contributor, on changing his address, should enter his new address on page 2 of the cover of this book, and inform the Insurance Committee within seven days.

Upon the contributor ceasing to be a Deposit Contributor the book together with the current contribution card must be surrendered to the Post Office for transmission to the Insurance Commissioners.

No person may assign or charge, or agree to assign or charge any Insurance Book, and any sale, transfer, assignment of or charge on any Insurance Book is void and of no effect.

The employer cannot demand the production of this book.

CONTRIBUTION CARDS.

The contributions are collected by means of National Health Insurance Stamps affixed to contribution cards.

The contributor must produce his card to his employer at any time when required, and must deliver it up to his employer whenever the employer requires it for the purpose of stamping, or of production to an Inspector or other authorised person.

A weekly contribution is payable by the employer for each week (commencing Monday) during the whole or any part of which the contributor has been employed, but only one contribution is payable for each week, and no contribution is payable by the employer in respect of any week during which the contributor renders no service, and either (a) receives no remuneration, or (b) receives sickness benefit for the whole or part of the week.

The employer is required to affix to the card on a day not later than the day on which wages are paid a single National Health Insurance Stamp of the value of the joint contribution due from himself and from the contributor for every week for which a contribution is payable. (The Insurance Commissioners may allow exceptional arrangements to be made for stamping cards in special cases.)

All contributions payable at the date of the expiration of the card must be paid and stamps affixed within 6 days after that date whether the wages have been paid or not. Upon the termination of an employment, or at any time after 24 hours' notice by the contributor, a stamp must be affixed in respect of every week for which a contribution is payable by the employer.

When the contributor receives no wages or other money payments from his employer, the latter must affix a stamp on the first day of employment in each week for which a contribution is payable.

A contributor must deliver up his card at a Post Office before it expires and obtain a new one if—

- (1) it has been defaced ;
- (2) he ceases to be a Deposit Contributor ;
- (3) he changes his place of residence to Scotland, Ireland or Wales (including Monmouthshire) ;
- (4) he becomes a Voluntary Contributor.

A contributor may, if he chooses, on changing his employment, deliver up his contribution card and obtain a new card at a Post Office.

This book must be produced for inspection on every occasion on which application is made at a Post Office for the issue of a new card.

Any person having in his possession the card or book of an insured person must produce it at any reasonable time when required by an Inspector or other officer appointed under the Act, or duly authorised to act in the execution of the Act.

RATES OF CONTRIBUTION.

The joint contribution payable by the contributor and his employer is in ordinary cases in Great Britain 7*d.* a week. In the event of the contributor being employed in Ireland, contributions in respect of him are payable at the Irish rate, but, if he does not take up his residence there, they may be paid on the English card.

Where the rate of the remuneration earned by a contributor who is 21 or upwards does not exceed 2*s.* a working day and the remuneration does not include board and lodging, the joint contribution is 6*d.* a week, and 1*d.* a week is added by the State.

Notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, the employer is not entitled to deduct from the wages of or otherwise to recover from the contributor the employer's contributions.

Contributions cease to be payable in respect of the contributor when he reaches the age of 70.

The table on page 2 of this book shows the various rates of contribution, and how the joint weekly contribution in each case is divided between the contributor and his employer where the contributor receives wages or other money payments.

When the contributor receives no wages or other money payments either from his employer or from any other person, the whole of the contribution is payable by the employer, and he is not entitled to recover any part of it from the contributor.

A contributor who is out of employment, or whose employer is not liable to pay the contribution in any week may, if he chooses himself pay the contributions by affixing the proper stamps to his card as the contributions become due.

Any person who affixes a stamp to a card is required immediately after affixing it to cancel the stamp by writing the date in ink across the face of the stamp.

BENEFITS.

A full explanation of the benefits and of the conditions attaching to them is contained in a pamphlet, which can be obtained from the Official of the Insurance Committee whose address appears on the front of this book.

DEATH OF CONTRIBUTOR.

In the event of the death of the contributor this book, together with the contribution card and any emergency cards issued in respect of him must be returned to the Insurance Commissioners.

Four-sevenths of the amount then standing to the credit of his account will be paid to the person whom the contribution has duly nominated. If no nomination is made it will be paid to the person entitled to his goods.

CONTRIBUTOR WHO HAS GONE TO RESIDE ABROAD.

Where a Deposit Contributor proves to the satisfaction of the Insurance Committee that he has permanently ceased to reside in the United Kingdom, four-sevenths of the amount then standing to the credit of his account may be paid to him.

If any employer has failed to pay any contributions which he is liable to pay in respect of an employed contributor, he is for each offence liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding TEN POUNDS, and to pay a sum equal to the amount of the contributions which he has failed to pay.

[illegible]

It is to the advantage of every insured person to become a member of an Approved Society for the purposes of the Act.

It is open to a Deposit Contributor at any time to join any Approved Society which is willing to accept him.

If an insured person who has been a Deposit Contributor becomes a member of an Approved Society for the purposes of the Act, the amount standing to the credit of his account, subject if necessary to certain adjustments, will be transferred to the Society.

(3) References in these Regulations to the provisions of Part I. of the Act relating to the payment of contributions shall be deemed to include a reference to any Regulations made by the Commissioners with respect to the payment of contributions.

3.—(1) Where any persons are ordinarily employed by two or more employers in a week, the employers, or any class or group of the employers, of those persons may, if they think fit, submit to the Commissioners a scheme for the payment of contributions under the Act in respect of those persons.

(2) Where the Commissioners are satisfied that any scheme so submitted to them secures the due payment of the contribution payable under Part I. of the Act in respect of every employed contributor to whom the scheme applies for every week during any part of which he is employed by any employer who is a party to the scheme, they may, if they think fit, approve the scheme.

(3) Any such scheme may make such modifications in any Regulations made by the Commissioners with respect to the payment of contributions under Part I. of the Act as may be necessary to give effect to the arrangements made under the scheme.

(4) Where a scheme has been approved by the Commissioners, the parties to the scheme who have employed any person to whom the scheme applies in the course of a week shall in respect of that week be deemed jointly to be the employer of that person for the purposes of the provisions of Part I. of the Act relating to the payment of contributions and of the Third Schedule to the Act.

4. In the case of a person employed as an agent by two or more employers and paid by commission or fees or a share in the profits, or partly in one and partly in another of those ways, the employer in the employment on which the person employed is mainly dependent for his livelihood shall be deemed to be the employer of that person for the purposes of the provisions of Part I. of the Act relating to the payment of contributions and of the Third Schedule of the Act.

5. If an outworker, not being an outworker to whom any Regulations made under paragraph (10) of the Third Schedule to the Act apply, has in his possession, during any week, work given out to him by an employer, that employer shall, for the purpose of the provisions of Part I. of the Act relating to, the payment of contributions and of the Third Schedule to the Act, be deemed to be the employer of the outworker for that week if at the time of the return of the work to the employer a contribution under Part I. of the Act has not already been paid in respect of the outworker for that week, but, save as aforesaid, that employer shall not be deemed to be the employer of the outworker for the purpose of the said provisions as to payment of contributions.

6. Where any person is employed by two or more employers in any week and no one of those employers is the first person employing him in that week within the meaning of the Act, then, unless the case is one for which other provision is expressly made by these Regulations, that one of the employers who first makes a money payment to the person employed in respect of his employment in that week shall be deemed to be the employer of that person for the purpose of the provisions of Part I. of the Act relating to the payment of contributions and of the Third Schedule to the Act.

7.—(1) Notwithstanding anything in these Regulations where any one person is ordinarily employed by more than one employer in the week, the employers of that person may enter into an agreement for the payment of contributions in respect of that person in the form set out in the Schedule to these Regulations, and where any such agreement is entered into between any such employers the following provisions shall have effect:—

- (a) Where in any week the person in respect of whom the agreement is made is before any contribution has been paid in respect of him for that week, employed by an employer who is not a party to the agreement, that employer shall, for the purposes of the provisions of Part I. of the Act relating to the payment of contributions and of the Third Schedule to the Act, be deemed to be the employer of that person for that week:
- (b) If in any week a contribution is payable by the employers who are parties to the agreement or by any of them, that contribution shall in the first such week be paid by that one of the parties to the agreement employing the contributor during that week whose signature to the agreement appears first in order, and in any subsequent week by that one of the parties to the agreement employing the contributor during that week whose signature to the agreement is next in succession to that of the person who paid the last weekly contribution payable by the parties to the agreement, and for this purpose the signatures of the parties shall be read in rotation, the first signature being deemed to be next in succession to the last and the signature of any person who does not employ the contributor during that week being disregarded :

- (c) The employer whose duty it is to pay the contribution for any week shall be deemed to be the employer of the contributor for the purpose of the provisions of Part I. of the Act relating to the payment of contributions and of the Third Schedule to the Act :
- (d) Any one of the parties to the agreement may, immediately after paying a contribution, but not at any other time, strike out his signature to the agreement and write his initials with the date opposite his signature, and upon so doing he shall cease to be a party to the agreement, and the contributor may, upon ceasing to be employed by any person who is a party to the agreement, strike out from the agreement the signature of that person, and on so doing shall write his own initials with the date opposite the signature so struck out :
- (e) If at any time any other person employing or about to employ the contributor desires to become a party to the agreement, he may, subject as hereinafter provided, affix his signature, with the date, at the end of the signatures appended to the agreement, and these Regulations shall thenceforth apply to him in like manner as if he had been an original party to the agreement :

Provided that where a contribution would be payable in any week in respect of the contributor by any such other person if that person did not become a party to the agreement, that person shall not be entitled to affix his signature as aforesaid unless and until he pays the contribution so payable.

(2) Employers desiring to enter into an agreement for the purposes of this Regulation must sign their names and enter a statement of their respective addresses in a book to be issued for the purpose by the Commissioners, and every such book shall be signed in each week by the employer paying the contribution in respect of that week. Any person having possession of a book issued for the purposes of this Regulation shall produce it when required by any inspector or other officer appointed under the Act or duly authorised to act in the execution of the Act.

(3) Upon the termination of the periods specified in any such book, the agreement shall cease to be binding upon the employers, and any person having possession of the book shall forthwith return it to the Commissioners.

APPENDIX II.—6.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO BE PAID IN RESPECT OF OUTWORKERS (amended).

S. 4 (2) 3rd Sch (10) and S. 7.

1. These Regulations may be cited as the National Health Insurance (Outworkers) Regulations (England), 1913.

2.—(1) In these Regulations, unless the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them :—

“The Act” means the National Insurance Act, 1911 ;

“The Commissioners” means the Insurance Commissioners ;

“Year” means the period of fifty-two weeks beginning on the 15th day of July, 1912, and any subsequent period of fifty-two weeks beginning from the termination of a year ;

“Card” means an outworker’s contribution card issued under these Regulations ;

“Period of currency” means the period of currency of a card ;

“A unit of work” means such amount of work as may be fixed under these Regulations for any class or classes of work in which an outworker is employed.

Other expressions have the same meaning as in the National Health Insurance (Collection of Contributions) Regulations (England), 1913.

(2) The Interpretation Act, 1889, applies to the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

3.—(1) Any person who is the employer of an outworker may give a notice (in these Regulations called a Notice of Entry) to the Commissioners in the form set out in the First Schedule to these Regulations or in such form to the like effect as may from time to time be approved by the Commissioners, either in respect of all outworkers employed by him, or in respect of any class of outworkers employed by him ; and where any such notice of entry is given, these Regulations shall, as from the day on which the notice takes effect, apply to all outworkers in respect of whom the notice is given.

(2) Where a notice of entry is given at any time before the 14th July, 1913, it shall take effect on such date after it is given as the Commissioners may in each case determine, and where a notice of entry is given after the 14th July, 1913, it shall take effect as from the first day of the period of currency next following, not being less than 14 days after the date of such notice.

(3) An employer who has given a notice of entry may give a notice in writing (in these Regulations called a Notice of Withdrawal) to the Commissioners, that he desires that these Regulations shall no longer apply to the outworkers employed by him, or to any class of those outworkers; and where any such notice of withdrawal is given, these Regulations shall, as from the day on which the notice takes effect, cease to apply to all outworkers in respect of whom the notice is given.

(4) A notice of withdrawal shall be given not less than one month before the date specified therein as the date on which the notice is to take effect, but unless the Commissioners by reason of any special circumstances otherwise direct, no such notice of withdrawal shall take effect except on the termination of four, or any multiple of four, periods of currency from the day on which these Regulations first became applicable to the outworkers specified in the notice of withdrawal:

Provided that for the purpose of this paragraph, where a notice of entry has taken effect before the 13th April, 1913, these Regulations shall be deemed to have become applicable to the outworkers specified therein as from the 13th January, 1913.

"and where a notice of entry has taken effect after the 13th April, 1913, but before the 14th July, 1913, these Regulations shall be deemed to have become applicable to the outworkers specified therein as from the 14th April, 1913."

(5) An outworker, regularly employed by an employer who has not given a notice of entry under these Regulations applicable to that outworker, may give notice in writing to any other employer who has given a notice of entry, that he desires that these Regulations shall no longer apply to him, and these Regulations shall thereupon cease to apply to the outworker as from the termination of the period of currency in which such notice is given by him, or if the employer to whom such notice is given consents, as from any earlier date after the outworker has given such notice.

(6) For the purpose of these Regulations a class of outworkers includes—

- (a) all outworkers employed by an employer in a particular locality;
- (b) all outworkers employed by an employer in doing any particular class or classes of work;
- (c) any outworker who may from time to time sign a statement in the form set out in the Second Schedule to these Regulations, or a form to the like effect, agreeing that all contributions payable in respect of him under the Act shall be paid by reference to the work done by the outworker:

Provided that any form so signed by an outworker shall be retained by the employer and shall, on demand, be produced by him to any Inspector or other officer appointed under the Act.

4.—(1) Where an employer has given a notice of entry in respect of an outworker, and the notice is still in force, that employer shall, instead of paying contributions for each week in which work is done for him by an outworker to whom these Regulations apply, pay one contribution for each unit of work or part of a unit of work done by the outworker, and such payments shall be irrespective of contributions paid by other employers in respect of the same outworker, whether under these Regulations or otherwise :

Provided that when a contribution has been paid for less than a whole unit of work, no further contribution shall be payable by the employer in respect of any further work, unless and until such further work, together with the work done for that employer for which the contribution was paid, amounts to more than a whole unit of work.

(2) The contribution payable under these Regulations for each unit of work in respect of an outworker and the employer's and contributor's contributions respectively shall be the same as would be payable for each week, if these Regulations were not applicable to that outworker.

(3) Every contribution payable in respect of an outworker under these Regulations, shall be paid by affixing to his card a stamp or stamps in the space indicated for that purpose on the card, and the stamp or stamps shall be so affixed before payment is made by the employer to the outworker for the work in respect of which that contribution is payable.

5.—(1) The unit of work shall for the classes of work set out in the first column of the Third Schedule to these Regulations be an amount of work in respect of which the payment made to the outworker, after deduction of any expenses incurred by the outworker which are necessarily incidental to the work, is the sum set out in the second column of that Schedule :

Provided that if any outworker or any employer of an outworker gives notice to the Commissioners in the form set out in the Fourth Schedule to these Regulations, desiring them as respects any class of work, or any class of work done in a locality, or for any employer or group of employers, specified in the notice, to vary the unit of work for the time being applicable to that class of work, the Commissioners may fix such a unit of work as they think fit for that class of work, and the unit of work so fixed shall be substituted for the unit of work specified in the Fourth Schedule to these Regulations :

Provided also that on sufficient cause being shown the Commissioners may vary any unit of work with respect to any class of work, or any class of work done in a locality, or for any employer or group of employers, notwithstanding that such notice has not been given, and the units of work so fixed by the Commissioners shall have effect as if fixed in pursuance of a notice under this Regulation.

(2) In fixing units of work for any class of work, the Commissioners shall have regard to the average amount of work done in a week by outworkers employed in full time employment in that class of work ; provided that where the work is of a seasonal nature and subject to periodical fluctuation, the Commissioners may have regard to the average amount of work done by a regularly employed outworker in a week in that class of work.

6. Where an employer employs an outworker in respect of whom he has given a notice of entry in two or more classes of work to which different units are applicable, and does not issue to him a separate card in respect of each class of work in accordance with these Regulations and pay contributions in respect of each class of work by affixing stamps to the card issued for that class of work, he shall pay contributions in respect of that outworker as if the lowest unit of work applicable to any of the classes of work done by him were applicable to all and each of such classes of work.

7.—(1) If in any year fifty-two contributions have been paid, whether under these Regulations or otherwise, by or in respect of an outworker, the outworker may apply to his Society, or, in the case of a deposit contributor, to the Commissioners, for a certificate that all contributions payable in respect of him for that year have been paid, and the Society or Commissioners, as the case may be, shall issue such a certificate to him accordingly.

“Provided that in the case of an outworker to whom a certificate of exemption has been granted any employer of that outworker may himself apply to the Commissioners for a certificate, and the Commissioners may issue to that employer and to any other employer of the outworker a certificate accordingly.”

(2) Notwithstanding anything in these or any other Regulations made under the Act, any employer who employs a person to whom such a certificate has been granted shall not be required to pay any contribution in respect of that contributor during the remainder of the year in respect of which that certificate was issued.

8.—(1) For the purpose of calculating the number of contributions paid by or in respect of any outworker to whom these Regulations apply and for the purpose of reckoning his arrears, any contribution paid in respect of a unit of work shall be reckoned as if it were a contribution paid in respect of an employed contributor to whom these Regulations do not apply.

(2) “An outworker in respect of whom a notice of entry has been given may, if he thinks fit, pay during any year any contributions in respect of that year in excess of the number of contributions payable by his employer or employers, provided that the total number of contributions for that year, paid by himself and his employer or employers, do not exceed at the time of payment the maximum number of contributions which could have been paid during the same period in respect of an employed contributor to whom these Regulations do not apply, but, save as aforesaid, he shall not, so long as these Regulations apply to him, be entitled to pay any arrears until the expiration of the year during which the arrears have accrued."

9.—(1) Every employer of outworkers who has given a notice of entry under these Regulations shall keep conspicuously posted in the place where he gives out articles or materials to outworkers, in such manner as to be seen by those outworkers, notice in a form approved by the Commissioners, containing a statement of the unit of work applicable to each class of work there given out, and a table of the rates of contribution payable.

(2) Every such employer shall keep a record in plain words and figures of the amount paid for each parcel of work given out to an outworker, of the name of the outworker to whom it is given out, and of the unit of work applicable thereto :

Provided that, where the particulars above mentioned are recorded by entries made by the employer in a wages book kept by the outworker, such entries shall be deemed to be a sufficient compliance with this Regulation.

10.—(1) All cards for the purposes of these Regulations shall be supplied by the Commissioners without charge to all employers of outworkers, and shall, with any necessary variations, be in the forms set out in the Fifth Schedule to these Regulations or in such forms substantially to the like effect as may from time to time be approved by the Commissioners.

(2) Every employer who has given a notice of entry under these Regulations shall, at the beginning of every period of currency, or so soon thereafter as a contribution becomes payable by him under these Regulations, issue to any outworker in respect of whom he has given such notice a card current for the period, and inscribed with the name and address of the outworker and of the employer by whom the card is issued :

Provided that where an employer employs an outworker in respect of whom he has given such notice in two or more classes of work to which different units of work are applicable, the employer shall, unless he elects to pay contributions at a uniform rate as provided in Regulation 6 of these Regulations, issue to such outworker a separate card in respect of each class of work.

(3) No card issued by an employer under these Regulations shall be used for the payment of contributions otherwise than under these Regulations or by any employer other than the employer by whom the card is issued.

(4) All directions and instructions appearing upon the cards and forms set out in the Schedules hereto shall be deemed to be incorporated in these Regulations.

11. The National Health Insurance (Collection of Contributions) Regulations (England), 1913, except in so far as inconsistent with these Regulations, shall apply to the employment of an outworker by an employer who has given a notice of entry applicable to that outworker, as if a contribution payable under these Regulations were a weekly contribution, and the word "card" in those Regulations shall, in the application of those Regulations to an outworker in respect of which a notice of entry has been given, mean a card issued under these Regulations by the employer giving such notice:

Provided that if an outworker fails to produce and deliver up to his employer a card, as provided in those Regulations, the employer shall, instead of preparing and stamping an emergency card, inscribe the name and address of the outworker on a new card for the current period, and shall issue the card duly stamped to the outworker.

12. Nothing in these Regulations shall apply—

(a) to any outworker who does not himself, in the ordinary course of his employment as an outworker, do the greater part of the work given out to him; or

(b) to any outworker employed in any class of work as to which the Commissioners certify that the unit of work would be, if fixed in accordance with these Regulations, work for which a payment of not less than 30s. in case of men, or 17s. 6d. in case of women, is made.

13. The National Health Insurance (Collection of Contributions Exempt Persons) Regulations (England), 1912, shall apply to an outworker who is not liable to be insured by reason that he holds a certificate of exemption, or that not having been previously insured he became employed within the meaning of the Act after attaining the age of 65 years; and in the case of the employment of such an outworker by an employer who has given notice of entry in respect of him, those Regulations shall apply as if a contribution paid under these Regulations were a weekly contribution in respect of an exempt person to whom these Regulations do not apply, and the expression "exemption card" in those Regulations shall be deemed to mean a card in the form set out in the Fifth Schedule to these Regulations or in such form substantially to the like effect as may from time to time be approved by the Commissioners:

Provided that an employer shall not be required to record payments made under these Regulations in an exemption book.

14. These Regulations shall come into force and have effect on the 20th January, 1913, so, however, that anything done on or since the 13th January, 1913, which would have been validly and properly done if these Regulations had been in force on that date, shall, notwithstanding any other Regulations, be deemed to have been validly and properly done under these Regulations.

15. The National Health Insurance (Outworkers) Regulations (England), 1912, are hereby revoked.

Jan. 20th, 1913. Amended July 11th, 1913.

(2) The Committee shall credit to each chemist or other person supplying drugs or appliances in respect of that supply a sum calculated in accordance with the Drug Tariff, or in the case of drugs not included in that tariff, an amount calculated in accordance with the method adopted by the Committee for the purpose, and shall pay to each person an amount bearing the same proportion to the sum credited to him as the amount in the Drug Fund bears to the aggregate amounts so credited to all those persons.

44.—(1) Every chemist or other person on the list shall furnish to the Committee on dates to be appointed by the Commissioners quarterly accounts in a form provided by the Committee, containing particulars of drugs and appliances supplied by him to insured persons. Accounts of drugs to be rendered quarterly.

(2) As soon as may be after the receipt of an account the Committee shall pay to the chemist or other person furnishing the account such sum as may be agreed between the Committee and any Committee representative of chemists and other persons undertaking the supply of drugs and appliances (in these Regulations referred to as "the Pharmaceutical Committee") in advance of the amount due to him, and shall pay the balance of the amount so due as soon as may be after the expiration of the year, but before payment of the balance the Committee shall submit all accounts to the Pharmaceutical Committee which shall have power to reduce or disallow any item of any account submitted to them.

45. For the purpose of determining the amounts in the hands of the Committee which are contributed to the Panel Fund and to the Drug Fund respectively the following provisions shall apply:— Allocation of Funds.

(1) The Committee shall ascertain the amount available for the medical benefit of persons on panel-lists including in that amount any Parliamentary grant or portion of a Parliamentary grant paid or to be paid to them for that purpose and shall carry the sum so ascertained, as to thirteen-seventeenths thereof to the credit of the Panel Fund; as to three-seventeenths thereof to the credit of the Drug Fund; and as to one-seventeenth thereof to the credit of the fund to be called "The Drug Suspense Fund" and to be dealt with as hereinafter in these Regulations provided.

(2) If and in so far as in any year the amount to the credit of the Drug Fund is less than the aggregate amounts credited to chemists and other persons supplying drugs and appliances the excess amount required shall, so far as that excess is not met from moneys provided by Parliament or from any other source, be paid out of the Drug Suspense Fund to the credit of the Drug Fund and shall be applied accordingly.

- (3) If in any year the amount to the credit of the Drug Fund exceeds the aggregate amounts so credited to chemists and other persons that excess shall be carried forward to the credit of the Drug Fund in the succeeding year.

- (4) Any sum remaining to the credit of the Drug Suspense Fund at the close of any year shall be treated as moneys in the hands of the Committee for the purpose of the treatment of persons on panel-lists for that year and carried accordingly to the credit of the Panel Fund for that year.

Excessive ordering of drugs. 46.—(1) Where it appears to the Local Medical Committee that the drugs or appliances ordered for insured persons by any practitioner or practitioners on the panel are by reason of their character or of the amount so ordered such as to be in excess of what may reasonably be required for the adequate treatment of those persons, the Local Medical Committee may, and if any representations to that effect are made to them by the Pharmaceutical Committee, shall, make an investigation into the circumstances of the case, whether in respect of the drugs and appliances ordered by an individual practitioner or generally as to the orders given for drugs and appliances by practitioners in the County.

(2) The Local Medical Committee shall, after hearing the Pharmaceutical Committee and any practitioner concerned, make a report to the Committee, and if, after considering the report, the Committee are of opinion that an excessive demand upon the Drug Fund has arisen owing to orders given by a practitioner which are extravagant either in character or in quantity they may, if they think fit, make such deduction from the amount payable to that practitioner out of the Panel Fund as is appropriate in the circumstances and shall make such adjustments as are necessary accordingly between the Panel Fund and the Drug Fund.

Capitation Fee for supply of drugs by practitioner. 47. Where the Committee have adopted a capitation system of payment of practitioners and have made arrangements with a practitioner for the supply by him of all drugs and prescribed appliances requisite for the treatment of an insured person the Committee may instead of paying the price of drugs and appliances actually supplied pay to the practitioner as a capitation fee a sum, payable out of the Drug Fund, representing three-seventeenths of the amount available for the medical benefit of that person together with any sum which may be payable in that year from the Drug Suspense Fund to the Drug Fund in respect of each person on a panel-list.

48.—(1) All moneys available to the Committee for the purposes of the medical benefit of insured persons who obtain treatment through an approved institution (including any Parliamentary grant or portion of a Parliamentary grant paid or to be paid to the Committee in respect of the medical benefit of those persons) shall be carried to the credit of a fund to be called the Institutions Fund.

(2) The Committee may contribute towards the expenses of the treatment furnished by any approved institution to insured persons obtaining treatment through it an amount not exceeding the aggregate amounts standing to the credit of the Institutions Fund available for the medical benefit of those persons; Provided that as a condition of any such payment the Committee shall be satisfied that accounts are kept by the institution showing separately the amounts expended by them in respect of treatment and of the supply of medicines and appliances respectively, and no payment shall be made by the Committee in respect of the treatment of insured persons receiving treatment through an approved institution in excess of fourteen-seventeenths of the aggregate amount available for the medical benefit of those persons, nor in respect of the medicines and appliances supplied to those persons in excess of four-seventeenths of that amount.

(3) Any sum standing to the credit of the Institutions Fund at the end of any year shall be carried to the credit of the Institutions Fund for the succeeding year.

49.—(1) All moneys available to the Committee for the purposes of insured persons who are required or allowed to make their own arrangements for obtaining treatment (including medicines and appliances) shall be carried to a fund to be called the Special Arrangements Fund.

(2) There shall be paid to every insured person required or allowed to make his own arrangements by way of contribution to the cost of his treatment (including medicines and appliances) an amount equal to that expended by him in obtaining treatment, medicine and appliances: Provided that

(a) in the case of a person who has contracted to obtain treatment (including medicines and appliances) for the year, the sum so to be paid shall be a sum equal to the amount contracted to be paid by him or a sum equal to the aggregate amount standing to the credit of the fund divided by the number of persons making their own arrangements whichever is the less; and

- (b) in the case of any other person required or allowed to make his own arrangements the sum expended shall be deemed to be a sum calculated in accordance with a scale of fees fixed by the Committee, and where the aggregate amount so expended exceeds the amount available in the fund the amount contributed in the case of each such person shall be reduced proportionately ; and
- (c) it shall be a condition of any payment that the medicines and appliances supplied to any person required or allowed to make his own arrangements shall be supplied otherwise than by or at the profit of the practitioner who is attending him (except where the circumstances of the insured person are such that the practitioner would, if he were attending that person under the arrangements made by the Committee, be entitled under his contract with the Committee to supply medicines and appliances to that person) and of the total fund not more than thirteen-seventeenths (or, if the Commissioners so allow, fourteen-seventeenths) shall be deemed to be available for the purpose of defraying the cost of medical treatment and not more than four-seventeenths for the purpose of defraying the cost of medicines and prescribed appliances.
- (3) In calculating the amount available in respect of the medical benefit of any person required or allowed to make his own arrangements, account shall be taken of any Parliamentary grant or portion of a Parliamentary grant which may be made to the Committee for the purpose of medical benefit as well as of the sums otherwise available to the Committee for that purpose.
- (4) Any sum standing to the credit of the Special Arrangements Fund at the close of any year shall be carried forward to the credit of that Fund for the succeeding year, so however that in the expenditure of the money to the credit of the Special Arrangements Funds in that year regard shall be had to whether any sum so carried forward has arisen from moneys which under this Regulation were applicable to treatment or to the provision of medicines and prescribed appliances and that the sum so carried forward shall be applicable accordingly.

PART V.

Special Provisions.

Mileage.

50. The Committee may if they think fit make arrangements for a payment to practitioners on the panel in respect of mileage, that is to say, their obligation to attend insured persons resident beyond such distance from the residence of the practitioner, as the Committee having regard to any special difficulties of access to the residence of the insured person may in any case agree with the practitioner.

Old and disabled members of Friendly Societies.

(2) The Committee shall furnish to each such member such voucher or other document as may be approved by the Commissioners, and it shall be a condition of every agreement between the Committee and a practitioner on the panel that he shall attend and treat any person presenting such voucher or other document at a rate of remuneration not exceeding the amount which would be available for the medical treatment (not including drugs and appliances) of that member if he were an insured person: Provided that no practitioner shall be under any obligation to attend and treat a number of such members greater than a number bearing the same proportion to the insured persons on his list as the total number of such members obtaining treatment under arrangements made by the Committee bears to the total number of persons on panel-lists.

52.—(1) Every Committee shall constitute a special Sub-Committee (in these Regulations referred to as the "Medical Service Sub-Committee") for dealing with any question arising between an insured person and a practitioner attending him under the arrangements made by the Committee in respect of the treatment rendered by the practitioner or the conduct of the insured person while receiving that treatment and every question so arising shall stand referred to that Sub-Committee and the Committee may, if they think fit, refer to that Sub-Committee any other question arising with reference to the administration by them of medical benefit.

- (e) such officers and servants of the Committee as they may appoint for the purpose.

(5) The quorum of the Medical Service Sub-Committee, their term of office and the procedure with regard to the hearing of the question, the nature of the evidence admitted and otherwise shall be such as may be fixed by the Committee subject to the approval of the Commissioners.

(6) The Medical Service Sub-Committee shall draw up a report stating such relevant facts as appear to them to be established by the evidence placed before them, together with a recommendation as to the action, if any, which should be taken, and shall present the report to the Committee and the Committee shall accept as conclusive any finding of fact contained in the report.

(7) Where the question at issue relates to the conduct of an insured person and the allegation made is in the opinion of the Committee substantiated, the Committee may if the practitioner so desires, make arrangements for the transfer of the insured person in accordance with the provisions of these Regulations, and may deal with him under the rules of the Committee relating to fines and to suspension of medical benefit.

(8) Where the question at issue relates to the treatment given by a practitioner and the allegation made is in the opinion of the Committee substantiated, the Committee may, if the insured person so desires, make arrangements for his transfer in accordance with the provisions of these Regulations, and may if in the opinion of the Committee the continuance of the practitioner on the panel will be prejudicial to the efficiency of the medical service, make representations to that effect to the Commissioners.

53. It shall be the duty of the Local Medical Committee to consider any complaint made by a practitioner on the panel against any other practitioner on the panel involving any question of the efficiency of the medical service of insured persons and the Local Medical Committee may apply to the Commissioners to remove the name of the practitioner against whom complaint is made from the panel or may take such other action as they may deem proper in the circumstances.

been established for the purpose by the Joint Committee the two practitioners so appointed shall be selected from that body.

(d) by any officer or member of any Society or other body of persons of which the person in question is a member or with which he is connected.

(5) The Enquiry Committee shall take into consideration in addition to oral evidence such written evidence as they may in each case think fit, and may, if they think fit, require any statement to be verified by a statutory declaration, and the procedure of the Enquiry Committee shall be such as they may with the approval of the Commissioners think fit.

(6) Upon the determination of the hearing, the Enquiry Committee shall as soon as may be draw up a report or reports stating such relevant facts as appear to them to be established by the evidence, and the inferences, if any, which in the opinion of the Enquiry Committee may properly be drawn from those facts.

Decision as to range of medical services. 55.—(1) If, in the course of the attendance upon an insured person of a practitioner on the panel under an agreement made between him and an Insurance Committee under these Regulations, the practitioner is of opinion that a question arises or may arise as to whether an operation or other service is comprised in the treatment which he has by the agreement undertaken to give, that question shall be referred by the practitioner to the Local Medical Committee, and, if the Local Medical Committee and the Insurance Committee fail to come to an agreement, the matter shall be submitted for decision to Referees established under these Regulations in such summary manner as, subject to any rules made by the Commissioners in that behalf, may be directed by the Commissioners ; and the decision of those Referees, given after hearing such parties and taking such evidence, if any, as they think just, shall be final, and the Referees in giving any such decision shall state whether in arriving at their decision they have had regard to any custom or practice of the medical profession which is peculiar to the area in which the question arose.

(2) For the purpose of giving effect to these Regulations the Commissioners shall, upon any such question arising, nominate as Referees two medical practitioners (who shall be chosen from any panel of practitioners set up by the Joint Committee for the purpose, or if no such panel exists from among medical practitioners in actual practice in Great Britain) and one barrister or solicitor in actual practice.

(3) The Referees may decide any question coming before them by a majority, but, subject as aforesaid, their procedure shall be such as they may from time to time determine.

56.—(1) If any representations are made to the Commissioners by a Committee or a Local Medical Committee that the inclusion or continuance on the list of a chemist or other person will be prejudicial to the efficiency of the service in the County, the Commissioners shall, and if any similar representations are made by any other body or any person may, if they think fit, hold an enquiry in the manner hereinafter provided.

Enquiry as to persons supplying drugs or appliances.

(2) For the purpose of each enquiry held in accordance with the provisions of this Regulation the Commissioners shall constitute a committee which shall be composed of two persons, who (if any panel has been set up by the Joint Committee for that purpose) shall be chosen from that panel, and of a barrister-at-law or solicitor in actual practice.

2. The practitioner shall give to all persons who are for the time being entitled to obtain treatment from him (all or any of whom are hereinafter referred to as the "patients" or "patient" as the case may be) such treatment as is of a kind which can consistently with the best interests of the patient be properly undertaken by a general practitioner of ordinary professional competence and skill: Provided that the practitioner shall not, by virtue of this agreement, be required to give, nor entitled under this agreement to make any charge for treatment to any person in respect of a confinement (that is to say, labour resulting in the issue of a living child or labour after twenty-eight weeks of pregnancy resulting in the issue of a child whether alive or dead), * [nor to any person suffering from tuberculosis or any other disease the treatment of which may hereafter be included in sanatorium benefit, in so far as that person has been recommended for and is entitled to obtain that treatment as part of his sanatorium benefit].*

NOTES ON THE MEDICAL REGULATIONS.

These Regulations, dated December 5th, 1912, replace the Provisional Regulations which were issued October 1st, 1912.

4. "Provisional arrangements."—Provisional arrangements were in most areas necessary for the three months, January—April, 1913, owing to the fact that the lists of insured persons were not completed. It was thus practically impossible in most areas to adopt the capitation system, and the system of payment by attendance had to be adopted, which however, was abandoned in April in every area except Manchester and Salford.

5.—(2) "The amount . . . necessary."—To avoid the onerous task of separate agreements having to be drawn up between all Committees and all Approved Societies, the Commissioners suggested that for the year 1913 the Societies should pay 6s. per member for medical benefit and 1½d. for its administration. Practically all the Societies agreed to this and the Commissioners undertook to debit the Societies at the proper times with the agreed amount less two-ninths in the case of men and one-fourth in the case of women payable by the State. It was also agreed that the number of members, in respect of whom the Societies would thus be charged, should be the mean of the membership between January 13th, 1913, and January 14th, 1914. In addition to these sums the Committees will receive the sums provided by Parliament amounting to 2s. 6d. for medical benefit, and not more than 1½d. for its administration for 1913, a subsequent adjustment being made when experience has shown the actual cost. To avoid the necessity of Societies agreeing with Committees as to the number of their members, a model agreement was so drawn as to create provisionally a General Medical Fund to be distributed ultimately by the Commissioners among the Committees.

7.—(1) "The Committee shall determine."—As a matter of fact the Committees have in practically every case adopted the method of remuneration recommended by the local Medical Committees or by the panel practitioners.

8.—(e) "Amount payable . . . deposit contributors."—As the deposit contributors have proved to be fewer in numbers than expected and not so generally bad lives, the medical profession has accepted them on the same terms of remuneration as members of Approved Societies.

8.—(f) "Distribution."—According to Section 15 (2) (d) the distribution of these persons is to be so far as practicable under arrangements made by the panel doctors, but in case of dispute the Insurance Committee has the right to allot them among the panel, except that by Regulation 51 (2) it may not allot to any doctor more than his due share of the aged and disabled members of Societies mentioned in Section 15 (2) (e); see Notes on Regulations 17 (3) and (51) (2).

8.—(g) "Section 15 (2) (e) of the Act."—Presumably any revised Regulations will have to include Section 10 (2) of the Amendment Act which extends the scope of the principal Act to members of Societies other than the Friendly Societies mentioned in Section 15 (2) (e) of the principal Act.

9. "Rules."—For the Model Rules for behaviour of insured persons during disease or disablement, which most Societies have accepted, see Appendix V—1, p. 870, and 4, p. 899.

10. "Income Limit."—The Amendment Act, Section 10 (1) fixes £160 as the income limit for medical benefit for voluntary contributors. See also Regulation 14.

11. "For such period."—The first arrangements were all provisional and for three months ending April 14th, 1913. In a few cases a further three months' trial was arranged, but normally the agreements with practitioners will be for a year.

14.—(1 to 6) "Income Limit."—It is not necessary for a Committee to obtain the consent of the Commissioners to any income limit which it fixes for its area, but so far hardly any Committee has adopted any income limit for employed contributors.

14.—(7) "May allow . . . own arrangements."—For the questions arising under this, see Section 15 (3) of the principal Act and Regulations 19 (1) (a), 20 and 49.

14.—(8) "Hereinafter."—See Regulation 49 "Special Arrangements Fund."

15. "Approval of Institutions."—For questions arising under this, see Regulations 19 (1) (b), 20 (1) and 48, and Section 15 (4) of the principal Act.

15.—(3) "hereinafter."—See Regulation 48 "Institutions Fund."

17. "In whole or in part by capitation."—Refers to systems A., B., C., D., mentioned in Part II of Schedule I of these Regulations.

17.—(1) "If he is entitled."—Insured persons not entitled to select a practitioner on the panel are (1) those who have been required or allowed to make their own arrangements under Section 15 (3). (2) Voluntary contributors whose income exceeds £160 a year. (3) Seamen for whose medical treatment the ship owner is responsible. (4) Persons suspended from benefit owing to arrears (Section 10) or marriage (Section 44). Doctors on a panel are precluded by their agreements from demanding private arrangements with insured persons, but nothing can prevent an insured person of his own free will making payments to a panel doctor.

17.—(1) "Before a date indicated."—It has often been impossible to enforce this and in some districts large numbers of insured persons are still (October, 1913) not allotted to any doctor. As a result some difficulty has arisen as to the distribution of the money available for the medical benefit of these persons.

17.—(3) "Arrangements made by them."—That is by the panel doctors, or the Panel Committee mentioned in the Amendment Act, Section 32, not by the local Medical Committee which may contain non-panel doctors. The Commissioners suggest in Circ. 10/I.C. that the distribution among the panel of unassigned persons might be in one of three ways; (a) in equal shares; (b) in proportion to the number of accepted persons already on each doctor's list, or (c) in proportion to the number of patients already actually treated by each doctor. See note on Regulations 8 (f) and 51 (2).

18.—(3) "Shall not be entitled . . . any other practitioner."—The system of payment by attendance is practically confined to Manchester and Salford, and as the local Medical Committees have there undertaken to see that every insured person receives medical treatment when he requires it, this subsection (3) of Regulation 18 has not been enforced. Insured persons have been allowed to present their "pink card" to any number of the panel doctors, and to change from one doctor to another as often as they like without any of the formalities laid down in Regulation 26.

18.—(5) "Practitioners on the panel."—See note above on Regulation 17 (3).

23. "Change of residence" (of practitioner).—A practitioner who removes into another area does not necessarily drop off the panel of the first area. He may, in fact, be on several panels at once.

26. "From an approved institution to a practitioner."—The reverse change from a practitioner to an institution is provided for under Regulation 19; also see note on Regulation 18 (3).

26.—(a) "By consent."—That is by mutual consent of the insured person and both the practitioners concerned. If this mutual consent is obtained, the consent of the Insurance Committee is not requisite for the change of doctor, though notice of the transfer signed by all the parties concerned has to be sent to the Committee (proviso after (e)).

26.—(b) "Prescribed."—See Regulations 17 and 18.

26.—(c) "After enquiry."—By Regulation 52 any question arising between an insured person and the practitioner attending him shall stand referred to the Medical Service Sub-committee, which after considering the question has to report to the Insurance Committee.

26.—(d) "May transfer them."—Thus a practitioner may buy or sell a panel practice just as a private practice, though of course in neither case are the patients bound to follow the practice. There is nothing to prevent an intending seller of a panel practice introducing a prospective buyer to the insured persons on his list. This provision has helped to prevent the depreciation in the selling prices of practices which was at one time feared. It appears that even though the Commissioners have removed a practitioner from the panel, he does not lose his right to sell his panel practice, if he can find a buyer, under the circumstances.

26.—(e) "The provisions."—See Regulation 22.

28.—(1) a. "Prices of drugs."—The chemists are in all cases paid for each article supplied (see Regulation 43), but a panel doctor who is allowed under Regulation 30 to supply ordinary medicines, may, under Regulation 47, be paid for them by an inclusive capitation fee.

29. "Other than a medical practitioner."—See Regulations 30 and 47 and principal Act, Section 15 (5) proviso (2).

30. "Rural area."—Circ. 10/I.C. says that the expression "rural area" has no technical meaning but each Insurance Committee may interpret it as it thinks proper.

34.—(1) "Every insured person . . . entitled to . . . drugs."—This needs some qualification in the case of persons required or allowed to make their own arrangements under Section 15 (3) who receive a contribution towards the cost of their treatment and drugs: such persons must make their own arrangements for drugs and appliances, and chemists on the panel could not supply them as a part of their arrangement with the Insurance Committee for the supply of drugs to patients being attended by the panel doctors.

39. "Moneys available."—See Regulation 45.

40.—(3) "Deducting."—According to Regulation 50 an amount for mileage may be made a first charge on the panel fund if the Insurance Committee so decide. The funds may also suffer deductions on account of persons temporarily removed from the area but on the other hand the panel doctors will be paid out of a central fund for the treatment of persons temporarily removing into the area. Under the Amendment Act, Section 33 (2), there may also be a deduction from the medical benefit funds for the working expenses of the local Panel Committee and local Pharmaceutical Committee amounting to not more than 1d. per head of the insured in the area. This deduction however can only be made at the request of the panel doctors or chemists and does not apply to the expenses of the local Medical Committee where it is not identical with the Panel Committee. The sums which the Insurance Committee may contribute to persons required or allowed to make their own arrangements or obtaining treatment through approved institutions are not really deductions from the funds as the persons on whose behalf these sums are paid are no longer on the list of persons for whose treatment the panel doctors are responsible.

41. "Combined systems."—Refers to systems B. C. D. in Schedule 1 Part II of the Regulations.

42.—(1) "Quarterly accounts."—Accounts are rendered monthly in many areas and payments may be made on account in advance.

42.—(2) "Committee appointed by practitioners."—The Local Medical Committee which may contain non-panel doctors has no voice in this matter unless it is specially authorised by the panel and the Panel Committee which is constituted by Section 32 of the Amendment Act will be the proper Committee for this purpose.

"Power to reduce or disallow any item."—For example, under the system of payment by attendance charges for unnecessary over-attendances may be disallowed.

43. "Moneys . . . for drugs."—A sum of 1s. 6d. per head of the insured is allotted to the Drug Fund, and 6d. to the Drug Suspense Fund, any balance in the latter going to the Panel Fund. A further sum may be contributed from the central Special Drug Fund in case of epidemics. It appears that the Drug Fund has to bear the cost of drugs supplied to persons receiving domiciliary treatment for tuberculosis.

43.—(2) "Drug tariff."—In addition to the agreed charges for drugs and appliances a small dispensing fee is credited to the chemists which is not here mentioned.

44. "Quarterly accounts."—Accounts are often rendered monthly and a payment on account in advance may be made, as in the case of the doctors.

44.—(2) "Pharmaceutical Committee."—Under the Amendment Act, Section 33 (1), a Pharmaceutical Committee is made statutory, with such powers and duties as the Commissioners may determine by regulations and it will probably undertake the duties here mentioned.

45.—(1) "Thirteen-seventeenths."—As the total amount per person available for medical benefit is 8s. 6d., the Panel Fund is credited with 6s. 6d., the Drug Fund with 1s. 6d. and the Drug Suspense Fund with 6d., but see note above on Regulation 40 (3) on deductions.

45.—(2) "So far as that excess . . . Parliament."—Refers to the Special Drug Fund of £30,000 which Parliament has provided for use in case of epidemics or excessive sickness, and as this may be applied before the Drug Suspense Fund is exhausted, it may save part or even the whole of this fund for the doctors who would thus not necessarily lose financially through epidemics.

45.—(3) "Excess . . . carried forward."—This carrying forward of any balance in the Drug Fund would tend to prevent any call on the Drug Suspense Fund in the succeeding year, which would thus be available for adding to the panel fund as provided in the next subsection.

46.—(2) "The Local Medical Committee shall."—Seeing that only the panel doctors and chemists are here concerned and also that the Local Medical Committee often contains a large proportion or even a majority of non-panel doctors, it is difficult to see why the Local Medical Committee should have power to penalise a panel doctor for ordering excessive drugs, especially as in Regulation 42 (2) it is not the Local Medical Committee, but a committee appointed by the practitioners on the panel, which has power to reduce or disallow any item in the panel doctors' accounts. The Panel Committee constituted under Section 32 of the Amendment Act would seem to be the most suitable body to deal with all such questions.

47. "Supply of drugs by practitioners."—The effect of this is that under the capitation system practitioners who are allowed to dispense would receive the whole 9s. allowed for medical benefit and the home treatment of tuberculosis, including 6s. 6d. from the Panel Fund, 6d. from the Sanatorium Benefit Fund, 1s. 6d. from the Drug Fund and the whole 6d. from the Drug Suspense Fund.

48. "Institutions Fund."—Some of the institutions approved may only provide a part of the treatment required as medical benefit, such as the Accident Funds associated with some works. A member of such a fund might receive a contribution from the Medical Benefit Fund towards the cost of the treatment received through the institution, that is for accidents, while he would otherwise provide for ordinary medical treatment. In addition to the Institutions Fund, the 6*d.* for the home treatment of tuberculosis is available for Approved Institutions.

49.—(2) "Equal to that expended."—By Regulation 14 (8) the amount may be reduced by the Committee if the private arrangements are not satisfactory. See Memo. 143/ I.C.

49.—(2) (a) "Contracted."—According to par. 3 below, there must be separate contracts for treatment and medicines, except under the circumstances set forth in Regulation 30.

49.—(2) (a) "Whichever is the less."—The effect of this is that the insured person cannot make a profit for himself by paying his doctor less than he is himself allowed out of the fund. But if his contract is for a higher amount than the fund allows him, he must pay the excess out of his own pocket.

49.—(2) (b) "The sum expended."—As the contributions made to persons making their own arrangements are pooled, if the Committee allowed the full sum of 9*s.* for each person, and if only one out of every three of these persons were ill during the year, there would be an average of 27*s.* available for the doctors' and chemists' bills of each actual patient. The doctors might charge these patients whatever they liked, but for the purpose of the payments out of the Special Arrangements Fund, the bills would have to be made out according to the scale of fees per attendance fixed by the Committee, and the patients themselves would be liable to the doctors for any excess over the amount payable out of the fund.

"Except where the circumstances."—See Regulation 30.

49.—(3) "Sums otherwise available," that is the ordinary 6*s.* from the insurance funds including the State contribution. Further sums may also be available if the county or county borough and the Treasury agree to make a grant under Section 15 (7) (8). The 6*d.* for home treatment of tuberculosis is of course not strictly medical benefit, but is available for persons making their own arrangements. All these sums are in addition to the Parliamentary grant of 2*s.* 6*d.*

49.—(4) "Applicable accordingly"—i.e. this fund is divisible into a drug fund and an attendance fund.

50. "Mileage."—If mileage is paid to the doctors it may be made a first charge on the panel fund [Regulation 40 (3)]. It will not be paid to a distant doctor if there is a panel doctor residing nearer to the patient's residence. Grants from the Special Mileage Fund in the hands of the Commissioners will only be made where there are special difficulties of access, such as mountainous districts, moorlands, or fens, and the Commissioners will require full particulars of the districts when any Committee applies for a grant from this fund. (Circ. 10/I.C.)

51.—(1) "Member of a friendly society."—The reference is to Section 15 (2) (e) of the principal Act, where see note. But the Amendment Act, Section 10 (2), extends the range of that subsection so as to include members of "societies other than such friendly societies as are mentioned" in the principal Act.

"Arrangements made by the Committee."—The English Commissioners have laid it down (Memo. 155/ A.S.) that the society of which these uninsured aged or disabled persons are members, administers the benefit in these cases, not the Insurance Committee. The business of the Committee is only to make it a condition in their arrangements with the panel doctors that they shall be willing, if required, to give medical treatment to these persons at the same rate of remuneration as that payable for insured persons. All Committees have done so, and the Commissioners have drawn up a form of agreement by societies to pay doctors the agreed fees on condition that the treatment is the same as that given to the insured.

51.—(2) "Remuneration not exceeding."—At first sight this appears to differ from Section 15 (2) (c) of the principal Act which says "on the same terms as to remuneration," but it is explained (Memo. 155/ A.S.) that while the doctors cannot be compelled as part of their agreement with the Insurance Committee, to treat these persons for less than is payable for the insured, on the other hand, there is no compulsion on the society to pay so much if it can obtain treatment for less. As these persons are all bad lives, the doctors as a body have refused to treat them for less than the insured, and accordingly the Amendment Act, Section 1 (2), has provided a contribution out of money provided by Parliament which will amount to 2s. 6d. per head towards the medical treatment of these uninsured persons. Memo. 155/ A.S. points out that the section refers to medical attendance only, and not to the provision of medicines, &c., which the societies must provide entirely out of their private funds. See also notes on Section 1 (2) and Section 3 (2) of Amendment Act.

51.—(2) "Under any obligation."—The only obligation on any panel doctor to accept any particular person as a patient is under Section 15 (2) (d) which provides for the distribution among the doctors of persons who have neglected to choose a doctor or been refused by the doctor of their choice. This Regulation prevents the distribution acting unfairly in allotting an excessive number of these persons who are all bad lives to any one doctor.

52.—(1) "Medical Service Sub-Committee."—This sub-committee has nothing to do with complaints by one practitioner against another, involving the efficiency of the medical service, which are referred to the Local Medical Committee by Regulation 53. Rules for procedure of the sub-committee are given in Appendix V—4, p. 901.

"Shall stand referred to."—The Insurance Committee cannot deal with questions arising between insured persons and practitioners until it has received a report from the Medical Service Sub-Committee, and though any finding of fact in the report must be accepted as conclusive (par. 6 below), the final decision as to any action to be taken rests with the Committee which is not bound to follow any recommendation of the sub-committee.

52.—(7) "Regulations" refers to Regulation 26 (c).

"Rules of the Committee."—See the Model Rules for the conduct of persons in receipt of medical benefit which Committees have very generally adopted (Appendix V—4, p. 899). Section 14 (2) (a) and (b) of the principal Act provides that no fine shall exceed 10s. for a first offence or 20s. for repeated breach of rules, and no benefit shall be suspended for over one year. But some Committees have, as they are entitled to do, adopted lower fines and shorter periods of suspension than the maxima mentioned in the Act.

52.—(8) "Regulations" refers to Regulation 26 (c).

"Representations to the Commissioners."—The Commissioners alone have the right to remove a practitioner from a panel, and only after the prescribed enquiry Appendix II—14, p. 637.

53. "The Local Medical Committee may apply."—Such application to the Commissioners would be made only if the conduct of the practitioner were deemed to be prejudicial to the efficiency of the medical service [Section 15 (2) b)]. Neither the Local Medical Committee nor any other body or Committee under the Act has anything to do with questions of professional discipline not affecting the medical service of the insured. Such questions are referred to the General Medical Council or to some professional corporation or association of which the practitioner is a member. Great stress has been laid on this by the British Medical Association.

54. "If any representations enquiry."—See Appendix II—14, p. 637.

54.—(5) "Statutory declaration."—Under Section 38 of the Amendment Act the power to administer oaths is given to any Committee or persons appointed by the Commissioners to hold any enquiry which is required or authorised under the principal Act or Regulations, and the witnesses shall be examined on oath if the Commissioners think fit or one of the parties so demand.

55.—(1) "Taking such evidence."—Presumably Section 38 of the Amendment Act as to taking evidence on oath would apply here. There is nothing to prevent the Commissioners holding an enquiry, by means of referees, on any general question as to the range of duties of panel practitioners.

56.—(1) "Any other body." This would include the Local Pharmaceutical Committee to be set up under Section 33 of the Amendment Act, but as this regulation now stands, that committee would only have a right to ask the Commissioners to hold an enquiry, not the right to compel them, which is here given to the Insurance Committee and the Local Medical Committee.

56.—(2) "Two persons." For an enquiry affecting practitioners, the Enquiry Committee must contain two practitioners, but for an enquiry affecting chemists the "two persons" may be such as the Commissioners decide. They would probably be chemists, except possibly when practitioners as well as chemists have an interest in the enquiry.

56.—(3) "Powers . . . of Enquiry Committee." See Appendix II—14 below.

57. "All forms." The Commissioners have issued model forms for most purposes, and this regulation enables the Commissioners to insist on uniformity if they think fit. Note that it only refers to forms provided by Insurance Committees, not to those provided by societies such as sickness certificates.

58. "Seamen's . . . society." As a rule, this society will itself administer medical and sanatorium benefit for its members, but by Section 48 (12) of the principal Act it may agree with an Insurance Committee to administer these benefits for all of its members.

61. "The proviso" refers to the power conferred on the Commissioners to suspend medical benefit or to make other arrangements if the panel in any area is inadequate, in which case all or any of these regulations might also be suspended. The further power given to the Commissioners by Section 11 of the Amendment Act to make other arrangements where the treatment given under the panel system is unsatisfactory (though the panel itself may be adequate) will presumably be added to this regulation.

APPENDIX II.—14.

PROCEDURE FOR INQUIRIES WITH RESPECT TO MEDICAL PRACTITIONERS.

Section 15 (2) (b).

(The following Regulations replace Regulation 54, p. 623.)

(2) In these Regulations, unless the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the respective meanings hereby assigned to them:—

"Representation" means a representation made to the Commissioners that the continuance of a practitioner upon the panel is prejudicial to the efficiency of the medical service of the insured:

"Complainant" means any person or body making a representation to the Commissioners under these Regulations:

"Inquiry" means an inquiry held in accordance with the provisions of these Regulations, and "Inquiry Committee" means the Committee constituted under these Regulations for the purpose of holding an inquiry :

"Appointed day" means the day appointed for the holding of an Inquiry.

Other expressions have the same meaning as in the National Health Insurance (Administration of Medical Benefit) Regulations, 1912 (hereinafter called "the principal Regulations").

(3) The Interpretation Act, 1889, applies to the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

Forms to be used.

2. The forms set out in the First Schedule to these Regulations or other forms substantially to the like effect shall be used in all cases to which those forms are applicable.

Revocation of Reg. 54 of principal Regulations.

3. Regulation 54 of the principal Regulations is hereby revoked.

Power to hold inquiry.

Inquiry where a representation is made to the Commissioners.

4. If any representation is made to the Commissioners by any Insurance Committee or Local Medical Committee, the Commissioners shall, and if by any other person or body, the Commissioners may, subject as hereinafter provided, hold an inquiry in the manner prescribed by these Regulations.

Representation and preliminary statement.

5.—(1) A representation shall be in writing signed by or on behalf of the complainant.

(2) The Commissioners may, if they think fit, require the complainant to send to them a preliminary statement setting out the alleged facts and grounds on which the representation is based, and, where a fact is not within the personal knowledge of the complainant, the source of the information and grounds for the belief of the complainant in its truth, together with such further particulars as they may think necessary, and may require the preliminary statement to be verified by statutory declaration.

Power to refuse inquiry.

6. If it appears to the Commissioners, after due consideration of any representation or of any preliminary statement furnished to them by the complainant, not being an Insurance Committee or Local Medical Committee, that no good cause has been shown why an inquiry should be held, they may refuse to hold an inquiry, and shall inform the complainant accordingly.

Notices to be sent in case of inquiry.

7.—(1) The Commissioners shall, in all cases where an inquiry is to be held, send the following notices, namely :—

Form 1.

(a) A notice to the practitioner informing him that it is proposed to hold an inquiry as to the representation made by the complainant ; and

Form 2.

(b) A notice to the complainant informing him that it is proposed to hold an inquiry as to the representation made by him, and requiring him, within a time specified in the notice, to send to the Commissioners a concise statement of the alleged facts and grounds on which the representation is based (in these Regulations hereinafter referred to as "the statement of complaint"), together with a list of all the documents which he proposes to put in evidence :

Provided that where the complainant has under these Regulations sent a preliminary statement to the Commissioners, the Commissioners may, if they think fit, dispense with a statement of complaint, and in that case the preliminary statement shall, for the purposes of the inquiry, be treated as the statement of complaint.

(2) The Commissioners may, if they think fit, on the application of the complainant, extend the time for sending to them the statement of complaint. Form 3.

8. The Commissioners shall send to the practitioner a copy of the statement of complaint and of the list of documents which the complainant proposes to put in evidence, together with a notice informing him that he may, if he so desires, within a time specified in the notice, by a statement in writing addressed to the Commissioners, admit or dispute the truth of all or any of the allegations appearing in the statement of complaint. Practitioner may admit or deny allegations.
Form 4.

9.—(1) The practitioner may on giving due notice to the complainant inspect, either personally or by an agent authorised in writing, the documents included in the list sent by the complainant to the Commissioners, and the complainant shall give reasonable facilities for the purpose. Right of practitioner to inspect documents.

(2) The practitioner shall be entitled, on making application to the Commissioners, to a copy of any document in that list, and the Commissioners may, for the purpose of supplying to the practitioner copies of any such documents, require the complainant to deposit with them, or with one of their officers appointed for the purpose, any of the documents for copies of which application has been made, and shall return the documents to the complainant as soon as may be.

10. If the complainant fails, within the time specified in the notice, or within any extended period, to send a statement of complaint to the Commissioners, or if he fails to comply with any other requirements of these Regulations, the Commissioners may treat the representation as having been withdrawn. Power to treat representation as withdrawn in certain cases.

11.—(1) For the purpose of each inquiry the Commissioners shall constitute an Inquiry Committee composed of two practitioners, and one other person who shall be a barrister-at-law or solicitor in actual practice, and if any body of practitioners has been established for the purpose by the Joint Committee, the two practitioners so appointed shall be selected from that body. Constitution of Inquiry Committee.

(2) The Commissioners shall appoint one of the members of the Inquiry Committee to be Chairman.

(3) The Commissioners shall appoint a fit person to act as clerk to the Inquiry Committee.

Notice of Inquiry to be given.

Form 5.

12.—(1) The Commissioners shall appoint a day for the holding of the Inquiry, and shall not less than fourteen days before the appointed day send notices to the complainant and the practitioner informing them that the Inquiry will be held on the appointed day.

Form 6.

(2) In any case where the complainant is some person or body other than the Insurance Committee on whose list or panel of practitioners undertaking the treatment of insured persons the name of the practitioner appears, the Commissioners shall send to that Committee notice of the proposed Inquiry, and of the date, time and place on and at which it is proposed to hold the Inquiry, and the Committee may appear and may take such part in the proceedings at the Inquiry as the Inquiry Committee shall think proper.

Power to postpone Inquiry.

13. The Commissioners may, if they think fit, or on the application of either party, postpone the holding of the Inquiry until such date later than the appointed day as they may determine and thereupon that later day shall for the purposes of these Regulations be the appointed day.

Appearance by representation.

14.—(1) The complainant and the practitioner and any Insurance Committee to which notice of the Inquiry has been given may, with the consent of the Inquiry Committee, appear at the Inquiry—

(a) by counsel or solicitor ;

(b) in the case of an individual, by any member of his family ;

(c) in the case of any body, whether corporate or unincorporate, by a director or officer of that body ;

(d) by any officer or member of any society or other body of persons of which the person in question is a member or with which he is connected.

Form 7.

(2) If either party to an Inquiry, or an Insurance Committee to whom notice of the Inquiry has been given, desires to appear at the Inquiry by a representative, he shall send an application for leave so to appear to the Inquiry Committee not less than ten days before the appointed day and the Committee shall as soon as may be inform the applicant and such other parties as appear to them to be interested of their decision in the matter, without prejudice to their power at any time during the hearing to consent to any such application and to adjourn the Inquiry for that purpose.

Withdrawal of representation.

15.—(1) The complainant may at any time before the appointed day withdraw the representation by giving notice of withdrawal in writing to the Commissioners.

(2) Where the representation has been withdrawn or is treated by the Commissioners as having been withdrawn, the Commissioners shall (without prejudice to their power to hold an Inquiry as hereinafter provided) forthwith inform the practitioner that the representation has been withdrawn or is treated as having been withdrawn, as the case may be. Form 8.

16. The Commissioners at any time before the appointed day, and the Inquiry Committee at any time on or after the appointed day before the conclusion of the inquiry, may allow the statement of complaint to be amended upon such conditions as they may think just, and may in any case where they think fit, require the complainant to furnish to them in writing further particulars of the alleged facts and grounds appearing in the statement of complaint. Amendment of statement of complaint.

17. Unless the Inquiry Committee, with the approval of the Commissioners, otherwise determine, the procedure at the Inquiry shall be governed by the rules set out in the Second Schedule to these Regulations. Procedure at Inquiry.

Inquiry where no representation is made to Commissioners.

18. In any case where it appears to the Commissioners desirable to hold an Inquiry for the purpose of ascertaining whether the continuance of a practitioner on the panel would be prejudicial to the efficiency of the medical service of the insured, the Commissioners may, notwithstanding either that— Power to hold Inquiry in absence of representation.

(i) no representation to that effect has been made to them or that—

(ii) if such representation has been made, it has been withdrawn or has been treated as withdrawn, proceed to hold an Inquiry for that purpose, and the foregoing Regulations shall, with the necessary modifications and subject as hereinafter provided, apply accordingly.

19. INSURANCE BOOKS.

The book must be produced by the contributor—

- (a) to the Insurance Commissioners, or any person authorised by the Commissioners, upon surrendering his contribution card or at any other time upon request; and
- (b) to the Insurance Committee upon making any claim for benefit.

The contributor should satisfy himself that the necessary entries have been correctly made in the book.

If the contributor is a workman in an insured trade the book must be produced when a claim for unemployment benefit is made, or when he desires to obtain payment in respect of unemployment from an association. If the book is then on deposit it will be returned within 7 days after application for it.

The contributor on changing his address should write his new address in the space provided on the inside of the cover of this book and inform the Commissioners within 7 days.

Upon the contributor transferring to an Approved Society or otherwise ceasing to be a member of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund, the book must be returned to the Commissioners, to the address given on the cover.

The contributor will be given a copy of the rules for the Navy and Army Insurance Fund in which will be found particulars of the benefits, &c.

No person may assign or charge, or agree to assign or charge, any Insurance Book, and any sale, transfer, assignment of or charge on any Insurance Book is void and of no effect.

The employer cannot demand the production of this book.

CONTRIBUTION CARDS.

The contributions are collected by means of National Health Insurance Stamps affixed to contribution cards.

The contributor must produce his card to his employer at any time on demand, and must deliver it up to his employer whenever the employer requires it for the purpose of stamping, or of production to an Inspector or other authorised person.

A weekly contribution is payable by the employer for each week (commencing Monday) during the whole or any part of which the contributor has been employed, but only one contribution is payable for each week, and no contribution is payable by the employer in respect of any week during which the contributor renders no service, and either (a) receives no remuneration, or (b) receives sickness benefit for the whole or part of the week.

The employer is required to affix to the card on a day not later than the day on which wages are paid a single National Health Insurance Stamp of the value of the joint contribution due from himself and from the contributor for every week for which a contribution is payable. (The Insurance Commissioners may allow exceptional arrangements to be made for stamping cards in special cases.)

All contributions payable at the date of expiration of the card must be paid and stamps affixed within 6 days after that date whether the wages have been paid or not. Upon the termination of an employment, or at any time after 24 hours' notice by the contributor, a stamp must be affixed in respect of each week for which a contribution is payable by the employer.

When the contributor receives no wages or other money payments from his employer, the latter must affix a stamp on the first day of employment in each week.

The card when stamped will be returned to the contributor, but if he is in continuous employment the card may, with the consent of the contributor, be retained by the employer, who will be responsible for its safe custody.

It must be returned to the contributor, subject to 48 hours' notice, on demand by him at any time, and in any case at the end of the period for which it is issued and on his leaving his employment.

If the card should be lost or destroyed the contributor should immediately apply to the Insurance Commissioners for the issue to him of a new card.

If at any time the contributor, while not in possession of a card, requires one for immediate delivery to his employer, he may obtain one at any Post Office on making an application on a form to be obtained there, and on production of this book.

If the contributor without reasonable cause fails to produce his card to his employer at the proper times, the contributor is liable to a fine not exceeding TEN POUNDS. If for any reason the contributor fails to produce a card the employer will use a special Emergency Card for him, which, when stamped, he will hand to the contributor.

The contributor must, within 14 days after the expiration of the card, sign and deliver up to the Insurance Commissioners the contribution card and any emergency cards used for him in the period. A card for the next period will then be issued to him if one has not already been issued.

Any contributor who surrenders a card on which contributions have been paid by his employer at the rate of 6*d.* or 4*d.* must make a declaration on a form to be obtained from the Insurance Commissioners, in respect of every such contribution, stating the names and addresses of his employers.

The stamped card or cards are the evidence of the payment of contributions for the period, and no allowance will be made for any stamps on any card unless and until the card or cards have been delivered up.

A contributor must deliver up his card to the Insurance Commissioners before it expires and obtain a new one if—

- (1) it has been defaced;
- (2) he ceases to be a member of the Navy and Army Insurance Fund;
- (3) he becomes a voluntary contributor.

A contributor may, if he chooses, on changing his employment, deliver up his contribution card and obtain a new card from the Insurance Commissioners.

Upon making any claim for benefit the contributor must, if required, produce his card to the Insurance Committee.

Any person having in his possession the card or book of an insured person must produce it at any reasonable time when required by an Inspector or other officer appointed under the Act, or duly authorised to act in the execution of the Act.

In the event of the death of the contributor this book, together with the contribution card and any emergency cards issued in respect of him must be returned to the Insurance Commissioners.

RATES OF CONTRIBUTION.

The joint contribution payable by the contributor and his employer is ordinarily 7*d.* a week in Great Britain and 5½*d.* a week in Ireland. Contributions are payable at the rate applicable in Great Britain when the contributor is employed in Great Britain and at the Irish rate when he is employed in Ireland.

Where the rate of the remuneration earned by the contributor who is 21 or upwards does not exceed 2*s.* a working day and the remuneration does not include board and lodging, the joint contribution is 6*d.* a week (Ireland 4½*d.*), and 1*d.* a week is added by the State.

Remuneration includes everything to which the contributor is entitled in return for his services; thus the remuneration of a domestic servant includes in most cases board and lodging in addition to money wages. In certain circumstances it is necessary to fix the money value of the remuneration where it includes or consists of other things than money payments before the rate of contribution can be determined.

When the contributor receives wages or other money payments from his employer, the employer can only recover the contributor's contribution by deducting a corresponding amount from his wages, and he can only deduct from wages the contributions due for the period for which the wages are paid.

When the contributor receives wages or other money payments, but from some person other than his employer, the employer can recover the contributor's contributions by process of law, if the contributor refuses to repay such contributions.

Notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, the employer is not entitled to deduct from the wages of or otherwise to recover from the contributor the employer's contributions.

Contributions cease to be payable in respect of the contributor when he reaches the age of 70.

The table on page 1 of this book shows the various rates of contribution, and how the joint weekly contribution in each case is divided between the contributor and his employer where the contributor receives wages or other money payments.

When the contributor receives no wages or other money payments either from his employer or from any other person, the whole of the contribution is payable by the employer, and he is not entitled to recover any part of it from the contributor.

A contributor who is out of employment, or whose employer is not liable to pay the contribution in any week may, if he chooses, himself pay the contributions by affixing the proper stamps to his card as the contributions become due.

Any person who affixes a stamp to a card is required immediately after affixing it to cancel the stamp by writing the date in ink across the face of the stamp.

ARREARS.

The contributor may, if he so desires, pay arrears of contributions, obtaining for the purpose an Arrears Card from the Insurance Commissioners. After a stamp has been affixed to an Arrears Card it must be cancelled immediately and the card forwarded to the Commissioners. The date of the receipt of the card by the Commissioners will be treated as the date of payment of the arrears. Upon the production of this book to the Commissioners, the date and amount of the payment will be entered.

The Commissioners are empowered by the Act and the National Health Insurance (Navy and Army Fund) Regulations, 1913, to excuse part of the arrears of a contributor (not exceeding the part which would have been payable by his employer if he had continued in his last employment), but the exercise of this power can affect the rate of benefit only, and arrears which accrue during the first year are disregarded in determining the effect of arrears on the rate of benefit. For the purpose of establishing title to benefits, excused arrears cannot be regarded as contributions paid. For that purpose actual payment at the full rate must be made of the required number of weekly contributions, namely, 26 for sickness and maternity benefits and 104 for disablement benefit.

Notwithstanding that the Commissioners may have excused part of the arrears, the contributor is still entitled to pay the full amount of the arrears, including the excused part, in order to establish his title to benefits at the earliest possible date.

OFFENCES.

Any person who fraudulently removes a stamp from a card or makes use of a stamp removed from a card is guilty of felony.

If the contributor for the purpose of obtaining any benefit knowingly makes any false statement, he is liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months with or without hard labour.

If the contributor is guilty of any other contravention of, or non-compliance with any of the requirements of Part I. of the National Insurance Act, 1911, or the Regulations made thereunder, in respect of which no special penalty is provided, he is

If it is found at any time that a person has received any benefit to which he was not lawfully entitled, he or, in the case of his death, his personal representatives, will be liable to repay to the Insurance Commissioners the value of such benefits.

If any employer has failed to pay any contributions which he is liable to pay in respect of an employed contributor, he is for each offence liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding TEN POUNDS, and to pay a sum equal to the amount of the contributions which he has failed to pay. Further, the contributor may take proceedings against his employer, in which case the employer may be compelled to make good any loss of benefits which the contributor has suffered.

14.—(1) The employer shall deliver the card duly stamped in accordance with this Part of these Regulations to the person whose name appears thereon in any case in which a money payment is to be made to that person on the termination of the voyage, at the time when the final money payment in respect of that voyage is made, or if that payment is not made within two clear days then before the expiration of two clear days after the termination of the voyage, or if no money payment is to be made then on the termination of the voyage :

Provided that the employer, if for any reason he is unable to deliver the card to that person, shall deliver it as soon as may be to a superintendent or consular officer, and in the case of a person left at a foreign port on the ground of his unfitness or inability to proceed on the voyage, shall deliver it, together with the balance of wages (if any) due to that person, to the consular officer.

(2) Every person to whom a card is so delivered shall within seven days after the receipt of his card surrender it to the approved society of which he is a member, or in the case of a deposit contributor to a postmaster if such deposit contributor is in the United Kingdom when the card is delivered to him, and if elsewhere to the Insurance Commissioners.

Second Schedule.

PART I.

METHOD OF VOTING.

1.—(1) A society shall record its vote by causing the figure “1” to be placed on the ballot paper, supplied to it for the purpose, in the place opposite to the name of the candidate who is its first choice, and any ballot paper on which the figure “1” is not recorded shall be invalid.

(2) A society may also cause the figure “2” to be placed on the ballot paper opposite the name of the candidate who is its second choice, and the figure “3” opposite the name of the candidate who is its third choice, and so on, numbering as many candidates as it pleases in the order of its choice.

2. The ballot paper shall be signed at the foot thereof, in the place provided for the purpose, by the secretary and two members of the Committee of Management of the society, and a ballot paper not so signed shall be invalid.

3.—(1) Not more than one figure shall be set opposite to the name of any one candidate, and the same figure shall not be set opposite to the name of more than one candidate.

(2) A ballot paper shall not be marked in such a manner as to cause any uncertainty as to the candidate for whom the society desires to record its vote.

(3) Every ballot paper which does not comply with the provisions of this Rule shall be invalid : Provided that the returning officer may, if he thinks fit, treat a ballot paper as valid for the purpose of any choice recorded in priority to that recorded for the candidate opposite to whose name two figures have been set or in connection with whom any uncertainty arises.

PART II.

METHOD OF COUNTING VOTES.

Arrangement of Ballot Papers.

1. The returning officer shall examine the ballot papers and, after rejecting any that are invalid, shall divide the remainder into parcels according to the first choice recorded for each candidate. He shall credit each candidate with the value of all the papers on which his name has been indicated as first choice.

Value of Votes.

2. The vote given on each ballot paper shall, in the first instance, be reckoned at the value stated on that paper.

Ascertainment of Quota.

3. The returning officer shall divide the total value of the valid ballot papers by a number equal to the number of vacancies to be filled, and the result, fractions being disregarded, shall be the number, in these Rules called the "quota," sufficient to secure the return of the candidate.

Election of Candidates with Quota.

4. Where the total value of the votes so credited to a candidate is equal to or greater than the quota, that candidate shall be declared elected.

Transfer of Surplus Votes on the First Count.

5.—(1) Where the total value of the votes so credited to an elected candidate is greater than the quota, the returning officer shall examine all the papers of the elected candidate, and shall divide the transferable papers into sub-parcels according to the next choice recorded thereon, and shall transfer each sub-paragraph to the candidate for whom that choice is recorded.

(2) The papers so transferred to each candidate shall be added to the papers already belonging to him, and where the value of the votes transferred to that candidate, added to the value of the votes already credited to him, is equal to or greater than the quota, he shall be declared elected.

Transfer of Surplus Votes on subsequent Counts.

6.—(1) Where on the second or any subsequent count the total value of the votes credited to an elected candidate is greater than the quota, the returning officer shall examine the papers transferred to that candidate on that count and shall divide the transferable papers transferred on that count into sub-parcels according to the next choice recorded thereon, and shall transfer each sub-paragraph to the candidate for whom that choice is recorded. The remaining papers credited to the elected candidate shall be set aside as finally dealt with.

(2) The papers so transferred to each candidate shall be added to the papers already belonging to him, and where the value of the votes transferred to that candidate, added to the value of the votes already credited to him, is equal to or greater than the quota, he shall be declared elected.

Value of Transferred Votes.

7.—(1) If on any count the total existing value of transferable papers transferred on that count under the last preceding Rules is equal to or less than the surplus, each paper shall be transferred at its existing value.

(2) If on any count the total existing value of the transferable papers transferred on that count under the last preceding Rules is greater than the surplus, each paper shall be transferred at a value ascertained by multiplying its existing value by the surplus and dividing the result by the total existing value of the transferable papers so transferred, fractions being disregarded.

Order of Election of Candidates.

8. If at any time two or more candidates are credited with votes, the values of which severally exceed the quota, the order in which those candidates shall be declared elected shall be determined by the values of the votes credited to them respectively, the candidate having votes of the greatest value being first declared elected, and if the votes of two or more of the candidates are equal in value the candidate for whom original votes of the greatest value are recorded shall be first declared elected.

Disposal of Non-transferable Papers.

9. The non-transferable papers of an elected candidate shall be set aside as finally dealt with.

Order in which Surplus Values shall be Transferred.

10.—(1) If at any time there are two or more candidates, the values of whose votes severally exceed the quota, the votes of the candidate having the largest surplus shall be first dealt with under these Rules.

(2) If at any time two or more candidates are credited with an equal value of votes in excess of the quota, the returning officer shall decide by lot which parcel he shall first deal with under these Rules.

Exclusion of Candidates Lowest on the Poll.

11.—(1) Where, as the result of any process under these Rules, no remaining candidate has votes of a value equal to or greater than the quota, and one or more vacancies remain unfilled, the returning officer shall exclude from the poll the candidate whose votes are the lowest in value, and shall distribute all his transferable papers among the remaining candidates according to the next choices recorded thereon. Any non-transferable papers shall be set aside as finally dealt with.

(2) The votes recorded for a candidate who is excluded from the poll under this Rule, shall be transferred at their existing value.

(3) The original votes obtained by the excluded candidate shall first be transferred, and the other votes of the excluded candidate shall then be dealt with in the order of the transfers in which he received them.

(4) Each of the transfers which takes place under the last preceding paragraph of this Rule shall be deemed for all purposes to be transferred on a separate count.

(5) Where the value of the votes obtained by a candidate is raised above the quota by any transfer under this Rule, his surplus shall be transferred to the candidates next in order of the voters' choice in the manner hereinbefore directed, but such surplus shall not be dealt with until all the votes of the excluded candidate have been transferred.

(6) The processes directed by these Rules shall be repeated, if necessary, by excluding, one after another, the candidates with votes lowest in value until the remaining vacancy or vacancies are filled, whether by the election of candidates with a quota or as hereinafter provided.

(7) Where, under this Rule, it becomes necessary to exclude a candidate and the votes of two or more candidates are equal in value but of less value than those of any other remaining candidate, the candidate for whom original votes of least value are recorded shall be first excluded. If the original votes of those candidates are equal in value, the returning officer shall decide by lot which candidate shall be first excluded.

Special Provisions as to Election of Remaining Candidates.

12.—(1) When the number of remaining candidates is reduced to the number of vacancies remaining unfilled, the remaining candidates shall be declared elected whether they have received a number of votes equal in value to the quota or not.

(2) Where one vacancy remains unfilled and the value of the votes of any remaining candidate exceeds the value of the votes of all the other remaining candidates, together with any surplus not transferred, that candidate shall be declared elected.

Special Provisions for the Election of Female Candidates.

13. Where more than two female candidates have been nominated, the foregoing Rules shall apply, subject to the following modifications :—

- (i.) The number of male candidates to be declared elected shall not exceed a number less by two than the total number of vacancies, and no male candidate shall, by reason of his having obtained votes of a value equal to or greater than the quota, be entitled to be elected if the requisite number of male candidates has already been declared elected.
- (ii.) No female candidate shall be excluded from the poll under the provisions of Rule 11 until the total value of the votes credited to female candidates (whether elected or not) has become equal to or in excess of two quotas, or until the number of male candidates (whether elected or not) has been reduced to a number less by two than the total number of vacancies.
- (iii.) Where all the vacancies except two have been filled and no female candidate has been elected, or where all the vacancies except one have been filled and one female candidate only has been elected, the remaining male candidate shall be excluded and all their transferable papers shall be distributed amongst the remaining female candidates according to the next choices recorded thereon.
- (iv.) If no female candidate has been elected and the number of remaining female candidates has been reduced to two, or if one female candidate has been elected and the number of remaining female candidates has been reduced to one, the remaining female candidate or candidate shall be declared elected.

(b) Every practitioner may also place upon his ballot paper the figure "2" opposite the name of the candidate who is his second choice, and the figure "3" opposite the name of the candidate who is his third choice, and so on, numbering as many candidates as he pleases in the order of his choice.

2. Every practitioner—

(a) shall sign his name at the foot of the ballot paper in the place provided for the purpose;

(b) shall set not more than one figure opposite to the name of any one candidate, nor the same figure opposite to the name of more than one candidate.

3. Every ballot paper which does not comply with the provisions of these Rules shall be invalid.

APPENDIX II

Part II.

METHOD OF COUNTING VOTES.

Arrangement of Ballot Papers.

1. The returning officer shall examine the ballot papers and after rejecting any that are invalid shall divide the remainder into parcels according to the first choices recorded for each candidate. He shall then count the number of papers in each parcel, ascertain the total number of valid papers, and credit each candidate with one vote in respect of each valid paper on which his name has been indicated as the first choice.

Ascertainment of Quota.

2. The returning officer shall then divide the total number of valid papers by three, and the result increased by one (disregarding fractions) shall be the number, herein called the "quota," sufficient to secure the return of a candidate.

Vote-values.

3. Except as otherwise expressly provided in these Rules the vote given on each ballot paper shall be reckoned at the value of unity.

Election of Candidates with Quota.

4. Where the total value of the votes so credited to a candidate is equal to or greater than the quota, that candidate shall be declared elected.

Transfer of Surplus Votes.

5.—(a) Where the total value of the votes so credited to an elected candidate is greater than the quota, the surplus shall be transferred in accordance with the provisions of this Rule to the remaining candidates indicated on the ballot papers in the parcel of the elected candidate as next in order of the voters' choice.

Examination of Elected Candidate's Papers.

(b) The returning officer shall examine all the papers of the elected candidate whose surplus is to be transferred and shall divide the transferable papers into sub-parcels according to the next choices recorded thereon. He shall also make a separate sub-paragraph of the non-transferable papers and shall ascertain the number of papers in each sub-paragraph.

Value of Transferred Votes.

- (c) (i) If the number of the transferable papers is equal to or less than the surplus he shall transfer all the transferable papers and each vote thereby transferred shall be reckoned at the value of unity.
- (ii) If the number of the transferable papers is greater than the surplus, he shall transfer all the transferable papers, but each vote thereby transferred shall be reckoned at a value ascertained by dividing the surplus by the total number of transferable papers, and calculated to two places of decimals.

Election of Candidate with quota derived from Transferred Votes.

(d) The papers transferred to each candidate shall be added to the papers already belonging to that candidate, and where the total value of the votes thereby transferred to that candidate, added to the total value of original votes credited to him, is equal to or greater than the quota, that candidate shall be declared elected.

Disposal of Non-transferable Papers.

(e) The non-transferable papers of an elected candidate shall be set aside as finally dealt with.

Exclusion of Candidates lowest on the Poll.

6.—(a) Where, as the result of any process under these Rules no candidate has votes of a total value equal to or greater than the quota and one or both vacancies remain unfilled, the returning officer shall exclude from the poll the candidate the total of whose votes is the least in value, and shall distribute all his transferable papers among the remaining candidates according to the next choices recorded thereon. Any non-transferable papers shall be set aside as finally dealt with.

(b) The votes recorded for a candidate, who is excluded from the poll under this Rule, shall be transferred at the value at which they were received by him.

(c) The process directed by this Rule shall be repeated, if necessary, by excluding, one after another, the candidates with votes least in total value until the remaining vacancy is filled, whether by the election of a candidate with the quota or as hereinafter provided.

(d) Where under this Rule it becomes necessary to exclude a candidate, and the votes of two or more candidates are equal in total value, but of less value than those of any other remaining candidate, the candidate for whom fewest original votes are recorded shall be first excluded. If the original votes of those two candidates are equal in value, the returning officer shall decide by lot which candidate is to be first excluded.

Special Provisions as to Election of Remaining Candidates.

7. When the number of remaining candidates is reduced to two, and no candidate has been elected, those two remaining candidates shall be declared elected, whether they have received a number of votes equal in value to the quota or not.

8. Where one vacancy remains unfilled, and the value of the votes of any remaining candidate exceeds the total of the values of the votes of all the other remaining candidates together with any surplus not transferred, that candidate shall be declared elected.

TABLE G.

ALIENS.

It is provided by Section 45, subsection 2 (iii), that the rates and conditions of the sickness, disablement, and maternity benefits of an alien joining an approved society subject to the exceptions stated below shall be determined by the Society. This Table is issued as a guide to Societies and may be adopted by them. Should a Society submit some other Table not supplied by the Insurance Commissioners, the application for approval should be accompanied by actuarial evidence in support of the financial soundness of the Table so submitted.

These Tables do not apply to a person who, though not a British Subject—

- (a) enters into insurance before attaining the age of 17,
- (b) was on 4th May, 1911, a member of a Society which, or a separate section of which, becomes an approved society, and had then been resident in the United Kingdom for five years or upwards,

APPENDIX V. I.

MODEL RULES (B) ISSUED BY THE NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE COMMISSION FOR A NEW SOCIETY SEEKING APPROVAL WITH MALE MEMBERS ONLY.

Authors' Note.—The following Model Rules have been amended by the Authors to bring them into harmony with the Act of 1913. By S. 17 of that Act, the rules of an approved society may be amended for this purpose without the authority of a general meeting subject to the consent of the Commissioners as provided by that section.

[NOTE.—Model Rules A, issued by the Commission for the purpose of being added to the existing rules of societies at present engaged in forms of insurance similar to those provided by the Act, are not reprinted here, as they are substantially the same as the above rules B, omitting those here enclosed in square brackets.]

These Rules are not intended for societies with branches. Such societies may safely use them as a basis in framing their own rules, but must make considerable changes to meet their own requirements.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

In these Rules—

Passages in this roman type express, or are necessarily consequential upon, the requirements of the National Insurance Act, 1911, or declare its provisions, and societies seeking to comply with those requirements will find it necessary to adopt some rules having the same effect as those so printed.

Passages in this italic type and marked as in the margin of this paragraph comprise rules which are necessary to enable the society to transact their business under the Act. The Commission will require that every society should embody in their rules provisions, either in the form here suggested or in one which is in the view of the Commission substantially equivalent thereto.

Passages in this italic type, not otherwise distinguished, are mere suggestions for the assistance of societies in framing a code of rules to meet their requirements; [the suggestions as to rules for government are of this character, and are intended for the convenience of small societies, but] no attempt has been made to dictate a form of constitution or government. The attention of societies is drawn to Section 23 of the Act, to which the constitution of every approved society must conform, and to the first paragraph of Section 27 (1), relating to rules for the government of societies. (For special provisions as to Employers' Provident Funds see Circular A.S. 30 issued by the Commissioners.)

The accounts of the society must also be kept in conformity with the regulations.

The attention of societies is drawn to the Model Rules issued by the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, which form a useful guide, and societies which seek registration as well as the approval of the Commission, must incorporate some of those rules or their equivalent in addition to those here following.

Wherever in these rules anything is expressed to be done by the committee of management or by any officer, a reference to such authority as may be desired should be substituted. The passages referred to are distinguished by an asterisk *.

Note.—Proposed rules of societies may be submitted to the Commissioners in the form of these Model Rules with the necessary alterations and additions made in legible manuscript. In reprinting these rules the side-note references to the Act may be omitted.

(1) If an insured member is an inmate of any workhouse, hospital, asylum, convalescent home, or infirmary supported by any public authority or out of any public funds, or by a charity or voluntary subscriptions, or institution approved for the purposes of sanatorium benefit, his sickness or disablement benefit shall not be paid to himself, but if he has dependants the whole or part of it may be applied by the committee* after consultation, when possible, with the member, in the relief or maintenance of his dependants, and the balance or part thereof may be expended on surgical appliances or otherwise for his benefit.

(2) Where an agreement for the purpose has been made between the committee of management and any hospital, asylum, convalescent home, or infirmary supported by charity or by voluntary subscriptions, and an insured member who has no dependants is an inmate of the institution, the whole or part of any benefit to which he would have been entitled but for the last preceding paragraph shall be paid to the institution towards the maintenance of such member, and the balance or part thereof may be expended on surgical appliances or otherwise for his benefit.*

(3) The committee of management may, notwithstanding anything in these rules, out of the funds out of which benefits are payable under the Act, grant subscriptions or donations as it may think fit, to hospitals, dispensaries, and similar charitable institutions, or for the support of district nurses, and sums so expended shall be treated as expenditure on such benefits as may be prescribed by regulations of the Commission.*

18.—EXPULSION AND WITHDRAWAL.

N.B.—After careful consideration the Commissioners have decided that if a society desires to have the right of expelling a member for misconduct it can only do so on one or other of the following grounds:—

“Wilful and material mis-statement or omission upon his application for membership, the making of any fraudulent claim upon the society, the repeated breach, or serious and wilful breach, of the Act or any rule of the society, conviction for felony or other criminal offence, or other immoral conduct or serious personal misconduct.”

The Commissioners further require that, where the rules of a society provide any ground for expulsion other than misconduct as defined above, the following proviso must be inserted:—

“Except for such misconduct as aforesaid no male member shall be expelled who by reason of the state of his health cannot obtain admission into another approved society, and no female member unless the society can prove that she has actually been accepted for membership by another society offering equal advantages.”

(The effect of this rule is to allow a society to expel a State insured member for misconduct as defined in the rule, but not to expel a member for the breach of other rules where by reason of the state of his health he cannot obtain admission into another society, or in the case of a female member unless she actually obtains admission into another society.

Rules as to expulsion must also provide precisely for the procedure to be gone through before any expulsion takes effect, and, amongst other things, for notice being given to a member of the charges made against him and for an opportunity of defence being given to the member.)

(1) (Set out any special rules made by the society as to the expulsion of members, right of withdrawal, &c.) S. 30 (2).

(2) Immediately upon the expulsion or withdrawal of an insured member the secretary shall give notice thereof to the Commission, stating therein the name, address, and age of such member, and the date at which such member became insured under the Act. S. 31 (1). S. 43 (1). S. 43 (1) (a).

(3) No insured member shall be expelled from the society otherwise than in accordance with the rules. S. 30 (2).

(4) If an insured member is expelled or withdraws from the society there shall be transferred in respect of him to any other approved society of which he may become an insured member or to the Post Office fund, or otherwise dealt with in accordance with the Act, such sum as the Act provides; but no such sum shall be transferred to another approved society in respect of a member who withdrew from this society without the consent of the committee of management* if that committee prove to the Commission that their consent was not unreasonably withheld. S. 31. S. 43 (1).

(5) If an insured member ceases permanently to reside in the United Kingdom and joins a colonial or foreign society approved S. 32.

for the purpose by the Commission, or a colonial or foreign branch of an approved society, the like sum shall be transferred in respect of him.

S. 33.

(6) An insured member who has been an insured member of the society for not less than five years, and who has ceased permanently to reside in the United Kingdom, but has not joined such foreign or colonial society or branch as aforesaid may, with the consent of the committee of management, become and continue to be an ordinary member of the society, and his transfer value shall be dealt with in accordance with the Act.*

6.—CONTRIBUTIONS OF INSURED MEMBERS.

In paragraph (1) after the word “week” add “for men and 6*d*. per week for women”; for the word “rate,” substitute “rates.”‡

* Table G is not prescribed by the Act, but the Commission are prepared to supply such a table. (See Appendix IV., 8, p. 846.) If the society proposes to use another table than that supplied by the Commission the proposed table should be set out in full at this place.

† These Rules are numbered with reference to Model Rules B., but precisely the same substitutions can be made in Rules A. in the appropriate places.

‡ In paragraph 2 (a) add a reference to Appendix IV., 2, p. 838, the Voluntary Rate for Females.

In paragraph (4) after "5d." add "for men and 4½d. for women."

APPENDIX V. 3.

FORM OF APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP.

To get the full benefits of the Act you must join an Approved Society. You cannot join more than one for the purpose of the Act; but you are free to choose to what Society you will apply.

It is necessary that you should answer correctly all the questions on the attached form, in order that the Society may see that you get all the benefits to which the Act entitles you.

The Society will not refuse your application solely on account of your age; the Act makes special provision for persons who become insured within a specified time after the Act first comes into operation; but if your age is wrongly stated in your application form you will forfeit the advantage of this special provision, and it will be necessary to reduce your benefits or to increase your contributions accordingly.

If you are already insured in one or more societies or companies apart from the Act, you can still join this Society for the benefits of the Act, without leaving your other societies; but you must not send in this form if you have already arranged to get the benefits of the Act through another society or have applied to another society for the purpose, unless you have withdrawn your application or been refused.

If any person knowingly makes any false statement for the purpose of obtaining any benefit he may be prosecuted.

The Society may call upon you to furnish satisfactory evidence of your age and nationality.

If you have any difficulty in filling up the form, please bring it to the *Secretary*¹ at who will advise you.

(¹ Insert the name or description of the appropriate officer or agent of the Society.)

This Form is to be kept by the Society and is not to be sent to the Insurance Commission.

APPENDIX VI.

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE.

MEMORANDA OF DECISIONS, &c.

S. 66 (1).

The following questions as to who is the employer for the purposes of the National Insurance Act have been submitted to the Commissioners, whose opinion¹ is given below.

Brief particulars of case.

5. In the Sheffield Cutlery and Silver Plate Trades, the manufacturer A gives out work to a contractor B, who either rents from A a "side" or set of wheels, with the necessary power, or makes his own arrangements for hiring the machinery and power elsewhere than in A's factory. B employs workmen C, D, E.

B is entirely independent of any supervision on the part of A, doing the work in his own time and in his own way. If A does not like the work he rejects it, but he does not attempt to control B in its execution.

In the double-handed forging trades, the forger works with a mate or helper, called a striker, who is paid by a share of the forger's profits; usually he gets 9s. 2d. in the £, but if he is a specially good man he may share equally with the forger. A only approaches the forger, who contracts with A to do the work for a certain price, and then makes his own arrangements with the striker.

[The above facts were agreed to by both employers and work-people at a Conference held at Sheffield on the 11th June, 1912.]

Opinion.

The Commission gave it as their opinion that the principal manufacturer has not general control and management, within the meaning of Schedule III. (6) of the Act, over the workers employed by the piece-work contractors, whether employed in the factory of the principal manufacturers or elsewhere.

Accordingly, under the Act, the piece-work contractor, and not the principal manufacturer, will be responsible for the payment of contributions in respect of the workers employed by him. (Papers 30640/12.)

(X Decision 5)

¹ [The Act makes no provision for the formal decision of such questions by the Commissioners.]

Brief particulars of case.

50. Gangs of men are employed at Newcastle-on-Tyne on wharves or docks to load and unload vessels. The gang is engaged and directed by a ganger (or stevedore) who renders an account to the principal employers of the wages due and receives from them and distributes to the men such wages. The wages are based upon Trade Union rates and the ganger shares equally with the members of the gang, deriving no benefit (apart from greater security of employment) from his position as ganger. Who is responsible for contributions in respect of the gang?

77. The system of employment in the Potteries district is on the following lines :—A (principal employer) engages B (intermediate employer) to do certain piecework, and B in his turn engages other persons known as "Attendants" to assist him in carrying out this work. A pays B a certain wage, out of which he has to pay the "Attendants," the amount of their pay having nothing to do with A. While, however, B engages them and pays their wages, they are liable at all times to be either dismissed or refused admission by A, upon whose premises they work.

Who is to be held responsible for the contributions of the individual workers who are engaged by B?

Opinion.

The Commission gave it as their opinion that the ganger in engaging the men acted as the servant of the principal employers and that the latter are therefore responsible for the insurance of both the ganger and the men engaged through him. (Papers 82017/12.)

(X Decision 50)

The Commissioners gave it as their opinion that, as a general rule in the Pottery trade, the workers who are engaged by sub-contractors, such as handlers, jiggerers, ovenmen, &c., work under the "general control and management" of the principal employers. Accordingly, by virtue of the Regulations of the Insurance Commissioners made under paragraph 6 of the Third Schedule to the National Insurance Act, the principal employers, and not the sub-contractors, will be responsible for the contributions of the individual workers, even where the latter are not in the position of servants of the principal employers. FORMAL DECISIONS.

The following decisions have been given by the High Court of Justice under Section 66 of the Act :—

(A.) Persons employed in the undermentioned capacities are not employed under a contract of service, and do not, therefore, come within the compulsory provisions of the Act, viz. :—

- (1) Ministers of the United Methodist Church.
- (2) Ministers (under probation), of the Wesleyan Methodist Church.
- (3) Curates and assistant curates of the Church of England.

Persons so employed may, however, become voluntary contributors if their rate of remuneration does not exceed £160 a year, subject to the usual conditions governing voluntary contributors as explained in Leaflet No. 15.

Following on these decisions, the Commissioners have decided that there is no contract of service in certain other cases where a minister is appointed by a particular church, is dismissible only by the church in special circumstances, and carries on his duties without being subject to control as to the method of their performance. (See X decisions Nos. 20, 34, 54, 55, 111, 115, 149, 219.)

(B.) Employment in the following capacities is not employment by way of manual labour, viz. :—

- (1) Tailor's cutter.
- (2) Dairyman's foreman.
- (3) Lithographic artist and engraver.

Persons so employed are therefore excepted from the compulsory provisions of the Act if their remuneration in respect of such employment exceeds £160 per annum.

The Club's bye-laws provide that members must engage and pay for caddies through the caddie master only, that the caddie master shall keep a list of the persons who are entitled to carry and that he shall issue badges to them, these badges to be returned each night, and to be given out each day by the caddie master. The caddies are subject to the orders and control of the caddie master or of the Club member for whom he is carrying.

291. A Master-Slater contracts with a firm of Roofing Contractors to fix roofing materials to the roof timbers of buildings in course of erection. He is invited to tender for the work at a price per square yard, the conditions generally being that the work should be done to the satisfaction of the firm and the firm's customers, the firm supplying all materials except nails, and the Master-Slater finding the necessary labour. to do the work personally, but in practice he does so. He is at liberty to take work for other firms but in fact works exclusively for the firm referred to in this application. Suggestions made by the firm as to matters of detail arising in the course of the work would ordinarily be acted upon by the Master-Slater provided that they did not involve extra cost, in order that the responsibility for the satisfactory completion of the work should so far as possible remain with the firm. With regard to the firm's power of dismissal, the position is generally that the Master-Slater has agreed to do the work according to specifications, and if he were not carrying out the plans satisfactorily he would either have to do the work differently or let the firm get another man to complete the job, in the latter case he would be paid for the amount of work done.

292. A Co-operative Society employs a manager to take charge of one of the Society's branches. The manager is paid by commission on gross sales and is responsible for providing and engaging all necessary assistance out of that commission. The wife of the manager assists in the shop and may occasionally take charge while the manager is away. No express contract or agreement is entered into between the wife and the Society. The Society require the manager to pay a prescribed wage to the assistants whom he engages for the branch, but this does not apply to the services rendered by the wife. Each ordinary shop-assistant is given a book in which he enters all his sales, but no such book is issued to the wife, who uses the manager's book. The question is whether the wife

She receives 5s. a week in the summer and 6s. in the winter and is required to find all materials. The work has to be done out of office hours, and, in practice, no control is exercised over her by her employers, except that on occasions she is directed to re-light fires as required and to perform other special services during office hours. The woman is also employed to clean the offices of other tenants of the building and employs a woman to assist her with the work.

294. Men are employed as drovers by farmers and cattle dealers frequenting a market. The drovers are engaged by the farmers or dealers to untruck cattle at the station and drive them to the market, to drive cattle from market to station, or to drive them from farm to market or from market to farm. The drover does not, normally, look after the cattle while they are at the market, the employment ceasing when the cattle are brought to their destination. The remuneration varies according to the distance to be traversed and the number of cattle to be driven. A drover may be simultaneously engaged by various farmers to drive their cattle home, and in such cases the drover chooses his route in accordance with the various places of delivery. Some men are continuously employed as drovers, going from market to market; others act in this capacity only on the local market day.

She receives for special teaching work performed for an association 9s. a week for four hours' service during 23 weeks in the year and, apart from this, she earns about £30 a year in artistic work, &c. She lives with her parents in comfortable circumstances, and pays nothing for her board and lodging. The question is whether the applicant is entitled to be a voluntary contributor, her employment by the association being excepted under Schedule I, Part II. (g), to the National Insurance Act.

297. A man who owns a horse and cart attends daily at the yard of a firm of coal merchants and, if his services are required, loads and delivers coal to the firm's customers. He is paid the full cartage rates in force in the district. No control is exercised over him, nor are instructions given to him except as to what quantity and kinds of coal are to be loaded and the address of the customer to whom it is to be delivered. In the winter months he is employed more or less regularly by the firm, but he can take other work if he chooses. In the summer months he is sent for specially when his services are required. If he were ill he could send any competent man to do the carting.

(5) If for any reason the book is not returned to the workman in accordance with this Regulation on the termination of his employment, the employer shall, as soon as may be, deliver the book to a local office.

6. On the death of a workman the employer, if the book is then in the custody of the employer, or if the book is not then in the custody of the employer, the workman's representative, whether legally so constituted or not, shall forthwith deliver the book to a local office. Disposal of book on death of workman.

7.—(1) A book shall be issued without charge to a workman properly applying for a book, and when issued shall remain the property of the Board. Miscellaneous provisions as to books.

(2) A book shall be in such form as the Board direct, and shall be current only during such period, not exceeding fifty-three weeks from the date of the issue thereof, as may be specified thereon, and shall within seven days, or such longer time as the Board in any special case allow, after the date on which it ceases to be current be returned by the workman, or by the employer on his behalf, to a local office, and a fresh book shall thereupon be issued without charge to the person so returning the book :

Provided that, where the book on the date on which it ceases to be current is in the custody of the employer, he shall, if the workman so requires, instead of returning it to a local office, return it to the workman to be by him returned to a local office.

(3) If a book is destroyed, is lost so as to be irrecoverable, or is defaced in any material particular, a new book may be issued in substitution for it at a charge of one shilling, to be paid by the person for the time being responsible for the custody of the original book, and such number of contributions as are shown to the satisfaction of the Board to have been paid by the affixing or impressing of stamps to or upon the book so destroyed, lost, or defaced, shall be credited to the workman on the new book.

Save as aforesaid, no charge shall be made by the Board in connection with the issue, custody, delivery up, exchange, or replacement of any book.

(4) Where any book is lost the Board, if they think fit, may pay out of the unemployment fund any sum not exceeding one shilling by way of reward to the person by whom the book is returned to the local office, and may refuse to restore the book to the person responsible for its custody until that person has repaid to the Board any sum which has been so paid by the Board by way of reward and which he is liable to repay under subsection (3) of section 100 of the Act.

Stamping of books.

8.—(1) For the purpose of making the proper payments required to be made by an employer in respect of contributions under Part II. of the Act, the employer shall, on or before the first payment of wages to a workman, and on or before each subsequent payment of wages in respect of the employment, affix to the book stamps of such value as may be necessary to make the total value of all stamps so affixed equal to the following amounts:—

- τ (i) In the case of a workman not below the age of eighteen—
For every period of employment in respect of which wages are payable—
If exceeding two days but not exceeding one week... .. 5*d.*
Exceeding one day but not exceeding two days 4*d.*
Not exceeding one day 2*d.*
- (ii) In the case of a workman below the age of eighteen—
For every period of employment in respect of which wages are payable not exceeding one week 2*d.*

Provided that—

- (a) on the termination of employment, whether or not any wages are then paid, stamps shall be affixed by the employer in respect of any part of the period of employment in respect of which stamps have not already been affixed; and
- (b) where the first payment of wages takes place before the completion of a week of employment but the employment is a continuing one, the employer may, at his option, either treat the period of employment in respect of which the first payment of wages is made as a separate period of employment or may affix stamps as for a full week of employment; and
- (c) where wages are paid to a workman at intervals shorter than a week, the employer shall not after the first payment of wages (subject always to his obligation to affix stamps on the termination of employment) be required to affix stamps more frequently than at weekly intervals; and
- (d) Where the employer employs any workman regularly, he may deposit with the Board a sum equal to the estimated amount of the contributions payable by him during a period of three months, or such less period as may be agreed between him and the Board, in respect of those workmen both on his own behalf and on behalf of those workmen.

On making such a deposit the obligation of the employer to stamp the books of those workmen on the occasions or, at the intervals hereinbefore specified shall cease, and in lieu thereof he shall be liable as follows:—

APPENDIX X

- (i) In case the employment of any of those workmen terminates before the expiration of any period of three months or such less period as may be agreed, the employer shall be liable on such termination to stamp the book of the workman whose employment so terminates ; and
- (ii) In the case of any workman whose employment does not so terminate, the employer shall be liable either to stamp the book of that workman at intervals of three months or such less period as may be agreed, or if the Board so permit to pay the contributions payable in respect of that workman through the Board at intervals of three months or such less period as may be agreed in such manner as the Board may direct.

Where a deposit has been made under the foregoing provision, the employer, for the purpose of deducting from wages the amount of the workman's contribution, shall be deemed to have duly affixed the necessary stamps to the books of the workmen at the several dates on which he would have been bound to affix them if no such deposit had been made.

If the Board of Trade think fit, they may allow any sum which is to be deposited under the foregoing provision to be paid to them at weekly intervals during the period for which the deposit is to be made instead of being paid to them in one sum at the commencement of the period.

(2) No stamp shall be affixed to or impressed upon a book otherwise than in respect of employment in an insured trade, and any stamp affixed or impressed otherwise than in respect of such employment shall not be deemed to be a payment of a contribution under Part II. of the Act.

(3) Every adhesive stamp affixed to a book by an employer shall be cancelled by him in the same manner in which stamps affixed to a book or card for the purpose of the payment of contributions under Part I. of the Act are required to be cancelled by any Regulations made under that Part of the Act and for the time being in force, or if for the time being there is no provision in force for the cancellation of stamps so affixed to a book or card under Part I. of the Act, then in such manner as the Board may direct.

(4) Where no wages are paid to a workman but he receives, in respect of his service, board or lodging or any other remuneration, stamps of the value required by this Regulation shall be affixed on the termination of the employment, or, in the case of employment which lasts more than one week, on the last day of employment in each calendar week.

9. The employer shall be entitled, notwithstanding the provisions of any Act or any contract to the contrary, to recover from the workman, by deductions from the workman's wages or from any other payment due from him to the workman, an amount equal to one-half of the value of any stamps which have been, or which by virtue of these Regulations are deemed to have been, affixed by him to the workman's book.

Claims for Unemployment Benefit, Proof of Unemployment, and Payment of Benefit.

Workman desiring to obtain unemployment benefit or payment from an association of workmen to make application in proper form and to lodge book at local office.

10.—(1) Where a workman desires to obtain unemployment benefit, or to obtain any payment in respect of unemployment from an association of workmen with which an arrangement has been made under section 105 of the Act, he shall

- (a) make an application or give notice, as the case requires, to the Board in writing in the form set forth in the First Schedule to these Regulations, or in such other form as the Board may direct; and
- (b) lodge his unemployment book at a local office; and
- (c) if required, produce to the Board his insurance book as defined by the Regulations made under Part I. of the Act, or furnish such other evidence as the Board may require that he is not in receipt of sickness or disablement benefit or disablement allowance under that Part of the Act.

Provided that where in any special case the Board are satisfied that the workman is unable for good cause to produce his unemployment book, they may, if they think fit, dispense with the lodging of the book under this Regulation.

(2) With the view of obtaining information from employers on the subject of disqualifications for unemployment benefit referred to in Section 87 (1) and (2) of the Act, notice that the book has been lodged at the Local Office under this Regulation and calling attention to the provisions of Section 87 (1) and (2) shall, unless it is not practicable to do so, forthwith be given by the Board to the person appearing, from the particulars furnished by the workman, to be his last employer.

(3) Where the workman desires to obtain payment from any such association as aforesaid, the local office shall deliver to him such a receipt for the book lodged by him as may be necessary to enable him to claim from the association any payment due to him from the association while unemployed.

Workman desiring to obtain unemployment benefit direct from local office 11.—(1) A workman desiring to obtain unemployment benefit shall attend at the local office at which his book is lodged on every working day between such hours as the Board may direct, and shall there as evidence of being unemployed on that day sign a register to be kept at the office for the purpose:

Provided that—

- (a) a workman residing at a distance of more than three miles, but not more than five miles, from the local office nearest or most convenient to his place of residence shall be required to attend only on alternate days, and on each attendance may sign the register in respect of the preceding day as well as in respect of the actual day of attendance; and
 - (b) a workman residing more than five miles from the local office nearest or most convenient to his place of residence shall attend at such longer intervals, or furnish such other evidence of being unemployed as the Board may direct, and on each attendance may sign the register in respect of all days on which he was unemployed since his last attendance as well as in respect of the actual day of attendance; and
 - (c) a workman may, for special cause approved by the Board in each case, and subject to such conditions as the Board may impose, be excused from personal attendance and signature of the register on any day on which he would otherwise have been liable to attend and sign the register
- (2) The Board may in any particular case require a workman, notwithstanding that he has duly signed the register in accordance with these Regulations, to furnish further evidence that he was unemployed on all or any of the days in respect of which he has signed the register.
- (3) Subject to the provisions of these Regulations as to excuse from signing the register, a workman shall not be deemed to have been unemployed on any day in respect of which he has not signed the register in accordance with these Regulations.
12. Subject to the foregoing provisions and to any directions of the Board, unemployment benefit shall be paid at the Local Office at which the book of the workman concerned is lodged, and at weekly intervals on such day or days of the week and at such hours, as the Board may direct, and subject to any such directions the amount paid on any occasion shall be the amount of unemployment benefit due up to and including the day next but one preceding the day on which the payment is made.
13. Where a Court of Referees have recommended that a claim for unemployment benefit should be allowed and the recommendation has been referred by the insurance officer to the umpire, the workman shall, subject always to the provisions of subsection (5) of section 101 of the Act, be entitled to receive unemployment benefit as from the date of the recommendation until the claim is finally determined by the umpire, as if the insurance officer had not disagreed with the recommendation.

14. Every application by an association of workmen for an arrangement under section 105 of the Act shall be made in the form set forth in the Second Schedule to these Regulations or in such other form as the Board may direct, and shall be accompanied by a copy of the rules of the association.

15. The Board may at any time, by notice in writing to that effect, cancel as from the date of the notice or any later date specified in the notice any arrangement made with an association under section 105 of the Act if, in their opinion, the association ceases to comply with any of the conditions contained in the arrangement or in these Regulations, without prejudice, however, to any right of the association to receive under subsection (1) of that section a proper repayment in respect of any payments made to members of the association before the date as from which the arrangement is cancelled.

16. It shall be a condition of every arrangement made with an association under section 105 of the Act that the association—

- (i) shall have a system, which in the opinion of the Board is reasonably effective for the purpose, of notifying to their unemployed members opportunities for employment; and
- (ii) shall, so far as is necessary, for the purpose of enabling the Board to determine the sum which ought to be repaid to the association under sub-section (1) of section 105 of the Act, allow the Board to inspect any books of account, vouchers, and other documents relating to the payment by the association of benefits in respect of unemployment.

17.—(1) As soon as may be after any members of the association have lodged their books in accordance with these Regulations at a local office with a view to claiming from the association payment in respect of unemployment, the Board shall send to the association a notice stating the names of those members, and the amount (if any) of unemployment benefit which in the opinion of the Board each of those members is entitled to receive, and if in the case of any such member the Board are not satisfied that he would be entitled to receive any unemployment benefit under the Act, if he applied for it, the notice shall contain a statement to that effect:

Provided that the Board shall not be bound to send notice under this Regulation to the association more often than once in any one week.

(2) The association shall, from time to time, at such intervals as may be provided by the arrangement made with the association, send to the Board a notice containing a statement of all payments made by the association in respect of unemployment to any members of the association being workmen in an insured trade, in respect of which it is proposed by the association to claim repayment under section 105 of the Act.

Every such statement shall be made up in such a manner as to show separately the payments made in each week of the period covered by the statement, and the payments made to each workman in each week.

(3) In the case of an association with branches the notice required under this Regulation to be sent to the association shall, if the association so require, be sent to a specified branch of the association instead of to the association, and the notice so required to be sent by the association may as respects the members belonging to any branch of the association be sent by that branch instead of by the association.

18.—(1) The first repayment by the Board under subsection (1) of Section 105 of the Act to an association with which an arrangement has been made shall be made on such date (not being less than one month from the date on which the arrangement comes into force) as may be specified in the arrangement, and subsequent repayments shall be made at intervals of three months or at such other intervals as may be specified in the arrangement or agreed upon between the Board of Trade and the Association. Provisions as to repayments to associations.

(2) In determining for the purposes of section 105 of the Act the aggregate amount which a workman would have received during any period by way of unemployment benefit no payment shall be taken into account if made during—

- (a) any period during which the workman's book was not lodged at a local office ; or
- (b) any period in respect of which the workman has not furnished evidence that he was unemployed either by signing a register in accordance with the arrangement, or in such other manner as may be specified in the arrangement ; or
- (c) any other period during which the workman would not have been entitled to receive unemployment benefit if he had applied for it.

(3) If it is found that the amount of any such repayment is in excess of the amount which ought properly to have been repaid, the Board may (without prejudice to any other remedy) deduct the amount of the excess from any repayments to which the association may be subsequently entitled.

19. If any question arises between the Board and an association as to the amount of any repayment which ought to be, or which has been, made to the association under sub-section (1) of section 105 of the Act, the question shall, if either the association or the Board so require, be referred to the umpire for determination. Reference to umpire of questions as to amount of repayment under Section 105.

- (iv) The term of office of the members of a panel shall in the case of the first panels constituted under the Act be such term, not being less than one year or more than three years, as the Board may direct, and in the case of panels subsequently constituted be three years.
- (v) Casual vacancies on a panel representing either employers or workmen may be filled by the Board, and any person appointed to fill a vacancy shall hold office until the expiration of the period during which the person in whose place he is appointed would have held office :

Provided that the Board shall not be found to fill any casual vacancy unless they think fit so to do, and a panel shall not be deemed to be improperly constituted

(5) Where a workman in any trade has required the insurance officer to report any matter to a court of referees, the chairman of the court may at any time before the matter has been taken into consideration by the court, refer the matter for previous examination and report to two persons, who are persons resident in the neighbourhood in which the workman resides, and of whom one shall be drawn from the employers' panel and the other from the workmen's panel.

(6) Subject as aforesaid the procedure of a court of referees (including the procedure for summoning the court) shall be such as the Board may determine.

(4) On any question on which equality of voting power has been claimed under the preceding provision, the Chairman shall have no vote, but in case of the votes recorded being equal he shall make a report to that effect to the Board and may also, if he thinks fit, state his own opinion on the merits of the question.

31.—(1) Any person who has paid contributions under the erroneous belief that he was a workman in an insured trade, or was the employer of such a workman, may make an application to the Board for a return of the contributions so paid by him, and the Board, if satisfied that the contributions in respect of which the application is made were paid by the applicant and that the person by or in respect of whom the contributions were paid was not a workman in an insured trade, shall pay to the applicant in accordance with his application a sum equal to the amount of the contributions paid, after deducting from that amount, where the application relates to contributions paid by a workman, the amount (if any) paid to that workman by way of unemployment benefit in respect of those contributions as being a workman in an insured trade.

* Decisions Nos. 190 and 191.

It has been brought to the notice of the Umpire that some misunderstanding exists in regard to certain parts of Decisions 190 and 191. He desires, therefore, to make it clear that the distinction between work "of a kind usually chargeable to Capital Account" and work "of a kind usually chargeable to Revenue Account" has reference—

(1) to construction of works only, and not to work which comes within the meaning of any of the subsections of Schedule VI. of the National Insurance Act other than subsection (2).

(2) in the case of roads, streets and sewers, to the interpretation of the word "alteration."

In this connection the Umpire understands that new work of a substantial character is "usually" chargeable to Capital Account, and contributions would accordingly be payable in respect of all workmen employed on it, even though in a particular case the cost of the work might be charged to Revenue Account, as the wages of some of the workmen might be so charged.

- (6) Workmen who are engaged wholly or mainly in work in connection with overhead, third rail, conduit, surface contact, or cable equipment of railroads, tramway, light railways or electric power supply, the cost of which is usually chargeable to capital account ;
- (7) Workmen who are engaged wholly or mainly in laying or constructing water, gas and electric mains (other than services), the cost of which is usually chargeable to capital account ;
- (8) Workmen who are engaged wholly or mainly in the work of constructing new railway sidings or lines ;
- (9) Workmen engaged wholly or mainly in the work of construction, re-construction, or alteration of roads, streets, and sewers.

The word "alteration," in the opinion of the Umpire, does not refer to work usually chargeable to revenue account.
